BRIGHT NEW YEAR TO YOU

TROUBLES HAUNT THE BULLOCH HERALD TO BEGIN THE NEW YEAR

Troubles are haunting the publishers of the Bulloch Herald to begin the New Year.

This week the press on which we print the Herald "froze" and refused to run for us, and phone calls to Atlanta and Savannah failed to find repair men. In our troubles we called on our neighbor Mr. Bob Majors of the Claxton Enterprise and so your Herald this week is printed on the presses of the Claxton Enterprise.

If our front page appears a little unusual it is because of the circumstances which prevented our printing it on our own presses. We placed our society news and Brooklet news where our front page news would have been. If some of the news sent in does not appear, we ask you to know that we regret it and hope that next week our troubles will be over.

Bulloch Farm Bureau Delegation Reports on Trip to California

Bulloch county's Farm Bureau delegation to the national convention in San Francisco the first of December returned last week with a deeper feeling for the organization, for the United States and especially for Bulloch county. Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Smith, R. P. Mikell, C. M. Cowart and E. L. Womack joined the other 65 Georgians on a special train for this trip.

Mr. Mikell, in enumerating the places visited by the group, mentioned Carlsbad Caverns as one of the high points of interest. This is an extensive underground cavern reached by a winding trail 929 feet long from the top of the ground. The limestone formations were more attractive than they had ever read. They were pleased with the 56 degree weather in these caverns.

The Grand Canyon of Colorado is a gigantic chasm 217 miles in length, 4 to 18 miles wide and a mile deep. The mighty Colorado River flowing through it can hardly be seen from the top, except in certain places. The Grand Canyon is the world's most spectacular illustration of erosion.

San Francisco is a very compactly settled city with 27,000 people in 44.8 square miles. It is on a peninsula bounded by the Pacific ocean and the San Francisco Bay. In many sections of the city the dwellings are jammed up against each other.

The Golden Gate Bridge was one of the wonders. Bob says it is the longest and highest single suspension bridge in the world. It is almost two miles long and eight-tenths of a mile between its two towers. The towers rise 746 feet above high tide, with the bridge deck being 220 feet high. It will accommodate any ocean-going steamer, and is the only entrance to the San Francisco Harbor.

The tall, stately Redwood trees were a sight to see. Some over a thousand years old and several hundred feet tall and as much as 17 feet in diameter.

The delegation returned from the Feather River Canyon for some 100 miles in California, a very picturesque view.

Salt Lake City was the cleanest and most beautiful city the delegation visited. It is in a level valley, surrounded by snow-capped mountains and the lake. Brigham Young designed the city making the down town blocks ten acres square, with exceptionally wide streets. The Mormon church is in business there in a big way. The magnificent Hotel Utah looks like it has just been painted and then washed, according to Mr. Cowart, and the largest department store are owned and operated by the church. This is sample of the kind of businesses the church is in. Santa Claus visited the city while the Bulloch group was there in a helicopter.

When they crossed the continental divide in Colorado they were 10,240 feet above sea level. The Royal Gorge of the Arkansas River had a solid wall of rocks almost perpendicular for 1,650 feet above the river bed. The Gorge is spanned by the world's highest bridge for automobile travel.

There were some 10,000 people at the convention. Congressman Clifford Hooper of Kansas, the incoming chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, made the most outstanding statement of any of the speakers, all the Bulloch delegation agree, when he said that bi-partisan politics had not played any part in that committee in the past under the Democrats and he saw no reason why the same condition should not prevail in the Committee under the Republicans.

The group played games going and coming. A highlight was the woman's wedding, in which Bob was the soloist, Carl Her, Penn.

electricity per rural consumer is expected.

Latest reports indicate that the number of electrified farms in Georgia has increased from 6,900 in 1935 when REA was established to more than 95,000 in 1946.

REA OFFICIALS SAY MORE POWER USED ON FARMS

Reports to the Rural Electrification Administration indicate that REA-financed systems in Georgia distributed more kilowatt hours of power during the 1946 fiscal year, which ended June 30, than in any previous 122-month period, it was announced this week.

More than 89,192,000 kilowatt hours was distributed to consumers on REA financed lines during the 1946 fiscal year as compared with only 27,714,000 kilowatt hours in the 1941 fiscal year. The increase in consumers served by the systems from 52,000 in 1941 to 82,000 in 1946 accounts for part of the rise but an even greater factor is the tremendously increased use of electrical farm production equipment by farmers in Georgia.

"During the war years, when farmers were assigned huge production quotas in the face of rapidly diminishing labor supplies, they turned to the use of electrically powered machines," Paul A. Crawford, rural electrification specialist of the State Extension Service pointed out. "They learned the value of farming the modern way and are anxious to continue to use equipment such as water pumps, milking machines, feed grinders, milk coolers, hay balers, dry driers, grain blowers, corn shellers and other appliances that often cut production time in half."

"Most of this electric equipment has been scarce for the last few years and is just starting to come on the market in quantities. As more equipment becomes available and new farm production devices are perfected, an even steeper rise in consumption of

A new oat disease, Helminthosporium, is causing oat seedlings to die in Georgia. Extension Service agronomists point out that the disease has probably been here a long time, but the older oat varieties were resistant and the disease didn't build up. Agricultural leaders think that if non-resistant oats are to be planted next year they should be treated with New Improved Ceresan. This will not entirely control the disease but will reduce the losses.

IRRIGATION WORK

Agricultural workers in Georgia are predicting that additional interest will be shown in irrigation in 1947. During the past year various type farms in different sections of the state, and results have been satisfactory. In addition to using irrigation on fruit and vegetable crops, experiments were run on pasture and tobacco. Both proved profitable. John Deen of Coffee County, applied water two times on tobacco and made 500 pounds more tobacco per acre on the irrigated land. Additional income obtained almost enabled him to pay for his system the first year of operation.

THE BULLOCH HERALD

DEDICATED TO THE PROGRESS OF STATESBORO AND BULLOCH COUNTY

STATESBORO, GEORGIA, THURSDAY, JANUARY 9, 1947

VOLUME VII Venetian Blind Factory Not to Set Up Here

It was learned here this week that the Venetian Blind Corporation of Astoria, Long Island, N. Y., manufacturers of venetian blinds, will not establish a factory in Statesboro.

It was announced here the last week in November that Mr. Stanley Barnett, owner of the corporation, had selected Statesboro as the site for a factory. A lease had been drawn up to use the cotton warehouse on West Main Street belonging to the E. E.
Smith Grain Company and arrangements had been made to construct a railroad siding to the site.

Mr. Barnett had been negotiating for the warehouse building to be used as a factory building, receiving notice recently that the Venetian Blind Corporation would not set up a factory here, explaining that they had decided to not open a new factory in this section of the country.

The company had announced that they would use more than 100 people in the manufacturing of wooden venetian blinds.

Found in 1937, The Herald has earned its place among the best weekly newspapers in Georgia, and it is with pride that it announces its recognition by the county officials as the official newspaper for Bulloch County.

The editors and publishers of The Herald intend to continue publishing a newspaper in keeping with the progress of the community in which it serves, making it a newspaper of which the community might be proud.

Worried about the increase of the population in Statesboro and Bulloch County? Forget it.

A visit to the Bulloch County hospital on January 6 revealed that the nursery is running over with babies—overflowing into the doctor's dressing room, into the operating room—they even resort to the use of dressed drawers for beds for the new arrivals.

15 babies born in the hospital last week, 11 in the nursery and four in the doctor's room. The nurses checked on them with the mother of the first born baby after the New Year at 11:18 on the morning of January 1.

Something of a record was established at the hospital on the last day of 1946 when eighteen babies were in the hospital at the same time. They crowded the nursery—13 there, including two in incubators, three were in the doctor's room and two were in dressing drawers in the operating room.

The biggest attraction on this record day was the two sets of twins—Yvette and Willetta, later renamed Carol and Kay, the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Gerard of Statesboro; and Nancy and Judy Stephens, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. H. Stephens of Summit.

Sandra Jean Daniel, three pound daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. T.
Daniel, drew the most curious attention as she made herself "at home" in an incubator.

And the score that day was 15
girls to three boys.

H. P. Jones, Jr., whose son was born shortly before noon December 31, was still in the hall not long after the new year.

When Shook's son and hefty words formed but were never vol-uted.

At noon of that day, except for the twins, only three of the 18 had been given first names.

When asked how the doctors and nurses could be sure which baby belonged to which mother the answer was shown the identification bracelet attached to the baby's wrist before it leaves the operating room—consisting of tiny letters beads which when properly grouped spell out words and a finger for the newborn is made.

The nurses take a great delight in showing off mama's little darlings to papa as he timidly and with a great deal of awe stands before the large plate glass window separating the nursery from the hall.

The 1946 census should show a substantial increase in the population of this city and county.

Workshop on Alcohol Problems to Be Featured At WSCS Meeting Here

It was announced here this week that the Statesboro Methodist Church will be host to several hundred representatives of the Woman's Society of Christian Service and ministers from the Dublin and Savannah Districts on Wednesday, January 15.

Rev. Chas. A. Jackson, pastor of the Methodist Church, stated that the visiting group it touring the South Georgia Methodist districts and are holding four "Workshops on Alcohol Problems."

Included in the visiting group here will be Dr. Charles Forester, pastor of the First Methodist Church of the WSCS; Mrs. L. M. Spivey, conference officer of the WSCS; and Rev. Chas. A. Jackson of the Statesboro Methodist Church.

The meeting will begin at 10 o'clock in the morning and will feature an address by Dr. Forester. Seminar groups will be held throughout the day.

Luncheon will be served by the Statesboro women.

Bulloch Herald Is Designated As Official Newspaper for Bulloch

On January 1 The Bulloch Herald became the official newspaper of Bulloch County, authorized to publish all legal advertising, including sheriff sales, notices of sales, petitions for charters, and other forms of legal advertising.

The Herald was designated as the legal newspaper by Sheriff Stothard Deal, Ordinary F. I. Williams, and Clerk O. L. Brannen under the authority given them by the Georgia Code which prescribes the qualifications of the newspaper to be the legal organ.

Founded in 1937, The Herald has earned its place among the best weekly newspapers in Georgia, and it is with pride that it announces its recognition by the county officials as the official newspaper for Bulloch County.

tend to continue publishing a newspaper in keeping with the progress of the community in which
it serves, making it a newspaper of which the community might be proud.

Worried about the increase of the population
in Statesboro and Bulloch County? Forget it.

A visit to the Bulloch County
with babies—overflowing into the
doctor's dressing room, into the
to the use of dressed drawers for
beds for the new arrivals.

last week, 11 in the nursery and
four in the doctor's room. The
nurses checked on them with
the mother of the first born baby
after the New Year at 11:18 on the morning of January 1.

Something of a record was established at the hospital on the
babies were in the hospital at the same time. They crowded the nursery—13 there, including two in incubators, three were in the doctor's room and two were in dressing drawers in the operating room.

record day was the two sets of
twins—Yvette and Willetta, later
renamed Carol and Kay, the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Gerard of Statesboro; and Nancy and Judy Stephens, daughters of Mr.
and Mrs. Wm. H. Stephens of Summit.

Sandra Jean Daniel, three pound
daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. T.
Daniel, drew the most curious at-
home" in an incubator.

And the score that day was 15
girls to three boys.

H. P. Jones, Jr., whose son was born shortly before noon December 31, was still in the hall not
long after the new year.

When Shook's son and heft-
y words formed but were never vol-
uted.

At noon of that day, except for
had been given first names.

When asked how the doctors
baby belonged to which mother
the answer was shown the identification bracelet attached to the
baby's wrist before it leaves the
operating room—consisting of tiny
letters beads which when properly
finger for the newborn is made.

The nurses take a great delight
in showing off mama's little darlings to papa as he timidly and with
a great deal of awe stands before
the large plate glass window separating the nursery from the hall.

The 1946 census should show a
substantial increase in the population of this city and county.

R. P. Mikell Is Farm Bureau Head For 1947

R. P. Mikell was named president of the Bulloch county farm bureau at the annual meeting of that organization Saturday. Mr.
Mikell has served as president only one year but during that year the membership of the local chapter increased from 1484 to 2180 members.

Don C. Lee and Claude M.
Covart were also named as vice president and secretary, respectively, of the county organization.

Mrs. R. L. Roberts was elected the first county president of the associated women of the Farm Bureau. These ladies are the wives of members of the chapter and cooperate with the organization as well as carry on a program of their own which is closely related to the home and family life of the members.

Mrs. Cliff Brundage was elected vice president and Miss Lela Gay secretary.

Dr. Pauline Parks Wilson, dean of the school of home economics of the University of Georgia, says the many ways that home and family relationships developed the kind of people that make up a community. If the coming generations are to act as we would have them act, they must be taught that way, Dr. Wilson stated.

R. Fluke Shaw, president of the North Carolina Farm Bureau, shared honor guest and speaker position for the annual meeting with Dr. Wilson. Mr. Shaw enumerated the value of the Farm Bureau in holding the price of tobacco where it is today. It was the Farm Bureau that started the support program for tobacco and the Farm Bureau that has kept the price of tobacco where it is today. He urged the local tobacco growers to study the stabilization program for tobacco prior to the meeting held at the Statesboro Hotel.

Shine is naturally a big man, but his feet are by far the biggest thing about him.
There is no doubt about the size of "Shine's" foot for the X-ray machine "Shine's" 144A's look like "sleeping dogs".
Anything smaller—like a canine —would be too small, answered Bill.

And Bill knows, for he too wears a 144A.

ficer for the Farm Bureau, D. B.
Turner, editor of The Bulloch Times, and W. T. Bennett, agri-

Georgia Railroad, all made short humorous talks at a luncheon for the honor guests.

Congressman Preston
Asks For Removal
Of Sugar Controls

According to an Associated Press news story this morning (Thursday) Congressman Preston is active on his new job.

Congressman Preston said Wednesday he will introduce a bill to abolish sugar rationing immediately. He expressed belief "there is plenty of sugar for everybody." Much of Georgia's fruit and berry crops was lost last year, he said.
"Because we couldn't get sugar for canning."

Rep. Preston announced yesterday (Wednesday) that House veterans of World War II have been called to organize "for concerted action" on ex-GI legislation. He announced the organization plans of 32 veterans in the new Congress.

He asked Speaker Martin, Rep., Massachusetts, for permission to use the House chamber for the bi-partisan meeting.

The Georgia representative said the group will sponsor and support legislation of benefit to war veterans but said a definite program will have to await organization.

Rev. Jackson pointed out that this is the second of a series of Friendly Gesture services which special groups to whom the community is indebted are recognized.

Statesboro Stores to Resume Wednesday
Afternoon Closing Hour

According to an announcement made this week by the merchants committee of Statesboro the stores will resume the observance of the Wednesday afternoon 12 o'clock noon closing hour. Regular holidays will be observed as usual.

Statesboro merchants are agreeing with merchants elsewhere that there will be an increase in the retail price of spring clothing and accessories.

A statement was issued by Mr.
Terrell T. Tuten, president of the Merchants' Council of Savannah, Georgia, in behalf of the Statesboro merchants, with the view to clearing up confusion among shoppers under reduced prices for fall winter merchandise and the new spring clothing and accessories.

Mr. Tuten and the merchants presented formal resolutions in December for spring delivery from trade journals showing that the cost of nearly everything for spring delivery is showing increase of from 10 to 15 percent, to increase in the price of materials and a big jump in labor costs.
