Veterans Corner

Can a veteran who lives and works in the city get a guaranteed farm loan? Is a veteran eligible for a home loan while he is in school under the GI Bill?

Here are the answers to these and other questions frequently asked contact representatives of the Veterans Administration:

Q. My National Service Life Insurance premium was due two weeks ago. Is my policy lapsed now, or do I have more time to send in my premium payment?

A. Your policy is not lapsed, nor will it be lapsed until 31 days after the date on which your unpaid premium was due.

Q. I have received a $4,000.00 business loan, $2,000.00 of which was guaranteed by VA under the GI Bill. Is my guaranty privilege restored to its original amount now that all of my indebtedness has been paid?

A. No. You may use your full loan guaranty entitlement only once.

Q. Can I get a guaranteed loan to buy or build a small apartment house?

A. Yes, you may buy or build a small apartment house with a business loan, but the total number of family units cannot exceed four. If more than one veteran is buying an apartment house, then one additional unit for each veteran participating may be added to the basic four.

MRS. D. D. ARDEN POINTS OUT ERROR IN STREAMLINER STORY

One reader last week called the Herald to point out an error in our story of the Central of Georgia Railroad's streamliner, "Nancy Hanks II."

She was Mrs. D. D. Arden, who found we had called Frank Arden, an engineer on the original "Nancy" back in the 1890's, a cousin of her husband.

Mrs. Arden pointed out that Frank was a brother to her husband, rather than a cousin, and she told us there were five of the Arden brothers. Beginning with Frank, who was the oldest, there followed Toni, Don Reedy, and Laurie.

A Verse For This Week

The reputation of a man is like his shadow: It sometimes follows and sometimes precedes him; it is sometimes longer and sometimes shorter than his natural size.—French Proverb.

Today Is The Day... Good Luck !

Today marks the dividing time between two periods of the year in 1947 in the minds and hearts of the tobacco growers in Bulloch and surrounding counties—the opening of the Statesboro tobacco market.

Since the beginning of the year when he put his tobacco seed in the bed, perhaps with a little silent prayer, the tobacco grower has lived in nothing but tobacco. Tobacco... tobacco... Seed coming up. Blue mold setting in. Freezing nights. Dry weather. Plants dying. Hunting plants to set out. Plants set out. Dry weather still. Plants dying. Broken lands. Rain sets in. More rain. More rain and more rain. Early marketing date. Tobacco in the barn. Curing out light. Sleepless nights. Thermometers fluctuating. Question mark. Price? Weight?

And today—questions answered. Anxiety waiting for the song of the tobacco auctioneer as he begins his trek up one row and down another.

Some pleased—some disappointed. Some realizing their visions when they put the seeds in the ground. Others wondering what will become of them.

Today—and the first tobacco sold and the first checks cashed, and money begins moving. Bank notes are paid. Seed loans are paid. And the grower gets himself a haircut and a shave. He buys himself a new shirt—a new pair of pants—new overalls. His wife buys new curtains—has her hair fixed up—a new dress—more fruit jars. His daughter gets that new evening frock. His son gets that new sport coat he's been seeing in the store window. Please.

Cut Those Corners

One of the most dangerous son crosses street enters Savannah traffic situations in Statesboro on highway, where Grady street today—and one that can be easily remedied—is the large number of "blind corners." One has to but ride only a little way on any street in town and notice the dangerous crossings.

The fault lies with the large number of home owners who have allowed shrubbery to grow to such an extent that it is a traffic hazard. One can come to a complete stop at a corner and then cannot see far enough to the right or to the left to proceed safely. In many places the driver must take his auto well into the street before he can determine if it is safe to proceed.

This is not a situation of isolated cases. We can call to mind several very dangerous crossings—where East Main crosses Zetterow avenue, where Donaldson crosses street enters Savannah avenue, where Grady street crosses Donaldson street, where Zetterow crosses Savannah avenue—to name a few.

We feel sure there is a city law which requires home owners to keep shrubbery trimmed so that it does not create a hazard. We feel sure the mayor, the city engineer, and the city police force will take the necessary steps to correct these conditions which someday soon are going to cost a life—maybe yours.

Let's not kill innocent people in Statesboro and then have the blame placed on you—Mr. Homeowner, because you did not trim your shrubbery—or upon you, Mr. Mayor because you did not take steps to correct this. Let's cut those corners.

Congratulations !

Congratulations, "Miss Statesboro" and "Miss Runner-Up." When the judges chose Miss Anne Fussell, of Georgia Teachers College, last week to be "Miss Statesboro" and Miss Gwen West to be a runner-up, they made excellent selections. We realize the selection of two winners from twelve excellent examples of beautiful young ladies was a difficult job. Any of the twelve could do justice to Statesboro in the "Miss Georgia" contest in August. But there had to be a winner and now that the judges have spoken, it is our duty to back those selected as much to represent us in a contest in a distant city where they will compete with winners from other cities in the state, we had to consider not only beauty, but poise and personality as well.

We commend the judges for their fine selection. We are sorry we could not enter all twelve contestants in the "Miss Georgia" contest just to show we have more than two young ladies who would be proud to display.

We congratulate you, Miss Fussell, and you, Miss West. You well deserve the honor that the judges have given you. We know you will do your best to win for Statesboro when you go to Columbus. And so—congratulations, and may all your dreams come true.

On behalf of everyone who helps make this the best tobacco season Statesboro has ever known, the Herald welcomes you to Statesboro, not only during the tobacco season, but every day in the year. You'll find the folks here friendly and cooperative, and willing and anxious to be seen in the store window. please.

No Strings In Tobacco, Please

Tobacco buying interests have registered a strong complaint with the Extension Service relative to strings in tobacco purchased in Georgia in 1946, and requested that county agents warn growers to remove strings when sorting and grading tobacco.

Buying organizations complained last year about finding too many strings in the 1945 crop. However, it seems that growers left more strings in last year than normally.

The fact that very little grading and sorting was done during the war period accounted for the foreign material more than any other thing. The war is over now as far as grading is concerned. This, coupled with the possibilities of needing the stabilization program, makes it even more important that tobacco be graded better than has been the custom in recent years.

Pursuant to Code Section 106-301 of the Code of Georgia, notice is hereby given of the filing of the application for Registration of trade name by Alvin G. Rocker and J. D. Rocker (successors to Alvin G. Rocker and Joseph C. Rocker) doing business as ROCKER APPLIANCE COMPANY, in Statesboro, Georgia, and that each is a resident of Statesboro, Georgia, where said place of business is located.

This 23rd day of June, 1947.
HATTIE POWELL,
Deputy Clerk, Bulloch Superior Court.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Want to Run a "Collective" Farm?

Was reading the other day about the "collective" farms they have in certain countries. It seems the folks who run them have plenty of help... good hours... and the best equipment.

Sounds pretty nice—till you learn that the "farmer" doesn't own his land, or even farm it, in our sense. He takes orders from the state; produces whatever they want him to produce, at prices they set. Even his off-hours are spent according to state regulations.

No, that would never go here.

Bulls Tangle; Fall In A Well

A "not planned" bullfight was a part of the T. O. Wynn annual "cooter" supper program Friday. Mr. Wynn has for several years given a "cooter" supper for his business associates for the county and from Savannah, along with numerous friends. This annual affair was repeated Friday afternoon with more than 100 present to enjoy the barbecue, fish, Brunswick stew, catfish mullow, slaw, lemonade, and Mr. Wynn's favorite apple tarts.

The feast was served at 6 p. m. and was thoroughly enjoyed by all present. Later in the evening a neighbor's 1,000-pound, long-horned Hereford bull dropped by to call on Mr. Wynn's bull of about the same size, color and temperament. Immediately they tangled into a rip-snorting fight. There seemed to be no end to their endurance until the visiting bull pushed his home animal into a well and then followed right along on top of him head first. Mr. Wynn's bull went into the well, through the curb, backwards.

A wrecker was brought to the battleground and the bulls were pulled out of the well. Neither of them seemed any the worse for the fight or the fall into the well. Mr. Wynn is positive the fight was not a planned part of the evening.

W. A. Groover, of Stillson, has been named a grower-delegate to the National Peanut Council for a three-year term, starting August 1, H. L. Wingate, president of the Georgia Farm Bureau and vice-president of the council, announced.

Mr. Groover has grown peanuts since 1920 and has attended several peanut meetings in Washington to help to determine government policies on this crop. He is perhaps Bulloch county's most outstanding grower, as he has often produced well over a ton per acre. Mr. Groover works with the Georgia Experiment Station on some field test demonstrations in variety and fertilizer work on peanuts there on his farm.

W. H. Smith, of West Side, was named the alternate delegate for this term and will work with Mr. Groover on the council. Mr. Smith is one of the largest peanut growers in the county.

"WEB OF LUCIFER"

An extremely colorful, authentic novel of the Renaissance period, with Cesare Borgia as the leading character, seen through the eyes of a young boy who becomes his secretary and personal spy. Giacomo Orso is the boy, and the story opens with the murder of his father by some unknown person. His mother has a promise child, and because both the mother and child are so ill, the villagers declare that she is possessed of an evil spirit. Giacomo goes to Forli to see Caterina Sforza, the countess, and asks her to help lift the spell. They both get well and Giacomo decides to stay in Forli and learn a trade. He is taken as an apprentice by Messer Bobelli, a painter (and a distant relative), and falls in love with his daughter, Leonora.

Messer Bobelli falls ill and Giacomo finds employment as a clerk with Angela Bionavia, a dealer in wool, dyes, brocade, etc. During this period in history, Cesare Borgia was well on the way to conquering all of Italy, and making one united country of it. Previous to his attacks on Forli, Giacomo's home town is raided and his mother and brother killed by supposed enemies of Cesare. Giacomo goes again to Caterina, but she has him thrown into prison, from which he is rescued when Cesare conquers Forli. He becomes a sort of secretary to Cesare, who has the raiders of Pescara executed. Giacomo has been an idealistic, honest boy, but through his connections with the Borgias becomes almost as corrupt as Cesare himself. One of his duties is to spy on Cesare's sister, Lucrezia, who is married to the Duke of Bisceglia. As a result, the Duke is murdered (by Cesare's henchmen) so that a marriage can be arranged between Lucrezia and Alfonso D'Eate, and by tying these two leading families together, perfect his plans for a unification of Italy. (Cesare has the right idea but his methods were deplorable.) This causes a lot of gossip, along with another incident which happens about this time. The city of Faenza has been under siege for several months and the conduct of its ruler, Lord Astorre Manfredi, has aroused Cesare's admiration. When the city finally surrenders he gives Manfredi his freedom. Later, however, he has the man and his brother killed with the explanation that he had "admired him so much that other ers might, too, and if he could sway me, what might he not do with his subjects?"

Giacomo finds out that a fellow spy called "The Venetian Feather" from a peculiar weapon he uses for assassinations is responsible for his brother's murder, and plans to kill him. He tells him that he has discovered a secret passage leading into the Vatican treasury. The man's greed for money overcomes his suspicion, and he and a Captain Veneto, his supervisor, are lured to their deaths. Veneto lives long enough to tell Giacomo that Cesare ordered the raid on Pescara, and has been laughing at him for being such a glib fool.

Giacomo means to kill Cesare, but falls victim to the plague, which was ravaging Rome. He recovers and hears that Cesare has had the plague, too. While Cesare was ill the conquered princes had revolted and his power is at an end. Giacomo goes to see Cesare with the intention of killing him but, when he sees what a wreck the disease has made of him, and see that Cesare is powerless, he leaves.

This is the end of the Borgias, and the story proper, but in an epilogue we find Giacomo (ten years later) married to Leonora, a junior partner of the firm of Buonavia and Orso, and a successful and happy man.

According to this book, I can't see Lucrezia Borgia as the demon we have been led to believe she was, but as an innocent tool of her brother and father.

"WHY THEY BEHAVE LIKE RUSSIANS"—by John Fischer.

The best book of its kind I have ever read, and it is a "must" for anyone who is interested in keeping our country from fighting another war. It should be required in every school in America, and I would like to see it serialized in newspapers, too.

The Russians have been carefully guarded from our understanding of the capitalistic world. They believe that "the wealth of the U. S. is in the hands of a small group of millionaires who 'sweat' the workers as hard as they can. A working day lasts ten hours. Agriculture is in decay." It doesn't do us any good to protest, because what we say never reaches the average Russian.

"The standard of living everywhere except in the Ukraine is lower than that of the sharecropper in the South."

"A pair of shoes costs $81, silk stockings $12 a pair," and the average wage in Russia is 300 rubles, with a ruble worth about ten cents.

Mr. Fischer claims that Russia isn't in any shape to make war again soon, and I hope it isn't just wishful thinking. He says: "Even if we should surrender the strategic keys to Europe and Asia, and scrap the atomic bomb, the men in the Kremlin would still view us with darkest suspicion. Appeasement won't work with the Soviets." Why? They are afraid of us! Mr. Fischer goes on: "There is only one way to cure Russia of her fear of foreign attack and it will take a long while. We need simply to pull through the next fifteen years without a major depression, and without going fascist. If we can find some democratic way of controlling our economy, hold on to full employment and our freedom at the same time, then we will have proved that Communist forebodings are wrong."

My personal question is, "Have we got time?"

MYSTERY OF THE WEEK

"THINK OF DEATH"—by Richard and Frances Lockridge.

This one deserves mention, if only for the fact that it doesn't have Mr. and Mrs. North in it. Martin Brooks calls on his ex-wife's second husband (confessing, isn't it?) to transact some business, spends the night, and the next morning the husband is found dead in the swimming pool. Of course, we know Martin didn't do it, but the police don't.

Vets Train On the Farm

More than 43,000 veterans in five southeastern states are now engaged in on-the-farm training, combined with classroom instruction, the Veterans Administration reported recently.

The state of Tennessee leads all others in the nation with its supervised and its classroom instructor visits him regularly to check on his practical farm work.

The great majority of the veterans participating in the program own or lease their own farms.

In Georgia, for example, figures furnished the VA by the Division of Vocational Education of the State Department of Education indicate that 2,315 veterans, or 37 per cent, own their farms; 1,837, or 31 per cent, lease; 1,501, or 24 per cent, are sharecroppers; and 501, or 8 per cent are in partnership.

total of 17,270 trainees, VA said. In Alabama, there are 10,712 trainees; Georgia, 6,254; South Carolina, 6,074 and Florida, 3,518. The program is designed primarily for veterans who own or operate farms. The veteran's farm is considered his laboratory where he puts into practice the knowledge he learns at a nearby agricultural or vocational school. All of the veteran's farm operations

1,278,055,000 Pounds of Tobacco Expected In Bright Leaf Area During 1947 Season

Auction sales of the 1947 crop of flue-cured tobacco will begin July 24 with the opening of the Georgia-Florida markets. Growers and warehousemen in the Georgia-Florida belt are busy preparing for the marketing of what is estimated to be the largest crop ever produced in the area.

The crop reporting board, as of July 1, set the crop at 122,200,000 pounds which is around 13 million pounds greater than the record poundage of last year.

According to the United States Department of Agriculture, producer's sales on the 17 Georgia and 2 Florida markets last year averaged $43.20 per hundred—an all-time high. The total flue-cured production in all belts is expected to continue heavy in volume for several weeks. The rate of sales has been set at 400 baskets per hour for each set of buyers. Baskets have a weight limitation of 250 pounds. Each market will sell five hours a day, Monday through Friday. After the Eastern North Carolina markets open on August 25 the selling time will be reduced by 40 per cent. The rules regulating the sales were made by the Flue-Cured Tobacco Marketing Committee. At the request of the committee and the Bright Belt Tobacco Warehousemen's Association, the Tobacco Inspectors of the United States Department of Agriculture will count the number of baskets to be sold each day.

Warehousemen are expecting the cigarette type grades to be in good demand by the domestic cigarette manufacturers. Cigarette production and withdrawals during the first two months of 1947 established new records for those months. Last year there was a much wider price spread between grades than during the war years. Prices for all better qualities advanced substantially over the previous year. The poorer qualities sold much lower. Tobaccoists are expecting this trend to continue and some are predicting even wider price spreads this season.

The markets are expected to open with warehouses having first

Some apprehension is felt over the policy of the British Government to limit the leaf purchases of the British companies. The British type grades do not generally appear on the markets in any appreciable volume during the first day or two of sales. It should be difficult to judge at first, therefore, what effect this policy will have on the prices. The British companies are normally heavy buyers of the flue-cured types.

Commodity Credit Corporation loans will be made available through the Flue-Cured Tobacco Stabilization Corporation this year to Georgia-Florida growers. The loans will be made on a grade basis. They will be made available at the tobacco warehouses to all of the Stabilization Corporation members who are co-operating under the marketing quota program. The grade price rates for flue-cured tobacco average 40 cents per pound which is 90 per cent of the June 15 parity price. For untied tobacco the loan rate for each grade is 4 cents below the rate for tied tobacco of the same grade Georgia and Florida tobacco is marketed untied. Commodity Credit Corporation loans were not available to the Georgia-Florida growers last year as the Stabilization did not get into operation until after the season had closed. Receipts of the belts totaled 66,200,000 pounds and averaged 29.3 cents per pound. About three-fourths of the deliveries were made up of the Old Belt tobacco of Virginia and North Carolina.

The Market News and Inspecting Services of the Tobacco Branch, Production and Marketing Administration, have established headquarters for the Georgia-Florida season at Valdosta, Georgia, in the Valdes Hotel building. The News Service will issue daily price and news reports and weekly summaries for the use of growers, the trade, press, and others interested. The daily price reports which will be issued for the use of the growers will also carry the support price or loan rate by grades as well as the auction average. With this information the grower, when selling his tobacco, will be better able to make one of three choices. First, to accept the auction price offered; second, reject the bid and deliver the tobacco to the Stabilization Corporation if the offered price is not equal to the support price; third, he may reject the bid and offer the tobacco again at auction.

Last year ninety-five sales floors operated in the Georgia-Florida belt. New warehouses have been built at several points this year. Therefore, a record number of sales floors will operate this season.

The 1946 season lasted from July 4 until September 6.

Cattle Horn-Fly Trap

Considerable success has been attained in Australia using a horn-fly trap constructed in a gateway or lane through which the cattle must pass once or twice a day. The passageway through the trap is 33 inches wide and 100 feet long. The glass in the roof is coated on the inside with DDT and protected from the cattle by coarse screen.

Type of cattle horn-fly trap recommended by Macdonald college.

wire. The animal passing through the trap has to brush between and under two sets of curtains, and eight weighted strips, brush her legs and belly, dislodging the flies which rise to the light and contact the treated glass.

Anaplasmosis Gains Foothold on Range

Anaplasmosis is a febrile, infectious disease, transmitted from sick or carrier cattle or by ticks, horseflies and other biting insects. Young animals are seldom affected. The treatment is still in the experimental stage and is largely a veterinary problem. Animals afflicted with the malady should be kept in the shade, given plenty of clean water, a little green feed, and protected against flies. Intravenous injection of mercurochrome has been used with success as well as a modified sodium-cacodylate treatment.

Remedy for Black Rot Disease Among Grapes

Use of bordeaux mixture 44-100 plus one pound of rosin fish oil soap per 100 gallons of spray mixture is recommended for those vineyards where black rot and downy mildew have been serious. This spray is applied just before bloom, just after bloom and two weeks after bloom. If rainfall is above normal, it may be necessary to make a fourth application two weeks after the third treatment.

Conservation Pays Big Cash Dividends

Save the Soil Methods At Purdue Prove Ideal

A soil conservation system combining the teamwork of large amounts of fertilizer, contour farming, manure and deep rooted legumes, not only saves sorely needed rainfall and reduces the loss of soil, organic matter and plant food through runoff, but also promotes greatly increased yields of corn, wheat and hay, according to Glenn Bedell.

Such a system proved its benefits at the Purdue station. The test was conducted in 12 small fields from 1942 through 1945. All the fields had three-year rotations: corn, wheat and meadow. Six however, were farmed with common practices; the other six with a conservation system.

On the fields which had the benefit of extra fertilizer, contour cropping, manure, lime and deep rooted legumes, the water loss from runoff for four years was eight inches, compared with 17½ on fields farmed under the common system. Soil loss was only 1.8 tons under conservation against 8.8 tons with the common system. Organic matter losses were 422 and 976 pounds, respectively, while those of nitrogen were 16 and 77 pounds; phosphorus 19 and 62; and potash, 10 and 24 pounds.

Corn yields averaged 92 bushels per acre against 62 bushels on the common fields. In 1942, By 1945 the corn output reached 122 bushels per acre, compared with 71 bushels on the common fields. Wheat yields averaged 25 bushels and 15 bushels.

Practical Control of Brucellosis in Swine

The following program for control of brucellosis in swine should prove effective. Blood test breeding stock, segregation of infected breeding stock, blood test the prospective gilts and boars frequently and up to and during the first pregnancy, removing reactors and breed only negative gilts to clean boars.

Ammate or 2,4-D will Knock Out Poison Ivy

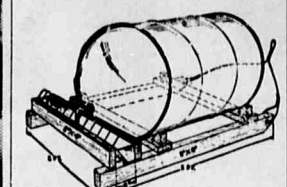

Poison ivy now can be killed with either of the two new chemicals, ammate or 2,4-D. If ammate is used as a spray, dissolve it in water at the rate of one pound to the gallon. Spray when the ivy is in full leaf so that the largest possible amount of surface will be covered, but spray on a cool, cloudy day when there is little chance of rain for 10 hours. Cover plants well so that they are soaked.

Soil Packing Reduces Productivity of Land

"Plug your soils as you would a watermelon," is the advice of many soil experts. This will give you a chance to see compactions that are holding down yields. Modern heavy equipment and short-sighted cropping practices have robbed the soil of its organic matter and after packed it, according to Middle West Soil Improvement committee. Permanent remedy is regular use of deep-rooted legumes.

Herds and Flocks For Greater Profit

Biggest single labor saver for poultrymen is water piped to all buildings and to the range. Use automatic floats at drinking fountains to control water flow. Skeeley shows an automatic waterer made of an oil drum mounted on skids, suitable for use on range.

Livestock sanitary commission design.

Pigs can be castrated any time after they are a week old. They do not suffer as much of a setback when young as they do at 50 pounds or heavier.

Clay Pipes Change

TOBACCO Market Opening

Tobacco Now Brings State $52 Millions Annually

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Georgia's first tobacco warehouse and market were established at Douglas in 1917 as a direct result of a grow-tobacco-program started by the old Atlanta, Birmingham and Coast Railroad, now the Atlantic Coastline's Western Division, according to Business Week, a McGraw-Hill publication. Tobacco growing in this state has come a long way since that year when less than 600,000 pounds were auctioned off at 10 cents a pound. With this year marking the thirtieth anniversary of the auctioneer's annual chant... soon to be heard again... the following story particularly is timely and interesting.)

ATLANTA, July 23 (GPS)—Tobacco growing in Georgia on a commercial basis has become of age. In the comparative short span of thirty years, South Georgia farmers have developed tobacco into the state's fourth largest money crop, according to the Georgia Progress, official publication of the State Agricultural and Industrial Development Board.

Over $32,000,000—the largest amount ever paid for a Georgia tobacco crop—went to growers in 45 South Georgia counties last season for the golden leaf they produced on 107,000 acres, Progress stated. "The 113,788,000 pounds sold brought an average price of 52.67 cents a pound, another all-time high.

"Although highly significant in themselves, these figures become even more remarkable when the fact that Georgia's flue-cured tobacco industry had its real beginning less than 30 years ago is considered," the publication commented. "As the soil weeded laid waste field after field of Sea Island cotton near the end of the first World War, Georgia farmers planted tobacco in cotton's stead merely as an economic measure. Today tobacco has gone more than two-thirds of the way toward equaling cotton's monetary value as Georgia's leading cash crop."

The state's first recognized flue-cured tobacco market was established in Douglas. With this single market as a starting point, Georgia tobacco is today auctioned off in 69 tobacco warehouses on 18 separate loose-leaf markets. Progress points out. In addition, three re-drying plants are now operating in Georgia. Many improvements have been made in getting the tobacco to market, including the replacement of the wood furnace with modern coal stokers and oil burners.

Georgia's 18 tobacco markets are located in Adel, Baxley, Blackshear, Douglas, Hahira, Hazlehurst, Fitzgerald, Metter, Moultrie, Nashville, Pelham, Quitman, Reidsville, Statesboro, Tifton, Valdosta, Vidalia and Waycross. Practically all these markets are located in county seats scattered throughout South Georgia, being divided almost equally between the Southwest and Southeast sections of the state, with Statesboro, 100 miles below Macon, the Northernmost. The amount of money paid to Georgia growers for tobacco increased four-fold between 1939 and 1946, Progress asserted. From 1942 to the present, each successive year has seen a remarkable jump in value. Since 1941 the per-pound rate has averaged a 4 1/2-cent gain annually, while the yearly average gain of the crop's value has been $8,200,000 since Pearl Harbor. This increase is generally attributed to government controls and wartime demands for smokes. (The growers have voted to continue federal acreage control and marketing allotments through the 1949-1950 season.)

Emphasis in the state has been placed on higher yield per acre and higher price per pound, the publication continued. Not until 1928 did the state's acreage pass the 100,000-acre mark. In that year 115,000 acres were planted, yielding approximately 83,000,000 pounds and bringing growers $10,500,000. In only three years since 1930, 1939 and 1946—has Georgia's acreage exceeded 100,000.

"Georgia's flue-cured tobacco industry, a relative youngster beside well-established 'King Cotton' and the 'Almighty Peanut,'" concludes Georgia Progress, "has become of age in recent years and has taken its place in the front ranks of agriculture which adds to the growing prosperity, recognition and progressiveness of the state."

Phenothiazine Will Kill Nodular Worms

Common Insect of Hogs Present on Most Farms

You've heard so much about swine roundworms that you may think they are the only internal parasites that cause hog losses. If so, you're wrong. You're overlooking the nodular worm.

The USDA says the nodular worm is perhaps the most common worm parasite of swine, and that in some states, practically all hogs raised under ordinary conditions may be infected.

Research workers in animal pathology are beginning to suspect that nodular worm injury to hogs is far greater than was heretofore believed. Nodular worm infections cause considerable losses to the meat industry because the intestines studded with nodules, resulting from nodular worm injury, are weak and tear easily, and this destroys their value for use at cuttings. These losses, of course, are passed along to the hog raiser in the form of lower prices.

Hogs entertain four species of nodular worms. The nodular worm gets to be only about a half inch long, hence it is not as readily seen as the roundworm, which gets to be as thick as a lead pencil and more than a foot long. Hog raisers seeing roundworms may blame them for trouble caused by the smaller, harder-to-see nodular worms.

Phenothiazine is the only effective remedy for removing nodular worms. It destroys more than 90 per cent of them. Phenothiazine is easily given in feed—in fact, that is the safest way for a hog raiser to administer it.

ELEANOR EXPRESSES HER OPINION... Members of the press clustered around Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt for a news conference before she addressed 2,500 delegates to the 56th annual convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs in New York. Mrs. Roosevelt confided to reporters that the Taft-Hartley labor act "will undoubtedly create dissension in the country instead of unity—and women are vitally concerned."

GERMAN PARTY BOSS... Frau Maria Von Bredow became Germany's first woman party leader when the military government in Germany censored her "equal political rights for women" party. She is a countess in her own right.

Farmers Help Support Cotton Group

Bulloch county cotton ginners have all agreed to work with the National Cotton Council and growers this year, R. P. Mikell, president of the Farm Bureau, reports.

At a ginners' and community presidents' meeting Tuesday, the groups voted to cooperate in the council's program of research and advertising of cotton goods. The ginners agreed to serve as the collecting agent for the 10 cents per bale to be donated by farmers. The ginners not present were contacted individually and also agreed to work with the council.

Mr. Mikell pointed out that cotton had always been here and taken for granted, but that the introduction of many synthetic products made it necessary that cotton be given some special attention if the present markets are held and any expansion made.

C.M. Graham Is Director Of Growers

C. M. Graham, of Stilson, was named a director on the board of the reorganization committee for the Savannah growers market at the Stilson Farm Bureau Tuesday night.

Mr. Graham has grown truck crops for a number of years and generally sold his products in Savannah.

L. E. Farmer, extension marketing specialist, A. J. Nitzsche, Chatham county agent, and W. C. Fawcett, chairman of the old board of directors of the market, explained that the land the old market was on was sold. It was necessary to move the market or sell it. The board thought it best to sell, especially since the building was of a type of construction that could not be torn down and moved and no lot was available to put it on.

Representatives from the five counties most interested have met a number of times and decided the best method to start with was to name a director from each county and then let these directors raise enough money by selling shares in the market to build an adequate market and equip it. The group thought offering shares to growers that might be interested would in a quick manner tell them what the interest really is and whether to proceed with plans or not.

Cobb and Foxhall Return Again For Twentieth Year

W. E. Cobb and H. P. Foxhall began their 20th season as warehousemen on the Statesboro Tobacco Market as the market opened here this morning.

Both these warehousemen have more than twenty years experience in the operation of tobacco warehouses.

When the tobacco market was established in Statesboro in 1928 Mr. Cobb and Mr. Foxhall operated two small houses totaling 60,000 square feet. These were owned by the Statesboro Tobacco Warehouse Company. In 1938, the two warehousemen purchased the two warehouses from the company.

They also operate the warehouses of Joe Tillman and Walter Aldred, both located on South College Street.

The total floor space operated by Cobb and Foxhall amounts to 180,000 square feet.

Tobacco Market Remains Firm After Five Days Of Selling Activity Here

Grand Jury Holds Quick Session Here

A rapid-fire session of the July Superior Court wound up all civil matters and dismissed the July Grand Jury in less than one day Monday. This was the shortest grand jury session held in Statesboro in many years.

The jury, with Emtik Akins as foreman and Harry S. Cone as clerk, did not take their seats in the courtroom as Judge J. L. Renfro instructed them not to sit, but to retire to the grand jury room and proceed with their work. In less than a day the jury returned six true bills, the fewest returned General Fred W. Lanier says he has had during his term, and then adjourned.

Main reason for the rapid-fire session was the desire of farmers to get back to their tobacco and other crops. Others than the grand jury and trial jurors, very few farmers were seen around the courtroom.

Winding up civil matters in one day, Judge Renfro recessed the court until yesterday when the criminal docket was taken up. This docket of criminal matters was expected to be completed today.

Jaycees Host To Savannah Group

The Statesboro Junior Chamber of Commerce will be host Wednesday to a group of Savannah Jaycees who will form a motorcade coming to Statesboro to inspect the local tobacco market.

Some 25 carloads of Jaycees are expected and they will be guests at a chicken barbecue dinner being given by the local group.

Two weeks later, the Statesboro Jaycees will motor to Savannah and be entertained by the group there.

Statesboro's tobacco market—Georgia's largest—got a firm but somewhat slow start Thursday and after five days of sales has moved over two million pounds of the bright leaf to buyers for a total of more than a million dollars.

Figures covering sales through Wednesday of this week show a total of 2,619,462 pounds sold, for an average of more than 500,000 pounds per day. This tobacco has brought growers a total of $1,116,666.35, to average $42.63 per hundred pounds. This price and poundage is somewhat lower than last year's sales for the same period, but this decline is attributed to the late growing season this year—brought on by long dry spells followed by long rainy periods—and the earlier opening of the market.

Reports from the three warehouse firms in Statesboro indicate that there is much of the common grades of leaf on the floor each day and that prices of these grades are holding up in many cases. The better grades are beginning to appear on the market but have been somewhat slow in coming in. Prices of the better grades are holding up well, warehousemen report.

Sales today are expected to bring the amount past the three million pound mark and the money received will be in excess of a million dollars.

The average price has taken a small drop daily, and warehousemen report this is due to the poorer grades of tobacco which make up a considerable portion of the leaf being sold.

During the first two days of sales large part of the tobacco offered (some warehouse officials estimated 30 per cent) was purchased by the government under the Tobacco Stabilization program. This week, however, the percentage has fallen off sharply as buyers became more familiar with the support price.

Under this program a farmer may, by paying a five-dollar fee, become a member of the organization and be entitled to its benefits. When this tobacco is offered for sale if commercial buyers do not bid 90 per cent of the parity price as established by the government for that particular grade, the grower may place the tobacco in the program and it is immediately paid for by the government at the 90 per cent parity price. Later, when the government sells the leaf if it is moved at a profit, the extra money reverts to the grower. If it is later sold for a loss, however, the loss is absorbed by the government corporation. A majority of tobacco growers in this section are taking advantage of the benefits offered by the stabilization program.

Principle H. Preston, Jr., Georgia's first District Congressman, returned "home" to Statesboro this week and immediately set up a "summer office" to handle the volume of activities that would be expected of a representative. He has established his headquarters in the offices of his former law partner, Col. Hinton Booth.

During the first few days, Mr. Preston has been busy conferring with acquaintances in the district. He plans to make a tour of his district within the next few days and talk with as many of his constituents as possible. "I am delighted," he said, "to be back home and am looking forward to seeing friends all over the district."

City - County Radio To Be Operating By October 15

Equipment for the new city-county radio setup has been ordered and delivery has been promised before September 15, Mayor Gilbert Cone announced this week.

The City Council took action on the proposal Tuesday and authorized its purchase. Present plans call for the transmitter to be located in the city hall in a room adjacent to the fire station. A trained operator will be on hand at all times the station is in operation and in compliance with regulations of the Federal Communications Commission.

It is understood that the radio network will serve the city police system, the county police force, and the area forestry service. A main frequency-modulated transmitter, powerful enough to cover Bulloch county, will be installed at the controlling station in the city hall.

Receivers and portable transmitters will be installed in the city police car, the county sheriff's car, the automobiles of the deputy sheriffs, the county policeman's auto, the automobile of the county warrant officer and in various fire protection units of the forestry service.

Matters affecting any of these units will be broadcast and received by all concerned. The addition of this new service is expected to provide additional police protection by enabling the radio operator to locate city or county police at any time they are needed and order them to any point in the county on a moment's notice. This will save the police from having to return to the city hall to determine if they are needed elsewhere.

Such a system will also be valuable in the event of any spread of disease or emergency for it will tie together various units of law enforcement throughout the county.

New equipment has been ordered and will be installed under the supervision of J. D. Underwood, radio technician.

Readers will note with interest the large picture of one warehouse on the local tobacco market which appears on page one of this week's Herald. This picture, as well as the picture showing

A spokesman for the Bulloch Citizens' Temperance League, on being notified of the decision of the judge declining the petition null and void, stated, "We are convinced the judge is in error, and that the petition is good. We will naturally appeal to a higher court, and our lawyers are now preparing the papers taking exception to the ruling."

"The question is the legality of the card, and whether or not a collection of them constitute an integral petition."

"The question has not been specifically decided in Georgia by appellate court, but in broad basis has been decided. We think the judge disregarded this Georgia authority. Not only that, but in eleven other states, the specific question of the cards has been decided by higher courts of law, and in every case the judges decided they were good. And, in addition, the card has been used in calling a considerable number of elections here in Georgia, both by the wetts and by the drys, and has never been called in question because of the decision of the attorney general of the state to the effect that the use of the card is permissible, and that a collection of them constitutes a legal petition."

"There can be no doubt that over 35 per cent of the registered voters of this county want an election called, and have signified their desire to have it called. We promise them that they will get the chance to vote, and ask them to wait patiently on the decision of the Court of Appeals."

Mr. Preston plans to maintain his office here until January 1.

Mr. Preston took an active part in debate on the floor of the House on the bill to introduce Hawaii as a state. He opposed it on the grounds that 35.5 per cent of the population is Japanese. "On the basis of the last election, in which only 70,000 Hawaiians voted," he said, "making Hawaii a state would give them one senator for each 35,000 voters, as compared with one senator for each 2,500,000 voters in the New York State." "I do not consider this fair," he continued, "when many times one or two votes in the Senate can defeat or pass a bill." He pointed out that the U. S. would have nothing to gain by the admittance of Hawaii as a state.

Legislation affecting veterans has had active consideration from the Congressman. He voted for and assisted in passage of a bill raising pensions for veterans and dependents of veterans of the Spanish-American war. He was active in promoting passage of the bill allowing vets to cash territorial land pay bonds. He has supported the bill which would raise the subsistence allowance of veterans attending school under the GI Bill of Rights.

Commenting on his first session in Congress, Mr. Preston said: "This first session has been most educational to me. I have become familiar with rules and procedure and I am now prepared to participate in legislative affairs to a greater degree during the coming term."

Judge Grants Permanent Injunction

A permanent injunction prohibiting the Ordinary of Bulloch county from calling a special "wet-dry" liquor election in this county was issued Friday by Judge Mel Price, of the Atlantic Judicial Superior Court circuit.

Judge Price acted in place of Judge J. L. Renfro, of Statesboro, who had previously disqualified himself.

The injunction plea had been brought by the Bulloch County Association for Legal Control, an organization composed of some 14 licensed liquor dealers in the county. It was based upon the contention that the petition presented to the Ordinary calling for an election was not a valid and legal petition.

Earlier, Judge Price had granted a temporary restraining order until a check could be made to determine if the petition met all requirements of the law. He instructed the Ordinary to make a careful check of the petition as presented and determine if the names contained therein were valid signatures of registered voters of the county. Previous to this, the Board of Registrars had certified the petition contained the required number of names, but no certification had been made as to whether these names were those of certified and qualified voters.

In issuing the injunction, Judge Price ruled the petition, which was composed of individual postcards pasted upon a roll of wrapping paper, was not a legal one. In his ruling he said, in part: " . . . The courts have held that several petitions of the kind under consideration may be used in the various districts of a county, the kind of purported petition involved in this case has never been passed on by an appellate court . . . This court is of the opinion that the loose and irregular manner in which this petition as presented does not comply with the requirement of the law with reference to such a petition."

" . . . While the courts have held that several petitions of the kind under consideration may be used in the various districts of a county, the kind of purported petition involved in this case has never been passed on by an appellate court . . . This court is of the opinion that the loose and irregular manner in which this petition as presented does not comply with the requirement of the law with reference to such a petition."
