JANE PAYS A VISIT TO YE ANTIQUE SHOP

At the sign of the old Wagon Wheel make a wish! Lift the latch of the white iron gate and you're in. At first you wonder if, like Alice, you've stepped through the looking-glass into another world—a world of quiet elegance, elbowing a Victorian world of unblushing color and elaboration of design—a world that shrouded at realities with glorified spinnings and read its Godey Lady Book by the light of a bulbous China lamp anchored to a sturdy mahogany table by its own heavy brass trim.

Shades of antiquity settle upon you gently and induce an air of decorum. You see, if you're serious, you're in. If you're tipsy, you're in. Really, only the tips of well-polished slippers should be seen and then surely by accident, not intent.

Here and there your glances dart—a lovely vase, a French Haviland platter, an ornate cake plate—only by the skillful direction of the proprietor (titan-hair, blue-eyed, and charming) do you abandon the hop, skip and jump method of examination and proceed to details.

A large painting, once the pride of the old Maitland home, looks down on the collection of antiques—the central figure a young woman, apparently a domestic, pauses for a brief respite from her tasks or a bit of day-dreaming. Your eyes turn again and again to this misty painted and the haunting appeal of the young woman. It would not steal the show in your modern living room. It is not obtrusive, but it would definitely become a part of your home, adding serenity and indefinable charm.

Beneath this painting is a masterpiece of the artist's hand. It is a family affair. Dad got a personal loan to pay doctor bills. Both Mother and Dad have checking accounts. Sis and brother have thrift accounts. Banking with us is a family affair. We invite your family to get ahead financially by using our helpful services.

MARKS GROOVER-WATSON WEDDING FRIDAY EVENING

At an impressive double ring ceremony Friday evening, August 8, at 6:30 o'clock, Miss Mary Frances Groover, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dew Groover, became the bride of James Hendrix Watson, son of Mrs. Karl Watson and the late Mr. Watson, of Registrar, at the First Baptist Church, the Rev. Chas. A. Jackson, Jr., officiating.

Southern smilax was used as a background for tall white baskets of white gladioli and plumosa fern interspersed with seven-branched candelabra in which burned cathedral candles. The choir, led, outlined with smilax, was lighted with cathedral pews. The family pews were marked with clusters of white gladioli showered with white satin ribbon.

Prior to the ceremony, Jack Averitt, organist, presented a program of nuptial music, including "Liebestraum" and "To A Wild Rose." The traditional wedding march was used. Mrs. W. E. Floyd and Bobby Holland, before the entrance of the bride, sang "Thine Alone" and Mrs. Floyd sang "Because." During the ceremony Mr. Averitt played "Humoresque," thus introducing the minut, as this musical selection was played softly while the bride's parents repeated their marriage vows.

Mrs. Elloway Forbes, cousin of the bride, was matron of honor. Her dress was of apple green taffeta with fitted bodice, off-the-shoulder neck line and a very full skirt. Her long gloves were of apple green taffeta and she carried a bouquet of pearly gladioli tied with pearly maline.

The bridesmaids were Miss Karlyn Watson, sister of the groom, Miss Helen Rowe, Mrs. Walker Hill, Mrs. W. R. Lovett, Mrs. Cliff Fittin, Mrs. Russell Hall, and Mrs. Carl Schultz, of Atlanta. Little Lynne Forbes was flower girl. All the attendants were dressed alike and their bouquets were pearly gladioli.

The groomsmen were Gerald Groover, brother of the bride, William Thomas (Tiny) Ramsey, Dight Olliff, Humstith Marsh, Harold Hagins, W. R. Lovett, Walker Hill and Elloway Forbes. Little Jackie Johnson, of Macon, was ring bearer. He wore a white suit and carried the ring on a white satin pillow.

The lovely blonde bride entered with her father, by whom she was given in marriage, and was met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Horace McDougald. Her gown of duchesse satin was fashioned with a tight bodice with silk net yoke embroidered with seed pearls. A bias fold of satin outlined the net yoke, giving an off-the-shoulder effect. The long sleeves ended in points over the hands. Two bias fold of satin at the neckline accented the fashionable long train. Her fingertip veil of illusion was held in place by clusters of orange blossoms and her only ornament was a pin, a sunburst of pearls, belonging to her grandmother, Mrs. S. C. Groover. Her bouquet was of carnations showered with tuberoses and centered with a white orchid.

The bride's mother was gowned in ice blue crepe embroidered in opalescent beads. The gored skirt in sheath effect flared slightly at the hemline. She wore long gloves matching her gown and her corsage was a lavender orchid.

The groom's mother, Mrs. Karl Watson, wore a hazy blue gown with matching long gloves. Her corsage was a lavender orchid.

Immediately following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Groover entertained at a reception at their home. Soft music was furnished by Miss Shirley Lanier at the piano. The home was beautifully decorated with white flowers and greenery. The bride's table was overlaid with a cut work lace decorated banquet cloth. The three-tiered, all white, embossed wedding cake, topped by a bride and groom, was placed at one end of the table. At the other end a crystal epergne held white asters and slender white burning tapers. In the foreground bowls of white satin ribbon showered with pom-pom asters were used in the corners.

The guests were met at the door by Mrs. Jim Donaldson, Mrs. Jack Jackson, of Macon, and Mrs. Ivy Brinson, of Stillmore, introduced the guests to the receiving line. Receiving with the bride and groom were the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Groover, the groom's mother, Mrs. Watson, and the bride's attendants. The bride's book was kept by Miss Maxann Foy and Mrs. Bob Darrow. Mrs. Charles Perry, of Savannah, was at the dining room door. Those serving were Misses Betty Bird Foy, Irma Spears, Margaret Thompson, Betty Jean Cone and Mesdames Robert Morris, Joe Robert Tillman, W. P. Brown, Frank Olliff, Jr., of Millen, Curtis Lane and Bernard Morris. Mrs. B. H. Ramsey and Mrs. Lynne Lanier presided in the gift room. Misses Joan Groover and Betty Smith served punch.

Upon their return, they will occupy an apartment in the bride's home.

He came home on the Nancy Hanks, arriving in Statesboro just at bed time. Charlie said, "We ran over a cow as we rounded a curve and we never felt the slightest jolt. That's how easy you ride on Nancy Hanks." Jane is wondering if Charlie's enthusiasm for Nancy Hanks derived from the fact that the train is named for a horse.

"LOOKING AT THE WORLD Through Rose Colored Glasses" may be your reaction as you attend the Bowen-Christian wedding or either the Foy-Sanders wedding. Both may be characterized as pink weddings.

Betty Bird Foy has always considered pink as her best color and last January told her mother that she was disregarding the traditional bridal white in favor of pink—so pink satin her gown will be. Betty Bird has finished in Fine Arts and among the lovely things she has done are lamps, pottery vases, and oil and watercolor paintings. She visited art galleries in New York City with Alfred Holbrook, noted artist and critic, who gave his art collection to the University of Georgia. Mr. Holbrook states that he expects to attend Betty's wedding. Betty plans to have her father's friends as ushers at her wedding.

Carolyn Bowen's wedding will take place in a church which, though one of the oldest in the county, has never had a wedding in it. The lovely frocks for her pink wedding have arrived from Town and Country. The lovely bridal dress was featured in "Look" magazine several weeks ago.
