Thanksgiving

The citizens of Statesboro and Bulloch county are invited to attend the Annual Union Thanksgiving Service for all the churches of Statesboro at the Presbyterian Church this morning at 9:00 o'clock. Elder Virgil Agan, of the Primitive Baptist Church, will preside. Rev. Chas. E. Jackson, Jr., of the Methodist Church, will bring the message.

As we gather about the family board today let us remember the houseless and homeless and unfortunates, and be sure that we have done something to make sunshine in their hearts, no matter what November gloom may reign without. And as we grasp the hand and look into the eyes of friend and kinsman, let this be the greeting we give: "Brother, whatever else our homes provide today of plenty and good cheer, let us provide things honest in the sight of all men," and then, in the name of that Master whom we serve and Who has loved us with such a great exceeding love, let all bitterness and wrath and anger and clamor and evil-speaking be put away from us with all malice; and let us be kind to one another, tender-hearted, forgiving one another, whatever the old wound that aches and burns today, "even as God for Christ's sake hath forgiven us."

LET US BE THANKFUL

Robert St. John Speaks Dec. 10

Robert St. John, top flight reporter and former war correspondent, will appear here Dec. 10 in the second presentation of the Civic-College Artist Series.

For the greater part of 1947 St. John revisited a majority of the 29 countries he covered as a war correspondent. Unlike most reporters, St. John steered clear of the larger cities in his wartime travels in the war-torn countries of Europe. Instead, he roamed freely about the countryside and lived in small villages where he could get to know the people personally.

Never an armchair commentator, St. John is admired by his colleagues because he went far below the surface to get his stories of the war. He welcomed danger and risk if it stood in his way of getting his stories back to his readers.

St. John knows what it is to see bombs rain from the sky, to evacuate towns and troops under heavy fire, and to view death and destruction on all sides. He himself has been hit many times and still carries a Nazi bullet in his leg, a memento of the campaign in Greece.

After escaping from Greece on the last British evacuation ship, St. John arrived in England to become the National Broadcasting Company's London commentator. There he was not content to just report the news, but worked in a munitions factory, helped dig air raid victims from the rubble that was London, and flew with the R. A. F. in flights over the North Atlantic.

The war was not the beginning of St. John's colorful career. Behind this dramatic experience lies a long and distinguished career as a reporter and editor. St. John is probably the only man in the world with scars on one leg from the Chicago gangster Al Capone, and a bullet in the other from Europe's Public Enemy Number One, Adolph Hitler.

St. John feels that a third world war is not inevitable, because in all his travels he never found an individual who wanted war.

U. S. Route 80 Through Statesboro Is Approved

The new route for U.S. Highway 80 through the City of Statesboro is now assured and it is hoped that the contract for the project will be let at an early date.

Mayor J. Gilbert Cone was advised recently by Mr. John C. Beasley, chairman of the State Highway Board, that the survey of the Urban Project through Statesboro on U. S. 80 is practically complete and has the approval of the Bureau of Public Roads.

Mr. Beasley wrote Mayor Cone that he knows of no objection to the proposed route of the plans and that it is hoped that the contract for the project will be let at an early date.

The amount of the project will come to about $305,000 worth of paving within the city limits. The proposed route will run off U.S. 80 near the city limits on the North side of Statesboro, cross North College street, North Main street and hit U.S. 80 near the city limits on the Savannah side of Statesboro.

'Air Attack' Over City On Nov. 30

Forty planes of the Georgia Air National Guard will perform a defensive operation over Statesboro Sunday, November 30, at 3:34 p. m., according to a bulletin from The Bulloch Herald today by Adjutant General Alpha A. Fowler Jr., of Atlanta.

Some 24 planes from the Marietta Army Air Base and 16 fighter planes from the Savannah Headquarters of the 54th Fighter Wing, after a rendezvous over Augusta, will proceed to cover Statesboro and, following brief sorties, "drive an attacking force" from the city.

General Fowler stated in his bulletin that this operation is being staged over Statesboro to salute the people of Statesboro and the Bulloch Herald for their militant interest in the new National Guard, both air and ground, and to demonstrate how rapidly the entire state could be defended in an emergency.

The Adjutant General invites the entire population of Statesboro to be held here December 1-5. The school will be directed by the Georgia Baptist Department of Evangelism. The school will be primarily one of Bible study with secondary emphasis being placed upon homiletics, theology, and church administration. The faculty will be composed of Dr. H. C. Whitner, head of the Department of Evangelism; Rev. F. J. Hendrix, member of the department; and Dr. R. T. Russell, former pastor of the First Baptist Church of Waycross.

Of great interest to the public is the fact that the preaching hours will be open to the general public, and will be held each day at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m., beginning with the Monday evening service and continuing through the Friday morning hour. Dr. Sercy Garrison, pastor of the Bull Street Baptist Church, Savannah, will be one of the guest preachers.

Pastor T. Earl Sordani stated that the public is cordially invited to attend and says that if you want to hear some real good preaching, "Come hear a preacher preach to a group of fellow-Baptist ministers."

Damage To Peanuts High

The recent rains in Bulloch county have cost peanut farmers of the county approximately $200,000, according to Byron Dyer, county agent.

Constant rains have prevented farmers from picking their peanuts and water damage has ruined part of the crop. Mr. Dyer states that most of the damage was caused by the haystacks being improperly erected, causing them to fall over on the ground. Peanuts on the stacks which did not fall are not seriously damaged. Mr. Dyer states, and in most cases are bring a fancy price.

City Authorities Warn Youth and Parents—"No Firecrackers!"

City authorities again wish to remind parents and children who live within the city limits that it is against the law to "shoot" firecrackers during the Christmas holidays or at any time during the year.

A Verse For This Week

The Lord loves the common People best; He made so many of them.—Lincoln.

Bulloch Is Not For Sale

Bulloch county held an election on November 19.

And we know now that Bulloch county is not for sale!

The Herald commends the candidates, the campaign workers, the voters, the election holders, on one of the most orderly primaries ever remembered in the county.

Other counties in Georgia are finding their elections mere auctions, in which the office goes to the highest bidder with some of the candidates doing the bidding and some of the voters doing the selling.

Bulloch Is Rough On Murder

A murderer in Bulloch county finds the going rough. Ask Dewey Collins and Coy Collins, now in the county jail charged with the murder of Holcomb Burness.

On Saturday, the first of November, Holcomb Burness was found brutally murdered—believed to be the most brutal killing since the Hodges incident in 1904. A gully-washing rain the night after wiped out all clues and signs left around the house where the man was killed.

Yet on November 11 Coy Collins was in the custody of the sheriff, and on November 14 Dewey Collins was also in custody of the sheriff.

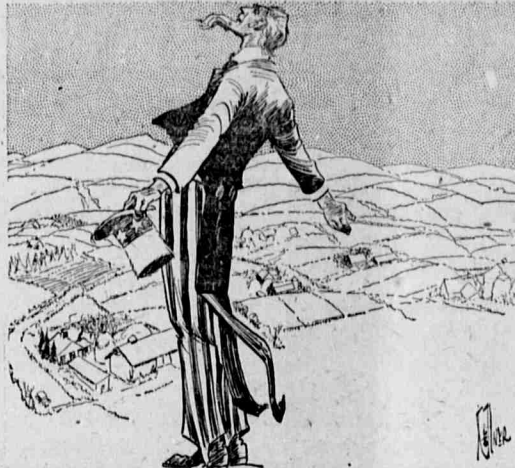

Bad Publicity

Georgia received another bit of unfavorable publicity of the sensational sort when Roy Harris and William Morris, two of our top-ranking political figures, resorted to fast-fufts in a public courtroom. It is a sad comment on democracy when men in the public eye, as Messrs. Harris and Morris are, let their tempers flare in such flagrant manner. It is all smacks a little of the doings of one once prominent "Hellbent" Edwards.

We can't help wondering, though we know full well that Georgia is only one of the nation's 48 states, just how this incident appeared to other peoples throughout the world. To the many millions now baffled and befuddled by the issues of communism, democracy, and other political ideologies, this demonstration of temper must have been regarded as a severe indictment of democracy. Some, no doubt, looked upon it as a failure of a type of government which is supposed to set an example for understanding and reason as opposed to force.

We aren't familiar with all details leading up to the incident. We understand that Mr. Harris, as the anonymous editor of the Augusta Courier, a political sheet,

Neighboring City to Observe Centennial December 21 Thru 24

When the City of Sylvania celebrates her 100th anniversary, December 21 through December 24, one of the interesting events in the history of the town which will be reenacted is the famous Dow Legend.

In 1794 the little village of Jacksonville, located five miles north of Sylvania, sprang up on each side of Beaver Dam Creek in Screven County. Because of its location, approximately half-way between Savannah and Augusta, it early became an important state-coach stop and developed into a busy community.

In 1830 an itinerant evangelist, Lorenzo Dow, came to Jacksonville to conduct a meeting in the Methodist Church. Citizens of Jacksonville considered him an eccentric and not only prohibited his holding services, but refused to give him shelter for the night.

The legend says that Dow was pelted with overripe eggs and generally mistreated by the citizens of the frontier town. The minister found shelter from his assailants, however, in the home of Seaborn Goodall. The next morning he found the people of the town no more receptive to his pleadings for the salvation of their souls and was escorted to the rustic bridge which spanned Deaver Dam Creek. He was intended to leave the scene and never return.

Taking off his shoes and shaking the dust from them, Dow, to show his indignation, pronounced a terrible curse on everybody and every building in the town except the Goodall family and their home.

It should be a lesson... a murderer has rough going in Bulloch county.

Books

By Mrs. F. F. Baker

"THE GREAT TIDE" — by Rutledge Hall. It is a novel of early days in West Florida, with a heroine, Caline, strongly reminiscent of Scarlett O'Hara. The action takes place at Greenwood (still in possession of the author's writings) probably hit below the belt. However, Mr. Morris, holding the position that he does as chairman of at least one of our Democratic parties, had no excuse for using profane language as he did in the dignity of the courtroom.

As M. L. St. John pointed out in his column in Sunday's Atlanta Constitution, the sensational scrap between the two political figures tended to overshadow the sober and studious work which had been done in preparing for the legal battle between the two leading political factions in the state. Newspapers grabbed the incident up and gave it publicity because it made good head-line news. He realizes the nation had more to chuckle about with regards to Georgia, now almost on par with Mississippi when it comes to political matters.

Frankly, we wish our political leaders would grow up sometime and that dignity would replace gutter tactics so often employed. We understand that Mr. Harris, as the anonymous editor of the Augusta Courier, a political sheet, lects General Cavanaugh, Van Leuvan's second in command, handsome, and very, very military.

Tom, meanwhile has joined the army and fallen in love with a Jewish girl, Rodia. He is sent overseas with the 20th, and finally winds up in the port of Bari. Due to the fact that warning signals are not working properly (and other things) the Germans raid the port with disastrous results. Van Leuvan is blamed and sent home. Clark, in a boat at the time, gets a touch of mustard gas when a munitions ship blows up. He drops Cavanaugh like a hot potato, too. Cavanaugh being blamed equally for the success of the Nazi raid.

All's Fair

NOT SINCE I have been trying to round up bits of news for this column has the going been so difficult. The weather may have had something to do with it. On Sunday afternoon the only living creature seemingly impervious to the dismal drizzle was a goat grazing without discrimination on the lawn at the Hoke Brunsons. He was eating paper as I passed and at that time he had probably absorbed more news than I could find in a week. A small wagon close by indicated that he had a motive in seeking to build up energy reserve, for no doubt, Barbara Page and Hoke Hoke will put him through the paces when the sun peeps out again.

MORE ABOUT CUPS without handles: 32 years ago Jessie Fletcher (Mrs. J. D.) received as a gift from girls training as nurses under her instruction, a lovely collection of china which they called a chocolate set. Jessie was sure it was not a chocolate set for the china put was low with the spout at the bottom—and the cups were WITH-OUT HANDLES. Jessie was always a busy person and had very little time to preside at either a chocolate or a tea set. It was left up to Elizabeth—a wee bit of a girl—to entertain her small friends at tea parties and she used Mama's pretty cups and saucers. Elizabeth, however, Fletcher, as busy as Mama ever was—and Jessie shows no sign of slowing down. So the dainty tea set reposes gracefully on a shelf in Jessie's china cabinet. The point in the above story that is really remarkable to me is that the fragile set suffered no casualties when the little tots entertained at the teas.

ONE DISTANT EVENING I again ventured out. A long double line of cars at the Methodist Church gave me a menial picture of a large number of people, a side being served a delicious supper, and at the same time enjoying the fellowship of friends and neighbors. "How far that candle sheds its beams!" Dr. and Mrs. street households were cheery and bright with enough lights burning to gratify certain utilities. Out Savannah Avenue way we definitely felt a magnetic attraction from such beautifully shaded lights and the glimpse of a cozy interior. We raced to the door—so did "Rusty," a copper-colored spaniel. That little fellow reasoned—and rightly—that if they can get in, so can I. When Jimmie Redding opened the door, we all most fell over "Rusty," who made his entrance in nothing flat. We soon realized we had hit the jackpot, for here waves of warmth floated out to envelop us. Jimmie was warmly courteous—but that was not the answer. The fireplace was unlit—there were no radiators in sight. While we were waiting for Martha, Jimmie showed us registers in the floor which let in the lovely heat automatically, controlled by a tiny thermostat, and operating on Blue Flame fuel. My husband groaned—here was one more thing I would definitely want in a home.

Upon thawing out I became aware of the charming atmosphere of the living room, delicate French blue walls, a deep piled plum-colored rug, teal-blue and gray drapes with scattered bouquets of wine-colored flowers, hand-painted flower prints over a colorful and comfy sofa, a charming table, an old-fashioned lamp table with a lyre base, a gleaming Curtis mangle in the alcove, simplicity of design, exquisite gold and china decorated pieces added up to a wonderful place for living. The dining room with mahogany suite and lovely casement drapes fashioned by homemaker, Martha Redding, adjoined the living room. Martha said the walls in the guest room were rose, but I prefer to describe them as tea rose, for they were more pastel than rose suggests. The rug was wine and the drapes were neutral with wine fringe. Patricia wasn't feeling so well and had already retired, but was studying her lessons for the next day. Her room was pale blue with maple furnishings. I know she just adores her dressing table with white Swiss skirt with blue dots and blue satin ribbons. Jim's and Martha's room is done in light green with white seashell rug, but to me the most attractive place in the whole house is the kitchen—the walls a soft daffodil shade, the floor covered with blue and gray rubber tile, red and white checkered ruffles across the tops of the windows, odd niches with indoor pot plants and fascinating figurines all in marvelous taste. And the utilities—my escort, graced again—the stove, refrigerator, washing machine, cabinets—all gleaming white porcelain. I did not overlook the sewing machine conveniently placed to get plenty of light and to afford the seamstress a glimpse of things cooking away on the stove, and not too far away from it was a box filled with Jimmie's toys. Here were all the ingredients of a home: a father, mother, son, daughter—and "Rusty," the cocker spaniel, who had been promptly evicted because he had fleas.

A CARTOON in a recent copy of S. E. P. showed a man and woman on the deck of an ocean liner, all wrapped up in steamers rugs. From their expressions they were far from happy. The caption underneath read: "Maybe after this trip our apartment will be ready." I chuckled and was immediately reminded of the California trip made by Major Rudy and Joy Mundy. The Mundys have been sort of shoved around since they have been in Statesboro. For awhile they lived in Congressman Preston's house. They were next domiciled in the Sewell house while Ruth hunted antiques on Narragansett or was it Nantucket Island. When Ruth returned they were confronted with a problem—a place to hang up the proverbial hat. So, with road maps and address books they went on a continental tour which conveniently afforded them an opportunity to look up friends they had made in the service of Uncle Sam. By the time they made Los Angeles and back they had located a home with Jane Cone (Mrs. R. L.). Shortly the Mundys will have a home of their own—a prefabricated structure from the Louisville Plywood Corporation. It will be erected on College Boulevard across from the Bland home.

THIS WEEK we are tremendously proud of Patty Banks. Her scholarly average assures her of a coveted place on the Dean's List. Her voice teacher has made complimentary remarks about her voice and praises the groundwork done by Nanette Cone—says here former training is exactly in line with the methods used at Wesleyan. Patty's talent has been speedily recognized outside of the Conservatory, for she has received invitations to appear on programs in Macon and Savannah. Lily Deane has added something new to her town. Maybe it was Dr. Deane's idea. At any rate, large pains now border the sidewalk in front of their home on South Main. The instructions received for transplanting called for daily watering. So far, Lily has been relieved of that chore.

MANY OF US are looking forward to the celebration of two golden weddings in the county this month. Early in December the John H. Brannens are observing their fifty years of married life. Their four children, Robert and Alex, the twins, and Ellen (Mrs. Luke Hendrix, of Portia) and Lucile (Mrs. DeLoach, of Brooklet), will be in the receiving line. Mrs. Brannen was formerly Julia Brannen, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robinson Brannen. The twenty-fifth anniversary will be that of Mr. and Mrs. Carlos Cason. Their sons are Wilbur, Charles, Jim and Homer Cason, all of this county; and their daughters are Mrs. Solie Allen, of Thompson; Mrs. B. Darby of Augusta; Mrs. Eugene Deal, Bulloch county; and Mrs. Marion Stringer, of Augusta. While Hilbur was thumbing the telephone directory in an effort to make up the list of those to be invited, his wife remarked: "You're checking off an awful lot of people." "Nearly everybody in the book's kin to Mama," was Wilbur's reply. Wilbur's mother was formerly Lulu Brannen.

NEW ARRIVALS

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Pound announce the birth of a son, Joe Mathews, November 22 at the Bulloch County Hospital. Mrs. Pound was formerly Miss Evelyn Mathews, daughter of Mrs. C. B. Mathews and the late Mr. Mathews.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Aldred Jr. announce the birth of a daughter, November 25 at the Bulloch County Hospital. Mrs. Aldred before her marriage was Miss Vivian Mathews, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Mathews.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Blitch announce the birth of a daughter, India, November 24 at the Bulloch County Hospital. Mrs. Blitch was formerly Miss Mary Mathews, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Mathews.

Henry McCormack, owner and operator of McCormack's Gift Shop, located on South Main St., Statesboro, Ga., announces this week that his shop is now taking orders for Christmas cards with the purchaser's name imprinted on them.

With their printing equipment, Mr. McCormack states that his shop is set up to give the people of Statesboro some of the most distinguished Christmas cards available. Mr. McCormack advises everyone who has not selected cards to do so immediately in order to have them in plenty of time for mailing before the final Christmas rush, and while the selection is large.

McCormack's Gift Shop is one of the more recently established businesses in Statesboro and has one of the largest selections of gifts in this section for every member of the family. They are especially featuring individual gifts this season. There are toys for the kiddies, such as electric trains, a wide selection of beautiful dolls, Walt Disney film strips, games for all ages of children, and educational toys for boys and Outstanding on the shelves of McCormack's Gift Shop is the large selection of Christmas "Figurine" Candles.

Mr. McCormack also states that his stationery counter is fully stocked with fine papers and that he is equipped to imprint names and addresses on all orders, if desired.
