Miss Snipes stated that this was a program for the people and not for the teachers, because teachers are going to other states for better salaries.

Stilson Exhibit Wins Fair Prize

The Stilson community won first place in the county fair last week. C. M. Cowart, general chairman, announces.

The Stilson school displayed a wide variety of products of extremely high quality and then brought into the exhibit one of the best educational lessons possible. The running tractor, model farm, and active bees attracted considerable attention to the entire display.

West Side school repeated as second place winner and Nevis placed third. Midland, Register, Warnock, Ogechee and Leefield all came in for honorable mention.

In the colored school exhibits, Pope's school won first, Willow second and Sandridge third. Honorable mention went in the Brooklet, New Hope and St. Paul exhibits.

Judges were Emory Allen, president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce; Dr. Waldo Floyd, president of the Chamber of Commerce; Wallace Cobb, representing the Rotary Club; Henry J. Ellis, president of the Lions Club; Mrs. I. A. Brannen, president of the Woman's Club; Mrs. Howell Sewell, representing the Business Girls Club; and Mrs. Buford Knight, president of the Junior Women's Club.

Educational exhibits of the Typhus Control Unit, the county library, and the County Forest Fire Protection Unit all came in with considerable praise. The well-organized display put by Logan Hagan supplemented work being carried on by the schools.

Miss Sale, specializing in an original "American" series of monologues, writes her own material and creates her own costumes. In one of her featured monologues, by costume change and starkly realistic interpretation of the sterling characters who were the backbone of American frontiers, she brings out not only the character and dialogue but also the mental processes and activity of the American pioneers.

Miss Sale spends her time between her "one-woman theatre" and Hollywood, where she is appearing in character roles in over 300 pictures. She was starred for eight years in the radio drama, "Those We Love." Her bookings for this, her first season, entirely devoted to her one-woman theatre, now totals over 100. On a national scale, she is playing almost every state in the union. She has given over 500 performances of this recital, and has been ranked by critics with Cornelia Otis Skinner and Ruth Draper.

During the war she was the first entertainer to tour coast army camps, even before Pearl Harbor, when drafted men had no entertainment whatever. On V-J Day she flew across country for the Hollywood Victory Committee and did 75 hospital ward shows in 11 days. Her "Heidi Hagan" was the "Elsie Janis of this war." Mrs. Roosevelt wrote congratulations, and "Life" twice had pictures of her work.

The Blue Devils, together with their supporters, went to Vidalia last Friday night to play the sixth game of the season.

Statesboro scored late in the second quarter when Emory Nesmith took Ashton Cassidy's pass near the middle marker and made it to the 10-yard line. In three plays, Nesmith took the ball over for the score. The try for the extra point failed.

The Blue Devils' other score came when Nesmith again took a pass from Cassidy near the 50-yard line and raced to the Vidalia three. "Pewee" DeLoach, the ball over for the other score. Again the try for the extra point failed.

Vidalia scored twice and converted one extra point to win the game 13 to 12.

The Blue Devils will play Millen here tomorrow (Friday) night.

Coach James Hall announced this week that the Blue Devils will meet the Richmond Academy "B" team here in the annual Thanksgiving game on November 25.

Nov. 8 Is 'D-Day' For Bulloch Rats

Dr. W. D. Lundquist, Bulloch County Commissioner of Health, and Perry R. Summerlin, of the State Health Department, announced recently that Bulloch county has been selected as the county in which a demonstration of a complete and well-rounded program of rat poisoning would begin, starting Monday November 8.

"It is planned," said Dr. Lundquist, "to use the best poisons available for rat poisoning, and to work towards a rat-free county. In order to reach this goal, we are cooperating with the State Health Department in the program to do away with rats, to clean up the nesting sites of the rats, as well as sources of food and water."

It is a well established fact that rats will live where they cannot secure a good nesting site, and where food and water are not available.

Mr. Summerlin stressed the fact that this is not a "quick kill" campaign, but rather is a well-planned program to poison rats and to make Bulloch county a county where rats will not find the "welcome" mat. It is planned that all available rat poisons which have proven themselves in rat poisoning work be used in the program. The following poisons will be used: Rodine, arsenic wafer, 1080 poison—in business establishments only—Cyanogas or A. Dust, and Antu. These poisons will be used as indicated on each rat house or business house in the county, and the usual procedure is to use more than one poison at each farm in order that the rats may have a selection of bait to eat.

The program will be staffed by Fifty Building Lots TO BE AUCTIONED NOV. 17

Joe Zetterower announced this week that he will sell at auction some 50 building lots located one mile north of Statesboro on the Lake View paved road. The sale is scheduled for Wednesday, November 17, at 1:30 p. m.

Truman Is Re-Elected President; Bulloch Casts 2,036 Votes For Him

In the biggest political upset in the history of the United States, Harry S. Truman defeated Thomas E. Dewey in the November 2 presidential election. With returns still incomplete Mr. Truman is credited with 302 electoral votes, 36 more than is needed for election.

Bulloch county wanted no part of the Republican Party and its candidate, Thomas E. Dewey. They wanted no part of the State Rights and their candidate, J. Strom Thurmond. They wanted no part of the Progressives and their Henry Wallace, nor the candidate of the Prohibitionists.

Bulloch county just wanted the Democratic Party and its candidate Harry S. Truman.

Final returns show 2,036 citizens of the county voted the democratic ticket and Harry S. Truman. Two hundred seventy-six voted the Republican ticket, 625 voted the States' Rights ticket, 6 voted the Progressive ticket, and 10 voted the Prohibition ticket.

In Statesboro 1,048 voted for Mr. Truman, 209 for Mr. Dewey, 298 for Mr. Thurmond, 2 for Mr. Wallace, and 5 for the Prohibition ticket.

A total of 2,953 votes were cast in the county in the presidential race, of which 1,562 were cast in the Statesboro district.

Of the 276 Republican votes cast 209 were in the Statesboro district.

Tabulation showed 2,889 ballots cast for state officers, including Governor Talmadge, Congressman Prince H. Preston, U.S. Senator Dick Russell, constitutional officers, and county officials.

The typhus fever program in Bulloch county has shown excellent results since it was first sponsored by the county commissioners and the County Health Department. The program has been responsible for the number of cases of typhus fever dropping some 90 per cent in recent years. Today, typhus fever is a disease not often reported in this county.

Police Chief Lott Takes Office Oath

In a special ceremony held in the city office Monday morning of this week, City Court Judge Cohen Anderson administered the oath of office to Statesboro's new chief of police, William ("Bill") J. Lott.

Prior to the administration of the oath, Mayor J. Gilbert Cone commended acting chief of police Henry Anderson. Mayor Cone stated that two years ago when Mr. Anderson was appointed chief it was understood that he would serve until the city council could secure a chief.

At the ceremony were Chief Lott's wife, two children, Vivian, 9, and Betty, 5, and Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Lott.

Mayor Cone stated that the city council had found that Chief Lott possessed the qualifications which they desired in their police chief.

Following the ceremony, the new chief of police made a statement pledging his very best in serving the citizens of this community. (For full text of his statement see editorial page.)

Chief Lott immediately called a meeting of the city police force. To serve with him are Policemen Henry Anderson, "Tuck" Tucker, Carolyn DeLoach, J. M. Tuffin, Carolyn P. Lee and Albert Smith.

We Get a New Police Chief

MONDAY MORNING of this week Statesboro got a new Chief of Police.

William ("Bill") J. Lott—a man with a wealth of experience which should make him valuable to the citizens of Statesboro.

But "Bill" Lott, as Chief of Statesboro Police, can be effective and perform his best only in direct proportion to the cooperation the citizens he serves gives him.

Chief Lott replaces Acting Chief of Police Henry Anderson, who, two years ago, accepted the assignment with the provision that when the city council could find a man to head the department he wished to be relieved. In Mayor Cone's welcome to Chief Lott he commended retiring Chief Anderson for his services during the time he has held the office.

Upon accepting the office in a brief ceremony in the city office Monday, Chief Lott made a statement which clearly indicates that he intends to do a good job. It constitutes a pledge which we hope he carries out—but he will need the cooperation of his police force, his city council, and the people of this community.

Read what he says—and meet him half way:

"In coming to Statesboro, as head of your police department, I am impressed with the high honor you have bestowed on me and with the opportunities that are being given me to render a worthwhile service to the people.

"Long experience in police work has taught me many lessons. I have learned that courtesy, fair dealing and an understanding of human nature and human weaknesses can be put into a policeman's work in such a way as to make the force a friend to the people without in any way avoiding the necessity of law enforcement and the prevention of disorder and crime.

"On all, I expect to make this police force respected of all men for its integrity and its courage, as well as its understanding.

"I consider that one of our first jobs should be to make a complete survey of the city's police needs, install a record system in the department and bring our department up to the level of efficiency required by a top-notch city—which Statesboro certainly is. In doing these things, economy of operation will be borne in mind.

"I know something of these men who will work with me. I believe that we shall get along in friendship and mutual desire to do right. Speaking for myself and for them, I promise you the very best efforts of which we are capable. There are many little neighborly services a policeman can render for which he is not paid. I am thinking of hospitality to tourists and other visitors; the special needs of individual citizens and for upholding your aims as a municipal government. We shall be at your service at all times.

"From now on, Statesboro is my home and I am proud of the fact. What we are going to do as guardians of law and peace remains to be seen. But I do not believe we shall disappoint you."

"The Poppy Lady"

FOR MANY YEARS NOW Statesboro and Bulloch county have claimed Miss Mae Michael, secretary to presidents of our Georgia Teachers College, as their own.

And so it is that this week we join the nation in honoring one close to "Miss Mae"—memorializing one who represents a symbol to all veterans of World War I, and is beginning to attain that status with World War II veterans.

On November 9 a special stamp will appear. It was authorized by both houses of Congress and approved by the president of the United States. It will honor Miss Moira Michael, of Athens, sister of our own Miss Mae.

Known until her death in 1944 as "The Poppy Lady," Miss Michael conceived the red poppy as a memorial symbol of World War I. It was accepted by the American Legion in 1921 as the official flower of memory of that organization.

First covers for the Moira Michael Memorial Poppy Stamp will be issued from her home town—Athens—with special ceremonies being planned for the occasion. The stamp will bear the picture of Miss Michael, the poppy which she loved, and the torch which she caught.

According to "The Story of the Poppy," it is told that on November 9, 1918, just after reading the poem, "In Flanders Fields," by Col. McCrae, Miss Michael distributed poppies to delegates attending a Y.M.C.A. convention in New York City. She told these men of the beauty of Col. McCrae's poem, and how the poppy would always be a symbol of sacrifice to her. She asked them to wear the poppies she had given them in memory of those who had died on Flanders Field.

It was then that Miss Michael dedicated her life to keeping the faith with those who died for their country and to keeping the Torch of Freedom burning brightly. With devotion and zeal, she spent the rest of her life making the memorial poppy the symbol of supreme sacrifice in war.

At first, her idea aroused interest, but little action. Then, in 1920, she approached three Legionnaires from Atlanta and sold them the idea of the poppy and they carried that idea into the State convention. A resolution was passed urging that the poppy be named the memorial flowers of the American Legion.

The Georgia delegation to the Legion's National Convention in Cleveland that year introduced the poppy resolution to the national body and the poppy was adopted as the official flower of memory of the American Legion. At the first National Convention of the American Legion Auxiliary in 1921, the poppy was adopted as the Auxiliary's memorial flower.

Every year since 1919, when Miss Michael fashioned such a memorial with her own hands, a huge Poppy Anchor has been launched on the waters on Memorial Day in tribute to those who gave their lives at sea. At first this ceremony was in Savannah, but in 1930 the Naval Academy at Annapolis took over the tribute and since that time it has become a twin ceremony to the Memorial Day ceremony held at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

RENEW TIME image, Lord, in men,
Lowly and gentle may I be;
No charms but these to Thee are dear;
No anger mayst Thou ever find,
No pride in my unswerving mind,
But faith, and heaven-born peace be there.

P. GERHARDT.

On Monday last week the Statesboro Rotary Club heard George Goodwin, staff writer of The Atlanta Journal, admit, "I'm scared."

Mr. Goodwin is a winner of the Pulitzer Prize for the best local reporting and his award was made on his writings of his investigation of the manner in which Georgia citizens conduct themselves in exercising their rights and privileges at the polls. He is worried about our Democracy!

We think Mr. Goodwin has a right to be "scared" and we are scared. We believe it is of interest to all to read what Mr. Goodwin is thinking.

This week we present the first part of Mr. Goodwin's thinking as he expressed it to the Rotary Club.

"Gentlemen, I consider it a great privilege to be here. It is always an honor to be invited to address his civic organization.

"However, there is another—and far more important—reason why I appreciate your invitation. For more than a year disturbing thoughts have been swirling up in my mind and heart. I have wanted to set them forth to men like yourselves.

"This may sound like a slightly overripe Fourth-of-July speech. Well, that's all right too. On sophisticated generations have probably not heard enough Fourth-of-July speeches, and that may account for some of the very grave difficulties I see ahead for all of us.

"Frankly, gentlemen, I am quite worried. I might even say I'm scared. Some of you—like myself—knew on a few occasions during the war what it means to be scared for our own necks. I know that fear on Mindoro in the Philippines, but I never doubted for one minute that, no matter what happened to me, the United States eventually would win the war; and our way of life would go on indefinitely.

"Now I'm scared in a different way. I must tell you honestly and simply that I fear for the future of democracy in America.

"As you look at the globe, you can see country after country where democracy has given way to some totalitarian form of government. The list is long, and is getting longer every year.

"The changes in those countries generally did not come as the result of outside forces. They came because some of the people in those countries—not always a majority but certainly a strong minority—sold out. They sold out democracy for something they thought was better.

"Now, look at our own country. Just a few years ago Huey Long had a first-class dictatorship in Louisiana, and when he died, he was exerting a strong influence in Arkansas and Mississippi. After his death some of his followers were put in prison, but just a few weeks ago the people of Louisiana elected his brother governor on a platform that was little different from that of the old Kingfish.

"A flour salesman with a hill-billy band was first governor and is now senator from Texas. "Bulbo, with his foul tongue and faithful following, did all right for himself in Mississippi. "Alabama's Jim Folsom is no bargain. "And as for Georgia—well, this is not a political speech. I presume that, like many other Georgia organizations, your members are about equally divided on your favorites for governor. No doubt half of you were dyed-in-the-wool supporters of Hoke Willis, while negroes and whites; liberals and reactionaries; gentiles and Jews; city people and country people; north Georgia and south Georgia. "Above all, we have the anti's. Today it seems that everybody—yes, and practically every organization—is anti-something.

"The danger—the very grave danger—lies in the fact that our allegiance to our groups which are tangible and easy to recognize. "There is danger too in how far we will go to fight those groups we are against. Four days after The Journal broke the story on Telfair county's vote frauds last year, I read a newspaper columnist whose general theory seemed to be that stealing an election is not so bad, if you steal it for the right people. I can't agree.

"I am afraid that somebody—perhaps somebody soon—maybe during the next depression—a man on a white horse with a great personality and with plenty of money in his saddlebags, is going to sweep the South and maybe the entire nation. "He will win with a campaign

A LOCAL BOY will present a Keopake diamond ring to his campus sweetheart on her birthday day...

THIS ITEM was lifted from the society section of The Atlanta Journal. In a description of the Driving Club's Annual Halloween Ball, where Atlanta debutantes are presented collectively for the first time and the words and phrases, resplendent with jewels, glittering and spectacular, and where debutantes have two escorts and two orchids, and where exquisite gowns are minutely described, we can use this tie up with Statesboro: "Miss Nancy was accompanied by John Reeves, of Washington, D. C., and JASPER FRANKLIN, of Statesboro."

Nancy's dress was described thusly: "The exquisite gown of ice blue brocade was fashioned with a bustle. The front of the skirt was caught up to reveal a lace petticoat. The off the shoulder neckline was trimmed in real lace. Completing Miss Galliard's ensemble were long white kid gloves."

WHEN Little four-and-a-half-months-old Jan Joiner, daughter of Blanch and Oscar Joiner, was christened Sunday she wore a sheer batiste dress made by her maternal grandmother, the late Blanch Crawford Anderson, for her son, Bill; a slip all handmade and embroidered by her paternal grandmother, Mrs. Joiner; and a long white coat, a gift from Grandmother Nina. Blue eyes and dimpled cheeks and dark hair made Baby Jan look like a cherub as she behaved so beautifully during the lovely ritual...

YOUNG RAY HODGES practices a bit of deception to gain his way. He told his mother, Mrs. Eli Hodges, that he didn't want to be in the Halloween parade, and told Mrs. Jones that his mother didn't want him to take part in the program, but he confided to grandmother, Mrs. O. M. Lanier, that he didn't want to be bothered with those costumes. He wanted to be out where he could watch everything that was going on...

EXCITING TIME on Zetter-over: All was well on Zetter-over Sunday about twilight until Al and Ann McDougald discovered a strange creature in a tree. Excitedly they called their parents. Sidney and Bernard thought it might be a possum and decided to shoot it down. Then Bill Adams, who was there, ran home for his shot gun. In the meantime, Bernard called the police. They tried turning the hose on the intruder, who seemed in no way alarmed by the sudden interest in his presence. He resisted all efforts to get him down and finally they resorted to shots which brought down a possum but a coon. As an aftermath of the battle was an argument between Al and Ann as to which one could use the story for their English assignment Monday...

ON A WEEK END DEER HUNT at the South Carolina Hunt Club, the men, stalwart and keen of eye, must have been a bit crestfallen when youthful Si Waters, leaning on his crutch at his stand, made the only kill of the day.

OBSERVED SUNDAY afternoon while riding: B. V. Collins, the fisherman, as he was casting expertly with his rod and reel, and instead of a limpid stream, his aim was directed to the newly paved Grady street. Nearby watching grandpa was Bobby Bland, who may have been taking lessons in angling for the finny tribe. Cora Williams saw B. V. with rod and reel apparently fishing on the street and remarked to him: "I don't know whether to tell you 'THEM' or not..."

Saw Margaret Hodges going from the car, to her house, carefully holding a snowy white cake. I was about to give Grand-ma Lottie credit for it, but instead, it was Great-grandma Maggie Fletcher who had baked the lovely cake for Rusty, who celebrated his birthday Monday afternoon...

Fun at The Fair

The County Fair was in town last week and, since I hadn't had my annual cotton candy or played bingo with corn kernels, I took time out for an evening of carefree frolicking. Incidentally, the frolicking was about the only thing that was free.

The hall park was crowded Wednesday night and we had to park our jeep way out in the middle of nowhere. Carnival music was blaring forth, barkers were shouting at passersby, and floodlights cut the night blackness as people wandered from booth to booth with excited and wide-eyed children.

The aroma of onions from a concession drew us like magnets, so we ordered two weenies, all-the-way. (Why is it that hot dogs and hamburgers taste so much better out in the open than you can fix at home?) We were just polishing them off when we met Margaret and Bob West who were fresh out of the motorcycle show where daring riders chilled and thrilled spectators who watched them speed around the vertical walls of the enclosure.

Margaret was ready for the bingo table—she felt lucky after having won two cakes at the High School Halloween Carnival the night before.

We ambled over to the exhibits where Merville Kemmer and Mrs. Alton Brammen were dishing out cake, dogs and hamburgers with speed and skill. El stopped for a hamburger and we chatted with the ladies and Cecil before looking at the exhibits.

The first prize ribbon was resting on Silson's display and a tiny toy tractor, mechanically rigged up was running around in a circular patch of dirt. Juicy red watermelon perched among the vegetable section. (Some resourceful person must have saved it in a freezer specially for the fair.) Second prize went to West Side Community and their exhibit was full of colorful canned vegetables banked with fresh flowers against pine boughs.

Leefield had a song book that was over 100 years old and Nevils' exhibit looked like Thanksgiving with its tray of autumn fruits, vegetables and pumpkins. Warnock displayed beautiful canned goods—red tomatoes, green beans, yellow squash and white pears, and Ogeechee River Community featured Ogeechee River fish in a small aquarium and the most luscious-looking divinity candy.

I've never seen more beautiful handwork—everything from aprons and dresses to quilts and spreads. Bulloch County is just full of industrious folks.

We talked for a few minutes to Mr. and Mrs. Homer Cason who used to live in Ellis' home town. Little Linda Fay Cason and Linda Fay Ellis came running in breathless and starry-eyed from their rides on the merry-go-round. Everyone was having fun.

Back on the midway, we saw Kathryn and W. P. Waters. Allan Lott of the Herald was nonchalantly talking to three cute girls with pinks that resembled acorns and Hudson Wilson's son (the one that works at Everett Motor Co.) was there. I even saw some Greyhound Bus drivers! Aldred Bros. Grocery was well represented by Bobbie and I. S. Aldred.

Eugenia and Lee Chapman had brought Tommy Griffin with them in their station wagon, and Tommy was so proud of a can opener he had won. I remember hearing Grace Griffin say that she couldn't cook without her can opener and if there was no other way to obtain one, she'd trade in her silver and crystal to get one, so I know she was pleased—even if it didn't cut!

It was so much fun to watch the children. Little Cle Hugins had on an atomic beanie—a little black thing with miniature propellers which spun on her head as she spun around on the whip. Her out in the air—Bingo! The woman who called the numbers calmly announced to other players: "Hold your cards, felt better if we had walked off this player could be wrong!" It with a new car.

Terrified screams and shrieks drew us to a contraption which took its riders high in the air—over and over—it should have been breathtaking, but Betty Ann Sherman and Ann Waters managed to emit long shrill cries the whole time they were in the cockpit seats.

Colored exhibits were just as attractive and mouth-watering as the others we had seen. Pope's Community (first place) featured woven mats and trays of pine straw and raffia, and a pumpkin face grinned out at you from one corner. Willow Hill got second place and El and I stood there studying the tobacco pods—the first we had ever seen.

St. Paul boasted a pepper plant with pods that resembled acorns and New Hope had a garden under glass filled with fern and geranium. Brooklet's exhibit contained bales of peanuts and pots of fern. New Sandridge had handmade articles ranging from infant booties to adult bedroom slippers.

We chose an aluminum double-boiler (I had thrown mine away after burning rice in it the day before) and headed home. El figured that our prize had cost us over $3.00, but I couldn't have felt better if we had walked off this player could be wrong!" It with a new car.

Birthdays Celebrated At Sue's Kindergarten

On Monday afternoon Rusty Hodges, young son of Mr. and Mrs. Gene L. Hodges, swelled with importance as his mother handed out packages of chewing gum to his playmates at Sue's Kindergarten.

On Tuesday afternoon, at Sue's Kindergarten, little Diane Lewis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Lewis, celebrated her fifth birthday. German Girls Say It's Wonderful
"It's wonderful!" That's the answer they gave to the question, "What do you think of America?" Monday morning of this week Statesboro school children heard what it's like to live in Germany today. Cornelia Graber and Ellen Schmidt, two young German girls, were guests of the Statesboro school at the regular chapel program. They were with Dr. Guy Wells, president of GSCW, Milfordville, where the two girls are students under a Rotary foreign student education plan.

The girls were presented by Dr. Wells, who related some of his experiences while in Germany, studying the educational system. Miss Schmidt stated simply in her talk that "Dreams do come true." She told of the conditions which existed in Germany in 1933 when Hitler came to power. "We were children then, and the youth knew only dictatorship and fear. We saw our parents cheer Hitler, the teachers damn the Jews. You can't imagine the disappointment and disillusion when Germany was conquered," she said.

Living in the Western sector of Germany, she confessed that "I wouldn't like to live in Eastern (Soviet-controlled) Germany, a dictatorship, one might say, organization for everything. . . it is now as it has ever been."

She stated that in Germany they are trying to strengthen and build up a good, decent government.

Miss Graber, who taught in a school in the Russian zone but lived in the American-British zone, related the difficulties she had with the money. Paid in Russian currency, she could not take it across the border with her in returning to her home.

She described the desperate circumstances under which she had to teach. She described her pupils as going without shoes, decent clothing, with no copybooks, no pencils, no chalk. "And the boys so keen to learn," she stated.

She told of the distorted accounts of life in America as told by the Russians in the newspapers, magazines and movies.

The two German girls were given a tremendous ovation by the school students.

They left here to go to Savannah, where they talked to the Savannah Rotary Club Monday noon.

Holsom Wins "Best Bread" Award
According to an announcement of last week by Mr. E. J. Derst, president of the Holsom Bakery, Savannah, Holsom bread has been awarded the Quality Bakers of America "Best Bread" trophy.

The award was made after the judging of nearly 90 fine breads baked by members of Quality Bakers of America. The judging was made on ten quality counts, including flavor, texture, freshness, and appearance.

"And our Holsom loaf came out on top for August," said Mr. Derst. "Tender-textured, yet exclusive baking ingredients, gave our loaf the fine soft texture and oven-fresh flavor which was rated finest by the judges."

In a survey made in June of 1947, it was found that 85.4 percent of all Savannah shoppers preferred Holsom bread," Mr. Derst continued. "And in some towns in South Carolina and Georgia the preference for Holsom went as high as 90 percent."

He explained that for the next two weeks shoppers in Bulloch County will find a beautiful yellow band with a big orchid printed on it with the slogan, "An orchid to the Ladies Who Serve Holsom Bread—All 85.4 Percent of You."

The trophy is a handsome silver column.

In exhibiting the trophy, the bakery president pledged that "our prize-winning Holsom bread will be even finer during the days ahead."

The bakery is now constructing a new building in Savannah which, when completed, will be one of the finest in the country.

Nothing 'Rotten' In 'Our' Denmark

"Something's rotten in Denmark." Maybe so, in Denmark in Europe. But not so in the Denmark community, Bulloch County.

It began two years ago when people in that community had to drive 12 to 15 miles to the freezer plant in Statesboro if they wished to preserve their home-slaughtered meats.

J. M. Creasy decided something could be done about it. Looking about over the state, he saw other communities with freezer locker plants in which to keep their meats and vegetables and fruits.

He went to work and in short order the Denmark community had a freezer locker plant.

In addition to the locker plant, there is a meat curing section. And if there is not enough to do about the farm, the house, the meat-curing plant, the Creasys operate a country store along modern lines with electrical appliances and all.

Emeral Lanier Wins Denmark Corn Growing Contest for 1948

Emeral Lanier was the best corn grower in the Denmark community this year, according to a report made by the Farm Bureau committee which checked the yields of those entered in the community contest.

Mr. Lanier averaged some 60 bushels per acre on his demonstration plot. Carroll Miller and J. L. Lane were close seconds.

Rotarians Hear Russian History

Statesboro Rotarians heard a definition of "Communism" Monday when Mrs. Maude Edge talked to the club on "Russia."

"Communism is a religion, based on love of state, and not on the love of God," she said. "Communism does not believe in God or a future life, nor in individual rights. Promises mean nothing. Lying is honorable. Communism is the plan of a ruffian gang to make themselves lords of a new feudal system."

Mrs. Edge traced the history of the Russians, beginning with the original Slavs along the Baltic, their migrations from Asia, the peasants' rebellion in the 17th century, the advent of Karl Marx, the rise of Bolshevism and the 20 years of world ostracism, and the events leading up to and including World War II.

In describing Stalin, Mrs. Edge said: "Hitler was nothing compared to Stalin. Hitler lacked the gift of silence. Stalin has that cunning that a clerical, churchly education gives. . . for Stalin was educated for the priesthood. Where Hitler covered only Europe, Stalin wants all Europe and all Asia. Say what we please, he commands our destinies."

Mrs. Edge pointed out the aims of the Communists: a strong Red army, a protective belt of satellites; and the weakening and division of western democracies.

"Russia is a land where slaves are trying to grow up. Power has gone to the masses of a few. Communism is in the souls of these people," Mrs. Edge said.

In her concluding statements, Mrs. Edge contends we are on the right course now. "The Truman Doctrine," which was Roosevelt's—helping free people to remain free. Showing the world we have something so much better. Proving that capitalism can do the economic job of achieving stability, providing steady employment, creating opportunities and increasing the welfare of all people."

"Let us all be missionaries of democracy and peace," she concluded.

Vocational Home Makers Meet

Pieces of string, bunches of pine straw, old apples boxes, corn shucks, tin cans, acorns, seeds, rags, jar rubbers—all are just so much putty in the hands of Vocational Homemakers instructors and Home Economics instructors in Bulloch and neighboring counties.

Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of this week Homemaking teachers of Bulloch County, ECI, Oak Park and Summerton met at the Laboratory School at the Teachers College to observe demonstrations and an exhibit of Mrs. Lucille McGeehe, of the Vocational State Department of Education.

The exhibits included works in crafts by students to illustrate what they can do and are doing.

Miniature dolls made from corn shucks attracted the most "oh's" and "ah's" from the group. Scavenges, colored by a special method of applying coloring crayons, towels from flour sacks, necklaces from beechnuts and seeds and tiny sea shells, earrings made from buttons, bounciers from acorns and tiny pine cones were shown.

Jewel boxes covered with beaten copper foil, rags transformed into pot holders, old plate mats, fruit bags converted into efficient dishrags, penne into novelty forms, pine needles into whisk-brooms and bread trays.

Soft woods from old crates were transformed into many toys for the younger children.

In addition to the exhibit of Mrs. McGeehe, the Homemaking teachers could add many things made by their own pupils.

"Kids just like to make things with their hand, and it means something new for the bedroom, living room, for the dinner table; something to which they point with pride," Mrs. McGeehe said.
