Statesboro Junior Chamber Of Commerce

— WEEKLY NEWS REPORT —

The Statesboro Junior Chamber of Commerce held its regular meeting yesterday and heard Father Edward Smith of the local Catholic church tell about the displaced persons the Catholic Welfare organization has brought into this area under his guidance. Father Smith said the "DPS" had been well-received and he felt sure they would become very good members of the communities into which they were settled.

At the next Jaycee meeting, scheduled for July 20th at the Forest Heights Country Club, the executive director of the Savannah Chamber of Commerce, Cliff Davenport, will speak. President Buford Knight urges every member to be present. One of the main items of discussion will be the "Tobacco Festival" being tentatively planned for July 25th, the day preceding the opening of the tobacco market here. The local Jaycee organization is taking a strong interest in promoting it.

Prince Preston To Speak At Farm Bureau Meet

Rep. Prince Preston will be the principal speaker at a meeting of Farm Bureau chapters of the 18 counties in the First District to be held in Waynesboro on Tuesday, July 19, it was announced here today by I. P. Herrington, president of the Burke County Farm Bureau.

Red Cross To Begin Blood Bank Drive

Soon, Statesboro and Bulloch county will become active participants in the Red Cross National Blood Program under the auspices of the Bulloch County Red Cross Chapter, the Tri-County Medical Association and local civic organizations. Then the people in this community and area will receive the benefits of blood and its products through their physicians and hospitals, if and whenever they need them.

In this and other similar communities within the Savannah Blood Center region, a mobile unit, called the "bloodmobile," will make periodic visits during the year.

The visits are usually arranged by the program's coordinating committee, which consists of people from each participating Red Cross chapter. The bloodmobile, staffed with a physician, nurses, and a blood custodian brings with it the necessary technical equipment for the cooperating chapter's blood center. The local Red Cross sets up the center in a convenient, suitable location. The chapter's recruitment committee signs up donors ahead of time.

The blood donated is refrigerated immediately in special containers for shipment back to the region's blood laboratory. Distribution of the blood through the program is made on a regular scheduled basis. The estimated need for blood in the individual community is determined by that community's medical society and hospital authorities. Through arrangements made between the regional blood laboratory and the hospitals, or clinics, the blood is distributed back to the community, for medical use as prescribed by the physicians.

No one, neither the patient, the physician, nor the hospital pays for the blood itself, provided through this community blood program. To prevent any possible misunderstanding, however, the Red Cross points out that a patient is responsible for fees charged by his physician or hospital for administration of the blood or blood product, and for any service, such as typing and cross matching, which is necessary to insure safe transfusion.

We in Bulloch are indeed fortunate that the program is expanding to include our community. It is a program which will help safeguard the health of our people. This community project is worthy of, and will need, every individual's wholehearted support.

East Side Ladies Sponsor Square Dance

"The biggest square dance ever to be held in Statesboro" is the way the East Side Woman's Club describes the party they plan for next Thursday night, July 21.

While the dance is in progress there will be a watermelon cutting back of the Community Center building in the park.

There's an Emergency, He Says

FRIDAY NIGHT of last week Representatives A. S. Dodd Jr. and A. J. Trappnell boarded the Nancy Hanks at Dover.

They were going to Atlanta to consider the possibilities of a special session of the General Assembly.

At this writing (Monday morning) it had not been determined if the special session would be called.

Governor Talmadge in a series of public statements during the past three weeks has said that the state must raise immediately approximately $20,000,000 in the additional state funds to avert "tragedies" in the field of education, public welfare and public health.

He had said: "A definite, grave and severe crisis confronts Georgia's school system for the next school year and drastic cuts in teacher salaries or the number of teachers will have to be made unless emergency relief is forthcoming."

He says that there is an immediate need for a ten per cent increase in teachers' salaries, which will require $3,600,000 additional funds, and that more funds are needed by the various counties of the state for the purpose of financing the opening of the schools in September. He proposes an additional $5,000,000 for the equalization funds to be paid to the counties to be spent for pressing emergency needs pending the next regular session of the General Assembly.

Then there is the Welfare Department. He says: "Unless additional funds are provided for the Welfare Department immediately in order to comply with changes in Federal Social Security regulations, some 15,000 older Georgians now receiving old-age assistance will have to be removed from the rolls."

He disclosed that since 1946, Georgia's old-age assistance recipients have increased by 28,058 persons to a total of approximately 93,962, with 1,900 new applicants per month. He says, "The only answer to this grave emergency is the provision of additional funds for our old folks immediately."

Then there is Public Health. Governor Talmadge proposes to raise $1,000,000 additional funds to make full use of the facilities of Battery Hospital at Rome for the treatment of tuberculosis. He said that the state is now operating 1,400 beds at Battery, and could operate 2,100 beds as a maximum, if the funds were available.

And, "The time has come for Georgia to provide adequate medical treatment and care for the 10-

000 helpless patients at the Milledgeville State Hospital. A minimum emergency fund of $500,000 is necessary and is needed immediately. There can be no more delays." He added that "we must begin at once the formation of a new, definite, liberal and non-political reorganization plan for the entire hospital."

Seeking to meet these emergencies, the Governor is asking for a special session of the General Assembly.

And it looks like there will be a special session. And it looks like we are going to have our taxes raised, in spite of our Governor's pledge to raise no taxes without the approval of the people.

We agree with Governor Talmadge that there is the desperate need for money.

We're just wondering where the lightning will strike.

There is talk of increasing the gasoline tax two cents. There is talk of putting more taxes on tobacco, beer, and wine and liquor.

There is talk of other patchwork tax hiking. We can go along on the proposal to double the beer, wine, and liquor taxes. These items are hardly in the "necessity" class, although there are those who will differ with us on point.

But we do believe that the auto owner is already carrying more than his share of the tax load. For a long time the gasoline tax has been the major source of revenue in Georgia. Last fiscal year it brought in almost $40,000,000. Raising the gas tax from six to eight cents a gallon would make the car and truck owners carry an ever greater share of the State's tax load.

The gasoline tax is easy to collect and it builds up in a hurry.

As a matter of fact the gasoline tax is nothing but the sales tax about which there is always so much to do when the question is brought up. So, if we must have a sales tax, let's make it overall.

But you and we know that if the General Assembly meets in special session it will end with more patches on the already over-patched tax structure.

And until that time when the people of Georgia send to Atlanta an enlightened legislature, under the guidance of an enlightened governor, unimpaired of political obligations, we'll always have with us our present antiquated, limping, and unwieldy tax system.

But as the Governor says, "There's an emergency."

There's been an emergency in Georgia since we were old enough to remember.

"Georgia's Health," published by the State Department of Public Health, there is no justification for public alarm as to the safety of the milk supply from the standpoint of DDT contamination.

Since 1945, the State Health Department has participated in a home-spraying service using DDT residual spray in the homes twice yearly. In the past three years alone, over 100,000 homes have received this protective service involving more than a half-million occupants.

There has been no evidence of personal harm or discomfort either to the occupants of the homes sprayed or to the persons engaged in applying the insecticide.

The discovery of DDT has been a health boon to humanity. Public health authorities still consider it as effective as it was when the war began; the insecticide saved many lives, and believe that no unproven theory should be allowed to damage its usefulness.

DDT has never been considered an all-purpose miracle product by those experienced in its use. They realize that it requires good sanitation to accompany its use and that it must be applied properly. It is still deemed the most effective material known for fly control.

Before DDT went into service, it was studied, tested, and fully demonstrated by numerous Federal agencies responsible for determining if such material was safe according to Dr. F. C. Bishop, director of the U. S. Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine. Discussing the latest on DDT and substitutes before a meeting of farm paper editors recently, Dr. Bishop reported there was no single instance of a proven case of acute DDT poisoning where the product was used to control insects.

Dr. Bishop also reminds farmers that DDT is manufactured for the purpose of killing harmful insects and that they should use only the amount necessary to accomplish this. He recommends using DDT wisely at all times so there would be no chance of any chronic ill effects developing.

State health authorities believe efforts should be made to avoid further damage to the reputation of DDT, a product which has been of such marvelous health aid to mankind. When a better product is discovered, those specializing in the use of insecticides as a health measure will be happy to receive it.

In the meantime, check with your health department or your county agent before you believe unfounded rumors concerning DDT.

When you look at the world in a narrow way, how narrow it seems! When you look at it in a mean way, how mean it is! When you look at it selfishly, how selfish it is! But when you look at it in a broad, generous, friendly spirit, what wonderful people you find in it.—Selected.

Hymn to a Summer's Day

The Editor's Uneasy Chair

Maybe you never think about of the retail tax. The present state gasoline tax

You just drive into your favorite filling station and say, "Gimme five," give the man a dollar and a half and get ten cents change—or if you are fancy you say, "Gimmie five, hi-test," and give the man ALL of your dollar and a half—and shove off.

But did you know that actually you did not pay your filling station man but a dollar and two and a half cents for your five gallons of gasoline. The other 37 1/2 cents was taxes—six cents Georgia gasoline tax, and 1 1/2 cents federal tax.

Before you trade in your present car—if you have determined that it has passed its useful life—you will have paid $150 in gasoline taxes to your "Uncle Sam" and "Uncle George."

All of you and us, put together, are now paying more than $45,000,000 a year in state and federal gasoline taxes—more than $60 per registered vehicle.

People say they are against a sales tax, but when buying gasoline in Georgia, automobile users are paying the highest sales tax there is—about 37 per cent. The highest general sales tax in the United States is three per cent.

ALL'S FAIR

VISITORS TO New York City enjoy fun-packed week — Jessie Averitt, Edna Neville, and Charlie Smith saw all the sights and heard all the news. They were in the city for a big tree on the lawn. Playing hide-and-seek with Martha and Cynthia, Mary Emmie, Joseph Reeves, Dixon Reeves, and Little Nancy Dixon. Joseph and Dixon are here with their mother, who is attending summer school. Nancy Dixon is the daughter of the former Mrs. B. V. Collins. They lived in Statesboro before moving to Claxton.

When HAL WATERS had a long given up playing hide-and-seek and "Kitty Wants a Corner" — and "There Ain't No Boogie Man Out Tonight," but they entered heartily into the games for Martha's sake.

ANOTHER GROUP of girls are hanging their clothes on a hickory limb every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, and they do undoubtedly go near the water out at the swimming pool. No matter how effective one-sided proposition, an objective of our research may be, no matter to be attained by a comparatively health, our most strenuous efforts how many hospitals we erect, no small group of health workers shall fall far short of their matter how many doctors and then placed at the disposal mark—Basil O'Connor, President, nurses we train, no matter how of the public at large. WHOSE GRADEN?

After one of my visits with Mrs. Marvin Pittman, I got in the car and started down the winding road which leads to the highway. On the lower level, I saw the Doctor working with a hoe among some flowers and stopped for a short chat.

Dr. Marvin told me that the plot of flowers was a grammatical garden. I looked at the blooms with something of a blank expression on my face, so he hastened to explain.

"When the flowers are bursting with lovely blooms and guests exclaim over their beauty, my wife refers to it as 'MY garden'—or if she feels a little generous, 'OUR garden'—BUT if it is over-run with weeds—if the stems are dried and yellow from lack of water, it's 'HIS garden.'"

I laughed with Dr. Pittman about it, because I knew he was joking, but he spoke a well-known truth. There are grammatical gardens, grammatical children, or grammatical in-laws in practically every home.

The children are most widely known. It's amazing how many relatives will claim a freshly scrubbed two-year-old girl wearing a ruffled pinafore and a small, BUT let that child cry, pull over a lamp, write on the wall, or spill bath powder on the rug, and she's nobody's darling but Mamma's.

My brother and I learned to swim because a man offered 50 cents to the one who did it first. Interested adults held us by our suit straps while we paddled and we virtually drowned trying to make it across under our own steam. John and I learned at the same time and it was necessary to clear the pool and have a race (three times across) to determine the winner. The man declared it was a tie and gave us each 50 cents.

Now, we could stay up on top of the water, but we had no speed or style and splashed other swimmers who got into range, so Mother mentioned swimming lessons.

Daddy could see no reason to ride eight miles every day to Barker Springs for swimming lessons when we could already swim. So Birdie signed us up and said no more. We took our lessons and learned the flutter-kick, side stroke, crawl, back and breast stroke. The man who gave us the 50-cent pieces noticed the improvements and his amazement brought a confession from Birdie. Daddy still was not convinced that those lessons were such a hot idea.

But, in later years, if anyone commented on John's fast crawl or my side stroke, Daddy would tell about the race and said, "I decided to give Birdie lessons to improve their style."

We all enjoy being related to the person or thing in favor. Folks are funny—but human.

We learned, after numerous inquiries, that Fitzgerald's flash is a third or fourth cousin, but do you think for one minute we'd have hunted a connection with a bank robber or a chicken thief?

As long as we're not inconvenienced in any way, we try to

"Fraternity in Action"

Busy Season for "Big Brothers"

Youth is our nation's most important asset for the future. That's why "Big Brother" Woodmen are especially interested in their character development and preparation for useful careers.

"Big Brothers" are extra busy this summer directing wholesome social and recreational programs for Boys of Woodcraft units of their local Woodmen Camps. They invite boys, 8 to 16 years old, to share in these character-building B. O. W. activities.

Ask a "Big Brother" Woodman or your local Woodmen representative to explain the benefits your son will receive by becoming a member of Boys of Woodcraft.

ANNE WATERS ENTERTAINS WITH OUTDOOR SUPPER

The lovely lawn at the Loy Waters' home really takes a beating and could very well have this sign on the grass: "Your Feet Are Killing Me!" But the folks who enjoy the lawn are not trespas, but invited guests. On Monday evening Miss Anne Waters entertained with an outdoor supper—and what a delicious one! Baked ham, potato salad, sliced tomatoes, pickles, olives, carrot sticks, hot rolls, pineapple sandwiches, sherbert, cookies, and iced tea.

Anne's guests were her date, Daniel Blitch, Patsy Odum and Emory Nesmith, Agnes Blitch and Billy Kennedy, Anne Remington and Earl Swicord, Anne Nevils and Harold DeLoach, Betty Anne Sherman and Jack Upchurch, Betty Smith and Billy Odom of Claxton, Barbara Ann Brannen and Edward Patterson, Sue Simmons and Tommy Powell, Anne Evans and Marvin Hughes of Jacksonville, Fla., and Gloria Odom of Summerville, a guest of Patsy Odum.

Mr. and Mrs. Cephas Gilbert and daughter, Sandra, have returned to their home in Miami after visiting Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Thayer.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Lanier, Mr. and Mrs. Don Brannen, and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Brannen are spending this week at Contentment. They were joined during the weekend by Mrs. Frank Richardson and daughter, Ajae.

Pete Waters and Tommy Perry of St. Mary's and Savannah have returned to their homes after visiting their aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Donaldson.

Pictures for Homes

Pictures should not be chosen just to fill empty walls but for their color, appeal and their relation to the room in which they are to be hung. Since their primary purpose is for decoration, by all means choose pictures with satisfying colors.

The amount of nutrients that escape into the liquid in cooking fresh vegetables varies considerably, but there is enough to be worth salvaging.

A combination of excess liquids from canned or fresh, cooked vegetables, seasoned to taste and chilled, makes a delicious summer vegetable cocktail.

FARM BUREAU

FB TO WAYNESBORO

Some 50 members of the Bulloch County Farm Bureau will go to Waynesboro Tuesday, July 19, for the district meeting. R. P. Mikell, local president, reports. Each of the community chapters will have delegations at the meeting. Mr. Mikell stated. Both men and women are to attend.

Talks by H. L. Wingate, state Farm Bureau president, and Congressman Prince H. Preston will be the highlights of this district meeting. Congressman Preston will fly down from Washington to attend the meeting. Mr. Mikell thinks this will be an excellent chance for all the districts in the county to learn first-hand the story on agricultural legislation that will be enacted this year and how it will affect local farmers starting January, 1950.

MIDDLE GROUND

Ogechee river trout, red breast and jack were featured at the annual ladies night for Middle Ground Farm Bureau Thursday. Such a feast is getting to be a habit for Middle Ground. Last year they served some 428 pounds of fresh-water fish that the members caught, and this year they had about half that amount for the same 200 present.

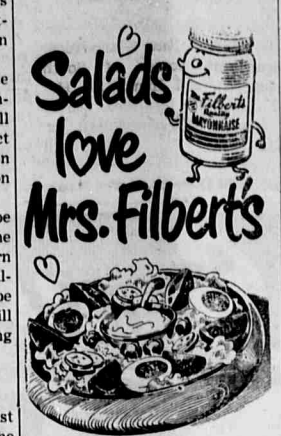

The ladies added the pies to the supper again this year.

John H. Oliff, local president, asked for a vote from the ladies on whether they would like for the men to try such an event again next year or not, and they requested that such meetings be held more often than that. Some of them asked for two a year and others thought they should make it four a year.

J. E. Deal, L. Herbert Deal, J. I. Smith, and the others that did the fishing thought perhaps about once a year was often enough. Mr. Oliff pointed out that they liked to fish but not under such pressure.

Middle Ground is one of the two communities that the ladies are not members of the Farm Bureau and meet with the men, but they have an excellent home demonstration club and invite the men to meet with them just before Christmas.

Five thousand, three hundred and thirty-nine cans of fruits and vegetables preserved since May 17.

No, this isn't in preparation for an especially lean winter, nor are the canners planning to feed the starving Europeans. Thrifty families of Register community are just following their customary procedure of preserving their summer garden produce in the Register canning plant.

In the nine weeks since the plant has been in operation this season, 84 families have used its facilities. Such products as tomatoes, corn, beans, peas, and soup have been put up for use during the cold months.

The canning plant's four steam-jacketed kettles, three power-electric sealers, and other modern equipment are capable of canning approximately 2,000 cans in a half-day.

Under the direction of the Register department of agriculture, the canning plant is operated by Mr. O. E. Gay, Vocational Agriculture teacher; Mr. L. C. Boddiford, instructor; and Miss Eunice Hudson, Home Economics teacher. The plant is open for use on Tuesday and Friday afternoons from 1 to 5 p.m.

Golden Leaf Starts Trek To State's Largest Mart

Just like the proverbial little pig, hundreds of pounds of bright golden tobacco from over southeastern Georgia began their trek to market today. All of Statesboro's warehouses began receiving the leaf early this morning and first reports indicate it is coming into the warehouses in a steady stream.

County Agent Byron Dyer said yesterday that this is one year when the county's growers are ready for the market opening, which comes next Tuesday, July 26. Mr. Dyer said practically all of Bulloch's 4,600 acres will be harvested by Saturday night.

Statesboro's three warehouse owners, Sheppard, Cobb and Foxhall, and the New Statesboro, report they are ready for the sales to begin on opening day. As has been the case for the past several years, Statesboro will operate with two sets of buyers.

One local warehouseman, H. P. Foxhall, said he believes the late market opening, combined with the early growing season, will give growers a definite advantage. He said growers can pack lots of green out of their tobacco this year by packing the leaf in a dark, dry place and covering it well to keep air and light out. Some of the crop will have been in the pack houses for almost two months by opening day.

Mr. Foxhall says he does not see any need to rush the crop to market. He believes orderly marketing will pay the growers. The government stabilization program will be in effect again this season and will prevent any material drop in price below support levels.

The president of the Statesboro Chamber of Commerce, Walter Aldred, said this week that Statesboro businessmen are going "all out" to induce farmers to market their crop on the local market. He said that local merchants have worked for many years to bring the Statesboro market up to what it is today. This year a $1,000 advertising fund has been established by the Chamber of Commerce and the warehousemen to promote sales.

Officials hope the local market will sell even more pounds than it did in 1948 when it led the state with 12,606,434 pounds at an average price of $46.98 per hundred.

The local market first opened back in 1928—21 years ago—and sold 2,306,288 pounds at an average price of only $10.76 per hundred. The banner year, to date, was in 1946 when the Statesboro market sold $14,458,456 pounds.

Last year's sales brought more than six million dollars into this area and most predictions for the 1949 season say the return this year should be just as high. County Agent Dyer says the crop this year was transported early, has had favorable growing weather, and has cured into what is generally called the best crop the county has ever grown.

At five o'clock Monday afternoon there will be a mammoth parade featuring all the young ladies who will take part in the beauty revue Monday night. The parade will originate on South Main and will move through the business district. Plants and other decorative features are being planned.

Out-of-town judges will select the winner of the beauty revue during an intermission performance. The local winner will win an all-expense-paid trip to Columbus, Ga., where she will participate in the "Miss Georgia" contest.

Miss Gwen West of Statesboro, Miss Georgia of 1948, is the crown of the winner Monday night. The event is designed to welcome the tobacco people to Statesboro and officially open the 1949 tobacco season. The winner will reign as the "Tobacco Queen of 1949" as well as "Miss Statesboro-Miss Bulloch County."

Ten Lovely Ladies Seek 'Miss Statesboro' Title

At least ten—and possibly more—Statesboro and Bulloch county young ladies will participate in the Jaycee-sponsored beauty revue Monday night. One of them will be chosen "Miss Statesboro-Miss Bulloch County."

President Buford Knight of the Junior Chamber of Commerce announced yesterday that final plans had been arranged for the combined dance and beauty revue to take place in the Statesboro High School gymnasium starting at 8 Monday night. Harry Applewhite and his orchestra will provide the music.

At five o'clock Monday afternoon there will be a mammoth parade featuring all the young ladies who will take part in the beauty revue Monday night. The parade will originate on South Main and will move through the business district. Plants and other decorative features are being planned.

Out-of-town judges will select the winner of the beauty revue during an intermission performance. The local winner will win an all-expense-paid trip to Columbus, Ga., where she will participate in the "Miss Georgia" contest.

Miss Gwen West of Statesboro, Miss Georgia of 1948, is the crown of the winner Monday night. The event is designed to welcome the tobacco people to Statesboro and officially open the 1949 tobacco season. The winner will reign as the "Tobacco Queen of 1949" as well as "Miss Statesboro-Miss Bulloch County."

No advance tickets are being sold but Mr. Knight said the Jaycee group expects a large turn-out here for the beauty revue.

Tobacco Growers to Vote On Controls Saturday

"Vote your own way, but by all means vote," was the final appeal made today to flue-cured tobacco growers of Bulloch county by M. L. Taylor, chairman of the County Agricultural Conservation Committee, in urging farmers to participate in the flue-cured tobacco referendum Saturday, July 23.

"Congress has made it possible for farmers to decide whether or not they want marketing quotas on flue-cured tobacco for 1950 and also for 1951 and 1952. It is up to us to go to the polls and state our preference. Marketing quotas furnish growers with a method of adjusting supply to demand and can help secure fair prices for the tobacco they produce," he said.

If quotas are approved, individual farm acreage allotments for 1950 will be about the same as the 1949 allotment for any farm which has produced up to 75 per cent of its allotted acreage in any one of the past three years. There will be a small acreage adjustment of old farm allotments and for establishing allotments on farms on which no tobacco has been grown in the past five years.

If the supply and demand situation warrants, the Secretary of Agriculture can increase allotments any time up to March 1. Every person who has an interest in the 1949 crop of flue-cured tobacco as owner, tenant, or share cropper is entitled to vote in the referendum but no person is entitled to more than one vote even though he produces tobacco in two or more communities, counties, or states.

Mr. Taylor said, "I believe it is up to us to show our interest in going to the polls and voting one way or the other. This is the democratic way of deciding this important issue, and I urge that every flue-cured tobacco grower in the county go to his community voting place on Saturday, July 23, and vote in this referendum."

Polls will be open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the following regular voting places: 44th—community club house; 45th—courthouse; 46th—courthouse; 47th—school house; 48th—school house; 129th—courthouse; 134th—courthouse; 152nd—courthouse; 154th—courthouse; 157th—courthouse; 176th—courthouse; 183rd—courthouse.

In a statement yesterday concerning the tobacco referendum, H. P. Foxhall, R. E. Sheppard and Cecil Wooten, local tobacco warehousemen, urged every tobacco grower to vote for the program. They said failure to carry this referendum will mean uncontrolled production with resulting low prices and the loss of the government "floor" price.

Promotion Plans Set for U. S. 301

A big promotion campaign to publicize highway 301 is being developed. John G. Thomas, secretary of the Tobacco Trail Association, the highway's organizational group, conferred this week with Alfred Dorman, president of the association. Mr. Dorman studied plans for a new advertising and promotion campaign and gave approval to the idea.

Mr. Thomas was accompanied to Statesboro by Joe McCuller, secretary of the Dunn, N. C. Chamber of Commerce. The two men left Statesboro to visit all towns on 301 as far south as Tampa.

The next meeting of the Tobacco Trail Association will take place in Jessup August 11. Those attending will be guests of the Jessup Chamber of Commerce at a luncheon.

Mr. Smith was also named to the executive committee of this group. The group held a state-wide meeting in Albany recently and worked out a proposal to submit to CCC and will hold a series of district meetings in early August.

STATESBORO MERCHANTS will remain open on Wednesday afternoons, starting next Wednesday, July 27. They will remain open on Wednesdays all through tobacco season but will begin observing the half-holiday at the close of the season.

MR. SIDNEY R. DEAL, Statesboro soldier now working with the 24th Division Artillery on Kyushu, Japan, was one of 34 privates first class to qualify for promotion by graduating from the 24th Division Officers Academy here recently. Private Deal is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Eugene Deal, Route 4. He won the honor because of his excellent appearance, soldierly bearing and military proficiency, the school commandant stated.
