Bulloch FB To Send Delegation To FB Convention

Bulloch county will be well represented at the National Farm Bureau convention which will be held in Dallas from December 8 to 15, if present plans work out.

The National Farm Bureau convention will be held in Dallas from December 10 to 14. Some 30 persons from the Bulloch chapter of the Farm Bureau plan to be on hand for the meeting.

The local group will leave December 8. They will join other in Atlanta that afternoon. There will be a 13-hour break in the trip for a tour and visit in New Orleans on Saturday, December 9. The next four days will be spent in Dallas and Fort Worth. The group will return by way of Memphis.

Hotel rooms have been reserved for around 50 from the county. R. P. Mikell, county Farm Bureau president, is hoping all rooms will be filled. C. M. Cowart, county secretary, stated most of the time this fall has been spent renewing memberships and very little has been said concerning the state and national conventions. He reported that Bulloch county led at the state convention, against this year with 1,862 members, but said he expected this to reach 2,500 by November 25. However, memberships can be reported as late as November 29.

Some of those indicating a desire to attend the national convention in Dallas are Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Mikell, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Wyatt, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Delmas Rushing, Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Bowen, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Rushing, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Zettertower, Miss and Mrs. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Iverson Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. C. Lee, Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Brunson, Mr. and Mrs. Otis Holloway, Mr. and Mrs. Doy Atkins and Miss Faye and Shirley Atkins, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Kennedy, E. L. Anderson, and B. Dean.

Mr. Mikell expects other reservations within the next few days.

2 "Keep Georgia Green" Signs Up

Two attractive signs to encourage the prevention of forest fires were erected in Bulloch county on November 15. John Spence, chairman of the Bulloch County "Keep Georgia Green" Committee, announced.

The signs were placed in Bulloch county by the Georgia Forestry Association in cooperation with the Georgia Forestry Commission, represented by J. W. Roberts, Bulloch county Forest Ranger, and the following civic clubs: Rotary Club, Lions Club, Chamber of Commerce, Junior Chamber of Commerce, all of Statesboro; and the Kiwanis Club of Brooklet.

Members of the "Keep Georgia Green" committee from their respective clubs are: Jake Smith, Rotary Club; S. M. Wall, Lions Club; Byron G. Givens, Chamber of Commerce; Bill Peck, Jaycees; and H. Smith Sr. of Brooklet Kiwanis.

A total of 319 metal signs are scheduled to dot the highways of Georgia. Two signs for each county, serving as a constant reminder to all Georgians and visitors that an organized effort is underway to prevent costly wood fire losses.

Hugh W. Dobbie, of Atlanta, a Georgia Power Company official and president of the Georgia Forestry Association, reports the sign project is being made possible through the cooperation of Governor Talmadge, R. H. White Jr., of Atlanta, and the Georgia Forestry Commission. He expressed thanks to the Bulloch county civic and business leaders for their cooperation.

Two Dollars Was Not To Pay Fine

EVERY WEEK there is evidence that Statesboro is a desirable community in which to live.

Often we are critical of our city fathers, our city police, but they always accept it in the spirit in which we are critical — striving toward community progress.

Comes now a short story in which our city police and its policy toward tourists plays a heavy part.

Mr. Ormone Minton, district manager of the Prudential Insurance Company of America, of 26 New Market street, Poughkeepsie, New York, was in Statesboro last Thursday morning. He was having breakfast in one of the restaurants on North Main street. While there his parking meter time ran out, and when Chief of Police Henry Anderson came by he noticed the "violation" flag up.

Chief Anderson put a card under the windshield wiper of Mr. Minton's car.

When the visitor came out of the restaurant he found the card and read:

"Hello, Stranger! Statesboro Welcomes You. City of Statesboro Police Department."

Then followed:

"To the driver of this vehicle—Let's get acquainted with our parking regulations. You have violated a city ordinance by parking overtime on meter . . . This violation was probably because you did not know our traffic laws. We have no desire to penalize you for this violation, but hope in the future that you will observe our ordinances. Help us keep traffic moving and enjoy your stay in Statesboro."

When Mr. Minton finished reading this message he sought out Chief Anderson. He complimented Statesboro upon its courtesy to him as a tourist. He said that he did not usually find such consideration in his travels.

He then did a fine thing . . . though small.

He gave the Chief two dollars and told him to see that it found its way into the hands of someone who would put the money to use for the youth of this community.

He did not feel that he was paying a fine.

He simply wanted to express his appreciation for the courtesy extended him by the City of Statesboro through its police department.

This man will pass the word along to the effect that Statesboro is a fine community. That it's on U.S. 301, and is one of the communities that makes 301 a desirable route to use.

We say "Thanks" to Mr. Minton. We believe that our community appreciates the attitude you manifested during your short visit. Come again!

ward overcoming this serious crime, for if one drunken fool is driving an automobile, the life and safety of everyone else on the streets in the vicinity are in jeopardy. It is to be hoped that other judges will take an equally realistic view of such crimes. If, for example, a drunken driver only causes injury, not death, he should be tried for assault with intent to murder rather than merely fined in Police Court.

If police are lucky enough to arrest a reckless driver before he kills or injures, the courts should deal with him as a potential murderer who was stopped before he had a chance to complete the crime, and he should be dealt with accordingly.

Again, a $50 or $100 fine would hardly seem appropriate if any real progress is to be made in improving the situation.

The public must be made to realize that if a person drives a car while intoxicated he is committing a crime for which, if apprehended, he will be treated like a criminal and punished severely. Then, and only then, will we experience a marked reduction in traffic accidents from this cause. Judge Atkinson has taken an important stride forward in this direction.

Savannah Morning News.

No Finer Evidence

HIS BOY plays on the Midget football team and he is proud of them.

They have been living here about two years and are now confronted with the problem of moving back to the East from where they came.

But they don't want to.

And they may make up their minds to continue making their home here.

And one of the principal reasons for their wanting to live here is the part the city recreation program plays in the life of that thirteen-year-old boy who is right now playing football on the Midget team.

In the spring and summer that kid plays baseball. In the fall he plays football. In the winter it's basketball.

And there is the Knot Hole Club.

And the boy wants it all.

And his parents know where he is in the afternoons.

They know their son is in good care, playing under understanding supervision.

And they don't want to take him back East.

For the newspapers of their former home tell of the youth without proper recreation facilities, getting into trouble

—there was the group that took a school bus on Halloween and placed it on a railroad track to be hit by a train . . . the youth who specialize in shooting out windows with BB guns.

This boy's father and mother don't want to move back to their old surroundings.

"We want to stay here, where our boy can grow up in surroundings such as he is now enjoying."

AND SO Statesboro won third place in the Champion Home Town Contest—which means that Statesboro placed third in the progress made from October 1, 1949, to October 1, 1950, in cities in the 5,000 to 10,000 population group.

But we'll bet a plugged nickel the judges did not see the four privies and three chicken houses backed up against the Blue Devil Band building, next to the Statesboro High School gymnasium.

When we see that band at our football games or in parades, beautiful in their blue and white uniforms, playing, strutting, and going through intricate formations, we swell with pride — our band, we say.

But we are not very considerate of the health of these youths . . . "Oh, yes we are," you say in protest.

Oh yeah?

Here's hoping on Thanksgiving Day that every one in town had something to praise God for—not mere physical comforts—a turkey golden brown . . .

We have better wishes for far for you who have dear ones away from home.

May God give you the assurance that he watches o'er that one, too; he does not fight or die alone.

For you there's a precious memory, a faith that sees beyond the years.

When all the glory of heaven will banish forever your tears. No matter what burden you carry, some day it will be cast aside.

Away from false gods and confusion, you in peace will abide. There's something wrong with this world, I hope you know what it is.

We should include God's people in all the world, for, after all, they're His.

OUR SHIRLEY steps out—in a style show at Warner Robins Air Base. A dress shop at the base, where the officers' wives and other lady employees at the base can shop. Miss Coudray, fashion teacher at Wesleyan Conservatory, directed the show and selected her models from the conservatory.

Among the eight, Shirley Tillman was the true brunette. Sitting in the audience was her mother, Mrs. E. Grant Tillman Sr. ("Cissie" to her friends). Sally Smith and Mamie Brannen. When asked for the most outstanding dress that Shirley modeled, Cissie described it as a white ermine cloche, was most becoming to Shirley. Next she appeared in a HOT ORANGE EVENING DRESS worn with silver evening sandals . . . and sequins scattered through her black hair made a dazzling picture for the spectators. The beautiful fashion show was staged at the officers' club.

STATESBORO, can and does, get solidly behind things that are worthwhile which reflect credit on the community. We refer to the Champion Home Town Contest, sponsored by Georgia Power Co. Every organization in the city had some small part in making the big prize ours—placing third is wonderful when you consider some of

We know of no higher compliment to its director, Max Lockwood, and his staff of volunteer helpers. It was the finest thing our city and its citizens ever did when they made possible our recreation program.

We hope that nothing ever jeopardizes its status.

We hope nothing ever develops to hinder its progress.

And it's a challenge to our citizens.

Let's let nothing happen to it!

Visit the building in which our Blue Devil Band rehearses. Visit the rooms in which members of the band practice. Visit the rooms in which the band instruments are stored.

Then walk around the building. There you see what we mean.

Three outdoor pit-type privies with their backs hardly ten feet from the west wall of the band building. Another about 25 feet from the band building. Three chicken houses about 15 feet from the band building. And only a wire fence between the band building and these privies and chicken houses.

Some of the screens are busted in the band building.

Warm days must make practicing on a big horn pretty rough.

Warm days must send flies seeking places and people upon which to light.

Oh yeah?

starting off at Wesleyan and, according to Hattie, she has a good start. The very first day of school, Glanda had as her teachers Patty Banks and Shirley Tillman, and she is rapidly responding to their instruction.

As ever, JANE.

Judge Arnold

Drunk Drivers in Atlanta are on notice from Recorder Luke Arnold that conviction in his traffic court will bring jail sentences without the option of paying a fine.

Atlanta streets should be safer for this decision if it is vigorously and impartially enforced. Detroit and other cities have demonstrated that such sternness is the only way to deal with potential murderers behind the wheels of automobiles.

Judge Arnold quite properly appeals for public support in the position he has taken. He is entitled to it.

The only question that arises in connection with Judge Arnold's announcement is why he limited it to the period between now and January 2, 1951. Are not lives as precious in January as they are during the Christmas season?

Stiff punishment for drunken and reckless driving must be a permanent policy; we are not in danger.—The Atlanta Journal.

Seven Breeds Cause Accidents

A WRITER, William Laas, has identified in the September issue of Coronet seven breeds of motorists who cause accidents:

1. Bumper Hugger—A faithful shadow who aims to drop in for a visit through your rear window. He feeds on insurance premiums.

2. Weaver — A pollywog-like creature who darts around and while playing. The brave little fellow wasn't lost. He was found near the stream that runs along his little niece, Glanda Powell, on his way home, for he was headed in that direction.

Hattie Powell tells this about her little niece, Glanda Powell, the four-year-old daughter of Albert and Virtie Powell of Macon, Ga. Glanda's parents were disturbed because she simply wouldn't talk. There wasn't a thing wrong with her speaking equipment, she merely knew sign language too well. Some girls from here finish their education at Wesleyan. Glanda is Not a very pretty suggestion. Yet it's a condition which exists and it is a menace to the health of our youth.

We suggest that the condition be investigated and cleaned up. We believe that if the band mothers think about it there'll be action.

We believe that if the city is aroused more would be done.

We can visualize the whole area cleaned up—wiped out—and made a part of the school property, developed into additional playground for the school youth.

Take time out and drive down there and see for yourself—and we believe you'll agree.

And Statesboro wins third place as the city of those between five and ten thousand population to have made the most progress in 1949-50.

Oh yeah?

Judge Arnold

Drunk Drivers in Atlanta are on notice from Recorder Luke Arnold that conviction in his traffic court will bring jail sentences without the option of paying a fine.

Atlanta streets should be safer for this decision if it is vigorously and impartially enforced. Detroit and other cities have demonstrated that such sternness is the only way to deal with potential murderers behind the wheels of automobiles.

Judge Arnold quite properly appeals for public support in the position he has taken. He is entitled to it.

The only question that arises in connection with Judge Arnold's announcement is why he limited it to the period between now and January 2, 1951. Are not lives as precious in January as they are during the Christmas season?

Stiff punishment for drunken and reckless driving must be a permanent policy; we are not in danger.—The Atlanta Journal.

I Want My Child To Be Different

By VIRGINIA RUSSELL

"I WANT My Child To Be Different," is the title of a little book written by Jean Libman Block in the October issue of Good Housekeeping.

The article touched a spot next to my heart. Mrs. Block tells of forbidding her child to chew bubble gum and of all the protests that followed. Let me quote her:

"The educator had stated it clearly. You'll ruin your child by making her different."

She goes on to say, "This line has been sold to us for some time now, in the fancy wrappings of personality adjustment, group identification, social acceptability. With proper respect for the honorable intentions behind the offering, I'm not buying any more. Although I'm a mere beginner in the pursuit of motherhood, I've had enough of this particular product."

Unlike Mrs. Block, I am not a beginner in the pursuit of motherhood, and for years I have felt that this piece of modern teaching was the greatest tommy-rot I've run across.

To begin with, every child is different, so why in heaven's name should we try to make him like the gang. Perhaps that is what has happened to America today—perhaps this very theory is why we are minus leadership.

I want my children to be law-abiding citizens. I don't care a tool whether the gang is driving before it's sixteen, I want my children to realize that laws are made for all people and that a certain class has no right to break the law while others are punished for the same.

I want my children to be religious. If the gang goes to church, that is wonderful, but whether or not the gang goes to church, I want my children to be church.

I want my children to be tolerant, understanding, kind, loving to everybody, not just to his group.

If dresses are stylish that show the navel, I'd like my daughter to wear an ordinary dress that brought out her girlish beauty, rather than one like everybody else is wearing.

I want my children to learn to accept responsibility and to fulfill certain requirements in the home. I can't help what the gang doesn't have to do.

I want my children to know that we will go to doctors' prison if necessary to keep them well or get them well, but that we can't "keep up with the Joneses."

I am not so stupid as to say that my children will be what I want them to be. They may be jalibids or the gang. I want my children to be what I want them to be, but that we can't "keep up with the Joneses."

I want my children to be what I want them to be, but that we can't "keep up with the Joneses."

I want my children to be what I want them to be, but that we can't "keep up with the Joneses."

Col. Albert Deal at 83 Has Operation; Is Fine

By MRS. ERNEST BRANNEN

We are concerned this week about a fellow townsman who was born long before many of you were born. He began the practice of law in Statesboro in 1895 and on July 16, 1901, married Analee Strickland, a lovely young woman, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Strickland, of Stillson, one of Bulloch county's most prominent families.

Now, we'll have no mystery about this, of course. You know we refer to Col. Albert Deal, whose parents lived about five miles from the Strickland family. Col. Deal served the county in the legislature in 1901-02, and went again to serve in the same capacity in 1935-36, along with Prince Preston, who was beginning a successful political career in our state.

We remember how Col. Deal and his mare, "Lady," made two of the delays in the Pony Express trip from the Savannah post office to the airport where mail was delivered. This was one of the most exciting events of the sesquicentennial of Bulloch county. Not many months ago, Col. Deal and "Lady" took a fall, frightened by an approaching car. "Lady" stepped in a hole and when she discovered that her rider couldn't get up, she stood beside him until help arrived. "Lady" had hard sense. The accident resulted in a brief stay in the hospital, but, as he explained to me one day, "I like to ride, and I believe I could continue to ride horseback, but my wife and children have asked me not to ride. I know they love me and I regard their advice."

Now, you are probably wondering why I am rehearsing all this about the Colonel whose individuality was evident in the way he kept his hair cut—his ideals, by his application, learning by reading constantly, and by his attendance at important lectures at the college. He further expressed his interest in education by donating to Georgia Teachers College acres of valuable property which, if he had kept, would have added greatly to his personal fortune.

After he became what we would term an old man he adopted a lad, to rear and educate. I can see him now at the Georgia Theatre with the boy, at a New Year's midnight show, with the horns blowing all around him and his long hair full of confetti.

Well, Thursday morning the Colonel went under the knife at the University Hospital in Augusta. Analee explained to me that he had looked so yellow, and jaundice was the trouble—and an operation became necessary. His children and his good wife were at hand on Wednesday afternoon. William and Mattie were over from LaGrange and had brought Patty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Deal of Pembroke; Stothard and Pearl Deal and Mrs. Poole Pickett were seated quietly in his room.

Col. Deal said to William, "Son, I wish you had brought your violin. I'd like to have you play some for me." William said, "No, Dad, I didn't bring it with me, but I'll go up town and see if I can get one." He came to a pawnshop and asked for violin, explaining to the pawnbroker that his father was to be operated on shortly at the hospital and wanted him to play for him. The man brought out a violin which William knew instantly was of poor workmanship. But he picked it up, and the gentlemen who waited on him had not heard many notes before he said, "Let me get you a better one." William played each one. Finally, the man came out from behind the counter and said, "Let's go to my home." Patricia went with William, and she said the man lived in a perfectly beautiful home. He brought out a valuable instrument—a Lambert violin—and presented it to William so he might play on a prized instrument. William said the only mutual contact they had with one another was that they both knew the late L. Seligman.

William, in the room again with the Colonel, played on the borrowed violin until drenched with perspiration. "Souvenir," "Traumati," and all the old favorites. The family gathered around found it difficult to control their emotions. Not so with the Colonel. He gave himself up to the loveless music there is—a mellow violin played by an inspired musician. At length he asked for "Jesus,

Willow Hill Chapter Host at First District Purebred Show

By JOHN W. LAWTON

Last Thursday, November 16, the Willow Hill chapter of the New Farmers of America served as host to the first district Purebred Hog Show, held in District II. Pens were constructed on the campus and entries from as far away as Sparta, Ga., vied for first prize. Competition was keen in each of the four classes shown and cheers were loud from the crowd of 300 students and farmers from Bulloch and adjoining counties as the judges awarded the ribbons.

The well developed and well trained entries from Willow Hill came close to stealing the show when they received three of the first place ribbons and all four of the second place red ribbons. The classes shown and the winners were as follows:

Mature Boars—First place, Luther Holloway, Candler County Training School, Metter, Ga.; second place, Cleveland Polk, Willow Hill, Bulloch county; third place, Leamon Moore, Brooklet Junior High.

Brood Sows—First place, Ernest Wiggins, Willow Hill; second place, Cleveland Polk, Willow Hill; third place, Leamon Moore, Brooklet Junior High.

At the last meeting of the Girl Scouts had loads of fun with a cookie contest. Each scout had cooked her own cookies, which were judged on taste and looks. Peggy Allen won the taste contest and Julianne Allen won the prize for the best looking cookies. The Girl Scouts will not meet this week, since their meeting would fall on Thanksgiving Day. At the next regular meeting the scouts will have a winter roast at Pat Brannen's pond, and the rule of the day will be "eat as much as you like."

The time would soon come, Prof. Tabor predicted, when all farmers must realize the value of livestock and produce quality livestock in order to compete in an open market. He cited the advantages that boys would gain through training and experience in growing purebred livestock, and how it would result in more comfortable homes, more productive farms, and better citizenship.

The time would soon come, Prof. Tabor predicted, when all farmers must realize the value of livestock and produce quality livestock in order to compete in an open market. He cited the advantages that boys would gain through training and experience in growing purebred livestock, and how it would result in more comfortable homes, more productive farms, and better citizenship.

T C Basketball Is Getting Better

Every year since Coach J. B. Seacore Jr. came down from Kentucky in 1947, the Georgia Teachers basketball team has been getting better.

Last year the Teachers led the National Association of Interscholastic Basketball in total offense and emerged second in game scoring with an average of 80 points. The record was 26 victories, two defeats. In 1949 it was 21-3, and in 1948, 18-5.

In the face of some doubt that they can do it, squad members are determined to maintain tradition. The Teachers have graduated Roger Parsons, team whip, to coaching duties at Elberton, and probably lost Captain Stanley Helton because of a kidney infection. But five lettermen are back, headed by the incomparable Billy Perkins, of Williamsburg, Ky.

Perkins, who averaged 21 points last year, and Frank Clements of Rhine make the club tall at double-pivot slots, and no height is lost when Jim Duncan of Worley, Ky., Helton's brother-in-law, alternates for either Ralph Parsons of Harlan, Ky., retains a guard position, with Clyde Little of Canton an improved reserve.

Competing for two remaining forward and guard positions are three arrivals from Kentucky: John Cartee of Olive Hill, and Ralph Cartee of Williamsburg are experienced players, and William Page of Bowling Green is a freshman of unusual finesse.

Also growing and learning are Freshmen Horace Belflower, Cochran guard, and Billy Oswald, center, of Jacksonville, Fla.

The squad has been practicing since October 13 for the opening game here with the Pelican Island Marines on Saturday, December 8.

Support Asked For Christmas Seals

Statesboro's Mayor, J. Gilbert Cone, this week asked all citizens to support the program of the Bulloch County Tuberculosis Commission by buying generously of the Christmas Seals which were mailed on Monday, November 20.

Stressing that "no home is safe while there is a single case of tuberculosis in the community," Mayor Cone joined other Bulloch county leaders in urging active support of this, the forty-fourth annual sale of Christmas Seals.

Mayor Cone reminded all citizens that the proceeds from the local sale finance in its entirety the "twelve months a year" program minute talks were made by E. B. Stubbs, P. S. Pruitt, Cameron Brenneke, Jack Wheeler, Ray McMichael, and Kermit R. Carr. L. H. Young, serving as toastmaster, presided over the program. Mr. Summerlin talked on "Rats" and Mr. Hackett talked on "This Thing Called Iron". M. O. Lawrence evaluated the meeting.

The next meeting will be on Monday, December 4 at 7:30 p. m. at the Jockey Hotel.

Kermit R. Carr is president.

THE BAND STAND

By ANN EVANS

Saturday was a special day, with a special due to take us to a special occasion, as the Blue Devil Band journeyed to Savannah to participate in the annual Christmas parade. This was sponsored by the Merchant Council of the Chamber of Commerce.

We were one of twelve bands in the parade which began in Park Extension and moved along Gwinnett street to West Broad, then north to Broughton street, and east on Broughton to East Broad.

In the band competition our band was awarded first prize, based on marching, majorettes, uniforms, and presentation of music.

Following the parade, we were guests of the Chamber of Commerce at a shore dinner on Isle of Hope, after which we attended a show of our choice.

The Thanksgiving football game here today will bring to a close our 1950 season. We have enjoyed providing half-time shows for all the Blue Devil games, both at home and away.

Statesboro Gets $500 For 3rd Place In Champ Home Town Contest

J. Gilbert Cone, mayor, accepted the award on behalf of the city. T. A. Gibson, vice president of the Georgia Power Company, presided at the Champion Home Town Dinner at the Forest Heights Country Club on Tuesday night of this week.

Following the dinner, Kermit R. Carr, general chairman of the local committee which prepared Statesboro's contest report, presented officials of the Georgia Power Company and other guests. From the Atlanta office of the company there were Frank Hood, of the community development division; Miss A. M. Gippert, and Bill Corley of the advertising department; Henry Setze, H. M. Yarborough, C. C. McCollum, of the Augusta division; Earl DeLoach, of the Augusta Herald; and Mr. and Mrs. Wade Durden of Graymont.

Local guests included members of the committee and civic leaders of Statesboro. Mr. Gibson told how the Champion Home Town Contest has grown from its inception in 1944 to the present. He stated that the key to the success of the program is the local initiative of the citizens in communities like Statesboro. "We only wanted to arouse community spirit, to inspire citizens to make an earnest appraisal of their progress and become aware of their deficiencies," he said.

Mr. Wardie, in presenting the awards, commended the citizens of Statesboro on the progress the city had made in 1949-50. "If people all over Georgia would work like you people we would have a better place in which to live," he said. "We have a selfish interest in this program. Mr. Wardie continued, 'for, if your economic level rises through the efforts you put forth, our economic level rises also.'"

In accepting the awards, Mayor Cone said, "This contest has done more in Georgia to inspire and promote progress than anything that has happened in the state. We appreciate it and are grateful."

A musical program was given by Sgt. Rudolph Jorgenson, U. S. Army, Camp Gordon, Augusta, accompanied by Mrs. E. L. Barnes.

Son Is Sworn Into Service By Father

A father, veteran of 32 years of Naval service, swore in his son as an Ensign, USNR, in Statesboro Sunday.

The father was Lieut. Cmdr. A. M. Gullidge, Medical Service Corps, USN, who is on duty at Sixth District Headquarters in Charleston, S. C. The son, Phil John Richard Gullidge, a World War II enlisted man. The ceremony took place at the Gullidge home, 8 Broad street.

"It was one of the proudest moments of my life," Lieut. Gullidge said.

Ensign Gullidge applied for his commission shortly after graduation last June from the University of Georgia. He previously had attended Georgia Teachers College in 1948-49 after having been discharged from the Naval service. The younger Gullidge entered the Navy in July, 1944, as an enlisted man and saw patrol craft service in Borneo, China, Korea, and Okinawa waters. He is entitled to wear the American Defense, China Service, and World War II victory medals. He is presently employed in Atlanta.

Lt. Cmdr. Gullidge enlisted in the Navy April 24, 1940, and was promoted to the rank of Ensign and then to the rank of Lieutenant Junior Grade.

The younger Gullidge was administered his oath in the presence of his mother and sister, Shirley, 18, a student at Georgia Teachers College. Friends who also witnessed the ceremony included Mr. and Mrs. D. P. Waters, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Parker, Mrs. Mattie Parker, Harold Waters, and Mooney Prosser, of Statesboro, and Jim Gross, of Waycross, Ga.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Olliff, the graduate's parents, and Lottie Mae Olliff, sister, were present at the ceremony.

Young Olliff was a member of the National Guard when it was disbanded. He lacked one unit in securing his diploma. Because the unit he was short was in health, school officials ruled that his service in the army would qualify him for the credit, so they took the proper action to qualify him for his diploma.

He is now with the 101st AAA Gun Battalion at Camp Stewart.

Christmas Cantata Be Presented at Methodist Church

"Glory to God," a Christmas cantata by Charles F. Gounod, will be presented at the Methodist Church Sunday evening, December 10, at 7:30 o'clock, under the direction of Mrs. Roger Holland. The public is invited to attend this service of Christmas music which will include a men's chorus, solos, duets, and a violin obligato.

Regular services at the Methodist Church will be held Sunday morning, with the pastor, the Rev. John S. Lough, preaching on "Broad Horizons" at the 11:30 a. m. worship hour.

The freeze touched every citizen in this section. Automobiles from up, cylinder blocks and heads cracked, radiators burst, tractors cracked, water pumps froze and were decommissioned, green stuff in gardens and ornamental shrubbery in yards turned black, grain crops lost.

Monday morning the Herald called filling stations, auto dealers, auto service garages, machine sales and service shops, tractor shops, and other businesses to get a picture of the damage to cars, trucks, tractors, and water pumps.

Several tractor dealers agree that as many as 75 percent of the tractors in the county have either cracked cylinder heads or blocks, or radiators. One dealer reports that more than 100 tractors in his shop, with scores of telephone calls from farmers asking about their machines. All the dealers are working overtime on them, as well as the help and equipment will allow. One man who specializes in diesel engines and tractors said he has 191 in his shop, and more than 300 more have been reported to him, and he said, "I haven't even got time to fix my own car."

To be specific, 398 tractors are in repair shops. 93 cars were reported by five auto dealers.

One machine shop reports 65 water pumps. An electric shop reports 100 water pumps.

Blue Devils Defeat ECI In Thanksgiving Game

The Statesboro High School Blue Devils closed their 1950 football season by defeating the E. C. I. team here 40 to 0 on Thanksgiving afternoon.

A-d-dress

On the coldest day of the year, a Georgia Teachers College student, Jerry Marshall, of C. P. Claxton was forced to address it.

She found it later displayed at the post office. Beside it, the college president, placed a big sign, reading: "It's too cold to go without a-d-dress."

'Rattlers' Are Midget Champs

The Midget League "Rattlers" won the American Legion Football Trophy when they defeated the Midget Indians 15 to 0 last week.

The Rattlers got off to a good start and scored in the first quarter, and never let the Indians score. The Indians were favored to win the trophy.

Lehman Franklin and John Marshall Fashon are co-captains of the champions, and Pee Wee Street is the Indians' captain.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Olliff, the graduate's parents, and Lottie Mae Olliff, sister, were present at the ceremony.

Young Olliff was a member of the National Guard when it was disbanded. He lacked one unit in securing his diploma. ## Big Freeze Hits Bulloch County; Weather Drops to 13 Degrees

Citizens of Statesboro and Bulloch county joined in the chorus of a recently popular song, "It's Cold Outside," and sang it loud and long last Saturday morning.

Dark found the thermometer around 60 degrees Friday night, but the mercury dropped fast and hit a low of 13 degrees—19 degrees below freezing—by Saturday morning.

The freeze touched every citizen in this section. Automobiles from up, cylinder blocks and heads cracked, radiators burst, tractors cracked, water pumps froze and were decommissioned, green stuff in gardens and ornamental shrubbery in yards turned black, grain crops lost.

Monday morning the Herald called filling stations, auto dealers, auto service garages, machine sales and service shops, tractor shops, and other businesses to get a picture of the damage to cars, trucks, tractors, and water pumps.

To be specific, 398 tractors are in repair shops. 93 cars were reported by five auto dealers.

One machine shop reports 65 water pumps. An electric shop reports 100 water pumps.

Mr. Cronley made the observation that his records reveal that where there occurs a low such as that of last week there will be several such lows during the year.

Mr. Cronley's father before him kept these records and since his father's death he has been keeping them. He says that a government man comes around every six months to check his thermometer and rain measuring instruments.

Mr. Cronley's records reveal a couple of highs. On August 30 and September 4, 1925, the temperature went up to 107 degrees.

The greatest rainfall recorded in Bulloch county in any one month was in September, 1929, when a total of 24.34 inches fell. The rainfall in one day was on September 27, 1927, when 12.75 inches fell. The day before, September 26, 1927, 4.06 inches fell.

Mr. Cronley said he has never seen anything like it. "Five years ago we had a time, but not like this," he said.

One filling station operator reported that he sold over 400 gallons of anti-freeze fluid by 1 o'clock Saturday morning. All the filling station operators called many of their customers to warn them and to advise them to bring in their cars and have anti-freeze put in. One operator told of a customer who had purchased anti-freeze and had it in the back seat of his car. "We called that person and asked him to bring in his car and we'd put the anti-freeze in the cooling system, but he didn't. Saturday morning he had a busted block on a brand new automobile."

Another operator on U. S. 301 said he serviced cars of many tourists on their way from Florida back north who had heard the radio reports and wanted anti-freeze. All tourists coming from the north were prepared.

Fuel oil and gas dealers here were busy filling tanks. With about half a gas company was trying to please everybody. "But it was hard to do," a spokesman said.

Plumbers tried to help out in the emergency cases and get back to others as soon as possible.

E. W. Owen, county agent, reports "extremely heavy" damage to tractors and trucks, adding that the people did not realize that it could turn cold so fast. Newly planted pasture crops, oats, vetch, and sugar cane and ungarthered sweet potatoes were reported as appearing a complete loss.

TC Choir to Give Concert Tonight

The Georgia Teachers College Philharmonic Choir will present a concert tonight (Thursday) in the county auditorium at 8:15 o'clock.

Dr. Ronald J. Neil, director of the choir, will be in charge. The program will be divided into two parts. The first part will include early American hymns, Fred Waring's stirring arrangement of "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," a medley of Sigismund Romberg melodies, consisting of "The Desert Song," "Deep in My Heart," "Alone," "Sorry as a Morning Sunrise," "One Kiss," and closing with "Stout-hearted Men."

The concert is free and the public is invited to attend.

Any Old Toys?

Any old toys you would like to get rid of? And would you not like to know that they could be given to some child who is not so fortunate as your own?

Then bring them by the office of The Bulloch Herald and leave them, or take them to the Industrial Arts workshop at Statesboro High School.

Again this year, members of the high school Industrial Arts class, under the direction of Don Coleman, instructor, have volunteered to take such old toys and renew them and distribute them to underprivileged children in Statesboro at Christmastime.

Check your children's toy box and pick out the ones they have discarded or broken.

Know that they can be repaired and conditioned to make some other young child happy at Christmastime.

City Schools Found To Be Doing A Fine Job

For three days, November 15 through 17, educational authorities and leaders examined and inspected the Statesboro High School and now report that "the school, as a whole, is doing a fine job."

During the three days 13 educators, 13 local citizens and many students participated in an evaluation program of the Statesboro school. They examined the school from four angles: administration and staff, curriculum, instruction and outcome, guidance and pupil activity, and library services.

The school leaders participating were Dr. Zach Henderson, Statesboro; J. K. Boddorff, Sylvania; J. R. Tripp, Vidalia; Mrs. Mary B. Lewis, S. C. W. Milledge, who has resigned; Mrs. Grace Lancy, Louisville; Dr. Zeb Vance, Mercer University, Macon; Mrs. Frances Lewis, Swainsboro; Dr. Georgia Watson, G. T. C. J. N. Baker, Swainsboro; Miss Sara Jones, State Department of Education; and O. H. Joiner, Statesboro.

Citizens who worked with the committee were Lehman Franklin, Kermit R. Carr, D. J. Hunnicutt, Mrs. E. S. Blitch, F. C. Parker Jr., Mrs. Charles Simmons, Mrs. Phil Hamilton, Mrs. T. J. Morris, Rep. DeLoach, Mrs. Fred Fletcher, Joe Woodcock, Mrs. C. H. Remington, and Mayor Gilbert Cone.

Many recommendations were made for the improvement of the school, including a public school music program, speech instruction, public school art, a student council, removing the "little store" from the lunchroom, milk to be served with all meals, even if it means a price increase, making the lunchroom a laboratory for good food habits, and the collection of library fees to be discontinued.

It was also recommended that a covered, enclosed passageway be constructed to connect the old building with the new annex to the high school building. It was also recommended that the city purchase the property next to the band building. The nearest of several privies to the band building was criticized.

The school was commended for the excellent condition of buildings, classrooms, and auditorium, but the committee did suggest repairs to the roof and steam pipe lines to eliminate leaks.

Other commendations included the excellent relationship between pupils and teachers, the high quality of work being done in the college-preparatory sections, and the high personal qualifications of the teaching staff.

The library was commended for its close cooperation with the public library and the college library. In its report the committee wrote: "The entire visiting committee feels that the school, as a whole, is doing a fine job. The suggestions offered are not in a sense of criticism, but rather as a goal toward which the school may work to become even better."
