After the dinner the stockholders re-elected the following directors: D. Percy Averitt, R. J. Brown, Hinton Booth, Alfred Dorman, C. B. McAllister, Horace Smith, and D. B. Turner.

The directors met immediately after the stockholders meeting and re-elected the following officers: C. P. Olliff, president; C. B. McAllister, executive vice president; D. B. Sponsored by the golfing members of the club, the Caddie Christmas Golf Tournament was played on Thursday and Friday. The winner of the tournament was Lee Willie Humphries, colored, with a score of 88. His prize consisted of a suit of clothes, a pair of shoes, a sweater, a shirt, socks, hat, and underwear.

Pete Williams, white, with a 100 for second low, won a suit of clothes, a pair of shoes, a jacket, and a shirt.

Henry "Buck" Lawton, colored, with a score of 101, for third low, received a suit of clothes, a pair of shoes, a jacket, and a shirt.

Grady Johnson, colored, with 104 for fourth low, received a suit of clothes, a pair of shoes, and a jacket.

Charles Parks, colored, with a score of 106, won a suit of clothes and a pair of shoes.

Other contestants received a wool jacket.

After the finals the group was given a hot dog party with all the fixings.

Sam Strauss and Arnold Rose conducted the tournament and awarded the prizes. The golfing members of the club contributed more than $100 with which to purchase the prizes.

Other tournament players were Billy Finch, Devon Turner, Preston Turner, Curtis Shaw, Mitchell King, Lowell Turner, all white; Andrew Joyce, Jimmy Curtis, Elmus Parks, Jerry Joyce, Leonard Curtis, James Olliff, and Joe Ralph, all colored.

Party at Country Club Saturday

Dr. Hugh Arundel, president of Forest Heights Country Club, announced today that members of the club will observe New Year's Eve with a special party at the club.

Supper will be served, with dancing to follow. There will be favors for all who attend. Emma Kelly's orchestra will furnish the music. $1.50 will cover the cost of the party, including supper. Reservation may be made with Clint Anderson, club manager. The party will begin at 8:30 p. m.

A. S. Hunnicutt, Sr., Bulloch County farmer, grew 11 bales of cotton on five acres this year to win the $500 state prize in the Georgia 5-acre cotton contest. Mr. Hunnicutt is shown here with Bulloch County Agent Byron Dyer, right, on 11 bales of cotton.

Baptists, Methodists Issue Call to Prayer

Local Methodists will join Sunday, December 31, with the denominations nearly 9,000,000 members in a national mid-century prayer for peace, it was announced today by the Rev. John S. Lough, pastor of the Methodist Church.

He said the call to special prayer was sounded by the Methodist Council of Bishops and the church's General Board of Evangelism in view of the "exceptionally grave condition of the world today."

In a letter to pastors of 42,000 Methodist churches, the board urged every congregation to unite in a chain of prayer on Mid-Century Sunday, beseeching God's guidance in converting a world crisis to a just and lasting peace.

Declaring the "mankind's hope for freedom is in desperate jeopardy," the plea for prayer coincided with a similar request by the president of the new National Council of Churches, Episcopal Bishop Henry Knox Sherrill, of New York. He urged all Protestants to offer prayers on December 31 for "a peace which is the fruit of righteousness."

The letter to pastors, stressing individual and group participation, stemmed from the following call by Methodist bishops:

"With a sense of deep urgency we call our fellow Methodists and all others who will join us in special prayer.

"Let us pray daily for the leaders of our country and of the United Nations, that God will give them wisdom and courage to seek and do His will.

"Let us pray for all who are under the shadow of war; for those who do battle for us . . . the homeless . . . the children. Let us pray for our enemies that God may lead them in the way of righteousness and peace."

Rev. John Lough, pastor of the church said, "Let all local Methodists respond to this 'Call to Prayer' on Sunday . . . respond to this urgent need and call by attending church.

Morning services will be at 11:30, with Rev. J. D. Corbett Jr. preaching the sermon. The evening worship hour will be at 7:30 with Rev. Corbett's father, Rev. J. D. Corbett Sr., preaching the sermon. Sunday School is at 10:15 a. m.

Mrs. Russell Heads 'Welcome Wagon'

Mrs. Virginia Russell, of Statesboro, returned home recently from Memphis, Tenn., where she completed a course of instruction preparing her to represent Welcome Wagon, Inc. as hostess in this city.

Welcome Wagon Service was originated in 1928 by Thomas W. Briggs, a newspaperman of Memphis, Tenn., who adapted a custom of pioneer days to present day conditions. A student of history, Mr. Briggs was stirred by the romantic tales of the rugged men who blazed their trails to a new land across the western plains. As the covered wagons of the pioneers wended their way toward the frontier, homesteaders found scattered settlements along the way met them in "Welcome Wagons" with food and water to refresh the travelers at the end of their long journey and extended a hand of welcome.

That gracious tradition lives on today in Welcome Wagon. A modern version of the old fashioned hospitality and good will is extended to the families of a community at the crucial moments of their lives. Daily, in 1949, throughout the United States and Canada—in more than 900 towns and cities—over 3,500 Welcome Wagon hostesses carried the good wishes of civic and business organizations to mothers of new babies, teen-age girls, newly engaged girls, families moving from one home to another within the community, and newcomers to the city.

The Welcome Wagon hostess knows her town, and wherever she goes she carries a word of its outstanding features—its libraries, churches, newspapers, parks, museums, youth groups, welfare associations, banks, shops, radio stations, restaurants, schools, and services.

SHORTAGE OF MOONSHINE
Blamed on Cold Wave

Sheriff Stothard Deal reports a quiet Christmas week end.

Henry Anderson, chief of police, reports that there were only two cases of drunkenness in police court following the Christmas holidays.

The county police report that they made a couple of small raids and managed to catch a couple of moonshiners.

According to one of the moonshiners, there was "little white lightning" this Christmas, which, according to Sheriff Deal, may account for the fact that there was a negligible amount of drunken cases.

An old time moonshine-maker blames the shortage of moonshine whiskey on the extremely cold weather, expressing the theory that it was too cold for the mash to ferment.

He expressed the opinion that those who drink to get drunk buy cheap moonshine, and, since there was a shortage of that kind of whiskey this year, there was little drunkenness.

Could be.

Six Ga. Families Will be Honored

Six Georgia farm families are to be recognized as Master Farm Families of this state at ceremonies scheduled in Atlanta, January 4. L. I. Skinner, assistant director of the Agricultural Extension Service, announced recently.

Selections have been made from nominations turned in by county groups throughout the state. County committees named local candidates, and a state group made up of Agricultural Extension Service workers and representatives of The Progressive Farmer at the meeting in Atlanta.

Master Farm Families have been selected in the state eight times since the first ones were named in 1927.

"To gain this recognition it is necessary for a farm family to show outstanding leadership in improving and maintaining a farm and home," Skinner said.

The score card by which selections are made contains four divisions, including Family and Community Life, Operation and Organization of the Farm, Business Methods and Ability, and the Home and Farmstead. A perfect score in these four divisions totals 1,000 points.

Alexander Nunn, editor of The Progressive Farmer, points out that each family nominated in the state receives a plaque and certificate. These are to be presented at the meeting.

In the last selection prior to this one, seven Georgia families were given this recognition. This was in 1947. Since 1927, 61 Georgia families have been given this award.

Bulloch county has a candidate again this year. Five have already been named from the county, along with one by the American Legion.

More Than Dec. 25 to Them

CHRISTMAS came to more than 100 families in Statesboro and Bulloch county because the citizens of this community felt the urge to help those who could not help themselves.

Santa Claus came to see the children of these families because the spirit of Christmas encompassed the people of this section.

Sparked by the young men of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, more than 5,000 items of clothing and toys were contributed to their Empty Stocking Fund.

The White Christmas tradition of the Statesboro High School furnished food-stuffs for more than 50 families as the children brought forth gifts for their annual White Christmas program the last day of school before the holiday season began.

The Industrial Arts class of the high school repaired hundreds of toys collected through an appeal of The Bulloch Herald. These toys went into the more than 100 boxes prepared and distributed by the Bulloch County Department of Welfare.

Merchants, businessmen, meat packers, housewives, children—all had a part in this Christmas for those to whom Christmas might have been just another day.

There is the gentleman who for years has been giving $20 to the officials of the welfare department with which to buy nothing but dolls.

There is the individual who gave a check for $25.

A candy company furnished candy for every box.

A meat packer furnished bacon and sausage for each of the 50 White Christmas boxes.

Department stores and toy stores contributed toys from their shelves, in addition to the toys fixed up by Don Coleman's industrial arts classes.

A produce man furnished oranges for all the boxes.

Miss Sara Hall and Miss Helen Rowse of the county welfare department distributed half of the boxes and Mr. Herbert Kingery distributed the White Christmas boxes.

We commend all the agencies, individuals, businessmen, merchants, housewives, and the local radio station for the wonderful cooperation in making this Christmas more than just December 25 to so many people—especially the children of this city and county.

This Seems To Be Where We Came In

BY VIRGINIA RUSSELL

BOYS IN UNIFORM are beginning to fill the trains, buses, and stations all over again.

The Army and Navy are a cross-section of our great country. So one is not surprised at anything they do.

The train on which I rode to Memphis, Tennessee, recently had a car full of draftees. On the car in which I rode were several young Air Force officers.

All these draftees and officers, were fine looking young men, all preparing themselves for the defense of their country, and ours. And I played in my heart that we at home would prove ourselves worthy of the sacrifice these men are called upon to make.

On a bus out of Memphis to Stuttgart, Arkansas, I overheard a conversation. Riding a few seats behind me was a rather coarse sounding young girl (all the passengers knew she was a show girl because she let us know in loud talk) who had shown herself to be as hard as tack.

Having struck up a one-sided conversation with a soldier, she asked him where he was going. He answered that he was going to his post, somewhere in Texas. She then inquired where he had been before he received orders to go to Texas. He replied that he had just come out of a hospital and before that had been in Korea, her voice broke as she cried out, "God bless you!" Her hardness melted so quickly.

In the Memphis train station there were throngs of men in uniform. There were two sailors helping their trunk commanding officer on the train. There was a silent prayer that once aboard a ship he could command himself in a better manner before he gave orders to his men.

Seeing all these young men recalled to mind this past summer and a few meetings we had with some of the college students, among whom were some of our GIs and our three German students. They sat, on different occasions, in our living room or in our backyard, eating home-made ice cream or drinking coffee, chatting, joking, and talking seriously, too.

A few short years before, some of these same boys had been shooting to kill at each other. But our boys had not wanted to kill; the German boys had not wanted to fight (and I don't believe that even the Russian boys wanted to fight). And I can't feel that any mother, regardless of her nationality, wants to send her boy off to kill and be killed.

What has happened to us? Is it true that only one and one-half percent of people are leaders? The rest of us follow? Something has gone wrong.

The only thing for us to do right now, it seems, is to pray. Thank God for his blessings and his forgiveness for our failures, and beg his divine guidance as our Supreme Leader. Then, let us continue to pray.

Why can't our town begin right now? Have the sirens sound two minutes at twelve o'clock and, no matter where we are, in a car, in a store, in our kitchen—no matter where—let us pray. Pray for the leaders, pray for our enemies, pray for God's guidance.

And we reckon there'll be new letter-heads, new envelopes, new inter-office memorandum pads, all to be printed up for their use.

We sort of wonder if, somewhere in the vast expanse of Washington, there is not stored hundreds of reams of letter-heads and other forms of the O. P. A., the W. P. B., the O. D. T., the W. M. C., and all the others.

And we ask ourselves if the old alphabet is not good enough for our new national emergency—the new ones are going to be no less confusing than the old ones.

This was a short five years ago. And remembering how bitter we were upon hearing those accounts of hoarding of newsprint we vowed that we would never do it. We knew in our heart that we could not do it.

And when we re-opened our newspaper after the four years it was closed while we were at war we told newsprint salesmen who called upon us that it was not in us to accumulate a surplus of newsprint. "We'll just close up," we told them, "if we can't get paper on which to print our newspaper."

And, now, here we are with just enough newsprint in our office to print this week's paper.

We talked to our paper house in Savannah and they promised to try to borrow some paper from some printer in Savannah to help us out.

We've talked to our other paper house

Mr. Truman to the microphone by 24 hours. Mr. Dewey advocates: calling up the entire National Guard; universal military service; de-mobilizing the entire Navy; a draft setup to give the U. S. 100 divisions, each nearly twice the size of Russian divisions; an Air Force of at least 80 groups; immediate economic mobilization under a strong administrator with full authority over economic controls, production and civilian manpower.

Then, ex-President Herbert Hoover proposes that the United States, possibly defend freedom from everywhere—as Korea has shown—and must limit its commitments; that America should concentrate on holding the Western Hemisphere; and that it is folly to expect to defend a divided Europe that is not building fortifications to defend itself.

And confusion is everywhere. We can only hope that the New Year will bring light and order out of our present darkness and chaos.

And while we're about it—here's wishing you all A HAPPY NEW YEAR.

John Kim, son of our Bishop of Korea, who was taken by the Reds and not heard from these months, is studying electrical engineering in New York. He had "Thanksgiving dinner" with Miss Billingsley and me and shared his mother's letter with us. Her husband, gone, her daughter sick from exposure, a son in hiding for weeks, moving five times trying to find safety, selling much needed food and clothing to buy food, her letter was filled, not with complaint but triumphant faith.

There was a bright spot that GI found, when he entered that little church in North Korea and found a group of young people singing, an old man reading his Bible and another man repairing the building. Christianity driven underground during five years of Russian occupation is beginning to sing its song of victory in North Korea.

From North Korea comes another story. A missionary visiting Pyeng Yeng wrote, "What a day this has been. At 2 this afternoon we had a union service, a great crowd gathered, they sang, 'A Mighty Fortress Is Our God', and then the box of Bibles I had brought was brought in. The crowd burst into a loud applause. The pastor preached a powerful sermon on the text, 'Aria, shine, for thy light is come and the glory of the Lord is risen upon thee.'"

One of the doctors at Severance Hospital wrote, "We are not discouraged at all. Today we stood in the ruins of the old Severance, dreaming and praying for the new institution that will come to realization before us, upon this historic ground."

Another little friend, a theological student, with weak body but strong faith, had a horrible experience, fleeing south, separated from friends and lost from family. Writing of those days of suffering and danger, she says,

"When I left Miss Kang that terrible June morning, the brave words of her parting message were, 'I will not be alone. God will be with me.' During these months of war, I have waited and feared. Now comes a letter from her. 'I have survived by God's Grace,' is her opening sentence. Her brother was killed; she herself, suffered persecution, but a report from one of the missionaries who had met her said, 'Miss Kang looks bad, but she is cheerful.' Isn't that a bright star!

Her brother was killed; she herself, suffered persecution, but a report from one of the missionaries who had met her said, 'Miss Kang looks bad, but she is cheerful.' Isn't that a bright star!

Another little friend, a theological student, with weak body but strong faith, had a horrible experience, fleeing south, separated from friends and lost from family. Writing of those days of suffering and danger, she says,

"When I left Miss Kang that terrible June morning, the brave words of her parting message were, 'I will not be alone. God will be with me.' During these months of war, I have waited and feared. Now comes a letter from her. 'I have survived by God's Grace,' is her opening sentence. Her brother was killed; she herself, suffered persecution, but a report from one of the missionaries who had met her said, 'Miss Kang looks bad, but she is cheerful.' Isn't that a bright star!

Mr. Truman to the microphone by 24 hours. Mr. Dewey advocates: calling up the entire National Guard; universal military service; de-mobilizing the entire Navy; a draft setup to give the U. S. 100 divisions, each nearly twice the size of Russian divisions; an Air Force of at least 80 groups; immediate economic mobilization under a strong administrator with full authority over economic controls, production and civilian manpower.

Then, ex-President Herbert Hoover proposes that the United States, possibly defend freedom from everywhere—as Korea has shown—and must limit its commitments; that America should concentrate on holding the Western Hemisphere; and that it is folly to expect to defend a divided Europe that is not building fortifications to defend itself.

And confusion is everywhere. We can only hope that the New Year will bring light and order out of our present darkness and chaos.

And while we're about it—here's wishing you all A HAPPY NEW YEAR.

John Kim, son of our Bishop of Korea, who was taken by the Reds and not heard from these months, is studying electrical engineering in New York. He had "Thanksgiving dinner" with Miss Billingsley and me and shared his mother's letter with us. Her husband, gone, her daughter sick from exposure, a son in hiding for weeks, moving five times trying to find safety, selling much needed food and clothing to buy food, her letter was filled, not with complaint but triumphant faith.

There was a bright spot that GI found, when he entered that little church in North Korea and found a group of young people singing, an old man reading his Bible and another man repairing the building. Christianity driven underground during five years of Russian occupation is beginning to sing its song of victory in North Korea.

From North Korea comes another story. A missionary visiting Pyeng Yeng wrote, "What a day this has been. At 2 this afternoon we had a union service, a great crowd gathered, they sang, 'A Mighty Fortress Is Our God', and then the box of Bibles I had brought was brought in. The crowd burst into a loud applause. The pastor preached a powerful sermon on the text, 'Aria, shine, for thy light is come and the glory of the Lord is risen upon thee.'"

One of the doctors at Severance Hospital wrote, "We are not discouraged at all. Today we stood in the ruins of the old Severance, dreaming and praying for the new institution that will come to realization before us, upon this historic ground."

The first project named was a bulleting and marketing board, to be placed in the community for listing items for exchange, for sale, and prices of farm products.

A "get rid of scrub bulls" campaign was number two on the list. Other suggestions given considered thought were those dealing with destruction of cotton and tobacco stalks early after harvest, building larger attendance at monthly meetings, keeping members informed of farm program practices and activities, painting and cleaning up mail boxes, erection of road signs directing strangers to churches and schools, the problem of better roads, and school attendance.

C. P. Brunson reported on the National Farm Bureau Convention to his chapter at Register Thursday night. The seriousness of the situation was stressed.

K.C.C.s ALL NIGHT PARTY
The Jaekel Hotel was the scene Friday evening of a banquet given by the K.C.C.s as a starter for the entertainment features which were to conclude with a buffet breakfast.

The banquet table was decorated with giant candy canes the length of the table. The place cards were decorated with candy canes, establishing the motif for the evening "Krispy Candy Cakes." They were served a five-course turkey dinner.

After dinner they went out to the "Drive-In," using their place cards as passes. An entire section was reserved for the party. Here they enjoyed a double feature.

At 12 o'clock they returned to the Recreation Center and were served a snack. The girls drew partners from a hand-painted trinket case and the boys drew the girls' names from a candy can. There were several special dances. The Bell dance was very pretty. Bells tied on red, green, satin ribbons and one odd couple, with gold ribbons. Couples were called off the floor by colors until the gold couple was left dancing alone. A prize went to this couple. In the early morning hours, the K.C.C.s and their dates were served a buffet breakfast.

Mothers present were Mrs. Glenn Jennings, Mrs. James Bland, Mrs. McKinley Newton, Mrs. Burton Mitchell, Mrs. C. P. Claxton, and Mrs. Perry Kennedy.

These committees were elected to administer the Agricultural Conservation Program, loan programs for cotton, peanuts, tobacco and corn, acreage allotments, marketing quotas, federal crop insurance, and other assignments in 1951. All these committees are farmers. They are paid for only the few days they actually serve.

The public during the American Revolution acquired a vast respect for the press and for the principle of press freedom.

Benjamin Franklin, printer and editor, has been termed by one historian as "the one man of vision" in the colonial resistance of oppression.

Washington's Farewell Address was first presented to the American public in the columns of the Philadelphia Daily Advertiser.

Many early colonial printers and editors conducted "general stores" in connection with their newspaper plants.

Aunt Sophie Voted Outstanding Grad

The dean of men at Georgia Teachers College has been voted the outstanding woman graduate of the college.

Miss Sophie Johnson, dean of men since her graduation in 1935, is the choice of alumni in a poll by the college Alumni Quarterly. She is featured in the December number of the quarterly.

Better known as "Aunt Sophie," Miss Johnson lives in and rules over a dormitory of 200 men. She has never been known to forget a name or room number. The college band plays an "Aunt Sophie March," and the English chairman has likened her to the noblest ladies in literature.

She formerly lived at Wadley and taught in the Jefferson county schools.

Buddy and Tommy Bland, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Bland, of Atlanta, are visiting their grandmother, Mrs. A. O. Bland.

TC Offers Winter Evening Classes

The Business Education Division of Georgia Teachers College will offer courses in winter evening classes on sufficient demand, Cameron Bremseth, divisional chairman, announces. These would begin January 3 and meet on two nights a week for three months.
