Forestry Notes

By J. W. ROBERTS, Ranger

There's a place for forestry in your farm planning.

The Bulloch County Forestry Unit, which contends that more persons who realize the value of their woodlands, the less wild-lands there will be, plans during the coming months to give increasing emphasis to forestry in the farm operation.

production which results in round-the-year yield.

Forestry enables the farmer to gain income from acreage which otherwise might be nothing but a drain on the pocketbook. Forestry enables the farmer to have a crop which can be harvested from January through December.

Good forestry, however, comes only from good management. The proper thinning, replanting, and marketing spell the difference between trees costing the farmer money and trees earning the farmer money.

Aids to good forestry practices may be obtained through the office of the Bulloch County Forestry Unit. A variety of pamphlets, booklets, and folders outlining the best means by which farmers and landowners in this area can realize profits from their woodlots is available at no charge.

Unit personnel also will order 16-millimeter forestry films in color from the Georgia Forestry Commission. These are available for groups, clubs, and civic organizations interested in the value of their woodlands.

Information and further aids for improving your forestry management practices may be obtained by telephoning the Forestry Unit office. The number is 501-L.

with one charging less, five the same and 14 more. The local fee for a minor operation is $7.50 with the average $10.50, with one charging less, five the same and 14 more.

The local hospital charges $5 for a blood transfusion while the average is $7.50, with one charging less, five the same and 14 more. Mr. McCormack explained here that the hospital does not charge for the actual blood when a transfusion is made. The blood is drawn from the Regional Blood Bank in Savannah into which communities like Bulloch contribute through blood donors who give their blood through the local Blood Bank Program.

Still talking from his blackboard, Mr. McCormack made a comparative statement of charges made for drugs. He explained that the charges are not only on a patient's bill, but they appear on the actual cost of the drug itself, but all the various factors attached to administering it.

Some examples are: 100,000 units of penicillin cost 75 cents at Bulloch County Hospital as compared with the average of 84 cents at the 20 hospitals studied. Six charged less, one the same, and 13 more. 400,000 units of penicillin procaine cost $3.00, with the average is $3.65. One gram of streptomycin cost $5 at Bulloch County Hospital, while the average of the 20 hospitals is $2.62. One-quarter gram of aureomycin cost 75 cents as compared with the $1.14 average of the 20 hospitals. Glucose here is $2.50 per quart, as compared with the average of $2.73.

A basic metabolism test costs $10 here while the average is $6.88. Fourteen of the hospitals charged less and six the same. A complete blood count here costs $5 as compared with the average of $4.17, with nine charging less and nine charging the same.

An x-ray for the chest bladder costs $20 here as compared with the average of $18. An x-ray of the chest costs $10 as compared with the average of $10.54; x-ray of the skull is $15 as compared with the average of $18.57.

In closing, Mr. McCormack set up a typical operation with the patient in a private room for 10 days. In the Bulloch County Hospital the cost was $218.25. The same operation, with the patient receiving the same services, the operation, based on the average of the 20 hospitals studied, would have been $236.38.
