Need for whole blood has reached critical proportions because of the Korean war, it was pointed out by Don Thompson, local Red Cross blood bank chairman.

"There has been a great number of casualties requiring large quantities of blood and plasma," he stated. "A continuing supply of blood must come from us and from people in other communities like ours. It is the one direct assistance we here in Bulloch county can give to the soldiers fighting in the battlefield, for it will be a living part of the donor that flows from a bottle into the veins of some stricken soldier, giving him a better chance to live."

Recruitment of blood donors for the bloodmobile's planned visit was directed earlier this year by the Red Cross.

"The blood program can be a success only with full cooperation of the public," Mr. Thompson said. "The bloodmobile unit will be set up in the Community Center building in Memorial Park. Blood will be taken between the hours of 9:30 a. m. and 4:30 p. m.

David and Dorothy Begin Journey Which Will Take Them to Africa

Editor's Note: The following story was written by Herman D. Lawson of the Smithfield (North Carolina) Herald. Mrs. Dorothy Walker of the story is the former Dorothy Kennedy, daughter of Mrs. Mamie Lou Bonardant, and granddaughter of Arthur Howard.

David and Dorothy Walker, a young couple who taught in Smithfield (N. C.) school during the past year, left Smithfield Friday, June 1, on a journey that will end two years hence in Africa where they will be educational missionaries for the Methodist Church.

Ahead of the Walkers is a year of study at Teachers College of Columbia University in New York where each will receive a master's degree and then six to 12 months of religious training and absorption of language, cultural and other information on the particular area they will serve.

The attractive couple who made so many friends during their past nine-months stay in Smithfield, have already received notice of their acceptance as missionaries from the Rev. M. O. Williams Jr., of New York City, secretary of the board of missions of the Methodist Church.

Entering the mission field was the ambition of David and Dorothy individually before they ever met and one which has been fostered in their hearts since their marriage a year ago.

The couple met through religion, and now they are scheduled to devote their full time to the service of Jesus Christ.

David is 26 years old and a native of Birmingham, Ala. He was graduated from George Washington High School in Alexandria, Va., in 1942. He served with the U. S. Air Force for three years during World War II and saw duty in Europe, France, and Germany for a year.

David was graduated from Western Carolina Teachers College in 1950 with a bachelor of science degree, majoring in mathematics. He is now a member of the Wesley Foundation for four years and its president for two years. He played in the college basketball team and was its assistant director.

Dorothy is 22 years old and a native of Statesboro where she was graduated from the G. I. Bill of Rights, which she received after her graduate education with the money she earned teaching in Smithfield. They expect to get their masters degrees a year from now.

While attending the University they will reside in the home of the Rev. Wayne White of Long Island, a Methodist minister. Mr. White and his wife were the directors of the work camp which the young couple attended in New York in 1949.

Next June David and Dorothy will be sent to Hartford University for intensive religious training. They will also be schooled in the background of the area to which they will be assigned. Six to 12 months later they will be on their way to Africa as educational missionaries.

David and Dorothy met in the summer of 1948 at the New York City Camp sponsored by the Methodist Church. Twenty-eight students were chosen from applications from throughout the United States to attend the work camp.

The couple liked the work camp and each other so much that they returned to the settlement in Hartford in the summer of 1949. Last summer, following David's graduation from W.C.T.C., the couple was married. David is now a postmaster and director and teacher in Smithfield (N. C.) school, and

ALL'S FAIR By Jane

I do not reach logical decisions about anything these days; one thing, I'm sorta lary and I dodge those hot sun rays. I get all riled up when I read the daily news; Sometimes I wonder why I can't express my views. Now you take Fred Allen who was godfather at a christening. Why he had everybody and his brother listening. When the father was late with his little babytante. Fred quipped, "If he doesn't come pretty soon she'll be a debutante."

Well Fred Allen would have been a bit nervous of he had been in the car with Bea Dot and Bill Peck. Friday night, they left here at 7:30 in her automobile, Atlanta and Crawford Long Hospital. At Millersville, Bill pulled up to a curb and called a policeman, gave him the phone number of Bea Dot's doctor and gave the color brief message for the doctor. When they drove up at Crawford Long, the man with the little black bag came to greet them. And soon, June 30, little Thomas Drew Peck made his debut in this cold cruel world.

Bess Mitchell (Mrs. Clyde) sails July 11 with Miss Eva Pierce and two others on a weekend cruise. During the time of the Music Festival which is under the direction of Rudolph Bing, the new leader of the Metropolitan Opera. And of course, in London, there's the Festival of Britain. Then, a two-week cruise along the mysterious and romantic fjords along the Norwegian coastline. At Amsterdam, they fill their hands with diamonds and let you hold them for a while. Then comes a boat trip down the Rhine. High on it's banks are the ruins of feudal castles and fortresses. You pass the Lorelei and there once lived a beautiful maiden, and with her beautiful voice and the glint of her golden hair, as she combed it, lured fishermen to their death as they crashed against the rocks. Bess will visit Paris at the time of the celebration of it's 2,000th birthday.

Sometimes I think I'll get up a travel agency in Statesboro, for you do travel, don't you? Last week the Inman Foy's Jr., Maxine Foy and Liz attended two exciting ball games in Washington, D. C., and visited points of interest in North Carolina. Then, on July 1, Mrs. L. Seligman arrives at the New York Harbor aboard the luxury liner, "The Queen Mary." Mrs. Seligman left here many months ago to visit her sister in Israel and wrote wonderfully interesting letters to the home folks. She is now in Paris and probably in the midst of the celebration of the 200th birthday of Paris. Her son, A. M., will be down at the very boatside to greet her through the courtesy of J. Brantley Johnson, Prince Preston's secretary. Mrs. Seligman will also be met by a man from customs who will dispose of this tedious wait one usually encounters. It will be only a matter of minutes before Mrs. Seligman will be swished to a room in one of New York's best hotels. Isn't it wonderful? I believe that's all the trips I can handle this week.

However, right here in Statesboro Mrs. Aron Cone's sons have done a bit of travelling themselves. T-Sgt. J. A. Cone and his wife Evelyn, and daughter, Beth, arrived during the week end from Anchorage, Alaska, driving through in a new car. He drove approximately 6,000 miles in 14 days. The Alcan Highway is wonderful he says. He recounted points of interest for you survey the huge glacier from the Alcan highway. But I'm afraid Jane will never go far into Alaska, for there were places so cold that you dare not breathe through your mouth for that would freeze your lungs. I wasn't go to Alaska.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Cone arrived Friday from California for a visit. His wife, the former Evelyn Nadlinger, is a Springfield girl, J. W. and J. A. are twins, they both married girls named Evelyn, but they all resemble each other. J. W. is employed at the Stanford University Press.

Oh yes, we travel in style in Statesboro. Take Paye Brannen's little dog, why he was out Sunday afternoon being rolled up and down North College street in a doli carriage.

As Ever, JANE.

THOMPSON-MARSH
Miss Margaret Lucile Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Thompson, became the bride of Humath Marsh, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Marsh of Statesboro, Sunday afternoon, June 17, at the Lyons Methodist Church. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. W. Whaley, pastor. The church was decorated with magnolia leaves and fern as a background for tall standards of white gladioli and magnolias and lighted tapers. A program of music was presented by Mrs. J. P. McNatt, organist, and Philip Adelsheimer of Bolton, S. C., brother-in-law, soloist.

The candies were lighted by Charles McCull, cousin of the bride, and Joe Tillman of Statesboro. Groomsmen were Mr. McCull, Mr. Tillman, and Digi. Mr. Tillman, a son of the bride, is a graduate of Georgia Teachers College, Collegeboro, with a bachelor of science degree in secondary education. For the past two years he has been an instructor in industrial arts in the Dannelen High School.

"I Bin Thinkin"
By LEHMAN FRANKLIN

Summer time means swimming and swimming's a great sport as long as we mix a little caution with it. We never did discover why an ocean, lake or river makes many of us suddenly think we could outpaddle Tarzan, but that's the way a stretch of water seems to affect a lot of folks in summer. "I guess I'm not the man," said a fellow who "used to be," and a friend replied, "You never were." Just because we used to swim pretty well, we recall ourselves as being just a tad less seaworthy than a shark. Not taken chances... and you'll stay out of hot water.

Auto Owners, Operators Told To Mend Ways

On and after July 1, the operator of every motor vehicle that is involved in an accident which results in death or injury, or property damage to any one person exceeding $50, must report the accident in writing to the Bureau of Safety Responsibility in Statesboro, that they must mend their ways before the new Safety Responsibility Law is enforced on July 1 or prepare to lose their driving or registration license.

Under the new law, it is mandatory that the driving license or registration be revoked for a period of three years, Lt. Grinstead and Chief Anderson said, if a motorist is convicted of any of the following offenses:

(1) Manslaughter resulting from the operation of a motor vehicle; (2) Driving while intoxicated; (3) Any felony in which a motor vehicle is used; (4) Hit-and-run driving or leaving the scene of an accident; (5) Perjury under any law relating to the ownership or operation of motor vehicles; (6) Conviction of a misdemeanor, or forfeiture of bail, not vacated, upon three charges of violation of the Motor Vehicle Laws of this state within a period of 12 months.

The Safety Responsibility Law, Chief Anderson declared, "should present no cause for worry to those who understand its requirements, observe the traffic laws and regulations, and operate their vehicles safely, with due regard for the life and property of others who use our streets and highways as motorists or pedestrians." It represents a very definite cause, however, for those who repeatedly refuse to obey the rules and consequently find themselves habitually involved in law violations.

"The state means business in its determination to reduce traffic accidents to a minimum and make our highways safe for the great majority who drive lawfully and safely, and for the pedestrians. But, make no mistake about it, those who refuse to learn the easy way most certainly will learn their lesson the hard way—and it will be a mighty long way, too."

Briefly stated, for the benefit of those who may not have read about the law previously, here are its primary provisions:

The Supervisor of Safety Responsibility, as administrator of the law, has no authority to determine who may have caused an accident. This may be done by obtaining a release from liability signed by all other persons involved in the accident or upon final adjudication of a court. Unless such proof of non-liability is filed within the 60-day period, however, also will promptly restore suspended licenses or cause the return of any security deposited.

Insurance must be written by a company authorized to do business in Georgia and provide the following minimum protection: $1,000 for property damage; $5,000 for injuries sustained by one person; and $10,000 for all personal injuries resulting from one accident.

Don't be one in a million! The millionth U. S. traffic accident fatality probably will occur in December. You won't be one in a million, says the National Safety Council, if you follow these Ten Commandments of the good driver.

1. He keeps his car in safe condition.
2. He drives only when sober, and never to great weariness.
3. His mind does not wander, for safe driving keeps a man busy.
4. He keeps always to the speed which gives perfect control.
5. He passes intersections and grade crossings with care.
6. To children and pedestrians he gives thought, for over them he has the power of life and death.
7. He obeys the law of the land, knowing obedience may increase his years.
8. For the hazards of driving in members the Golden Rule.

Laborer's Wish Comes True, But Loses His Job for Ride

CHICAGO, Ill.—All his life Robert Leachman, 23-year-old railroad laborer, wanted to drive a freight train. He dreamed of a locomotive in the cab of a big diesel locomotive. The trouble was, he took the ride alone.

Leachman saw a shiny new passenger diesel standing unattended on a siding in the railroad yard. He climbed aboard and ran his hands over the controls. The locomotive took off. Leachman, terrified, yanked every lever he could see.

"I couldn't stop," he said. "Then a big engine came along and rammed a boxcar and a gondola and came to a stop. The round house foreman accepted Leachman's resignation on the spot."

Hormone Hubbed in Scalp Grows Hair in Five Weeks
NEW YORK.—Albert Roberts, president of the United Research Laboratories of Philadelphia reported recently a new hormone has grown hair on two men who had been bald for five years.

Each man, after five weeks of treatment, has hair about an inch long on the bald area—not fuzzy, but apparently normal hair—with a total of about 20,000 hairs on each head and signs that more may come. This count is about a sixth of the normal amount for an average young man.

The two men, experimented on, were not identified, but Roberts said they were about 40 and 45 years old. Both had brown hair; the new hair was brown.

Roberts said that in experiments on animals it was necessary to continue small maintenance doses of the hormone to retain new hair grown on bald spots. He predicted this probably would be necessary for humans, too.

The hormone cream is white, odorless, and of the vanishing variety.

Roberts reported experiments on women were planned. To date he reported no bad reactions had been detected in either human beings or animals.

He announced the hormone would be made available from now on to research institutions, but would not be sold to the public. When it will be made available for medical or public use, depends on the results of research on larger numbers of bald persons.

Stop-Look-Listen Before Mailing Packages Abroad

Bulloch counties who plan to mail packages to persons abroad would do well to stop, look and listen before doing so, because there are now new Federal Government regulations on the subject.

According to information received from Merrill C. Lofton, regional director of the U. S. Department of Commerce in Atlanta, the postoffice in Statesboro will not accept such packages except under the following conditions:

1. If shipment of package is prohibited without a validated export license, such a license must be presented to the post office with the package at the time of mailing.

2. If shipment without a license is permitted, the words "Gift—Export License Not Required," must be placed on the address side of the wrapper and the words "Gift" on the customs declaration.

The reason for this is that the Department of Commerce's Office of Internal Trade and the Post Office Department are cooperating to plug possible loopholes by which intentional violators of the government's export control regulations are violating such regulations.

Mr. Lofton explained that the majority of shipments by mail, both air and surface, do not require an export license because they come within the category of gift parcels that do not exceed $25 in value. Such shipments are permitted without license to all countries and North Korea. Nevertheless, from now on the mailers of such packages must mark them "Gift—Export License Not Required," he said.

The Commerce Department official urged that residents of Bulloch county who plan to mail packages to persons abroad should be sure to get in touch with the nearest Department of Commerce field office for further information on the subject. Such offices are located at Savannah, Charleston, S. C., Mobile, Jacksonville, Miami, and Atlanta.

The hormone cream is white, odorless, and of the vanishing variety.

Roberts reported experiments on women were planned. To date he reported no bad reactions had been detected in either human beings or animals.

He announced the hormone would be made available from now on to research institutions, but would not be sold to the public. When it will be made available for medical or public use, depends on the results of research on larger numbers of bald persons.

Inventors Claim Gadget Turns Water Into Excellent Fuel

WASHINGTON, D. C.—A process for using ordinary water as a burner fuel is the latest invention of two Utah men.

George Jackson and William Daugherty, both of Salt Lake, said the device could be utilized as a room heater "or for commercial or industrial purposes, as in a boiler or other power plant."

In their patent application they stated:

"We have found that the operation of this unit as disclosed produces an extremely intense heat with complete combustion of the constituent products, resulting in no carbon deposits, oily film, smoke, or other objectionable features generally encountered in fuel burners at used heretofore."

One of the inventors said a pint of water could be "burned" to produce enough heat to warm a four-room house for four hours. He said this was based on experimental estimates, not on actual heating of a house.

A homemade burner unit can be made for about $15, the inventors reported, but could offer no estimate as to what a commercial device would cost.

They said water was forced into the device by a pump, and the water then emerged in the form of jets of gas which burned and then apparently took over the combustion of the burner.

The inventors said the alcohol burner was needed only to get the process going.

They said in their patent application they believe that the gases produced at the jets of the device are hydrogen and oxygen, and that these are generated as the water passes through a special system of coils in the apparatus.

If the device has commercial possibilities it could revolutionize home heating and industry.

Georgia Power Company's Better Hometown Contest Lands Statesboro In June Issue Of Ladies' Home Journal

EDITOR'S NOTE: Statesboro was the subject of a feature story in the June issue of the Ladies' Home Journal. Miss Jan Weyl, an associate editor of the magazine, came to Statesboro and spent several days gathering the material for the story. Statesboro was selected from several communities which were considered for the feature. It came to the attention of Margaret Hickey, editor of the public affairs department of the magazine through, through the Georgia Power Company's "Champion Home Town" contest in which Statesboro won third place last year. We reprint the entire story here by special permission.

"Things have been happening so fast around this town for the past five years that it's hard to keep up," the man said. "Everywhere you look there's a new improvement. Just take the recreation program. We've got a swimming pool, sports for everyone eight to eighty, and the best recreation director in the state—and the people of the community did it themselves with practically no money."

"What I like," another man said, "is that if you show the most beautiful you have, they'll help you. It took me only ten days to get a loan from the bank to build my house and as soon as we moved in, a neighbor offered my wife some azalea bushes to make the lawn nicer. This town is progressive—and it's friendly."

The Statesboro, Georgia, story begins in 1946 when Statesboro's young men began coming home from the war with a new conception of what a community should be like: alive, alert, meeting—and anticipating—its needs.

Statesboro, already a market center for livestock, cotton and tobacco, had changed from a crossroads community into a small city with growing pains. Two new highways crossed the city limits. More than 100,000 tourists passed through the town every year, and the population had jumped from 5000 to 15,000.

As Statesboro took advantage of its opportunities, these men agreed that it was not. Most of its roads were unpaved, and its recreation facilities were inadequate; a small rash of juvenile delinquency had started great talking about the very great need for a recreation program. "Everywhere we looked we could see problems that needed doing," one man said. "And what's more, we decided to do something about it."

Statesboro today is a changed town—a tribute to the men and women of the community who volunteered their time, thought and money to make it such a fine place to live that in 1950 Statesboro was awarded third prize in the Georgia Power Company's "Champion Home Town" contest. Take the downtown section. Store fronts have been remodeled. Ten new, modern motels and tourist homes have been built—and the town now boasts at least four new, attractive restaurants. In the Georgia Power Company's "Champion Home Town" contest, Statesboro was awarded third prize in the Georgia Power Company's "Champion Home Town" contest.

But the biggest project—and the one Statesboro citizens are most proud of—is their recreation program. And to this program nearly every citizen in town has been able to make a contribution of some sort. "When you think of recreation, you think of Honey Brown first," one man said. "For years Mrs. Bowen, who had done recreation work here for years, had been planning to give the children someplace to play." Ever since a privately operated swimming pool had been closed down during the war, there were no facilities for swimming at all—no swimming holes—and while looking toward a public swimming pool, it was not until 1948, when a wave of petty thieves and burglars by teen-agers spread around town, that people fully realized how great the need for a pool and other organized facilities really was.

Mayor Cone started the ball rolling by calling together 100 representatives of ten civic organizations to discuss the possibilities of having a recreation program. Of 100 people invited, 87 showed up—and one man came forty miles to assure the mayor of his help. "I'll be glad to do anything for my kids," he said. "I'll be glad to do anything for my kids."

But the mayor told him that the Statesboro Citizens' Club had decided to donate its $10,000 white frame clubhouse, located in Memorial Park where there was ample outdoor space for basketball, baseball and a swimming pool, as a recreation building.

Money for the recreation center has come from many places. The $60,000 swimming pool was paid for mainly by contributions from closer to everyone. Mrs. Bowen and a committee organized the Junior Women's Club, which has been a huge success, and the audience has been filled for each performance with up to 300 children. So far only adults have been members of the cast—"Most of these children had never seen a play before, and we had to show them the ropes. The first play we put on was 'The Little Theater Group' which will give one adult production and one children's production a year."
