Space Travel Expert Maps Two-Way Trip To Moon by Rockets

POINT HUGO, Cal.—Arthur W. St. Germain, an authority on rockets, missiles and jet engines, and senior test engineer for the Fairchild guided missiles division at the navy's secret missile test center, says space travel is much closer than most people realize. As proof of his statement, St. Germain offered detailed plans for a five stage rocket which he said could carry two men to the moon, land there and return. He said that his design, while not in production, was practical with "the application of techniques already at our disposal. This is probably the first time in history that people have known so much about an invention yet to be made."

The space ship would tower 325 feet into the air above the launching site, weigh 300,000 pounds and attain a speed of 23,000 miles an hour. Power would be provided by four rockets, one telescoped inside the other, which would drop off one by one as the ship roared upward through the earth's gravitational sphere.

The fifth rocket, carrying the crew, would coast to the moon once it reached outer space. The return journey would require far less fuel because the moon, being smaller than the earth, has less gravitational pull.

St. Germain said liquid hydrogen and oxygen would be the best fuels pending development of an atomic engine. He added that the landing on the moon would be made tail first, with jets and rockets acting as brakes.

The engineer's space ship is one of the latest concepts for travel to the moon and back. But the fact that he could talk about it for publication indicates that the craft is not an immediate project. Point Hugo is the site from which the navy launches top secret weapons which travel hundreds of miles out to sea.

Students attending the University for Georgia summer school are taking part in one of the institutions history making sessions. Three months ahead of the rest of the state, the University is seeing now what the Minimum Foundation Program can do for education in Georgia.

Hundreds of teachers in Georgia are registered for summer school in accordance with the program's more training—more pay plan. A record number of 949 students are enrolled in the graduate school, many doing advanced work in education.

For the first time students have access to one of the finest mathematical libraries in the country. The 15,000 volume library of the American Mathematical Society, purchased by the University, has been moved to the campus and has already been shelved. In addition, students are seeing a great building boom ever in the history of the University: two 500-unit dormitories, the $2,000,000 Hall Dunlap Little Memorial Library, and a new $50,000 printing plant.

'51 4-H Club Camp Called Best Ever

The annual 4-H Club camp this summer was the best yet, according to Beverly Brannen, county 4-H Club president. There were 228 clubsters from five counties, 50 of whom were from Bulloch county.

The group arrived at camp in time for a swim on Monday, July 9, followed by a supper and a television program that night and a couple of hours of folk games.

Tuesday found the campers in six groups. Chorus, Burrows, Powhatan, Smith, Mohawks, and Blackhawk. Jimmy Hodges was named chief of the Mohawks. Rogers Egan and Billy Tyson drew the job of operating the cauldron.

All of the groups rotated during the week in activities with handicrafts, football, basketball, tractor operation, swimming, rifle shooting, and teenage tennis.

For Wednesday, J. L. Dekle, D. B. Edmonds, W. Rowe, Roy Deal, J. W. Donaldson, Jr., Kermit R. Carr, Rex Miller, O. Carl Franklin, W. H. Burke, Hines H. Smith, S. M. Hendrix, Milton Tankersley, Dean Futch, T. E. Deal, J. L. Durden, Ernest W. Rackley, Z. P. Tyson, D. Homer Simmons, J. L. Cannon, Rex Trappell, Fred Woods, J. I. Wynn, L. A. Watkins, Walton Nesmith, J. H. Watkins, C. M. Williams, J. Olliff Everett, J. E. Bowen Jr.

FRANKLIN W. RAMSEY NOW ASSIGNED TO A SUBMARINE. Franklin W. Ramsey, seaman apprentice, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Ramsey of 544 Fourth avenue, Lakemont, Altoona, Pa., was recently graduated from the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md., and assigned to duty aboard the submarine USS Creville.

Baseball was the order of the day on Thursday when the group played among themselves all afternoon, following which they went to see Ray Williams, former third baseman for Statesboro, and his Atlanta, plus New Orleans.

The Bulloch county group visited the State Capitol and Stone Mountain on Friday.

Ten-Cent Investment Pays a Good Dividend

Bulloch county tobacco growers can well afford to invest 10 cents per acre in the Tobacco Associates program, R. P. Mikell, Farm Bureau president, stated at the Warneck and Sinkhole meetings last week.

The Warneck group met Wednesday night and the Sinkhole chapter met Thursday night.

The 10 cents per acre tobacco growers are being requested to ask the warehouseman to deduct from their check this year for Tobacco Associates work goes into an advertising fund, Mr. Mikell pointed out.

Although some 60 percent of the tobacco grown in the United States is consumed here, there is still a 40 percent that needs foreign advertising. Mr. Mikell stated it was estimated that this program had meant $244 per acre to growers in the five-cured belt.

Mr. Mikell urged every grower in Bulloch county to write a note to their marketing card asking the warehouseman to deduct this five cents per acre from the first sale.

Farm Bureau officials believe that unless cotton sells for $1.00, it will be a disaster.

Sgt. Frank Watson Given Bronze Star

First Sergeant Frank P. Watson, son of Mrs. K. E. Watson of Rogersville, Tenn., was awarded the Bronze Star Medal with Letter "V" device for heroic achievement in connection with military operations against an enemy of the United States.

Sergeant's Watson citation reads as follows: "On April 25, 1951, near Tachung, Korea, Sergeant Watson was working in a forward aid station when word was received that a rifleman in a line company had been wounded. With disregard for his personal safety, and despite the extremely heavy small arms fire crisscrossing the area, Sergeant Watson left his sheltered position and proceeded to the company area which was under attack by the enemy. He was able to check the flow of blood from the wound. He then lifted the man upon his shoulder and carried him over 100 yards of terrain to the battalion aid station. Sergeant's Watson's heroism, and high devotion to duty reflect great credit upon himself and the military service."

Memorial Be Held For Late A. M. Deal

Memorial services for the late Albert M. Deal will be held by the Bulloch County Bar Association in open court in Statesboro at 10 o'clock a.m. Monday, July 23; and family and friends are invited to attend.

Col. Deal died in April of this year at the age of 83, following a lifetime of law practice in Bulloch county. He was prominent in the civic, religious, and political life of this area, and had served in many capacities of leadership in local, state, and national affairs.

Secretary Of The Army Celebrates With 101st AAA Gun Battalion

A former Georgia National Guard unit helped Secretary of Army Frank Pace Jr. celebrate his 59th birthday at Camp McCoy, Wis., on July 5.

Making a whirlwind tour of the camp on his birthday, Secretary Pace also saw how the 101st AAA Gun Battalion, in the Battery C mess hall, Battery C originally came from Swainsboro, and the other batteries are also from Georgia.

Two special birthday cakes were sent to the camp. Secretary Pace said he was very glad to see that they were well treated but more than well treated. Then, turning serious, he explained that every man in today's Army has a unique opportunity to help keep things that make us proud to be Americans.

"These things won't stay with us just by wishing," he said. "We got to pay to keep them. The Army is there when it comes to taking the rap in the front lines, and I hope to see that they're there when it comes to getting a share of the credit."

Before leaving to continue his tour of the post, Secretary Pace told the mess sergeant, Sgt. Alton Davis, of Swainsboro: "You've got a fine mess here, sergeant, and nobody ever enjoyed eating with you more than I have."

This endorsement of their hospitality, though a cutting cake, was not surprising to Sgt. Davis and WOJG William A. Edfield of Rocky Ford, the mess officer.

Hospitality is an old Southern custom in Battery C—except when they're manning their ack-ack guns.

BURNED—ELLINGTON

Marked with simplicity was the beautiful double ring ceremony which took place Saturday afternoon at 5:30 at the Nevils Methodist Church as Levia Burned, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. James Theron Ellington of Brooklet and Camp Gordon, Augusta. The ceremony was performed by Rev. L. Cecil Wimberly, pastor of the Nevils Church.

Palms, ferns and other greenery formed a background for the tall lighted tapers in branched candelabra. Lovely arrangements of white dahlias, carnations, and double white gladioli were used in the altar decorations. Reserved seats were marked with graceful bows of white satin ribbon.

Mrs. Marcus D. May presided over the wedding music and Felton Young was soloist.

Harold Brannen of Statesboro was best man. Usher-groomsmen were Butler Lewis and Kenneth Shuman, cousins of the bride.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in her wedding gown of white nylon organza lavishly embroidered and worn over white slipper satin. Fashioned along princess line, the full skirt extended to form a graceful train. The double fingertip veil of silk net fell from a coronet of seed pearls. Her bouquet of white carnations, centered with a white orchid with purple throat, was showered with staphenotis and streamers of chintilly lace.

Miss Armina Burned, her sister's maid of honor, wore a gown of imported lavender organza. Her headpiece was a halo hat of gaily matching her dress. She carried a nosegay of white and lavender asters tied with lavender ribbon. The bridesmaids were Miss Emma Burned, cousin of the bride, and Miss Jewell Ellington, sister of the groom. Their dresses of green and yellow were fashioned like that of the maid of honor.

Little Barbara Martin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Martin of Ellist, the flower girl, was dressed like the maid of honor.

Mrs. Burned, mother of the bride, wore a navy chiffon with rhinestone trim at the neckline and used in yoke effect on the waist. Her corsage was of white carnations. The groom's mother wore a white tulle suit with a pink corsage. The two grandmothers, Mrs. J. W. Butler and Mrs. H. C. Burned, wore navy dresses with white corsages.

Levia Reception After ceremony immediately after the ceremony, a reception was held at the lovely new home of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond G. Hodges. The house was decorated throughout with palms, ferns, and bowls of white summer flowers. The bride's table, overlaid with handmade crocheted lace table cover, was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake on a silver plaque, surrounded by white feverfew, maiden hair fern and puffs of white nylon net.

Punch was served by Misses Laphane, Warlock, Genevieve Ham, Joyce Elliot and Jean Austin. The wedding cake was cut and served by Mrs. Robert Cox, Misses Margaret Anderson and Beverly Brannen kept the bride's book.

Others assisting in receiving and serving were Mrs. R. G. Hodges, Mrs. R. C. Martin, Mrs. Cohen Lanier, Mrs. J. M. Lewis, and Miss Roberta Hodges.

Thirty-six guests were present.

Prisoner Works Two Years and Tunnels 70 Feet to Freedom

BALTIMORE—One of the most sensational escapes in American penal history was carried out successfully recently by Joseph Holmes, a Baltimore Negro serving 20 years for burglary in the Maryland state penitentiary.

During pre-dawn darkness he crawled through a narrow, 70-foot tunnel that took him two years to dig.

Warden Edwin T. Svenson said, "It's the most fantastic escape I've ever heard of." He said it must have taken Holmes at least two years to burrow to freedom.

Svenson gave this version of the break:

Holmes loosened a piece of square plate, about two feet square, and bored through 10 inches of concrete before he reached dirt.

Then he burrowed a downward angle for 10 feet, then leveled off under the massive stone wall and a dry moat, and then dug 30 feet up.

The tunnel emerged in a grassy plot with only a 7-foot fence between the opening and freedom. It was only a short stroll from there to his mother's home.

Near the middle of the tunnel was a small "room" about 3 feet wide and 6 feet high, formed by fresh water seeping into the small area. The sides were matted with old pieces of clothing, apparently to prevent a cave-in.

Svenson estimated that Holmes clawed out the tons of dirt with bits of scrap iron, carried the dirt in his clothing back to his cell, then flung it down the toilet.

Holmes, known as the "dinner-table burglar," was in his 10th year of the 20-year sentence. He had been in and out of prison since he was sixteen.

Built at a cost of five million dollars in 1875, the famed hotel has a history of its own, as gaudy as the flamboyant era of the Barbary coast, which was characterized San Francisco.

The first structure was destroyed in the San Francisco fire. It was rebuilt almost immediately.

The Palace now has 2,000 beds, 100 chefs in its kitchen and the famous grand manager which attracted three generations of royalty and debutantes.

British Jet Spans Atlantic in 4 Hours and 40 Minutes

GANDER, New Foundland—The fastest crossing of the Atlantic in history—4 hours and 40 minutes—was made recently by a British jet bomber. But the bomber's time was slower than the sun.

Sing head winds slowed the bomber which has a speed rated at better than 600 miles an hour. The jet made the swing in 3 1/2 hours—60 miles an hour.

The first jet aircraft ever to fly the Atlantic without refueling, the plane beat the best previous westward record by 30 minutes. It is a possible addition to the U.S. air force.

The plot, A. E. Callard, said he was at an altitude of eight miles or more part of the way and averaged around 530 miles an hour for the first hour and a half. Heavy winds then cut down his speed.

Named the Canberra, the plane is the world's first jet bomber, and will be exhaustively studied by U.S. air force experts as part of the exchange of military information among Britain, the United States, and Canada.

The plane is 65 1/2 feet long and has a wing span of 64 feet. It has a pressurized cabin for high-altitude flight. Its maximum speed and ceiling are military secrets.

Germany's Patriotic Henry? Rallies Both East and West

BERLIN, Germany—Germans on both sides—east and west—were thrilled recently when Hermann Goebbels' son, 18, died a Communist death sentence with Patrick Henry sentiments.

"I love my freedom more than my life," young Flade told a Communist court in a Russian controlled district.

Flade, a Catholic from Bavaria, was tried as an "enemy of the state" for distributing leaflets last year urging votes against the Communist-controlled "national front" list, the only state permitted in the east zone election. While being tried Flade knifed a policeman, was back on duty.

Communist faithful packed the courtroom and a public address system carried his words outside the building.

Flade admitted that he handed out Communist pamphlets, assuming that he opposed the Communist system and that he thought his son was part of the democratic movement. The charged prosecutor spoke off the loudspeakers and the court imposed the death sentence.

Superstition Dogs $2 Bill,

Reduces Their Circulation

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Superstition continues to dog the $2 bill, Mrs. Georgia Neese Clark, treasurer of the United States, reports. She says the issuance of $2 bills in greater numbers could save the government a lot of money, but because of superstition federal reserve banks will not ask for them as currency except in certain localities.

Boston likes the $2 bill. Mrs. Clark believes this is due to the in-born, hardy thriftiness of some New England people. Since the $2 bill saves costs in time of handling as well as printing, it is also popular in areas where race tracks are located.

Many of the bills find their way back to the treasury with their four corners turned over or cut off. This has been done by superstitious holders—to destroy the "hex."

The superstition is believed to stem from the language of gamblers in the early history of the U.S. when the number "2" was called the "deuce," and thus was derived the expression, "the deuce you do" for "the devil you do."

Mrs. Clark says the superstition today because great numbers of $2 bills are mutilated and have to be withdrawn and new ones substituted. The life of a $2 bill is from 6 to 9 months, Mrs. Clark reports.

Naval Studies Show Living

Layers at Bottom of Oceans

WOODS HOLE, Mass.—Scientists know there are mysterious living "scattering layers" in the Atlantic and Pacific oceans of some kind of animal life and are now trying to determine their nature.

Dr. John B. Hersey, a member of the Woods Hole oceanographic institution, said the "scattering layer" was detected during World War II by scientists using a device called an "echo-sounder." Principles of this device are included in the navy's sonar, used to detect enemy submarines.

Hersey said there may be several layers, one above the other, and that the size of the objects in them can be roughly determined by using different features of the "echo-sounder."

He said the "echo-sounder" gives the possibility of tracing schools of fish but more must first be known about the sound-scattering properties of the marine life in the scattering layer.

"When this is learned," he said, "we will be able to know a great deal about the whereabouts of the schools and their food supply."

Shrine Circus Lion Kills

Tiger as Children Look On

DISTRICT, While 3,000 horrified children looked on at the opening performance of the Shrine circus, a lion and tiger tangled in a savage to the death fight.

The jungle beasts began to fight as Clyde Beatty, veteran animal trainer, was completing the final number of his act.

A lion, jumped to the show, suddenly lunged from his perch and pounced on a performing female tiger. He sank his teeth in her back.

Beatty fired blank cartridges at close range in a futile effort to drive the animals apart. The wounded tiger finally pulled loose and crept back to its cage. There it dropped dead.

Beatty said the tiger, Sheba, was one of the nation's top performing acts. He said the lion would remain in the act.

Cahow, Believed Extinct Since 1625, Is Caught

NEW YORK—The cahow bird, believed extinct for 225 years, has been rediscovered. He has just been in hiding from people and rats these past three hundred years.

Dr. Robert Chapman Murphy, chairman of the department of birds of the American Museum of Natural History, discovered the bird after a perilous 15-day trek over small islands off Bermuda. He caught five and took their pictures as proof of their existence.

The bird has been widely believed to be extinct since 1625, when a famine struck the island and settlers killed them for food.

Tells of Capture

Mr. Murphy told reporters here he rediscovered the cahow, accompanied by his wife and two ornithologists.

"I had to wait a bit of time in petrels, the family to which the cahow belongs," I had long suspected the existence of the cahow. I got in touch with Louis L. Mowbray, curator of the Bermuda aquarium, who said he suspected the same thing and would be glad to help me look for one."

Murphy and his wife, Grace, flew to Bermuda. Using a diesel-powered launch, they probed the waves washed onto many islands looking for the cahow.

It was dangerous work. The waters around the islands are full of reefs. The coast rises steeply out of the water. High waves churn dangerously all around the sheer coral ledges.

Finally, five days after the expedition began, Murphy wrote a note of victory in his diary: "Jan. 28, Cahow! Bermuda!"

Three hundred years hadn't changed the habits of the cahow. It still nested in deep burrows in limestone rock—some as deep as 11 feet.

Cahow Is Ugly

"Using a bamboo pole equipped with a noose, Mowbray was fishing out the first cahow," Murphy said. "At this point, the cahow was photographed for the first time in history."

If the cahow was once inhibited by zealous hunters, it has lost all fear of man during its long absence.

One was picked up and passed from hand to hand. The bird stood the inspection well. "Apparently he was quite unafraid of the presence of human beings," Murphy wrote.

The bird, it appeared, could well have hidden away all these years because of self-consciousness. "It isn't very pretty, but it just doesn't photograph well. Its photograph looks like a bad combination of penguin, owl, parrot, and jaybird."

Dr. Murphy described the rediscovery of the cahow as "most exciting" to the scientific world.

Cable Car Stalls Over 600 Feet Chasm; Twenty Saved

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil—Augusto Goncalves, an electrician, risked his life to save 20 fellow passengers from a stalled cable car that dangled 650 feet above a mountain chasm for more than seven hours.

Goncalves slid down a rope from the car after it stalled when one of its two cable tracks broke.

He then rigged up an emergency hand-powered car which he propelled out 900 feet along the unbroken cable and rescued those remaining in the car four at a time. He made a total of five trips while thousands watched from the ground fearing the remaining cable might snap.

The passengers said panic rolled through the car as it suddenly swayed dangerously and halted when the car was halfway across the chasm between Urice and Sugar Loaf mountains.

The railway runs on two cables from the ground to Urice mountain and then to the top of Sugar Loaf, a 1,000 foot peak at the entrance to Guanabara bay. The line gives passengers a spectacular view of Rio de Janeiro and its harbor.

Candy Store's Booby Trap Wounds Boy Customer, 13

GARY, Ind.—A booby trap rigged up by a candy store operator seriously wounded a 13-year-old Gary boy and a policeman recently.

The boy, Burl Wade, was shot in the chest. The policeman, William Sheard, in the hand.

William White, operator of the store, told police he rigged up the trap after his store was burglarized. A .38 caliber revolver was mounted on a metal bracket fixed to the inside of the door and set to fire the moment the screen door was opened a few inches.

The boy had gone to the confectionery to buy some candy. When he opened the screen door he was shot.

Officers feared for a while that a gunman had gone berserk in the store. "I wasn't until they fired shots at it, threw tear gas bombs, and accidentally set the store on fire that they discovered it was empty."

Indiana law forbids booby traps.

Shooting Birds Could Be Tragic

A WEEK or two ago we wrote an editorial. We are beginning to wonder if anyone read it. Some did, but it is evident that those it would affect most did not.

It was just a short piece, written mainly because the matter was brought to our attention. And what was it about? Shooting birds within the city limits by the younger kids with rifles and BB air guns.

That in itself doesn't sound so bad. Most young kids do it. Have done it, and will continue to do it. Even we are guilty of it, in our younger days.

But it must be stopped within the city limits and around areas where there are houses. And the only ones to stop it are the parents. If your kid must shoot, carry him out into the wide open spaces.

And why are we so upset over this matter? At first, we were concerned for the young birds and wildlife that we are so fortunate to have with us. Certainly, we want to keep all birds and wildlife that are a pleasure to have. But it has gone further than that.

Only luck prevented a tragedy last week. And we are upset.

Last week a young mother and little boy were out in the yard watering flowers. Out of nowhere came a sharp "zing" and a dull "thud." The sharp "zing" was a bullet and the dull "thud" was the same bullet as it buried itself... no, not in the young mother or small boy... but in the tree by which they were standing... and the mother and boy were standing only a few feet apart... the bullet went between them...

Shooting birds???... It could be tragic... let's stop it... PARENTS... Take your kids out where they will shoot only birds...

smashes are down about 25 per cent.

To Judges Herbert Edmondson and Joseph Blackshear much of the credit for this excellent record. They decided to stop highway carnage and they have made the doubtful pleasure of intoxicated driving so expensive that even persons so foolhardy as to mix gasoline and alcohol lack the daredevilry to confront a $200 to $500 fine.

The judges also snap up a driver's license without so much compunction. The law is intended to protect the innocent and punish the guilty. The actions of our judges serve both ends admirably.

On the highways, law enforcement officers keep an eagle eye out for violators of the law, knowing that their arrests will be backed with the full power of the courts. No one could estimate how many lives this stern diligence has saved since the lid was clamped down.

But a factor in prevention of accidents and discouragement of illegal driving that cannot be lightly disregarded emerges from the publicity attendant to such incidents.

One convicted driver called The Daily Times to say that he would rather have paid a double fine (the original was $400) than "have my name in the paper." The first question many arrestees ask an officer is: "Is my name going to be in the paper?"

When a man gets a half dozen or so beers under his belt and then places that belt behind a steering wheel, he worries lest he be picked up and fined severely, but he also worries lest his name be published and his dangerous deed be made known to the public.

The press as a detraction to crime and law violators has established an admirable record over the years. Newspaper pressure, as long as it lasts, squelches much crime in the bud, alarms the public so that the courts get full backing when they crack down and brings credit to the law enforcement officers who do their jobs.

We intend to keep our end of the pressure going without letup.—The Gainesville Times.

Sidewalk Beggars

OPELOUSAS DAILY WORLD: The truth of the matter is that the sidewalk beggar sits with his hat in his lap because he likes what he is doing. The better the times, the more beggars, because the take is better, too.

With a few exceptions, begging is a profitable enterprise. The overhead is nil, the take represents clear profit, it's cash and that makes it easy to evade the income tax laws, and you'd be surprised how many people can't resist dropping a nickel, or a quarter, in every hat they pass.

You would do a lot more good with your money if you put it in the collection plate on Sunday morning, or donated it to some recognized Opelousas charity.—From "By Other Editors", Savannah Morning News.

Let's Be Thankful In Spite of the Heat

BY VIRGINIA RUSSELL

This is summer—the summer that we promise we'll welcome and never complain about it only last winter would ever finish it's stay and allow spring her chance to come. Whenever we make such remarks or promises, fate has a way of trying to rub it in. For surely this summer seems to be the hottest in many a year but we are getting older and our memory shorter.

We aren't the only one that summer worries, or has worried. Mrs. Peter Marshall in the preface to "Mr. Jones Meets the Master" writes of Peter Marshall: "He prayed about whatever was on his mind and heart. We were amazed that sometimes this included the weather. It may have been inconsequential to us, but it was terribly important to him. He never became acclimated to our heat. He almost had a complex on the subject of America's torrid summers. The summer before last he carried his letters were half love letters and half full descriptions of how he was suffering as Atlanta's temperature rose. To those of us who knew all this, his prayers about the weather sounded strangely rationalization. 'O, God,' he would say, 'We give Thee thanks for the beauty of this day. We know that it takes brilliant sunshine to ripen the grain and to make more beautiful gardens which Thou hast planted and watered.'"

There is a beautiful hymn "Summer Sun Is Glowing" written in 1870, which indicates that the summer was a source of thought in other years. But we know that centuries ago the hot weather provoked thought.

C. L. Lewis in "The Screwtape Letters" has Screeptape, who is writing from below (Hell) to his nephew about how to win souls for their side, say of God. "He gives them (human beings) the seasons, each season different yet every year the same, so that spring is always felt as a novelty yet always as the recurrence of an immemorial theme."

So, instead of thinking about the heat we try to think about how good it is to have seasons. We have named spring the newborn child, summer is the adolescent, fall the middle aged man and winter the old man. We remember that spring always follows winter and know that here is another proof of immortality.

With just a little reasoning we can lift ourselves above the discomforts of the heat by remembering that the summer brings us the harvest of our crops, on which we are all dependent, regardless of our occupation.

So shed as many clothes as decency allows and when you get too red in the face from doing the

We sat in the yard till long after the moon lit up the surrounding hills. We talked about people in Bulloch county—"Miss" Myrtle Olliff, "Miss" Mabel Mathews, Fred and Emmie Hodges, Claude Ben Groover of Lake Park, Fla., and Bartow Groover in England.

To bed about 11 o'clock—wary and sleepy.

JULY 13 (Friday)—Slept the sleep of the dead. Breakfast of eggs, bacon, toast, blackberry jam and coffee. Off at 9 a. m.

We made 332 miles yesterday. We figured it to be about 869 miles from home to NYC, with four days in which to make it, since our reservations are for Sunday, July 15. The rest of the trip—from Mt. Airy, N. C. to NYC—is to be very leisurely—just following our fancy.

We elected to drive on the Blue Ridge Parkway. It's a wonderful drive. It begins near Mt. Airy and extends for nearly 200 miles to connect with the Skyline Drive through the Shenandoah Valley. It's a highway engineering masterpiece.

A constantly unfolding panorama of loveliness which brings catches in one's breath. Scores of places along the drive where people might stop to enjoy the grand views. Picnic spots with benches are all along the way.

The rhododendron blooming, just enough to suggest how beautiful it can be in full bloom.

Millions of dogwoods, promising a pale even Dogwood drive on U. S. 301.

Crimson clover, wild on the highway margins.

Not a single sign except those marking scenic lookout points.

Just a beautiful drive, that Americans seeing America might enjoy their wonderful right to roam as free as the flight of the eagle—completely unrestricted.

VACATION JOURNAL

JULY 4—While other people were out eating watermelon, fried chicken, and shooting off fire poppers, we were finishing up our July 5 AND July 12 issue of our Bulloch Herald. At 7 o'clock we had both weeks' papers finished. We put up our vacation sign, turned off all the power, locked the doors and took off.

JULY 5 to JULY 12—You who have big yards know what we did these seven days! Right! We mowed our lawn. We pulled weeds from our flower beds and borders. We transplanted over 100 iris rizones...

We mulched all the flowering shrubs and 30 saunas. And we spent all Wednesday afternoon watering everything.

About the fifteenth of May we opened our big mouth and in characteristic Coleman manner said to our niece, Ann Evans, "How would you like to take a trip to New York City for your graduation present?"

The fat was in the fire! We had to make good.

So, this morning, we took off, with maps, pencils, a tank full of gas, and infinite confidence that these can travel as cheaply as one.

We spent tonight with "Aunt Nettie Allen," sister of the late Frank Grimes, who lives near Mt. Airy, N. C. We arrived at 2 p. m. and found her at 3 p. m.

Driving through South Carolina we couldn't help comparing every highway scenic lookout point with our Bulloch county.

We noticed a difference in North Carolina. The tobacco looked pretty good. It's later than our bright leaf. Corn looked a little better. We saw very little cotton.

"Aunt Nettie" and family had out the velvet carpet for us when we arrived. North Carolina ham. Wonderful biscuits. Apple pie out of this world.

We sat in the yard till long after the moon lit up the surrounding hills. We talked about people in Bulloch county—"Miss" Myrtle Olliff, "Miss" Mabel Mathews, Fred and Emmie Hodges, Claude Ben Groover of Lake Park, Fla., and Bartow Groover in England.

We stopped in Lexington, Va., and spent an hour with the memories of Robert E. Lee and Stonewall Jackson at Washington and Lee University and Virginia Military Institute.

We saw General Lee's uniform, a pair of his knee breeches, his watch, the skeleton of his horse "Traveler," and his tomb—there in the chapel of W. and L.

At 7 o'clock p. m. we arrived at Howard Johnson's Restaurant, 4 miles from Waynesboro, Va., and

And there were others. We had "old home week."

To bed about 11 o'clock—wary and sleepy.

CITATION

GEORGIA Bulloch County. Mrs. Myrtle D. Roach, having made application for 12 months support out of the estate of J. R. Roach, and appraisers duly appointed to set apart the same having filed their return, all persons concerned are hereby required to show cause before the Court of Ordinary of said county on the first Monday in August, 1951, why said application should not be granted.

This July 2, 1951.
F. I. WILLIAMS, Ordinary.

Clubsters Tell What It Takes To Be Winner

Bulloch county's 4-H Club president, Miss Beverly Brannen, told the members of the club that the club is not a place where you can just sit back and wait for the winner to come. It is a place where you must work hard and be determined to win.

Raymond Hagan, former county treasurer, has been elected as the first place in the meet. Bobby Thompson, county treasurer of the county 4-H Club, proved his metal by taking top honors again in health.

Miss Brannen placed first with her demonstration on cotton and corn. Roger Hagan placed first in rifle shooting, and Raymond Hagan stuck to tractor driving and maintenance. Roger took second place last year. Raymond won first place in the district meet, but lost by four seconds in the state contest. Bobby took first place in the district competition last year but was ineligible for state competition because he was three months below the age limit.

Roger Hagan will compete with other winners at Wahsega the first week in August, and Raymond Hagan will meet other district winners in Milledgeville the third week in August, going from there to the state club congress in Atlanta the first week in October for the demonstration purposes. Miss Brannen and Bobby Thompson are also slated to take on other district winners during the congress.

The real sweethearts of the achievement meeting were Jan Futch and Douglas Cartee in the talent contests. They placed second and third among 39 contestants, but were first in the hearts of all clubsters present if applause and comments can be used as a guide.

A nice deal was made with the prize money. Sandra Pruitt was a "red winner" in mutton.

Youth Camp Is Big Success

The Baptist Christian Youth Camp held recently (July 9-14) at Camp Stephens at Crossville, Tenn., was highly successful. Each year the Ogeechee River Baptist Association and the Tallulah-Baptist Association sponsor this camp designed to emphasize Christian living. This year there were 25 churches represented, 4 states, and 4 denominations. Over 150 campers and counselors attended. Two class periods a day and a worship hour were part of the regular schedule. In addition to swimming, boating, softball, campfire activities, etc. The beautiful scenery at Camp Stephens provided a wonderful setting for Bible study, prayer, worship, and practice in Christian living. Saturday morning and leaving time came all too quickly for campers and counselors alike. All went away with a determination to put into practice the things they had learned there. The general feeling was expressed by a small, sun-burned, happy boy: "I just can't wait 'till camp time again!"

County Applications In R.E.A. Engineers Hands

Bulloch county application for R. E. A. loan for construction of a county-wide telephone system is now in the hands of R. E. A. engineers.

Contact men for the R. E. A. have agreed that the application is sound and warrants consideration of that organization. This opinion was voiced last week when four R. E. A. representatives responsible for rural telephone programs in this area were here and surveyed the entire county as well as reviewing the application for two days.

The telephone cooperative's directors have approved a set of by-laws and incorporating articles for review by R. E. A. before advertisement for a charter.

Wesley Hopper, regional R. E. A. telephone director from Washington, asked that every subscriber for a rural telephone be procured during the next three weeks if at all possible. He pointed out that lines would be planned by the engineer to serve those who asked for service, and that it would be necessary to know who desired the service before plotting the desired routes for the lines.

Directors who are signing up neighbors who are interested, or interested person may leave their applications at the county agent's office. Directors are J. H. Metts, H. E. Allen, W. O. Griner, V. J. Rowe, C. C. Anderson, Sam Neville, and William Crowley.

A. H. Sherrard, telephone expert with R. E. A.; Eugene Britt, fieldman for R. E. A.; and Regional Director Ferrell were also in the county several days last week.

Mr. Metts, local co-op president, stated that if everyone in the county was as interested in rural people having a good telephone system as R. E. A. seems to be in working with them, the work of procuring ample subscribers to make the project the most economical possible would be easy. R. E. A. is truly doing its part to help Mr. Metts.
