ings. Growers are kept busy selling their weed and returning to their barns to continue curing and grading. It is believed the houses here will continue to hold heavy sales until the final auction day, as there is much tobacco yet to be cured in this section.

Some of the best averages seen on the local market in the ten years of selling here have been seen this week. H. J. Atkins sold three sheets, 50 pounds, for $176.54 or an average of $34.61 a hundred. J. E. Futch sold six baskets, 1230 pounds for $444.96 or an average of $36.18 a hundred. D. H. Smith and Turner sold six sheets, 922 pounds, for $334.10 or an average of $46.06 a hundred. L. J. Holloway sold three sheets, 306 pounds for $106.24 or an average of $34.72 a hundred.

Ivey Anderson sold fourteen sheets hundred, Sam Moore sold four sheets 922 pounds, for $318.92 or an average of $34.59 a hundred. Many other good averages have been made, many were higher but were only select piles of tobacco.

Growers are well pleased with the prices paid here this summer. The primegrade bags, brought fancy prices and this week buyers were anxious for leaf which also jumped far above thirty cents on most grades.

Fast Sales Is A Feature Of Local Tobacco Market

COMPARES FAVORABLY WITH RECORDS OF LARGE NORTH CAROLINA MARKETS. RAPID
SALES DUE TO LOCAL AUCTIONEERS KNOWLEDGE OF SELLING.

The rapid rate that tobacco is being sold on the local market has attracted much attention with the three speed kings averaging 339,859 pounds a day.

Statesboro, though selling tobacco for only ten years, is "making rings" around the big markets, according to R. W. MacFarland, sales supervisor.

In nine selling days the local market sold 3,058,732 pounds, or an average of 339,859 pounds a day. Multiply this by five, which is the number of sets of buyers they have on the larger North Carolina markets, and you have 1,699,295 pounds daily, which is a tonnage never yet reached daily for even any three consecutive days on the big markets, according to MacFarland. The average weight per basket on the North Carolina markets are similar to the weight of the baskets on the Statesboro market. The perfect system of selling and the orderly way that tobacco is sold here has much to do with it. The sales at each of the three warehouses are run by men whose life work has been selling tobacco. The three peerless auctioneers who sell tobacco for the three houses in Statesboro are, Mike Griffin, E. M. Littleton and Ray Oglesby. All three are masters of their profession and on any market would stand at the head of the class. They are three real speed kings and with their aid Statesboro will no doubt again lead the one-set-buyer markets in Georgia in tonnage.

Emerson Jones is arrested Tuesday charged with the murder of his father-in-law near Metter. Arrest results from auto collision.

Emerson Jones, local workman, was arrested here Tuesday for the murder of his father-in-law Mel Lee. The shooting occurred at the Lee home, near Metter, Tuesday morning.

Jones, who has been employed by a local contractor, to help with the remodeling of a large building here, came to Statesboro, Tuesday from Metter. On Savannah Avenue, the car Jones was driving collided with a car driven by Jesse Mikell. Deputy Sheriff H. R. Riggs investigated the collision, though no arrest was made. Jones came back to the city to attend to his wrecked car. Later in the day it became the duty of Deputy Riggs to arrest Jones and place him in the Bulloch county jail charged with murder.

The report from Metter stated that Jones and his father-in-law seemed to be on the best of terms. Mr. and Mrs. Jones spent Monday night at the Lee home and Tuesday morning came to Statesboro. He returned to Metter, later in the day, and according to the report from Metter and shot his father-in-law. No definite reason for the shooting could be given by any of the Lee family.

Monday morning at 7:30 a crowd of nearly 1,000 people gathered at the Statesboro air port to await the arrival of the Gulf plane which inaugurated Statesboro's part of the Georgia Air Mail Week.

As scheduled the Gulf plane appeared from the South, circled the air port one time and put down with the ease of a bird alighting, just a few feet from where the gathered crowd was standing. As soon as the plane came to a full stop, Dick Fell, the pilot stepped from the cabin of the plane and was greeted by Geo. T. Groover, postmaster, Fred T. Hodges, chairman of the county board, D. B. Buie of the post office and Leodel Coleman, editor of the Bulloch Herald. Mr. Buie delivered to Mr. Fell the mail bag containing more than 400 pieces of mail addressed to the four corners of the nation.

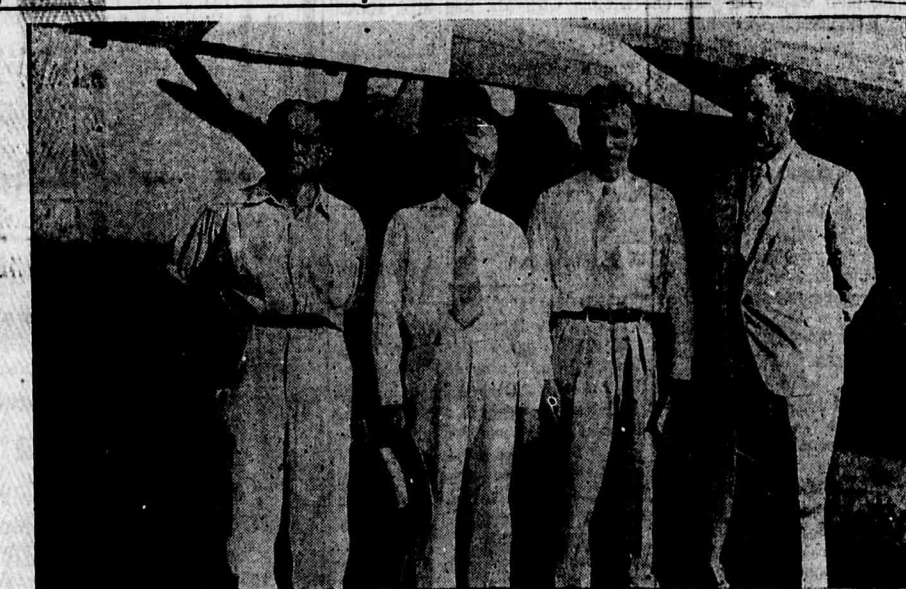

Five minutes after putting down here Mr. Fell had taken off and was on his way to Atlanta where Statesboro's mail joined 12,000 other letters for dispatch to all parts of the United States.

The flight from Statesboro Monday is part of a state wide attempt to secure for rural Georgia its first rural air mail service with feeder lines bringing the mails into Atlanta for clearance to the balance of the nation.

It was learned here Tuesday that R. D. Hager, traffic manager of the Eastern Air Lines was very enthusiastic over the response.

Mr. Fell stated while here that he found the Statesboro air port in excellent shape.

All top hogs brought in the neighborhood of twelve cents with Number Twos and Threes selling in proportion. Cattle sold unusually well for this season with many going far above the seven cents a pound mark.

consultation of judges and the meal, Fiddler John Carson entertained the crowd with music. There was much fun and frolicking with a little dancing (minus the female partners) by local and foreign experts.

The Judges, Hon. Saxon Daniels of Savannah, Sheriff Julius Sipple of Savannah, Charlie Cromley of Brooklet, Solicitor Perry Dukes of the Atlantic Circuit, Judge Hugh Kimbrough of Metter, and J. M. Hagan of Pooler retired to a private room and after sampling plates marked one and two came out with a three-three decision.

The crowd then began howling for "mulldown" and the famous Ogechee River dash with all the trimmings, etc. was served, served, and served until only one or two of the group, including Sheriff Sipple of Savannah, were left at the table, calling for Sam J. Franklin. Proceeding the more. Evidently the crowd, hungry understand the decision—they took it like men.

Before the meal, to state that the crowd was orderly would be misleading—with over 200 men in one dining room order was impossible. After the meal, however, with several plates of stew consumed, the confusion was less noticeable.

The Herald from the beginning of the agitation of a contest several weeks ago, has taken an active part in the contest and with the battle over, the Herald sings the praises of the two contestants, who were real sports.

Where we will go from here remains to be seen. Will there be another battle or will the two contestants be satisfied to divide the honor of the "hampion Ogechee River Mulldown King."

$26.28 a Hundred Highest Average Last Week's Sales

TEN SELLING DAYS SENDS STATESBORO'S TOBACCO
MARKET OVER THE 3,000,000
POUND MARK. 5,004,000 POUND
SEASON ESTIMATED.

First week (two days) 659,480 Lbs.
Second week (five days) 1,535,570 Lbs.
Monday 344,294 Lbs.
Tuesday 359,824 Lbs.
Wednesday 308,068 Lbs.
Thursday 330,000 Lbs.

In ten selling days the Statesboro tobacco market has exceeded the three and one-half million pound mark.

The entire sales for the season last year was 3,029,528 pounds. At the end of the first two weeks last year 2,113,168 pounds had been sold. The indications, now, are that the local market will sell approximately five million pounds.

Last week Statesboro led the entire state in average price paid at $26.28 per hundred pounds.

The first two selling days on the opening week Statesboro sold 659,480 pounds for an average of $22.02. The second week 1,535,570 pounds were sold for an average of $26.28.

This week the market as a whole, has been much weaker with many tips being sold. The prices paid on some grades, however, continues strong and there is a demand for good smoking tobacco.

All this week all three houses have been crowded with weed and many were left on the waiting lists each evening. How long this crowded condition will continue is not known, though experts state that all three houses here will have full sales until the final selling day.

Many unusual averages have been made here within the last few days. J. W. Robertson of Brooklet sold five baskets, weighing 1,470 pounds for $551.76 or an average of $37.53 a hundred. Mr. Robertson's sales ran as follows: 182 pounds at $38, 269 pounds at $38, 232 pounds at $38, 112 pounds at $38; 112 pounds at $37, 190 pounds at $37, and 190 pounds at $37. Ivey Anderson of Register sold three sheets weighing 394 pounds for $147.88 or an average of $37.24 a hundred. J. O. Bacon of Liberty county sold three sheets, weighing 442 pounds, for $167.96 or an average of 38 cents.

These three men had unusually good tobacco and though there were many good averages made on poorer grades the figures on these three sales show that good tobacco was selling high.

PAYS HIGHER PRICES

The tobacco grower watches sales on various markets closely, and he is hard to fool when it comes to prices. When he realizes one market is selling tobacco higher than another he begins to patronize the higher market. Statesboro is a growing market. A growing market is a high market. Statesboro pays higher prices.

Statesboro leads the State in Average Per Pound for All Tobacco Sold on All Markets in Georgia last week.

This is because Statesboro has the most progressive, and efficient set of warehouse men in the state, the Fastest set of auctioneers in the state, a keen set of buyers who know their tobacco and The Greatest Group of Tobacco Growers in the World.

WITH THE COUNTY AGENTS

BYRON DYER ELVIE MAXWELL

FARM TO FARM
(By Byron Dyer)

Early corn can be marketed profitably as well as early finished hogs, declares Eddie Lanier, who practices planting early corn to finish out the season on the fall market before the seasonal drop in prices.

Cattle has just as prominent place in the farming program as hogs, according to Remer Barnes. Mr. Barnes says that he sells his cattle for more clear cash than any other product marketed annually.

Frank Simmons thinks it is just as easy for a farmer to have a beautiful lawn around his home as is found in towns.

If the crop of velvet beans found in John Powell's corn field is any indication of the value of vetch on land during the winter, it would pay all farmers to plant their intended corn acreage in vetch. The increase in the corn yield plus the unusually good beans will give Mr. Powell profits from his winter crop of vetch.

If a farmer cares for his hogs as he usually does his cotton they will give him a higher income from the same land and then the soil will be in better condition at the end of the year, T. E. Deal thinks. Mr. Deal has replaced cotton with hogs.

COUNTY AGENT DYER STATES THAT VALUE OF COTTON CAN BE GREATLY IMPROVED THROUGH PROPER GINNING METHODS.

NOTICE

County Agent Byron Dyer this week urged all Bulloch county cotton farmers to cooperate with the ginners by furnishing him with dry cotton, in so far as this is possible. He declared that the value of cotton can be greatly improved through proper ginning methods, but warned that a smooth job of ginning can not be accomplished when the cotton is taken to the gin green, wet or trashy.

The county agent called attention to results of tests conducted at the experimental laboratory at Stoneville, Miss., which showed that the value of cotton can be increased as much as $4.50 a bale by proper ginning.

Many ginners in this state are now installing an artificial drying apparatus to improve the quality of green, damp, or wet cotton, as well as other devices to clean "trashy" cotton. Despite those devices which aid considerably, it is still preferable to keep cotton clean and dry for best ginning results, the agent said.

On the other hand, it is possible for careless ginners to damage good cotton. The tests showed, for instance, that lint quality damages from tight seed roll, as compared with loose seed rolling ginning, were sufficient to cause average bale value losses ranging from 60 cents for a group of dry cottons of short staple lengths, or $4.50 for a group of green, damp, or wet cottons of long staple lengths.

Mr. Dyer pointed out also that the use of badly worn saws by ginners may cut the value of short staple cotton one dollar a bale, or long staple cotton two dollars a bale.

After citing these possibilities, the agent expressed the opinion that most of the ginners are installing improved equipment and making every effort to better the quality of their work. He again urged farmers to do their part in improving the quality of ginned cotton.

This is to advise that the sheriff's office has instructions to immediately collect all past due taxes in executions for state, county and school. The authorities have been slow to force collection of taxes for past few years owing to financial conditions, but with better times these taxes must be collected and the sheriff has instructions to make levies immediately in all cases where settlements are Arrangements have been completed with Delmas D. Rushing to set apart Saturday of each week to gin the Dixie Triumph cotton seed purchased from the breeder by local farmers this year.

Most of the farmers purchasing these seed purchased only enough to plant a small acreage with the intentions of saving all the seed from this acreage to plant in 1937. Since practically all the farmers in Mr. Rushing's gin area purchased some of the seed the ginner gladly agreed to cooperate with his neighbors to help establish better staple cotton in the community.

County Agent Byron Dyer stated that he would be glad to help arrange gin days with other ginners if the present plans are not sufficient to take care of the particular variety of cotton. There may be farmers also in other sections of the county that live too far to carry their cotton to Mr. Rushing's that would like to have it ginned elsewhere. Although no other ginners have informed the farm agent they would set apart gin days, the demand is sufficient they would be willing to cooperate.

Martin, the balance to Mr. Nesmith. Mr. Nesmith and his colored farm hand were the only ones present when the fire was discovered.

The mysterious disappearance of the purse could not be accounted for by either of the five individuals present, because they were busy with their own banking business. Some legal actions were attempted but no case could be charged to any definite individual because of lack of evidence.

Local Market Nearing Five Million Pound Mark Thur.

LARGEST SEASON IN HISTORY OF MARKET

First week	659,480	pounds
Second week	1,555,570	pounds
Third week	1,495,328	pounds
Monday	360,200	pounds
Tuesday	347,000	pounds
Wednesday	305,000	pounds
Thursday	290,000	pounds
	4,992,276

The Statesboro tobacco market is nearing the five million pound mark through Thursday's (yesterday's) sales and indications are that when today's and Monday's sales are added to the totals the market will have sold well above five million pounds.

Last year the total poundage of the local market was above 3,600,000 pounds, the largest season in the history of the local market. This summer the total poundage will be between one and a half and two million pounds greater than last year. With Monday the final day of the 1937 selling season the most conservative estimate that the Statesboro market will have sold five and one quarter million pounds.

In average price apid the local market has not kept pace with other markets of the state but has taken a lead in that field. For the first week Statesboro averaged $21.67 a hundred pounds, for the second week an average of $26.28, the highest in the state, was paid, and last week an average was $17.89 a hundred the second highest in the state. The state average through the third selling week was $21.37 a hundred while the Statesboro average was $21.44 a hundred.

This week the prices have not been as good as they were earlier in the season since tips and much poor weed began to reach the floor.

There has been much discussion on the local market for several days concerning the rush and pace of space. There is also much discussion concerning the building of new warehouses here for next season's sales. It is generally accepted that the three houses here are not adequate to take care of the tobacco that is brought to Statesboro for marketing. Incidentally, almost every day during the sales last week much tobacco left Statesboro and either went to the other markets or was carried back home to be sold at a later date.

It is understood here that both the Georgia and Florida and the Central of Georgia railroads are actively interested in building more warehouses for the local market. It is generally accepted that another house will be ready here before another marketing season and the possibilities of three new houses is being discussed.

Paying out from $75,000.00, to $90,000.00 a day for tobacco has meant much to this section this year and though the prices declined during the past few days most tobacco growers came out on top on the 1937 crop.

Livestock Sales Here Increasing

MORE THAN ONE THOUSAND HEAD OF HOGS AND OVER 200 HEAD OF CATTLE SOLD ON TWO LOCAL LIVESTOCK MARKETS.

Livestock sales here are increasing in numbers week by week and over one thousand hogs and 200 head of cattle were sold at the two auctions Tuesday and Wednesday.

A beautiful sight at the Statesboro Livestock Commission Company, Wednesday, was the lot of white face steers sold by K. H. Harville, prominent Bulloch county farmer. Mr. Harville sold six head of steers weighing on an average of 750 pounds apiece. F. C. Parker and Son at their sales sold 635 hogs and 135 cattle. Top hogs brought around $11.50 a hundred while one lot sold for $12.00 a hundred. Feeder pigs brought from 12 to 15 cents. Prices of cattle were about the same as last week.

At the Bulloch Stock Yard, Tuesday, 525 hogs and 65 head of cattle were sold. Top hogs brought $11.65, cattle prices were steady. The best cattle brought $6.80, common native feeder yearlings 4 to 5 cents, common cows brought $3.25 to $3.65 a hundred, butchers from $4.00 to $4.75, pigs from $8.50 to $12.00. R. C. Connell of Adel bought one lot of Poland China pigs for $15.50 a hundred.

Though there was a drop in the Chicago hog market this week the local market sold higher than any other points in the state.
