STATESBORO, GEORGIA, FRIDAY, AUGUST 20, 1937

Local Market Nearing Five Million Pound Mark Thur.

LARGEST SEASON IN HISTORY OF MARKET

First week	659,480	pounds
Second week	1,555,570	pounds
Third week	1,495,328	pounds
Monday	360,200	pounds
Tuesday	347,000	pounds
Wednesday	305,000	pounds
Thursday	290,000	pounds
	4,992,276

The Statesboro tobacco market is nearing the five million pound mark through Thursday's (yesterday's) sales and indications are that when today's and Monday's sales are added to the totals the market will have sold well above five million pounds.

Last year the total poundage of the local market was above 3,600,000 pounds, the largest season in the history of the local market. This summer the total tonnage will be between one and a half and two million pounds greater than last year. With Monday the final day of the 1937 selling season the most conservative estimate that he Statesboro market will have sold five and one quarter million pounds.

In average price apid the local market has not kept pace with other markets of the state but has taken a lead in that field. For the first week Statesboro averaged $21.67 a hundred pounds, for the second week an average of $26.28, the highest in the state, was paid, and last week an average was $17.89 a hundred the second highest in the state. The state average through the third selling week was $21.37 a hundred while the Statesboro average was $21.44 a hundred.

This week the prices have not been as good as they were earlier in the season since tips and much poor weed began to reach the floor.

There has been much discussion on the local market for several days concerning the rush and lace of space. There is also much discussion concerning the building of new warehouses here for next season's sales. It is generally accepted that the three houses here are not adequate to take care of the tobacco that is brought to Statesboro for marketing. Incidentally, almost every day during the sales last week much tobacco left Statesboro and either went to the other markets or was carried back home to be sold at a later date.

It is understood here that both the Georgia and Florida and the Central of Georgia railroads are actively interested in building more warehouses for the local market. It is generally accepted that another house will be ready here before another marketing season and the possibilities of three new houses is being discussed.

Paying out from $75,000.00, to $90,000.00 a day for tobacco has meant much to this section this year and though the prices declined during the past few days most tobacco growers came out on top on the 1937 crop.

Livestock Sales Here Increasing

MORE THAN ONE THOUSAND HEAD OF HOGS AND OVER 200 HEAD OF CATTLE SOLD ON TWO LOCAL LIVESTOCK MARKETS.

Livestock sales here are increasing in numbers week by week and over one thousand hogs and 200 head of cattle were sold at the two auctions Tuesday and Wednesday.

A beautiful sight at the Statesboro Livestock Commission Company, Wednesday, was the lot of white face steers sold by K. H. Harville, prominent Bulloch county farmer. Mr. Harville sold six head of steers weighing on an average of 750 pounds apiece. F. C. Parker and Son at their sales sold 635 hogs and 135 cattle. Top hogs brought around $11.50 a hundred while one lot sold for $12.00 a hundred. Feeder pigs brought from 12 to 15 cents. Prices of cattle were about the same as last week.

At the Bulloch Stock Yard, Tuesday, 525 hogs and 65 head of cattle were sold. Top hogs brought $11.65, cattle prices were steady. The best cattle brought $6.80, common native feeder yearlings 4 to 5 cents, common cows brought $3.25 to $3.65 a hundred, butchers from $4.00 to $4.75, pigs from $8.50 to $12.00. R. C. Connell of Adel bought one lot of Poland China pigs for $15.50 a hundred.

Though there was a drop in the Chicago hog market this week the local market sold higher than any other points in the state.

A Deck of Cards Reveals

Mr. L. W. Hart of Bulloch county, having traveled over the world, comes into the Herald's office and tells the following tale which he states happened to Richard Lee in Glasgow Scotland.

"While roaming around throughout this old world I find many things happening. This is one of the things that happened while in Glasgow Scotland.

"A private soldier by the name of Richard Lee was taken before the magistrates of Glasgow for playing cards during services in a church. During the church services all the congregation who had their Bibles with them used them during the services, but this soldier had neither Bible nor common prayer book. So he pulled from his pockets a deck of cards and spread them before him. He looked at first one then another, throughout the deck. The sergeant of Mr. Lee's company saw him and requested him to put away the cards, saying that the church was no place for such. But Mr. Lee refused, so he was taken before the mayor of the city. When questioned regarding his actions in the church Mr. Lee explained that not having a Bible prayer book he went through the cards in the deck and when he saw the ace it reminded him of the one God, when he saw the deuce it reminded him of the Father and the Son and the three reminded him of the Father, the Son and the Holy Ghost. Going further he stated that the four reminded him of the four Evangelists that preached, Mathew, Mark, Luke and John. When the five turned up it reminded him of the five virgin girls that trilled their lamps, remembering that there were ten virgins he was reminded by the five that five of the virgins were foolish. The six told him that in six days the Lord did make heaven and earth and the seven told him that on the seventh day He did rest. The eight reminded him of the eight righteous persons that were saved when God destroyed the world, Noah, his wife, three sons and their wives. The nine called to mind the nine lepers that were cleansed by the Saviour. The ten reminded him of the Ten Commandments which God had given to Moses on the tablet of stone. When he looked on the king it reminded him of the great King of Heaven which is God Almighty and the queen reminded him of the Queen of Sheba who visited Solomon.

"With the deck gone through except the Jack the Mayor asked Mr. Lee what it reminded him of. Mr. Lee stated that the Jack reminded him of the knave who haled him in to court. Going still further he stated that when he counts the spots on all the cards in the deck, he finds 365 which tells him how many days there are in a year. When he counts the number of cards in the deck he finds 52 which tells him the number of weeks in the year and the twelve picture cards in the pack tells him there are twelve months in the year and the thirteen tricks that can be won tells him the number of weeks in a quarter.

"Concluding his statement Mr. Lee told the mayor that his deck of cards served him as his Bible, as an almanac and as a common prayer book. Mr. Lee was released."

By liming and fertilizing old permanent pastures, some of my neighbors get about 40 days of extra grazing a year.

Our July weather this year was ideal for most farm operations. This was, by the way, in marked contrast to the weather of a year ago. Both cotton and corn advanced satisfactorily during the month, and the weather was especially good for the harvesting of winter grains.

We note in a recent item from Washington where the U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics is preparing for a referendum this month to determine whether the tobacco market at Mendell, North Carolina, shall be designated by the Secretary of Agriculture for free and mandatory tobacco inspection service. The request for a referendum was made by tobacco growers, warehousemen, and other business men of Wendell. This is provided in the terms of the Tobacco Inspection Act.

Farmer up in the mountains are having considerable success this year with Irish potatoes. We have heard of some mighty fine yields per acre, and there is a ready market for this product.

When W. S. Preterious found that he was producing an abundance of green foliage in the corn fields he sought a plan to reduce this and at the same time receive some income for it. He purchased a few small calves and turned them in the field. So far the calves have not done the corn any damage and are getting fat.

With the outlook indicated cheap corn if not marketed early John Barnes thinks that artificial heat can be used profitably to cure the corn and then put a mature product on the market. To accomplish this purpose Mr. Barnes pulled the corn after the shucks turned yellow and placed it in a tobacco barn. Heat was increased gradually until he thought the corn was dry.

R. E. Nesmith finds that he can produce something in the fields that hogs alone will not market nor can it be harvested for other feed. To solve the problem he purchased a few steers and placed them in the field to help the hogs market some of the otherwise waste.

A farmer that has turpentine timber can work it profitably, according to Frank Simmons. Mr. Simmons says that he does not have much timber but that it will just about keep his farm going through the spring and summer.

"A BIT DOG HOLLOW"

Article six, section one, paragraph one of the Georgia State Constitution provides the purposes for which revenue that is raised through taxation may be used. A quick glance at that list and at once it will be seen that the "Domestic fathers" who drafted our Constitution, soon after the War Between the States, intended that no inroads be made on the people. But this period of fear under which they lived has passed. The State under Governor Rivers is now entering upon a new order with a different purpose—a new deal. But there must be money to finance this new deal. The Governor promises that there will be no new taxes, just a redistribution of the tax burden.

If there is going to be a redistribution we must find a new class of people in the state that are not taxed. About the best way this paper knows to find that new class is just to look around and see who is doing the "hollowing" about their taxes. We think that we have looked into this matter very thoroughly, and it seems that there is only one type of citizen who is not bearing his share of the burden. The farmer is paying enough taxes; he is struggling under the burden every day. Corporation taxes have driven many of the big companies out of the state, and with the tax so high no new ones are entering. The people who have invested their money have such high rates to pay on the returns that they receive from their investments, that they are having a hard time of it. Home owners can not pay any more each year also, they need relief.

That list seems to include every one in the state but the man in the city who lives in an apartment or a rented house and who makes about the same income that any of the property owners and farmers. But his income is not large enough to be taxed under the income tax laws and so he goes "free." He enjoys police, fire, and sanitary protection. His children go to school free and he has recourse to the courts of justice. In a nut shell he gets all the advantages of living in the Empire State but he does not pay one thing for the privilege.

While the "powers that be" are investigating this problem of taxation, we suggest that they take a look into this side of the problem. The man that lives in the apartment of the rented house, and who pays no share of the tax burden is just as eligible for old age pensions as his tax paying neighbor. There is absolutely no reason why he should not bear a part of the expense. Perhaps a graduated tax on the price of the rent of his abode would be the most justifiable type. This should not be an additional tax on the property but should be a tax only on the place when it is occupied. If a landowner has a house which he rents normally, but which for some reason is unoccupied, there should be no tax. But if it is occupied, then there should be a tax on the right to live in that place, and in Georgia, in proportion to the amount of rent which the place brings.

Such a tax would increase the revenues of the state many times, yet it would place no additional burden on the people, for this is a class of people who are "scott free" today. Not only would it increase the revenues of the state, but it would serve as an incentive for non-home owners to build and locate in this state.

MUST THEY CLOSE?

Last Monday at noon before the Rotary club Robert F. Donaldson, Jr., of the Teachers' College hinted at a situation that is beginning to demand the attention of all sections in which there is located a tobacco market.

With the announcement that the local market will close Monday, August 22, there comes word from a great number of growers that they have not finished their curing and that they cannot get their tobacco to market before it closes, unless they rush the process necessary to prepare it for the market, which will reduce the grade and therefore the price that they may get for it if they succeed in getting it to market before the market does close.

The situation which exists on all the Georgia tobacco markets, and at which Mr. Donaldson referred to, is being brought to light and the system which creates this situation is being criticized and a remedy demanded by two of the best informed and most influential newspapers in the tobacco belt. Their views were important to us since the same situation exists here on our market.

The Moultrie Observer says: "There is a lot of tobacco this year. Some of it has been curing out surprisingly well. It will probably be two or three weeks before the last of this tobacco is gathered, cured, seasoned, graded and marketed."

"Nervousness has been displayed by some who fear that the markets will close before all of the tobacco is ready for sale. Some have felt it necessary to caution the growers against too much haste, however, since a certain amount of time is required to get tobacco in condition for the market. It is a case in which haste makes waste. Tobacco hurried off to the market in poor condition will sell far below the value it should have... nearly every near we have this talk about the markets closing too soon. The Observer would like to see them remain open for two months, and we think the growers would profit by more orderly marketing. It has been our observation, however, that the grower is the man who hurries up market, opening up late there are block sales and the endeavor to sell it all in a day. This makes for waste. Best prices cannot be had when there is crowding in the selling places."

The Tifton Gazette suggests specific alterations in the present system, saying: "The Gazette believes that most every one will agree that there is need for something to be done about the regulation of tobacco marketing in Georgia. The only difference of opinion is as to what should be done. Everybody agrees that the selling season is too short and that Georgia growers do not have time to get their tobacco in proper condition before it has to be rushed to the market. The reasons for this are too well known to necessitate repeating here. The Gazette would suggest as a means of giving Georgia a longer leaf selling season, that the warehouseman and buyers be licensed by the state, each warehouseman being required to pay an annual fee of $5,000 and each buyer $1,000 a year. If the warehouseman operates his house for thirty selling days, which would mean over a period of six weeks, he would be refunded all except $25 of his license fee, and if the buyer remains on the market until it closes, he would be refunded all except $10 of his fee—the $25 from the warehouseman and $10 from the buyer being retained to cover the cost of licensing and supervision... There is no means by which the tobacco companies can be forced to send buyers to Georgia. They do it because they want some of the fine leaf produced in the state, and if they decided not to buy in Georgia there is nothing we could do about it."

The Atlanta Journal, in commenting on the above statements, says: "It has been obvious for several seasons that there is general dissatisfaction in South Georgia with the auction system as now conducted. It is probable that dissatisfaction is sufficiently well founded to warrant a study of the situation by the ablest of our legislators and the recommendation of reforms."

"So important and so specialized, however is the commodity that the study should be thorough and the ensuing legislation well considered."

THE JUNALUSKA CROSS

Yesterday afternoon in the midst heights of Missionary Point, where of a typical mountain rain storm that we parked for our first "cupful" at times threatened to wash away all this Methodist camp ground. At the foot of the mountain, the highest point of the mountain we sat try the road-way, Charlie & Myrtle, beneath the Junaluska CROSS, a and the aged gent set our sails for huge metal cross, towering 25 feet Junaluska. Some thirty miles beyond high, its outlines on face and back Asheville in this wonder-spot of being brought out by thickly lined Western North Carolina. We hadn't sets of electric lights, 200 bulbs, be gone more than three miles from inquired for illumination. When the rain, the sun came out in all its fifteen years ago, the thought of the glory. Nature painted the hillsides management was that it would be and valleys with its choicest hues lighted only during the summer season and about as happy a party as you son. But when the season closed and ever saw proceeded to burn gasoline a week had passed, there came a peevish reckless abandon. Out from the brakemen, engineers Asheville for some twenty miles this and conductors of the Southern Railway highway (to Atlanta) by the way is road, asking that the cross be lighted every night of the year. They finest we ever drove over. The county had grown accustomed to watch for trestle what the mountaineers call "rolling," and they are right to this extent: when you are going down hill you sure can roll plenty, and when you go uphill it takes a whole lot of gas to keep your turn wheels from rolling over your back wheels as the rolling over to run backwards. But it's hillside scenery at its best. That Junaluska trip stands out from any trip we ever took up here for sheer magnificence and beauty.

We hadn't reached the lake and assembly grounds before we had forgotten the Methodist for whatever it was they had done to us in the ages gone (that is, all but ONE). When the writer was a mere boy, a little stuffed frog kind of fellow with lots of freckles and plenty of fire-red hair, Uncle Jesse used to bring a good old Methodist preacher to our house occasionally for dinner. Early in the morning mama would make brother Worth and myself chase chickens until our short legs were all wearied, as she prepared stuffing for the good brother. And then it was the duty of your reporter to fry this same cut up chicken in sizzling hog lard until it was a tender golden brown, place it on the best dish and serve it to the table. In those halcyon days of our youth it was the custom, horrible as it seems, for the children to "wait" for the second table, which usually meant to "wait" for necks, wings and feet of the old and ends the first table grown-ups didn't want. Right then and there this scribe promises God if He would give him some boys they'd NEVER have to "wait" for the second table... and He will testify that altho we have broken many other promises (both to Him and the gentler sex) we've never broken THAT one. Our chillun eat first... the grown-ups take the second table. But that's a little aside... What we started to say, we sorter fell out with Methodist preachers (and with Presbyterian preachers and Baptist preachers likewise) back in those days, for we never did get to like that second table business. Buy that trip to Junaluska made us at peace with the world and because the Methodist preachers helped to build this lovely spot we have forgiven them. You know that some where in the great unknown innermost parts of us is a kind of bell that only a glance of loveliness can ring. It may be the majesty of the mighty ocean, the towering magnificence of a mountain peak or the perfect loveliness of a pair of human eyes... it may be expression in any of God's handiwork... but somewhere, somehow, the perfect works of a perfect God lifts us out of the commonplace world in which we live and for a brief moment gives us a glimpse of Heaven itself. For want of a better word, we ordain that the Methodist who hasn't rested at Junaluska, the Baptist who hasn't been inspired at Ridgecrest or the Presbyterian who hasn't been uplifted at Montreat has missed one of the finest moments of his life.

And now, if you haven't already turned the dial may I add this thought from the pen of Ripley D. Saunders: Just being happy is a fine thing to do. Looking on the bright side rather than the blue; Sad or sunny main, is largely in the choosing. And just being happy is brave work and true.

Just being happy helps other souls along; Their burdens may be heavy and them not sing. And your own sky will lighten, if other skies you brighten. By just being happy with a heart full of song.

Well yesterday afternoon Charlie, bless his "forgetful" soul, Myrtle who seems to me the "perfect" wife, and that grand companion of the aging reporter, agreed that here was beauty that not only all Methodists but ALL PEOPLE should see and enjoy. Entering Junaluska by the gate road immediately climbed to the Theme: "The Devil's Graveyard" The burying places of earth's noted dead, from the cave of Mammoth in the land of Canaan which Abraham bought for a burying place, to Westminster, England and Arlington in America, have been places of attraction to people from far and near. There is a place where many people bury their hopes, dreams and ambitions for a great life. This place is known as the Devil's Graveyard. Will you walk with us through this cemetery Sunday morning and read some of the inscriptions on these tombstones?

8:30 p. m. Evening worship and preaching by the pastor. Theme: Life's Great Divides.
Skiting in a northeastern direction across the northwestern corner of the state of Georgia is a long, winding, uneven ridge known to the people of that section of the state as "The Divide." Water falling on the western portion of this divide makes its way into the Tennessee River and hence to the Gulf of Mexico. Water falling a few inches over on the south side of the watershed makes its way into the waters of the eastern seaboard. There are "divides" in human behavior which is quite as decisive and leads to destinies as far apart. Many of these divides are very much alike at first but opposite in direction and destiny. The pastor will be glad to have you think through "Life's Great Divides" with him at this service.

MUSICAL TEA AND RECIPE SHOWER GIVEN FOR POPULAR BRIDE-ELECTS

Miss Catherine Pittman and Miss Evelyn Mathews, popular bride-elects, continue to be complimented at many lovely parties. They were central figures at a seated musical tea and recipe shower given at the handsome residence of Mrs. L. W. Darby on Friday afternoon. The hostesses on this occasion were Mrs. F. W. Darby, Mrs. C. H. Remington, Miss Sara Remington and Miss Dorothy Darby. The guests were greeted on arriving by Miss Lenora Whiteside and Miss Nora Bob Smith and directed to the punch table where Miss Sara Alice Bradley and Miss Dorothy Remington presided. Mrs. Remington met them at the door and presented them to the seating. In the receiving line were Mrs. F. W. Darby, Miss Catherine Pittman, Mrs. M. S. Pittman, Miss Evelyn Mathews, Mrs. C. H. Remington, Mrs. Elton Clifton, a recent bride; Miss Sara Remington, and Miss Dorothy Darby.

Miss Aline Whiteside then directed guests to their seats. Mrs. W. S. Hanner, Mrs. E. L. Barnes, Mrs. Percy Averitt, Mrs. Edwin Groover, Mrs. Waldo Floyd and Mrs. W. M. Phillips led by Mrs. Z. S. Henderson rendered a most appropriate musical program featuring "The Story of Love." Weaving together the matchless ballads of bygone days with modern tunes the singers created a lovely musical mosaic with love throbbing as the central theme, and concluding with "Old Gray Bonnet" whose final lines proudly carry love's dream to its perfect close. "Our Good Wedding Day."

Another interesting feature of this unusual social affair was the cook books compiled from favorite recipes sent in advance by those invited. These attractive booklets were passed and the recipes were autographed and then presented to the honorees. The hostesses also presented Miss Mathews and Miss Pittman with copies of Mrs. Dull's famous cook book.

Following the program Miss Nora Bob Smith, Lenora Whiteside, Mary Sue Atkins, Jewel Watson, Nona Thaxton, Sadie Lee Atkins, Mary Jones Kennedy, Margaret Remington, and Marian Lanier served ice cream and cake and salted nuts. The tea table had a cover of point de Venise lace, the crystal bowl in the center was filled with white pom pom sinias and fern accenting the color motif of green and white which prevailed in the dining room. Encircling the centerpiece were Sheffield glass sticks holding green lighted tapers. Pink gladioli and pink pom pom sinias were used in graceful arrangement in the living room and den.

Miss Pittman was lovely in an aqua lace model with which she used purple accessories; her flowers were sweet heart roses. Miss Mathews wore an American beauty taffeta with jacket, she also wore sweetheart roses. Mrs. Clifton of Brooklet, wore her wedding dress, a lovely white or-gandy, with summer velvet trim. She wore a corsage of pink radette roses. Mrs. Pittman wore a becoming flowered chiffon; her shoulder bouquet was of Lady Hillington roses. Mrs. Mathews wore rose lace over duobonnet; her corsage was of yellow rosebuds.

About one hundred of the married and unmarried contingents were present.

NEVILS NEWS

BY MISS MAUDE WHITE

PICNIC FOR READING GROUP

One of the most appropriate and enjoyable events of the season was the outdoor picnic given in honor of the "Nevils Summer Reading Group" by Miss Maude White last Saturday afternoon from 4:00 to 6:30 o'clock. The children first assembled around the reading tables in the school building to check in their books and discuss the new books that Mr. Halliwell left for them last week. Then they were all invited to the school park where many games were played, songs sung and readings given. Miss Myrtle Lee Bell, of Falmouth, Fla., who has been spending some time with her sister here, assisted Miss White in directing the out door activities. Miss Bell also entertained these youngsters with several suitable readings. After the games they reassembled in the home economics department where they were served an iced course of fruited punch and little cakes. Colored suckers were given as favors. Those assisting with the serving were Mrs. Raymond G. Hodges, Mrs. Leon S. Anderson, Mrs. S. M. Lewis, Mrs. Bell and Mrs. Dukes.

Those present were: Mary Frances and Thomas Foss, Marjorie and Meredith Anderson, Willa Dean and Evelyn Kiehligher, Ramona and Elveta Nesmith, Arminia and Laveta Burnard, Hazel and Vivian Anderson, Virginia and Jeannette Mitchell, Armour and Mary Beth Lewis, Althea and Alva Mae Martin, Wynell Nesmith, J. E. Denmark, Edwena Hagin, Willette Brannen, J. B. Boatright, Ray Hodges, Edwin and Waldo Lewis, Gussie Denmark and Elizabeth Proctor and Charles Dukes.

"FIDDLERS' CONVENTION"

The Fiddlers' Convention to be held Friday night, Aug. 20th, will be spiced with several good negro spiritual quartets by four members of the Savannah Police Department. Other features will be dancing and singing and readings from the different musical contests. Contestants are registering daily. We are still expecting several others to enter.

All contestants are expected to be at the school at 7:15 o'clock on Friday night, Aug. 20th so as to get

Of course every one has to sell some of the leaves at a low price because of its quality, but generally the best quality has sold for a handsome price which pleased the farmers.

ANDERSON BROS. GIN

Cotton is coming in very fast now, and it is necessary for the gin to run a while at night. A little later when the rain subsides and more cotton can be picked the supply is expected to demand day and night work. The Anderson Brothers are planning to use two crews of hands daily making a day shift and a night shift. It seems now that the cotton crop is very good.

This program will be entertaining for all for we have folks participating from four years old to fifty years of age. A good time awaits you. An admission of 10 and 20 cents will be charged, 30 cents for adults and 10 cents for children. Ice cream and other refreshments will be served by the Nevils P. T. A. All contestants are urged to be on time.

NEVILS MAN GINNING AT EMIT

Mr. S. J. Foss, who has formerly operated the ginning plant here for several years is now in business at Emit. Mr. Foss some time ago sold his ginning interests to the Anderson Brother and installed a first class, modern ginning plant at Emit near Mr. Lee Hugh Hagin's store and home. Mr. Foss is a prominent business man of this place and is also a large farm owner. His home is here in town and he motors to Emit to work from his work daily.

COTTON CROP DAMAGED

The down pour of rain that has been continuously coming for the past three weeks has damaged the cotton crop considerably. Much of it has been blown to the ground and beaten in by the rain and much of it has been discolored by the dye from the leaves which will make it sample as storm cotton. Many farmers have gone to a great expense of transporting cotton pickers, from Savannah and other places, to their farms and providing food for them and now the cotton stays too wet to pick. There has also been too much rain for the late fodder. A good bit of it has been lost in the fields. Many tobacco growers of this section are almost through selling their crop. So far it seems that the most farmers are satisfied with the prices they received.

Mr. G. D. Jackson, of Millen, is spending some time with his aunt, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Ginn. Mr. Raymond G. Hodges was a business visitor in Savannah last week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Ginn and daughter, Margarette, were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Ginn, of Savannah, last Thursday.

Little Miss Freida May Bryant, of Augusta, is spending a part of her summer vacation with her aunt, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Ginn.

Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Hodges, of Savannah, were visiting relative here Sunday. It was reported here Saturday that Miss Emma L. Adams, of Atlanta, would be the music and expression teacher in Nevils High School again this year.

Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Avery and two children, Georgia Bell, and Julian, have returned to their home after Mrs. Avery and children visited friends and relatives of Telfair for a week while Mr. Avery attended a camp convention for vocational men at Dahlonega.

1st Lieut. Hugh F. Arundel, U. S. Res., 29th Infantry, left Sunday for Fort Benning, Georgia, where he will be on duty for two weeks and complete his studies for examination for promotion to his captaincy in Veterinary Corps Reserve.

Dr. Arundel will return to Statesboro on August 28th.

The heading for my column has been a misnomer for the past week or two for the leather has been anything but fair—pretty floors all polished up for tests have been tracked by dainty slippers which perform must encounter some mud or water enroute from cars to doorways. I was quite captivated by the white lace frock worn by Mrs. Linnie Simons at Mrs. Left Daloz's and did you hear somebody murmur, "I'll declare Eloise Morris gets prettier all the time?" If you hear some handsome young man trying to be exceedingly witty and clever, you may well believe that he saw "I Met Him In Paris." It was cute and clever enough to make us all try to be sparkling and original in our conversational efforts. Going back to the tea at Misses. I wonder if you caught yourself listening for the dulcet notes of Julia Carmichael as she sang with our local musicians. And I am going to risk being called a sentimentalist for when Marcie Henderson compiled that group of love songs and began with "I don't know what Bob said to Evelyn or what Harry said to Catherine but we imagine it was the old story of love." I fell under the spell of her artistry in creating charming backgrounds for her musical programs. I understand that a former druggist so deeply interested in Home Economics intends to enter Georgia University this fall. Does he intend to improve in that line? Oh the potency of a pair of brown eyes! Aint love grand? And then the grape vine route has brought me another message about the approaching nuptials of a young girl on South Main street, the wedding to take place in the early fall.

Passing by parading. Nancy Laahley, petite and pretty like a pocket edition at the theatre Mrs. W. H. Sharpe and Mrs. Foxhall audibly appreciate naive retorts of Claudette Colbert in the beauty parlor. Cattle Percy Averitt arouses envy of all the little boys with his puddle jumper. Metropolitan appearance of the Bug-ey and Wagon Company. Entirely too pretty to house nails and plows. F. C. Parker's dog poses for picture. Jack Murphy pale and peaked since Muldown Storie. And more briefly, boys, the swimming pool will soon be closed and the call to books will soon be sounded.

Put away that bathing suit where moths can never find it, and brace yourself for learning and grin and never mind it.

As ever, JANE.

Clifton was the state 4-H club meat animal champion for Georgia for 1936. He started in club work in 1933 with a spotted pig with just begun breeding. Each year the profits from his project have been used to increase the size of his project for the next year. In 1936 he sold $222 worth of products from the several projects. He now has a purebred herd of Angus cattle started and a purebred herd of spotted Poland China hogs along with his range hogs and cobs. Feed for his livestock projects are always included in his spring plans.

Although young Clifton has always shown his fat steers to an advantage at the spring shows he reached his peak in 1936 when he finished and showed the Georgia club champion steer at Savannah.

Livestock has been just one part of this clubber's balanced farming. In 1936 he produced 2150 pounds of lint cotton on three acres of land and averaged 59.6 bushels of corn on three acres. The corn was marketed through three steers and hogs.

Acceptable tobacco prices have been continued over to the South Carolina markets, according to the Bureau of Agricultural Economics. On the August 10 opening day, for instance, prices ranged from one to eight dollars higher than on the opening date last season.

Rotary Club Is Host To District Rotary Governor

Monday at its regular luncheon meeting the Statesboro Rotary club was host to T. T. Molnar, Rotary District Governor.

Mr. Molnar is on his first tour of the district since his becoming District Governor. Statesboro was the first club in the district he visited.

Mr. Molnar expressed his pleasure in finding the Statesboro club doing as well as it is since it is one of the younger clubs in the district. In his address to the club he gave a brief and comprehensive idea of the spirit of Rotary.

He stressed the value of the members calling each other by their first names and the added enjoyment that music can provide at a club's regular meeting.

Mr. Molnar came to the United States from Austria, having been born and educated in Budapest. He resided in New York city for a while working with the American Society of Engineers. While doing welfare work with the society he was impressed with the "dog eat dog" attitude that certain men of that city did their business. One day being invited to a Rotary luncheon of the Statesboro club, he was struck with the spirit of fellowship that existed between the members of the club. The ease at which they found themselves in each other's company. It became Mr. Molnar's ambition to become a part of such an organization. He married a Catholic, Georgia, girl, and came to Georgia and for ten years has served an active membership with the Rotary club there. He was president for one year. This year he was elected Governor of District No. 165 which comprises the state of Georgia.
