Loss From Leaching Cotton Loan Plan Can Be Checked By Much Like That of '35 Winter Cover Crop

A legume crop plowed under in the fall on a sandy soil decomposes rapidly and much of the plant food which it contains leaches out before time to plant a crop the following spring. This loss may be held to a minimum by planting a winter cover crop, says County Agent Byron Dye.

Tests conducted by the U. S. Department of Agriculture in cooperation with the Sandhill Experiment Station in South Carolina showed heavy losses of nitrogen, calcium, and magnesium when there is no winter cover crop. Potash losses are not so serious and phosphorus does not appear to leach.

The roots of a winter cover crop—such as rye, wheat, or vetch—absorb most of the plant food which otherwise would leach away and also are a protection against surface runoff. When in the spring the winter cover is plowed under, the absorbed plant food is returned to the soil.

In addition to the value of winter legumes as a means of protecting and improving the soil, the seeding of these legumes is an approved soil-building practice under the 1937 Agricultural Conservation Program. Any cooperators whose soil building allowance permits, may receive a class 11 payment for seeding these legumes, provided the legumes are adopted to the area and are seeded in accordance with good farming practices for the area.

The Basque Colony, which were among the first settlers of the Argentine, have flourished until they are as numerous as in their traditional homeland in the Pyrenees. They have preserved their racial purity, customs and traditions.

It has been said that legumes and livestock are inseparable. If that statement is true, J. A. Brannen asks, "Why not interplant our cotton with summer legumes as well as winter legumes?" "The peanuts I have been planting in my cotton for several years have not materially reduced my yield per acre and they not only improve the soil but give the hogs some good grazing to finish off with," Mr. Brannen stated.

F. W. Clifton, Jr., says livestock has still another place on the farm. Four years ago Mr. Clifton started out with a scrub barrow pig in the 4-H Club, with the hopes of having something later to start farming or go to college on. The profits from that pig have grown into a small herd of purebred Angus cattle, a half head of purebred Duroc hogs, and about 25 head annually of the common hog sold for slaughter. He sold $822.00 from his project in 1936. This clubster thinks he can now see his way through college and the old scrub pig was the beginning.

"The way to make money off cattle is to graze them through the summer and then sell, holding your feed for brood cows and hogs," declares J. E. Hodges. Mr. Hodges sometimes finds his pastures will take care of more than 100 head of the cattle he tries to keep and he often buys some small steers and then after grazing them through the summer sells them along with his raised stock. His cattle have also been bred up from the range stock with a purebred bull. The 200 hogs raised are finished out and sold in small lots.

T. J. Hagin thinks the best way to make money off cattle is to let the other fellow raise them and he buys about 100 head in these late fall to feed out for the spring market. Just to make sure none of the feed given the cattle is wasted, Mr. Hagin runs some hogs behind the steers while in the feed lot.

Another Master Farmer from Bulloch county, W. H. Smith, says that livestock is a sure-bet on the farm. The farm income is increased and yet the farmer is returning something to the soil to replace that which he is taking away in cotton. To make diversity on his farm, Mr. Smith keeps 300 hogs, 50 head of Angus cattle, 150 hogs, and about 50 goats. The abundance of feed raised by Mr. Smith is used to finish out the cattle and hogs and to feed the farm flock. If diversity is what we want in livestock farming, W. C. Hodges, says that we should go all the way with it. He has about 150 head of Hereford cattle, 300 head of hogs, 250 hogs, a few goats and over 100 head of sheep. Mr. Hodges feeds out his steers and butchers some of them for meat, sells most of them at the farm. His hogs are usually sold in large lots, the sheep are sheared, the wool sold and the lambs marketed locally. This income from livestock helps out the cotton, tobacco, and turpentine sources of income on the Hodges farm.

It has been said that legumes and livestock are inseparable. If that statement is true, J. A. Brannen asks, "Why not interplant our cotton with summer legumes as well as winter legumes?" "The peanuts I have been planting in my cotton for several years have not materially reduced my yield per acre and they not only improve the soil but give the hogs some good grazing to finish off with," Mr. Brannen stated.

Georgians Urged To Beautify State

School Yards Are Suggested For Purpose of Planting Demonstrations

By LEE S. TRIMBLE
Macon, Georgia

Natural scenes are praised by travelers as they pass through our state, but man made sights they too often find much less attractive. Box-like houses, unimproved yards, unpainted buildings, sameness in architecture, such things kill enthusiasm for the wealth of natural beauty which nature covered our countryside.

The expensive way is not open to many Georgians for we are not a wealthy people. But it is not a matter of money only. The humblest of our citizens can, and often do, surround themselves with flowers and grasses. All could do that much given a little pride and energy. A tithe of each day devoted to beautifying the home grounds would do wonders in a year, and if done generally would transform the state into a

The second accident happened in one day in Brooklet on Tuesday of this week. Mr. F. A. Walden of Augusta and a pickup truck had a head-on collision Tuesday.

Tuesday night W. Lee McElveen of the Brooklet community accidentally hit a negro pedestrian on the edge of the town.

The negro, known as George Williams, was walking along the highway with another negro, Emil Lane. Lane stepped off the pavement on Mr. McElveen's approach but Williams did not. Mr. McElveen being blinded by an oncoming car's lights did not see Williams. The car driven by Mr. McElveen hit the negro and knocked him down and it is believed broke two ribs. There were several lacerations on his head.

The attending physician at Brooklet stated he would recover if no complications set in.

Mr. McElveen was completely exonerated in the accident.

$7,500 DAMAGE SUER IS AWARDED $200 BY SUPERIOR COURT

AWARDED $200.00 IN DAMAGE SUIT INVOLVING ACCIDENT WHICH HAPPENED ONE YEAR AGO.

In a $7,500.00 damage suit, Mrs. E. C. Clark of Savannah was awarded $200.00 in Superior Court, Tuesday, in a suit involving an automobile wreck. The car in which Mrs. Clark was riding collided with a car driven by W. S. Pretorius. The suit was brought against Mr. Pretorius.

Four damage suits were filed against Mr. Pretorius. One by Mrs. Clark, the case begun Monday and finished Tuesday, one by Mr. Clark for $202.00, one by Mrs. Lee Nesmith $2,000.00 and one by Mr. Nesmith for $57.00.

The suit tried this week grew out of a wreck which occurred about a year ago, four miles east of Statesboro on the Savannah highway. Mr. Pretorius was driving east from Statesboro towards and when opposite his home he attempted to turn in his drive. At that point his car collided with a car driven by Nesmith, who was coming towards Statesboro.

Mrs. Clark according to the testimony received injuries from the accident which she has not yet recovered.

The case was begun Monday and the entire day was devoted to hearing evidence and arguments by counsel. Judge William, Woodrum charged the jury Tuesday morning and a verdict was reached shortly afterwards. Tuesday, awarding Mrs. Clark $200.00.

The plaintiff was represented by Hitch, Denmark, and Lovett of Savannah, and by Judge A. B. Lovett handling the cross examinations, and Col. R. Lee Moore. The defense was represented by Fred T. Lanier, and J. J. E. Anderson.

THE NEW PARKING REGULATIONS

A step has been taken forward. With the adoption of the ordinance to regulate the parking of automobiles and other vehicles on certain streets with a fixed time limit, the City Council has gone a long way toward relieving the traffic congestion that characterizes the streets of Statesboro.

For some time there has been much said about the traffic and parking situation.
There is going to be much said about the restricted zones and fixed time regulations.
But for those who really are sincere in helping relieve the situation the method adopted by the council will meet their approval.

The ordinance as adopted by the Council is as follows. It names the streets, sets the time limit and penalty for the violation of the ordinance:

1. Be it ordained by the Mayor and City Council of the City of Statesboro, and it is hereby ordained by virtue of the power and authority of the same, that hereafter it shall be unlawful for any person, firm, or corporation to park any vehicle of any sort, including buggies, wagons, automobiles, trucks and motorcycles, in any one parking space and at one particular location, on the streets hereinafter named, in the City of Statesboro, for a longer period at one time than two hours. The streets and parts affected by this ordinance being North Main Street, South Main Street, East Main Street, and West Main Street. And beginning on North Main Street where Hill Street intersects North Main Street, and continuing south along said North Main Street, both right and left, to where North Main Street intersects South Main Street; thence along South Main Street, both right and left, to where East Main Street intersects South Main Street. And beginning on West Main Street where Walnut Street intersects West Main Street, thence going east along West Main Street to where this street intersects East Main Street, thence continuing along East Main Street to the Central of Georgia Railroad tracks; both right and left, on the parts of West Main Street and East Main Street.

2. Be it further ordained, that this ordinance shall be effective each day in the week.

3. Be it further ordained, that any person, firm, or corporation who violates this ordinance shall be fined, upon conviction in mayor's court, not less than $2.00, nor more than $15.00; or confined in the city cala-house not less than five days, nor more than fifteen days, either or both, in the discretion of the mayor trying said case.

4. That this ordinance shall become effective on the first day of October, 1937, and remain in force until repealed.

5. That all ordinances and parts of ordinances in conflict with this ordinance are hereby repealed.

IT MIGHT HELP

With the city council doing all they can to ease the traffic situation here in States-boro, it seems to us that by allowing traffic to turn right on the red light at the intersections of the main streets would help a lot.

We have noticed that on the red light traffic backs up for a block and more—at times more than a dozen cars waiting for it to change. To be able to make a right turn on the red light would speed up traffic a great deal. Most large cities allow it. We have seen cars from out of the state making right turns here assuming that it is permissible here, it is as in most other places.

WHERE DO YOU LIVE?

Asked that question any number of Statesboro residents will answer that they live on such-and-such street right next door to Mr. Smith or Jones or Brown, or whatever the name may be.

This is a confusing and indolent method.
People who do not know the street numbers of their own homes can readily find them out, and with the expenditure of a few cents for numerals supply themselves with an address. All over Statesboro there are homes without numbers. The majority of the business places are without numerals over their doors.

Is it possible that some people are trying to make a secret of where they live.

THE IMPRISONED DEBTORS (A History of Georgia)

In Old England they had some poor people Who couldn't pay their debts
So when their debts to pay they had failed
Their creditors would have them jailed.

James Oglethorpe wanted them freed
For he felt they were in very much need
He said to the King if you will let them go With me,

I will take them to America where it is free.

The King at last did agree
They the voyage they began to America
Free land

They sighted a beautiful river
Red waters they happened to see The Savannah river this river happened to be

Up this river they began to explore Eighteen miles from the Atlantic shore

Eighteen miles far was enough Here pitched tent on this beautiful bluff

Then they began to unpack
And their few supplies to stack

Then timber they began to cut Here and there they would build a log hut.

The logs were long and round
So they began a little town

This town was founded in an humble manner

Today it is known as the City of Savannah.
More about this beautiful land they wanted to know

So they began to tame and explore As time went by they began to learn more

As they traveled inland far from the beautiful seashore

Each the forest they would travel through
And many things they would see anew

As they would ride and walk, of their beautiful home they would talk

When they got tired they would stop and rest

It seemed God was with them Their adventures to bless

They saw much beautiful forest
And among it was many a nettle

Small villages they began to settle
To each other they wished no harm

They cleared the land and began to farm as they ventured on

Here and there they would build a home
The little colony began to grow

More fields each year they began to sow Some were far, some were near the pretty seashore

More crops they began to grow More about it many uses they seemed to know

Though at first their progress were very slow

Smiling faces they began to show In their homes they seemed humble and meek

When they would meet their neighbor would stop and speak

Friends with all they wanted to make The rights of others they had no desire to take

After many years here they had spent Many new things they began to invent

Much progress they were showing as the colony kept growing

They suggested it have a name
They went to England to George the King

He said it was it was time it should have his name

So they named it Georgia in honor of the King

It seems dear to me we have a home so free

We hope it will forever be If our debts to pay we have failed Our creditors in the State of Georgia cannot have us jailed

No woe kind Savior from the heavens above

And bless our home in Georgia we so dearly love.

By Your Roaming Reporter

The little story last week regarding Will Martin's store and a certain bunch of bananas has started a whole crowd of folks reminiscing.
Gus Floyd, whom I remember as first proprietor of Statesboro's best barbershop, stepped out in the street on East Main and showed me the exact spot where the well known DeLoach to find who was raiding her refrigerator of the rich sweet milk, one of the ingenious lads provided himself with a box of soda straws and when they repaired to the refrigerator, long after Mrs. De-Loach and Wiley were sleeping the leep of the just, they slipped the straws thru the cream and proceeded to drop the level of underlying milk without disturbing the cream in the least. All went well with the boys but Mrs. DeLoach grew frantic trying to figure out how the boys were getting the milk out of the pan and leaving a thick film of cream apparently undisturbed on the top. And finally Mrs. DeLoach watched for them, catching them cold, one wintry night when they were sure she was safely in bed. Kingery hasn't been the same since, and your reporter has been wondering if Elizabeth knew that before she promised to honor, trust and obey.
How a charming gal like her could trust a low life critter like that is hard to understand!!!

And that brings to mind the perfect dream Kingery had one night last week. Herbert says this reporter came to his house and asked him to loan us a dime. He fished all thru his pockets but every dime had he lost, or at least that's his story and he sticks to it!!!! He was a fleeing idea that he was merely staying because he knew our weakness and didn't want to lose his dime. However he finally saw a dime on the ground and reached to pick it up.
As he laid his hand on it he saw it wasn't a dime but a dollar bill.
When he had picked it up he noticed the ground was covered with bills and began stuffing his pockets with them, thinking they were dollar bills also. However, when he looked at them again he saw they were not ones but ten dollar bills. Then it hit him that he had been in a hurry, he had grabbed another handful and found they were $100's, only to be told by an old woman standing nearby watching him that if he would look under the house he'd find some REAY money.
He speedily crawled under to find a huge pile of $1000 bills, more than he could carry out with him, and then he woke up!!!! Kingery says someone is always spoiling his fun, but he's promised to bring us a quart of the same kind he had been drinking . . . and if he does . . .
which we doubt . . . tell you of our dreams next week.

THANKS ITEM. To Ruth and Ruth, Mrs. T. R., Mrs. J. B., W. C.
L. K., W. R., Brooklet friends, and all the others, many of whom we do not just now recall, thanks . . .
THANKS . . . THANKS A LOT.

words bel brighten an otherwise dreary economic situation. We'll send each of you a postcard from

THE NEWS THAT W. T. Granade last left us kinder cold and limp. He was one of the choicest of friends, truly a great character. Just when that master mind of his was at its most brilliant peak, when the flame of his intellectual prowess was brightest, suddenly without any apparent reason the light went dim, that fine quality of reason that was a part and parcel of "Mr. W. T." snapped out, and now for almost a decade he has been in mental and physical darkness. Just another of life's unexplainable tragedies. We never had the heart to visit him. Somehow we couldn't imagine "Mr. W. T." except as the man of brilliance we knew in the long ago, and because our final impression is usually the most lasting one, we preferred to know him as he spoke from the pulpit he loved so well.

Truly a man of remarkable mental attainments, his gift of expression, his remarkable memory of those things he had read, coupled with a poetic sense of beauty, made his sermons something to marvel at.
We never seemed to grow tired and we listened to him for years. He was blessed with that indefinable something that makes his every statement fresh, vigorous and charming.
We do not expect to see his like again, and to us he will never be dead so long as our own memory lives.
Somewhere in the great unknown of tomorrow we can envisage "Mr. W.
T." the painter whose mode of expression were words and beautiful thoughts, as "he paints the things

C. N. RAINEY, Pastor

10:15 a. m. Church School, modernly equipped with classes and departments for all ages.

11:30 a. m. He who does not hear the call of God to service in these modern days of opportunity and privilege is evidently dull of hearing or slow of perception. It is quite one thing to hear the call to service and another to respond to that call. It is one thing to be well disposed toward religion and another to do the will of God in our daily lives. Where has the way of service and opportunity opened for you? Have you walked in that way? "Not everyone that sayeth to me Lord, Lord, shall enter the kingdom of heaven; but he that doeth the will of my Father which is in heaven," said Jesus.

8 p. m. Evening worship and the pastor will speak using as a theme: Living Waters. Water has through the ages been very closely associated with religion. It requires a lot of water even for Methodists. Jesus had much to say of water as a symbol of righteousness.

The special music by the choir is a feature of the service. Those who missed Miss Moore's solo last Sunday morning missed a real treat.

The Methodist Church wants to help you and it needs your help.
This can best be accomplished when you attend the service.

Special welcome service for faculty and students at the morning hour.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

C. M. COALSON, Minister

It is a truism that the First Baptist Church must bring its building and equipment up to the standard set by schools, business houses and homes of the community in which it proposes to serve. No one, I believe, will doubt that. We must make our children comfortable else they cannot study the scriptures with their teachers. Unless the rooms have something which appeal to the esthetic nature it is hard to worship in. God is in them. Ugliness is a positive hindrance to the worship of the God of love and beauty.

The truth of the above paragraph is so evident that it needs no proof.
And what shall we do about it. Simply this, that next Sunday morning, rally day, we shall bring and lay on the altar of sacrifice a minimum of five thousand dollars, making a total of approximately fourteen thousand cash in the building treasury. When we have done all this are agreed that it will be a sound business venture to erect the building immediately.
That means a new building within the next few months, the contract to be let as soon as all the business arrangements can be perfected.

Dr. C. L. McGinity, director of endowment program of Bessie Tift College, will bring the rally day address at 11:30. A promotion and rally day program will be given by the children of the Sunday school directed by an efficient committee. Various classes and departments are working to make the attendance larger than ever before on a rally day.
Sunday evening the minister will speak on this subject: "Now We Need People."

as he sees it, for the God of the things as they are." And no doubt on this almost winter morning, as our landscape is filled with dying verve and unrealized hopes, "Mr.
W. T." is tending the flower garden that furnish a great part of the beauty and magnificence of our Master's dwelling place. Requisite in pace, my friend; altho you are gone in body, thousands will ever remember you.

MY BEST BELOVED CRITIC

warns me against so much "foolishness and silly stuff," and I know she's right, but you know we can't always be serious. After all is said and done, we believe life is much too serious. Who was the sage who exclaimed the theory, "A little nonsense now and then, is relished by the wisest of men?" Its our idea to laugh it off and because we believe in the curative value of a happy smile we are leaving you with this thought:

"Would you be happy, then from out your store Carry good cheer to others; and the more

You give the more there still remains to give;
Cheer dies by hoarding, but when given doth live."

The PTA Association

The first regular meeting of the Nevills PTA was held in the Nevills High school auditorium last Thursday afternoon. Many members were present to enjoy the following program which was presented by Miss Emma L. Adams, chairman of the program committee.

Immediately after the program the president, Mrs. Raymond G. Hodges business part of the meeting. Principal E. D. Bell was appointed chairman of a committee to select playground equipment to adequately take baseballs and bats, volley balls and nets, soccer balls and basketballs.

This material added to the equipment we have ready installed will give the primary lots entire access to the slides and swings and seesaws which they so much enjoy. The organization accepted the recommendation of the executive committee to assist financially in purchasing enough water fountains for the halls of the entire school building and two fountains combined with sinks to be installed in the two primary rooms which will sufficiently take care of the running water for our pupils while in class and the twelve outdoor fountains will take care of them while they are on the campus.

A $5.00 First Aid Kit was presented to the school by the PTA and a new cord for the flag pole. The canned food that was canned during the summer on the local canning plant was discussed and prices decided on.

A committee composed of Mrs. R.
G. Hodges, Misses Maude White and Bertha Lee Brunson was appointed to have the by-laws of the PTA revised and OK by the state department. After the room representatives were counted the sixth grade with grade with Miss White tied with the same number of room representatives present after a round table discussion the meeting adjourned to be served by the hospitality committee.

Male Fish Brightest Colored

When it comes to colors in fish, the same rule holds true that applies to all other species of the animal kingdom (that is, except the human) namely, that the male is more colorful than the female.
There are some exceptions however, and the mouth-breeder, Tilapia heudelotti, is a case in point. The female develops a bright red spot on each gill plate, but this pigmentation is not found in the male.

ROMANCE AND MEDITATION

TO THE LEAVES
If all the trees
Should shed their leaves,
And not return this year,
Dreary it would seem Without the leaves of green
And perhaps we would shed a tear.
If all the trees
Should keep their leaves,
And stay from year to year, Boreome it would seem Continually the leaves of green,
And perhaps we would lose our care.

I DREAM AGAIN
I've often looked, and hoped I'd find A place where lovely thoughts could gleam.
I've found the place I know divine,
My refuge, my rendezvous of dreams
And just as long as you can look,
It is a long way, it seems,
Are flowers and trees, a babbling brook,
My refuge, my rendezvous of dreams
The trees whisper softly to one another And love birds nestle close and sing,
Where no one is, or none to bother,
My refuge, my rendezvous of dreams
It's there I sit and long I wait,
For you and the dawn's first beams I'll be with you by my rose garden gate, My sweet, in my rendezvous of dreams.

The bridge railing ended the front of the car and extended several feet from the rear of the car, which was knocked open. The automobile was practically demolished. Current Development Of Paper Industry Is Of Great Interest To Timber Owners

Tremendous Volume of Wood-Pulp Needed Is Important Economically

Of great interest to the timber owners in Georgia is the current development of the pine and paper industry. There are now seven mills actually in operation or definitely planned for operation in Georgia and Florida. Although only two of these mills are actually located within the state of Georgia—these being at Brunswick and Savannah—the other mills are so located that a large percentage of their wood supply will come from Georgia.

These seven mills when operating at capacity will require 1,265,000 cords of wood per year. On most of the pine forest lands within the state an annual growth of one cord per connection with pulpwood cutting. Methods of Harvesting

In order that the timber owner may be able to gain the most money for his timber it is important that he know something of the methods of harvesting and marketing a crop of trees. Particularly this is true in the case of pulpwood. Before selling pulpwood stumpage he should certainly know both the basis of measure to be used and also the unit price that he will be paid. There are two generally accepted means of measuring pulpwood, namely, (1) the standard cord and (2) the unit. A standard cord of pulpwood is a stack of 4-foot sticks 4 feet high and 8 feet long, or 128 cu. ft. A unit of pulpwood is a stack of 5-foot sticks 4 feet high and 8 feet long, or 160 cu. ft. In other words a unit

FARM TO FARM
By BYRON DYER

One way of making profitable fields beautiful is to plant the pecan groves in crotalaria. Mrs. Homan Simmons has her entire grove in full blossom now and expects this full of heavy to yield to a profitable pecan crop in 1938.

If pastures have to be brought along with increased livestock production P. F. Groover should continue to have good whitefaced cattle and be able to keep marketing top hogs at about 6 to 8 months of age on his carpet grass and lespedeza pastures.

Britt Aaron, a 4-H club boy, thinks it is unwise to wait until you are old to start a good herd of cattle or hogs. His young herd is now giving him some nice returns and is only about two years old. Young Britt expects to save his heifers and now the herd continues to grow so that he is ready to go to college or to farming he will have a start.

D. B. Lee says that the short cotton crop and low price is not worrying him. During the spring and then again in July he saw that his hog crop had the best of care and is now in position to put these on the market with less worry and expense than he would have had with more cotton.

Robbie Belcher says it is profitable to push hogs with soybeans, oats, early corn and peanuts. While thinking over the cost of the recent cotton harvest he sold at the show he brought out that he had other hogs that were farrowed about the same time this little was but he did not care for them as closely. This group of stuff weighed about 100 to 125 pounds and had consumed about as much feed as the prize winners, which meant that they were going to cost him about as much again as the prize winners to finish out. He cleared more than $140 on the 10 head entered in the show.

Uncle Jim Says

I find livestock on legume hay and pasture make cheaper gains and sell for more because of their extra quality.

With exception of a six-year period, 1916 through 1921, when extraordinary influences served to increase Georgia's corn acreage, the state this year is harvesting the largest corn crop in its history.

The influences that gave Georgia six straight years with a corn crop in excess of this year's indicated yield of 49,428,000 bushels were the first World War and next the "boll weevil."

Georgia farmers responded generously to the cry that "Food Will Win the War," and incidentally to the high wartime prices for corn. They produced bumper crop years in 1916, 1917, 1918, and, because of post-war demand, in 1919. In 1920 and 1921 the boll weevil began coming to Georgia on a large scale.

Farmers, discouraged at early efforts to control the weevil, turned from cotton to corn. As methods of fighting the weevil were developed, the corn acreage dropped and the cotton acreage went back to normal—and above.

The average per acre yield of corn in Georgia is nothing to brag about. For the last 10 years, the yield per acre has averaged about 9 1/2 bushels.

COTTON SEED MAY BE DAMAGED BY WET WEATHER

High moisture content due to the heavy rains may seriously damage the germination of cotton seed unless farmers take steps to prevent this. County Agent Dyer said this week.

"If the rainy season has caused has been the difficulty of saving good seed," the County Agent said. "In many cases, the germination of seed has been considerably damaged by the time the cotton reached the gin."

"Farmers can do a great deal to prevent injury to germination by spreading the seed after they are ginned and stirring them until they are thoroughly dry. If the seed are sowed at the gin, the sacks should be arranged so as to permit circulation of air around them."

"If seed which contain an excess of moisture are put into a large pile, they are almost certain to heat to the extent that germination will be greatly impaired or destroyed entirely."

"Proper care of planting seed now will insure better stands and yields next year."

The records of a Moultrie packing plant (Swift and Company) from May, 1936 to April, 1937, show that 76 percent of the hogs which Georgia farmers sold to that company were sold during the four months of November, December, January and February. Records from other plants would tell about the same story. Glutting the market for four months and under-supplying it for eight is costing Georgia farmers money. Statistics of the United States Department of Agriculture show that, for the last ten years, summer hog prices have averaged 1 1/2 cents a pound higher than the winter market.

The Coastal Plain Experiment Station at Tifton has worked out a succession of grazing crops that will keep hogs going every day in the year. Among the crops used in this feeding system are oats, soybeans, cowpeas, velvet beans, peanuts, corn and sorghum.

With a year-round feeding program, farmers can market their hogs all through the year and take advantage of the best market prices. The Tifton station or county agents will be glad to map out this feeding system for interested farmers.

The fact that hog prices are staying in the higher brackets is one reason why the Crop Reporting Service estimates that only 399,000,000 pounds of peanuts will be harvested for nuts in Georgia this year as compared with 447,700 pounds last year. Hog prices are up approximately 18 percent over last year.

Peanut prices are about the same. Since South Georgia's hog industry depends on peanuts as a basic feed, farmers with hogs and peanuts are finding it more profitable to hog down the nuts than it is to dig and sell them. It's just a case of peanuts being worth more in the hog than in the shell.

Arthur Gannon, of Athens, the extension service poultryman, has made arrangements to supply record books to a few poultry raisers in each county who are interested in keeping records on their flocks. Poultry raisers who want to join this project should see their county agent at once as the record books may be obtained only through him. The project starts October 1. It is not limited to any size flock and the chickens do not have to be purebred.

Tobacco ACREAGE LIMITS ARE SET
Tobacco growers will be interested in acreage limits established by the Agriculture Department for their 1938 crop under the department's conservation program.

Secretary Wallace set four special "goals" for tobacco farmers, well as different payment rates for staying within these "goals."

The acreage limits, compared with averages for 1928-1937 are as follows: Blue cured, 840,000 to 880,000 acres; 2240 acres. Burley, 460,000 to 500,000 acres; 394,000 acres. Fire cured and dark air cured, 170,000 to 180,000 acres; 231,000 acres. Cigar filler and binder, 85,000 to 90,000 acres; 98,000.

If the individual grower stays within the acreage assigned by national, state and county agricultural adjustment units, he will be paid for "normal average yield" on each acre within the goal.

West Side School

will be given for the books to be bought. Mr. Ellis urges every one to bring or send the books to be sold on this day without fail.

Free school books will be furnished all pupils and it is very necessary for the pupils to enroll on the first day of school so that the number of books that will be needed can be determined. These books will have to be ordered from the State Department of Education.

Mr. Ellis announces the faculty as follows: Miss Mary Gray, first grade; Miss Cecile Brannen, second grade; Mrs. W. Louis Ellis, third grade; Mrs. Paul N. Smith, fourth grade; Miss Frances Lee, fifth grade; Mrs. Alvin Anderson, sixth grade; Miss Ollie Mae Jernigan, seventh grade and high school English; Mr. Robert A. Wynn, principal and high school science and mathematics; Mr. Guy T. Gard, vocational agriculture; Mrs. Guy T. Gard home economics.

Miss Lucille Brannen is now the home economics teacher at the Stillson High School and Mrs. J. E. Parrish has been transferred to full time home economics teacher at Portal.

Mr. Louis extends an invitation to all parents and friends of West Side School to attend the opening day in order that the school may get off to another successful school year, and with the same good cooperation through the school year.

organization buys current at wholesale prices and retails it to the consumers. The difference in the whole sale price and the retail price is where the borrowed money will be repaid from.

It was further pointed out that the committee working on the project does not wish to interfere with a farmer getting satisfactory current from any other source.

A large portion of Bulloch county is now served by electric current. The immediate section around Statesboro is served by Brooklet, Portal, Regis, Leaffield and Nevils communities are also receiving current.

The only other matter discussed at this meeting of the Chamber of Commerce was the meeting to be held in Metter today at which time Dr. Charles Herty will address farmers of this section. It is believed a large delegation will attend from Bulloch county.

Dr. H. H. London, head of the Division of Arts at the Teachers College, has tendered his resignation to President Marvin S. Pittman, to accept the directorship of Trades and Industries in the state of Mississippi.

Dr. London came to the college two years ago. He has become well known over the state in his field and his demonstration of the set-up of a general shop in Savannah last spring attracted much attention. His duties in Mississippi will be two-fold, as director of Trades and Industries and Professor of Industrial education at Mississippi State College.

President Pittman announced today that Kenneth Brown, who has been a teaching fellow at Ohio State University, has been added in the department.

Burton Ferry Route To Go Through Business Section

ALONG NORTH AND SOUTH MAIN STREETS AND PARRISH STREET

LOCATION DESIGNATED IN LETTER FROM DIVISION ENGINEER E. A. LOGAN TO LOCATING ENGINEER R. P. NORRIS DATED SEPTEMBER 21.

According to a statement made here this week by Mr. R. P. Norris, Locating Engineer, the Burton Ferry route will run through the heart of the Statesboro business section.

The announcement was made upon the receipt of a letter dated September 21, from Mr. E. A. Logan, Highway Division Engineer of the sixth division, Savannah, to Mr. Norris. The letter stated that the highway department had decided to adopt the location of the route through Statesboro, through South Main Street, North Main Street and East Parrish Street.

This decision comes after considerable investigation of the two proposed routes for the highway, the other being along Zetterover Avenue.

On August 24, State Engineer Verner visited Statesboro and Bulloch county to investigate the location of the Burton Ferry route through the city. At that time he studied both the proposed routes but withheld a statement as to which would be selected. While he was here it was learned that the Screven county commissioners were expecting to close a contract with the State Highway Department to build the fills and approaches at the Briar Creek bridge site. The contract for the Savannah river bridge has already been let and work is now under way.

Mr. Norris stated that the state will use practically the same location as the one laid out by a survey in 1928. He stated that most of the right-of-way has been secured to the Ogeechee river, except a few places in the river swamp.

All the field work has been completed to the river except for a small section which has been held up because of high water. It is expected that this will be completed in the near future. All the plans are about complete.

The Bulloch section of the Burton Ferry route from Savannah to Statesboro has been completed and will require very little additional work. The contract for the bridge over the Ogeechee river has not been let. It was learned that the route will cross the river at Dover about 400 feet below the present bridge.

Mrs. Dr. Miriam Foy Waters of Savannah is visiting B. H. Ramsey and relatives in Statesboro this week.

12,484 BALES COTTON GINNED TO SEPTEMBER 16

Mr. Wm. B. Parrish, Special Agent in Charge of the Department of Commerce, Bureau of Census reports that there were 12,484 bales of cotton ginned in Bulloch county from the crop of 1937 prior to September 16 as compared with 15,798 bales ginned to September 16, crop of 1936.

According to an official report released by the crop reporting board of agriculture in Athens, a probable production of 1,321,000 bales of cotton of 500 pounds each is indicated for Georgia this year. Opinions vary as the probable production for Bulloch county. Estimates ranging from 19,000 to 24,000 bales have been made.

Harvin Mulkey, winner of the essay contest of the American Bar Association, was elected student council representative for the senior class, defeating Miss Marjorie Maddox and Benjamin Jones.

Wednesday, plans for lighting the football on the Municipal Ground were submitted to Mr. C. E. Wollett, Superintendent of the Statesboro High School. The plans were drawn and submitted by engineers of the Georgia Power Company and are based on the lighting systems generally adopted by high school grounds.

Feeling the need of a lighted field so that a greater number of the people of Statesboro might witness the games of the Blue Devils, a request was made of the Georgia Power Co. to furnish an estimate of the cost. According to the plans submitted the cost will run approximately $2,400. The blue print calls for forty reflectors carrying 1,600 watt bulbs

1,200 HOGS SOLD AT WEEKLY LIVESTOCK AUCTION THIS WEEK

PRICES UNUSUALLY GOOD WITH TOP HOGS RUNNING FROM $11.15 TO $11.35 A HUNDRED, AND CATTLE MARKET STEADY AND STRONG.

The cotton market slump was temporarily forgotten here this week when farmers of Bulloch and adjoining counties sold over 1200 hogs and 220 cattle at livestock auctions. Prices were unusually good.

With top hogs running from $11.15 to $11.35 a hundred pounds and the cattle market steady to strong farmers reaped a harvest in the two sales.

The Bulloch Stock Yard, Tuesday, sold about 500 hogs and 85 cattle. The run of cattle at the Bulloch Stock Yard, Tuesday, was about 200 head. The week farmers received good prices for all grades of cattle. Prices were also higher on all grades of feeder pigs with barbeque hogs selling unusually well. Number one hogs brought from 11.00 to 11.15, according to quality, barbeque pigs sold from $10.00 to $10.50 a hundred, feeders from $9.00 to $12.00. There was a good demand for sows and pigs.

At the Statesboro Livestock Commission Company, Wednesday 800 hogs and 185 head of cattle were sold as many farmers reported good prices. The pig market was the best seen here this year with Frank U. Church of Atlanta and M. H. Hogan representing the White Provision hiders on the good hogs. Howells, collector of customs of Savannah, sold 7 No. 1 hogs from $11.20 to $11.35 a hundred, A. W. Robertson sold 13 No. 1 hogs for $11.30 a hundred, Arthur Buncie sold 10 No. 1 hogs for $11.20, W. L. Huggins sold 27 barbeque pigs for $12.10 a hundred, R. J. Kennedy sold 11 No. 1 for $11.35, F. A. Baggett sold 8 No. 1 for $11.20 a hundred, and W. H. Smith sold 9 No. 2 for $10.85 a hundred.

B. H. Ramsey Jr., was elected president of the Sophomore class of the Teachers College during the chapel hour Friday. Mr. Ramsey was elected to the vacancy made upon the failure of Buck Ringley to return to the college this fall. Those nominated and in the race against Ramsey were John Blanchard, Appleton and Bill McLeod of Outburst.

The race for vice president will be a runner next week between Lorraine Brockett of Bainbridge and Bill McLeod. The vice presidency was left vacant when Johnny Hines of Griffin did not return to school. Dubner Groover was defeated for nomination by Miss Brockett and McLeod in the primary.

to total 60,000 watts. These lights would be mounted on 11 poles approximately fifty feet above the field. Nine of the poles would carry four reflectors each and the other two poles would have two lights each. The poles would be set about 18 feet from the side lines on each side of the field and about 70 feet apart.

In an interview with Coach Snag Johnson and Superintendent Wollett, it was learned that in a survey made of more than eight high school fields, all lighted, it was found that additional attendance at the night games, the feeling that they were not taking time away from their business. More people attended the games.

There is a movement on foot to attempt to secure enough funds by local subscription to underwrite the installation of lights on the field. The plan is to have the lights on an improvement on the local field could be made to pay for itself. The arrangement of the lights make it possible to convert them to use on the soft ball diamond during the summer. Brunswick, Jeap, Griffin, Waycross, and other towns, not much larger than Statesboro, have lighted fields—Why can't Statesboro?

ADDRESSES ROTARY CLUB

HARVIN MULKEY AT ROTARY ON WINNING $400 ESSAY PRIZE

At its regular Monday luncheon meeting this week the Rotary Club heard Harvin Mulkey, the winner of the $400 offered by the American Bar Association for the best essay on the Constitution.

Mr. Mulkey is a senior at the Teachers College and is the senior class representative on the student council. His home is in Pompano, Fla. Last year he was the president of the junior class. He is majoring in social science.

In addressing the Rotarians Mr. Mulkey described his writing the essay. It contained 4,000 words and was mailed to the contest directors last April. He had no word of it until he was notified by telegram last week that he had won the first prize of $400. The contest was announced and was opened last December. It was open to all students at teachers colleges in the United States.

The subject on which the essay had to be written was "How and to What Extent the Rights and Liberties of the Individual are Protected Under the Constitution."

When Mr. Mulkey decided to enter the contest, he stated that he worked continuously on the subject. He began by reading all the available information he could secure on the subject. He remained out of school for a period working on it and finished the final manuscript just before April 1. He read excerpts of his essay before the club.

Wednesday, plans for lighting the football on the Municipal Ground were submitted to Mr. C. E. Wollett, Superintendent of the Statesboro High School. The plans were drawn and submitted by engineers of the Georgia Power Company and are based on the lighting systems generally adopted by high school grounds.

Feeling the need of a lighted field so that a greater number of the people of Statesboro might witness the games of the Blue Devils, a request was made of the Georgia Power Co. to furnish an estimate of the cost. According to the plans submitted the cost will run approximately $2,400. The blue print calls for forty reflectors carrying 1,600 watt bulbs to total 60,000 watts. These lights would be mounted on 11 poles approximately fifty feet above the field. Nine of the poles would carry four reflectors each and the other two poles would have two lights each. The poles would be set about 18 feet from the side lines on each side of the field and about 70 feet apart.

AN OPEN LETTER OF THANKS TO STATESBORO MERCHANTS AND BUSINESS MEN

The school authorities take this method of thanking the merchants for supporting the BULLOCH HERALD in making it possible for the Statesboro High school football game being featured with a full page advertisement. This proves to us that the merchants are expressing a willingness to support high school athletics.

The team spirit this year, we believe, is such that the people of Statesboro might well be proud of their accomplishments as a result of the support behind them.

Our goal is a football championship at the close of this present season. Your support by your presence at all home games can help make this possible.
