By Your Roaming Reporter

The Sago of Cliponreka, the Oracle of Clito, the philosopher, naturalist and etc., has folded up the pencil and scratch pad for this week due to some physical impediments, which, one and all hope will soon be expatriated into the limbo of the forgotten facts of life.

His arch enemy—according to his recent 'Column'—has been requested to pinch hit, act as wet nurse. (No Walter I haven't had a drink since last October), or scorch him.

"Fore God, dat man shore do use sum grandmammal fraters and 'nuncunents, when he do talk, one old darky said of Walter once."

And, too, he has associated with College Doctors so much, they have started calling him Dr.

So, if this appears to be the reflected glow of the lightning bug as compared with the possible illumination of T.V.A., don't blame me—See Leodel for printing it.

A day or two before Walter got sick, I migrated to Clito with a firm determination to settle our straw hat feud, in order not to bother the public any more about it—Remember I didn't start it. But, as usual, I couldn't get in word edgeways. Consequently, I wrote him the following consolatory letter:

DOCTOR McDOUGALD,
Mayor of Clito.

Clito, (Bulloch County), Ga.
In Care, The General Store with the Empty Cracker Barrel.

DOCT:

When you returned from Ha Springs with M. Ghandi and informed your public that the blonde out there wanted something done about the bronchitis, which turned green, one of our townsmen had presented her, I half way believed it.

But, when you directly accuse me of hiding out 25c on the hat deal in Asheville, give that factory blonde, say, a million dollars, and I would have been as ready as a lightning bolt to give you the money. I was not even clicking my teeth with the sound of motor cars. It was on the banks of the great Ogeechee river. The great Spirit was riding on the wings of the shadows, cast by the stately pines as the moon, approaching the full, rode through the canopy of heaven. And the spirit was anesthetized by the musical throat of the whiplow-singing sweet lullaby to his mate. But, lo, the feeble words of man are incapable of describing it. Only the delicate instruments of the mind write it on the spirit, with the hope that it will bear fruit in some future good deed toward better mankind.

However, I am too much of a lawyer to mention anything about "THAT THING," who worked on Tub No. 6, One Lung Laundry, who bragged so much about it.

Your better nine-tenths and I will have plenty to say about that when we sue you for $5,000.00 per month, which we propose to equally divide. I am saving the piece of your 'Column,' wherein you state Leodel is paying you $1,000.00 per week, as evidence.

For the present, however, you can forget the whole business—even the proposed similar suit.

In the first place, slander is getting so cheap around here it doesn't pay for the cost of production—like cotton.

Probably, the government should subsidize the vast overproduction, or store it away in some lonely vault until the market is less glutted.

Most of them that wag the weary tongue wouldn't give the innocent children they hurt a teaspoonful of cold grits when hungry, even if the government did pay them well for the large crop. Moreover, a certain, thin-waisted attorney about the Court House is fixing to have some one start a scandal about himself, in order to tip his 'ump' in social standing. And, you know Shakespeare says 'Old men are as firm in their opinions as young men less discretion.'

While I am not trying to compliment you on your sagacity or magnanimity of spirit, yet, when you refer to pistols and duels, I am reminded that you would, like me, select buttered biscuits with barbed wire entanglements at a thousand yards, with a speech between each dispensation. And, too it would be just as easy to draw a blood blister on a Bull Elephant with softly spoken words as to beat you at any duel where you (or I) picked the weapons. I had might as well try to borrow a $1,000.00 from the Confederate Monument on the Court House square (You needn't mention that as he would lend it just as quick as any one else, I know that, too).

(Still not believing in slander), I couldn't help but be impressed with your nature observations about 'Caruso' his girl friend and the Kinglets peacefully dwelling in your bird sanctuary, until I visited you and found 'Hit,' 'Miss,' and 'It,' (three grown cats) eagerly

Thick Stand Of Cotton Helps To Beat Weevil

Cotton growers who get the most squares set before heavy boll weevil infestation stand the best chance of obtaining profitable yields, according to County Agent Byron Dyer.

Federal-State investigations in Georgia and other cotton states show that cotton fruits just as rapidly when plants are small, regardless of whether they are close or far apart in the row, the agent pointed out. A thick stand in the row—two plants to hills to 15 inches apart—lets about the best number of plants to put on cotton squares ahead of the weevil infestation.

"Dr. H. W. Barre, in charge of cotton investigations for the U. S. Department of Agriculture, report one case where plants placed six inches apart produced about five times as many early squares per acre as plants placed 24 inches apart," Mr. Dyer declared. "Even when a dry July caused many of the early squares to drop, the yields from the closely spaced plants were greater because the squares that did remain were ahead of the weevil."

"For this reason, keeping a good stand is second only to getting a good stand."

Some growers allow their cotton to be thinned too much because of careless chopping or because their choppers use wide hoes. Nothing larger than an 8-inch hoe should be used.

"Another common error," the agent continued, "is allowing grass to get a good start before thinning begins. This is difficult to kill the grass with the hoe without chopping out too much cotton. Crabgrass can be controlled to a large extent by running a weeder along across the rows. This prevents the formation of a crust, kills much of the crabgrass and does little injury to the young cotton plants."

BROOKLET AND NEVILLS WORKING TO STOP RABIES

Cooperative community action is being tried in the Nevills and Brooklet communities as a means of stopping outbreaks of rabies.

Dogs affected, with hydrophobia (madness) have been reported in the communities. Miss Maude White and Mrs. Raymond Hodges thought that the best way to control the outbreak was to vaccinate the dogs in the Nevills area. A day was set and the serum was bought cooperatively to vaccinate the dogs. More than a 100 dogs have been given the vaccine at a cost of only 20 cents per dog. J. H. Griffith had the same feeling for the protection of the school children at Brooklet that was expressed at Nevills. A day was scheduled to vaccinate the dogs and cats in the community.

Rabies affects practically all warm blooded animals, including man, and is highly fatal. Dogs are particularly susceptible and are usually the means when affected with the disease, of transmitting it through their bite.

Those expecting to appear on the card are: John Smith, Frank Harry Jones, Tiny Cone, Jimmie Lang and Inman Foy. There will also be a "Battle Royal."

"The State Theatre will present a program of this type on every Thursday night."

The annual May Day Festival for the Teachers College will be held tomorrow afternoon in the amphitheater with Miss Priscilla Prather as Queen.

Miss Prather will be crowned Maid Marian as the fairest maiden in the village as a part of the Robin Hood festival. The dances, costumes and music will be patterned on medieval English tradition. Miss Eloise Mincey will be maid of honor. The court will be composed of Misses Virginia Sands, Alice Hill, Anne Pelton, Anne Green, Kitty Gardner, Miriam Girardeau, Frances Deal, Abbie Mann, Frances Breen and Betty Smith.

Harris Advises Optimism In Address

Addressing the graduation class of the Register High School on Monday night, Roy Harris, Speaker of the House of Representatives, told the members of that class and a large audience that every boy and every girl in the rural sections of the state of Georgia should have an equal opportunity for an education as the boys and girls in the schools in Atlanta, Augusta, Savannah and other large cities.

Mr. Harris was introduced by Mr. Harry S. Aiken, member of the House of Representatives of this county, who stated that Mr. Harris fitted the definition of a politician as given in the dictionary: "One versed or experienced in the science of government."

Mr. Harris in his address reviewed the development of the public school system of the state of Georgia from its inception in 1919 through the years to the present 1939. He pointed out the legislature is faced with the problem of using twelve and one half million of dollars to meet a twenty-one million dollar budget. "It just can't be done," he added.

He advised adopting some of the optimism displayed by the young members of the Register High School graduation class, as expressed by his Valerictorian, Jerald Dekle.

After the exercises Mr. Harris drove to his home in Augusta. Accompanying him was Mr. Walter Harrison, House Member from Jenkins county.

Stilson Closes Successful School Year

The graduating exercises of the Stilson High School were held in the school auditorium on Monday night of this week, bringing to a close one of the most successful terms in the history of the school under the supervision of S. A. Driggers and his faculty.

D. B. Turner, editor of the Bulloch Times addressed the graduates on the subject "Friendship." The program for the occasion was as follows: Processional, Mrs. Shell Brannen, salutatory, Gilbert Woodward; song, Senior girls; valedictory, Audrey Cannady; special song by the Senior class.

Mooney Prosser Writes Of His Experiences At Mibs Tournament

Last week Mooney Prosser participated in the state Marble tournament sponsored by the local Junior Chamber of Commerce in connection with the Atlanta Journal. This week young Prosser writes of his experiences in Atlanta and at the tournament.

"When I first started in this marble shooting contest, I had no idea of getting any further than just to be in the contest at school. I must say that it was quite a surprise to me when I won over the other entrants in the school, to say the least, I had never imagined that I might be Bulloch county's marble champion."

"I have been shooting marbles almost ever since I could crawl, which made it easier for me to win the school and county tournament. This, through the Junior Chamber of Commerce, gave me a free trip to Atlanta where the state Mib's Champ was crowned."

The Foy's Make Their Home More Than Just A Place To Live

The claim is frequently set up that opportunity to make the country home a place of beauty does not exist because of various factors such as soil, conditions, drainage and many other points. The efforts of J. P. Foy and Mrs. Foy to make their home in the Adabell community something more than a place to live are now visible. The long process of making the running water walk off of their yard is complete. Natural plants and grass are used in use for this purpose. Pine seedlings planted in a manner to add color and beauty to the hill side in a Bermuda grass sod takes care of the landscape problem and to control erosion. Back of the pines and the Bermuda grass the home stands on a hill that makes it possible for most of the farm to be observed from the porch. The fences around are not fancy, but neat and well constructed. The landscaping in the yards about the house is well planned, so that all growing plants are not in the way of vision from windows or doors, no cold, damp air pockets are formed by it. It lets in plenty of sun light and does not obstruct good ventilation. The house is well back from the road and has the appearance of spaciousness, that belongs to the farm.

Evidently the plans for landscaping this home were well prepared and given careful study. The flowers used seem to be just the right color, the shrubbery, and foliage blend with all the characteristics of each other so that a pleasing combinations is now found.

25 Members Added To United Farmers Group

Next Meeting Called For May 20 At Court House

The Bulloch county chapter of the United Georgia Farmers added more than 25 new members at the county wide meeting Saturday. These new members carried the total membership in the local organization to well over 250 "paid in backers" of the effort to get an organization large enough to be effective for local farmers and for the farmers of the state.

W. H. Smith, president of the Bulloch chapter, predicted that 1,000 members would be in the organization before the end of the month.

B. T. Brown, vocational agriculture teacher from Swainsboro, told of the Emanuel county chapter's progress. Emanuel has about 800 members.

R. G. Arnold, National Farm Bureau representative, said that 41 states already had organizations such as the United Georgia Farmers. He pointed out that the "cotton south" is just now getting organized as the Western and Mid-west farmers have been for some time. It was Mr. Arnold's thought that if local farmers and farmers in the South ever received parity for their crop particularly cotton, an organization large enough to bring pressure to bear when needed is necessary.

Community meetings are being scheduled by local committee chairmen during the next two weeks. The county wide meeting, Saturday, May 20, is to get a report that should total near the 1000 membership mark.

One meeting was scheduled for Portia, Wednesday, May 17 at 8 P. M. George Scarborough, T. O. Vann, C. A. Peacock, G. W. Clifton, A. J. Woods, Jesse B. Williams and J. T. Roberts are the committeemen working in that community.

A. J. Knight, J. Harry Lee, W. E. Canady and Carl Iler were added to the community committee by Mr. Smith.

FOUR NEGROES DRAW TOTAL OF TWELVE YEARS ON GANG

The four negro boys who were caught breaking in the Blue Front Cafe on Friday night, April 28, drew total sentences of twelve years.

James Nelson and Earl Williams were given four years each. Brooks McNaer was given three years and one day. The four negroes were caught after they had broken in and robbed Bill Foss' place, the Blue Front Cafe and the Statesboro High and Industrial school. A. J. Wilson, member of the local police force effected the capture.

New Idea Inaugurated In SHS Commencement

Final Classes To Be Held May 19

In order that there be no misunderstanding regarding the closing of the Statesboro Schools, Mr. S. H. Sherman, Superintendent, announced that classes will disband Thursday morning, May 18, at 11:00 o'clock. This is to allow the teachers the balance of that day in which to make out all their reports, both local, state and the yearly report cards, and prepare for the final closing on Friday.

Students will report to their "home room" Friday morning at 10 o'clock to receive their report cards. All the grades with the exception of the first and second will assemble in chapel at 10:30 for the final closing exercises. The first and second grades will be dismissed immediately upon receiving their reports.

Register High Graduates 19 Seniors

Medals And Awards To Ten Students For Achievement

Register High School closed its 1938-39 school year Monday night when Hon. Roy Harris delivered the literary address before a large audience gathered in the Register High school auditorium for the exercises.

Nineteen seniors received diplomas and awards and honors were conferred upon ten students for achievement in both athletics and scholarship.

The seniors who were given diplomas were: Edna May Ackerman, Avis Alderman, Stevie Alderman, Jewell Anderson, Mary Grace Anderson, Ollie May Lanier, Harry Aycock, J. W. Brannen, Corine Collins, Virginia Williams, Dorothy Collins, Jerald Dekle, Cecil Hagans, Ollie May Lanier, William Moore, Dorothy Carolyn Riggs, Junior Brannen, Wilhelmina Waters and Lammie S. Williams.

The salutatory was delivered by Wilhelmina Waters and the valedictory was given by Jerald Dekle.

Mr. Roy Harris was the speaker for the evening. He was introduced by Hon. Harry S. Aiken. After the award of the honors, Col. Albert Deal made a short appeal to the people of the Register community to sign the petition being circulated asking the legislature to reconvene.

Mr. Deal read the benediction.

Mr. G. F. Oliphant, director of the Georgia Academy for the Blind was the guest speaker at the Monday meeting of the Statesboro Rotary Club. Mr. Oliphant told the members of that club of some of the work being done at that institution. He emphasized the great need of preventing blindness, rather than making it necessary that a place be furnished in which to teach the blind.

Land now either permanently ruined or seriously damaged by erosion represents an area larger than all farm land in Pennsylvania, Illinois, Iowa and Oregon. Growing part of the annual flowers in the garden saves time and care around the farm home.

BRIAR PATCH CURING PLANT CLOSES SEASON

The Briar Patch curing plant, the kind of its kind in this section of the county, located at Stilson, has just completed a very successful season in which 46,000 pounds of meat were cured.

Several years ago the farmers of that community felt the need of a curing plant and sold shares to the people in the neighborhood in order to raise the necessary funds to finance the building of the plant. Each year the stockholders receive a nice dividend.

Creative Living Is Theme Of 1939 Graduation

According to an announcement made this week by S. H. Sherman, Superintendent of the Statesboro Public Schools, an entirely new and modern idea will feature the 1939 Commencement exercises. The usual literary address delivered on Commencement night has been replaced by a "theme."

This theme, runs through the entire Commencement exercises, in both the Elementary School and the High School. It is further carried out in the Statesboro High and Industrial School.

The "theme" idea is something new in the South, but it is proving far more popular than the old Commencement exercises, in that it holds more meaning for the students who are graduating. The "theme" idea has been carried out this year at the High School based on "Creative Living." This theme runs all through the program with a definite continuity. The "theme" is worked out by the students themselves, together with the aid of the teachers, giving an idea of the work accomplished during the year.

In announcing the program for all the Commencement exercises, it is pointed out that for the first time in the history of the Statesboro schools there will be a graduation exercises for the Seventh Grade. Diplomas, which are exact replicas, in miniature, of the Senior Class diplomas will be awarded those in the seventh grade completing the required work.

For the first time in the history of the school the Statesboro will observe "Class Day."

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

—MOTHER—

Mighty is the force of motherhood! It transforms all things by its vital heat; it turns timidity into fierce courage, and dreadless defiance into tremulous submission; it turns thoughtfulness into foresight, and yet stills all anxiety into calm content; it makes selfishness become self-denial, and gives even to hard vanity the glance of admiring love.—George Eliot.

GRADUATION

Next week, Graduation will take on a new meaning for the Seniors and the Seventh Graders. For the first time in the history of the school a commencement exercise will be held for the seventh graders moving into the high school with diplomas and all. For the first time in the history of the high school there will be no literary address delivered by some well-known speaker advising the Seniors of the pitfalls and glorious adventures that await them after graduation.

A brand new and modern idea in Commencement is being inaugurated by Superintendent Sherman. It is based on a "theme" about which the entire Commencement revolves and about which the entire school has revolved during the school year.

The theme for this year is "Creative Living." It permeates the whole school with a definite aim in view and moves along with a certain continuity. This theme is revealed in the programs for the Elementary and High School Commencement exercises. "Creative Living as Stimulated by Home Environment," "Creative Living Encouraged by Government, School, and Community," "Creative Living in Work and Play," and "Beautiful Living Through Creative Living."

The theme in the Elementary exercises is "Georgia." Papers will be read on "Colonial Georgia," "Georgia Yesterday," "Georgia Tomorrow" and "A Tribute to Georgia."

The theme idea is further carried out in the Statesboro High and Industrial School with the welfare of the negro race as the center.

And for the first time in a great number of years the Seniors will hold a class day.

All in all it will be a great day for the members of the seventh grade and their parents and the Seniors and their parents.

Congratulations this week go to Miriam Lanier for winning the American Legion "Citizenship" award.

To Jack Averitt for being named the First Honor Graduate for 1939 and Myrtle Swinson for being named Second Honor Graduate.

THE AMERICAN PEERAGE

Every one in a while certain of us in Bulloch county are notified that we must drop whatever we are doing and appear in court and serve on the jury. The summons comes just when it looks as though we cannot possibly leave our business to serve. We look upon jury service with dread, something to be avoided if possible, but having been selected we serve with a feeling of "doing it and getting it over."

Gordon W. Chambers, Judge of the City Court of Richmond County, Georgia, delivered a masterpiece on the convening of his court a few months ago, and for the first time in the history of the courts in that county not a single juror asked to be relieved or jury duty. We print it here with the hope that we might look upon jury service in a new light.

"Gentlemen of the Jury, by being selected for jury service you have been elevated to the peerage of democracy. As such you have a noble opportunity for service, obligated by patriotic duty to God and Country. This duty is deserving of the consecrated dedication of a conscientious concentration of your abilities and the just impulses of your honor.

"You are a shield of protection against false accusations, transitory passions and prejudice.

"You are determiners of truth revealing the character of our county as a land of the free and home of the brave.

"You are the preservers of liberty that walks with progress and restrains only libertine license to insure its own freedom.

"You are the protectors of all legal rights of society, citizenship and the state.

"You are guarantors of justice, constitutional and statutory, exactly, evenly and universally applied.

"You are the custodians of American civilization, for without law there can be no civilization, without courts there can be no law and without truth and independence there can be no courts.

"The only title of nobility recognized by America's loyal house is in the peerage of the jury box where trial by peers determine the truth of issues between the state and its citizens.

"This title carries no feudal privilege of materialistic value, however, it merits the accolade of achievement—the accomplishment of the aristocracy of service.

"This high honor carries only the title as a word of address or an adjective of description, 'Gentlemen of the Jury.'"

BUT DON'T BLAME US IF THE ALMANAC IS WRONG.

LAST WEEK MR. DAN BLAND, the baby son of the late "Uncle Mike" Bland was in our office and the whole time he was here he kept our feet to the fire, but he admitted before he went out that he was just a-kidding, 'cause he knew that we would not get mad. He said that he liked our column last week because we had "kinda come down to earth." He liked what we wrote about Mr. J. T. Roberts. We hope he likes what we are going to write about him.

WE HAVE KNOWN MR. DAN all our lives, for he lives on the road to Mr. and Mrs. Coleman's farm and we used to pass there every day when the folks sent us out to the farm to keep us out of trouble. We thought Mr. Dan the greatest authority on pean trees in the world. And we thought that that little house of his and Mrs. Bland's was awful pretty. It looked like just whatever they planted in the ground would come up pretty.

WHEN THEY BUILT THE new highway out by their place the house had to be turned around. But that didn't seem to matter, Mr. and Mrs. Dan just went to work and now you would never know which is the front or back. But Mr. Dan got to talking about his mother, Mrs. Mike Bland. She will be 86 years old Sunday, May 21. Now that's a long time to live, especially when a person lived through the period Mrs. Bland lived. The days when the "yankees came through." Mrs. Bland remembers when Mr. Sherman was in this section and when he sent out scouts, rumors would fly about that they were shutting little children and women in their homes and burning the homes down about them, but later it developed that there was nothing to the rumors. Mr. Dan recalled his father, "Uncle Mike" Bland who died in September 1936, at the age of 86. We remember "Uncle Mike" well. He was the best weather prophet in the county.

SIX CHILDREN AND A NUMBER of grandchildren make up Mrs. "Mike" Bland's family: Glenn, Lonnie, Dave, Charles, Mrs. J. A. Jones of Register, and Dan.

AND ON MRS. BLAND'S 86th birthday we say: as may be said of all mothers, "She is the rallying-point for affection, obedience, and a thousand tendernesses. Dreary the blank when she is withdrawn."

AND TALKING ABOUT FAMILIES: At Middleground church last Sunday, when dinner was placed on the outside table, there were six sisters present. They all spread their dinners out together and they just about took the half of one long table. They are all daughters of the late Jim Rushing who donated, in his lifetime, the ground upon which the church is built, and all members of that church. There are: Mrs. Bartow Parrish, Mrs. E. W. Powell, Mrs. T. Y. Akins, Mrs. J. W. Warnock, Mrs. W. L. McElveen, Mrs. G. C. Coleman. A seventh sister, Mrs. Geo. T. Beasley was not present.

You can't beat a "dinner-on-the-ground" like the one at Middleground Church Sunday for fertile ground in which to sprout votes to mature 'round election time. Ask any office holder or would-be office holder.

Usually when a fellow says, "Well, to make a long story short," it's too late.

Another difference between death and taxes is that the death rate doesn't increase every time the legislature meets.

A speech should be like a woman's skirt, long enough to cover the subject, but short enough to make it interesting.

CLIPONREKA CULLINGS

By Your Roaming Reporter

Somewhere in Holy writ, there is something about a fool returning to his folly.

So, in our swaddling clothes of insignificance, we start toddling down the column in fulfillment of predestination, or otherwise—I'll ask Walter McDougald, sometime, maybe.

Anyway, you know and we know that it is an axiomatic fact, well established, that when one persistently rests, or reposes, on one arm or leg for too long a time, it is due to become numb. Well, the real Roamin' Reporter is up and about taking on a little exercise and, consequently, is improving.

When we saw him this morning, he was robbed in purple, smoking a big cigar and putting on as many airs as a Prime Minister at a Cabinet meeting, except that he did not give any intimation that any throne was tottering under its own weight.

However, outside on the lawn, Worth was giving vent to some very potent pent-up viciousness toward the goat who was trying to partake of a morsel of meadow-sweet Spittas, which had, octopus-like, entwined itself in dense racemiferous, (look that one up in your Dr. Grunt Almanac, Walter), fashion around, over and above the corner of the house, as he had been living on a diet of briars for so long.

Naturally, it was necessary that Worth go to Sunday School and the other children, too, as a means of preventative, it being Sunday.

And, since the ox was in the ditch—no, not Walter—we brought some of the rejuvenating goat milk to town with us.

Without throwing any over-ripe aspersions, even toward the fourth dimension, but, when we have our memory of small functioning normally, it would require a cast-iron, copper-lined, steam-pressure stomach for us to down goat milk, unless we took a chaser of muriatic acid to take the imaginary smell of goats away.

This goat Walter has, he may not smell like the other kind, but he certainly looks the part, and, apparently, is just as mule-headed as—Oh, well, 'Lead kindly light amid the encircling gloom."

And, speaking of—well, say the weather—, have you ever noticed that it takes quite a good shower to drive the Joy Darter Club from its moorings on the benches under the wide spreading oak in front of the Court House Square, except, one real heavy weight does slip off down West Main ever so often and buys a big sack of bananas, which he always eats before returning, as a stalk of bananas (or peanuts) would last as long in that bunch as on a monkey farm.

But, while they are shining the seat of their pants on the benches, you can certainly find out new slants on different situations. The scandal situation in our community is dwindling into something or other, as all you can hear is the minutes of the last meeting, which haven't been improved, or approved. Yet, here in front of the Court House, the temple of Justice for Bulloch County, you can hear the school situation solved with the least difficulty, with illustrations about Lincoln and Jackson not having had any schooling. Well, no! We don't believe we have heard anything mentioned about them living in a period when we didn't have television, mechanical hearts, radio, insulin, radium and CIT budgeting (or dodging).

Now, we don't know what they were talking about (and didn't get a chance to ask 'em), but we saw the Judge that somebody tried to impeach, but didn't, warming the benches as the shades of twilight lingered lazily one night last week, talking to Col. R. Lee Moore (Better known as Col. Tulkingshorn from Dickens's Bleak House) and Cleve Jones (also known as the pluperfect incorporeal hereditment—for lack of a better name). Guess we had just as well quit worrying about it, as Cleve would sagaciously flimflam, as he calls it, through the valleys of Chattooga into the extinction of the hills of Catoosa before he would divulge the least particle binding him to anything tangible.

Life seems so useless at times, ESPECIALLY when we walked three blocks and jay-walked twice to run into 'Rabbi' Cummings, (the man about town with the black derby) accidental like, in order that he might compliment us about not drinking lately, like we wrote in our last piece, when he had been after us about it for years. All he said was that somebody had been shot somewhere and another killed in Florida; and that it was a 'whole lot better to play a small game of poker in a gentlemanly manner than be named skylarking about hiter and yon, mostly yon, in his liddish sort of way. But, we'll see Mrs. Cummings 'fore long.

Mrs. George Johnston's mother was inadvertently accused of being Mr. Sunny's (Donaldson) daughter recently. However, that estimable gentleman didn't complain about her many trips to the beauty parlor afterwards, since he had found out that several people had 'HEARD' that he wears his glasses while bathing at Savannah Beach.

All's Fair...

We remember this week Mrs. Dan Lee who is out again after having been ill for several weeks. It's a rare thing when you don't see Elizabeth Kinging in her cage at the Bank or in the choir on Sundays, and counting pennies or singing also she always looks as if the photographer had just said, "Now, look pleasant, please." We remember with pride this week Charlie Joe Matthews whose name we saw listed among Honor Roll students at Teach.

Hazel Deal was right on hand in Athens to greet the local students of Journalism attending the Press Meeting at the University last week. With flower shows in Millen and Metter we wonder why we don't have one here. The rivalry over the Easter lilies is waxing warm. The loveliest ones we have seen are those belonging to Georgia Brett, Anne Oliver, Eva Holland, Mrs. Morgan Mitchell, and Willie Groover. Marlan Johnston insists that she is the only one whose blooms are split so uniformly. Some said that Georgia Brett had one lily stalk with 25 blooms on it. Mrs. C. H. Seven members of the Statesboro High School journalism class, together with the journalism instructor attended the Inter-scholastic Press Association meet held in Athens, last Friday.

The meetings were held in the historic chapel and in the Commerce-Journalism building at the University of Georgia.

The delegates heard talks by John E. Drewry, head of the Journalism department of the University of S. V. Sanford, Chancellor of the University and a number of other prominent men in newspaper work.

S. N. Noble, managing editor of the Atlanta Constitution, Fred L. Fester, of the Postal Telegraph of Atlanta and Ralph Newton, make-up editor of the Atlanta Constitution offered the high light of the conference.

According to the delegates from the high school here, the talk by Ralph Newton furnished the meat of the conference. He talked on constructive vs. destructive journalism. He called attention to the fact that thinking journalists are attempting to turn the tide of newspaper expression to the "building-up" attitude, instead of the destructive or sensational attitude.

Those attending the conference from here were: Jack Averitt, editor of the Hi-Owl, the S. H. S. paper; Robert Morris, assistant editor; Maxann Foy, advertising manager; Josh Nesmith, exchange editor; Frances Floyd, social editor; and Mrs. D. L. Deal, faculty advisor.

The tentative dates for the training school at Athens for flock selecting and pullorum testing agents have been set for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, July 10, 11 and 12.

With The County Agent

Byron Dyer

County Agent Gordon H. McGee, of Gordon county, reports that Mr. Tom W. Malone, a farmer living near Sugar Valley, had 40 acres of crimson clover this year with a "perfect stand." Agent McGee says this is news because although more Gordon county farmers than ever before planted crimson clover this year, only a few of them got good stands because they failed to plant at the right time. Mr. McGee has been planting crimson clover for several years as a money crop, as he has had a good crop for his seed. Mr. Malone keeps a farm account book and his records show that his two-horse farm netted him $713.64 in 1938.

Members of Georgia youth organizations attending the seventh annual World's Poultry Congress at Cleveland, Ohio, July 22 to August 7, will live at a well-equipped camp on the Cuyahoga county fair grounds at the edge of the city, according to Arthur Gannon, poultryman of the Georgia Agricultural Extension Service. Buildings on the grounds, with cots and bedding furnished, will be used as dormitories for boys, he said. The girls will be quartered in college dormitories a few blocks from the grounds. Dining room space will accommodate several hundred youngsters at a meal. Camping facilities will be available for those attending in trucks and trailers. Prof. R. B. Thompson of Oldham A. and M. College is chairman of the youth committee for the Congress and J. C. Haynes of Atlanta, is chairman of the youth committee for Georgia.

It looks like the really good farmers are always working hard to maintain their reputations and to become even better farmers. J. P. Loughridge, of Murray county, who in 1937 was selected as a Master Farmer of Georgia, recently saw a copy of an Extension bulletin entitled "A Portable Motor for Georgia Farmers." That gave him an idea and now he has a small portable motor to operate his corn sheller, tool grinder, fanning mill, pea huller and do a dozen other odd jobs around his place near Chatsworth.

Half a billion dollars of farm mortgage debt held by the Federal land banks and Land Bank Commission has been repaid in the last eight years, according to F. F. Hill, governor of the Farm Credit Administration. This represents both installment payment and loans paid in full.

Milk production continues at record high levels. Total production on April 1 was reported by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics to be about 10 percent higher than a year earlier and now high for that date. Even on a per capita basis, production was the highest in 15 years of record.

More than 6,000 dozen eggs are being marketed each week by 360 Georgia 4-H club members who are participating in the egg marketing-leadership contest of the Georgia Agricultural Extension Service. The club boys and girls are marketing eggs in 24 counties of the state, according to R. J. Richardson, Extension poultry marketing specialist, who is supervising the contest. The purpose of the contest, which was started this spring, is to give 4-H club members an opportunity to demonstrate their leadership in encouraging entire communities to adopt improved methods of marketing eggs. County winners will be selected about June 15. District winners will be named in July. The state winners, one boy and one girl, will be selected at the Southeastern Fair in Atlanta, in October. The state winners will receive free trips to the World's Fair in New York, with all expenses paid by a large grocery store chain (Rogers) with headquarters in Atlanta.

A display of 7,500 chickens will be entered in competition for prizes at the World's Poultry Congress in Cleveland, Ohio, July 22-August 7.

More mule colts were foaled in 1938 than in any year since 1928 the Bureau of Agricultural Economics reports.

Dr. R. J. Kennedy Urges Budget Commission New Revenue Plan

Dr. R. J. Kennedy, president of the Citizens Road League of Georgia, outlined to members of the Association of County Commissioners at their annual convention in Savannah Monday, May 8, a seven point "All Georgia Program," which, he said, would provide for adequate financing of the state and county services and for an orderly and economical administration of public affairs.

Dr. Kennedy, a past president of the Commissioners Association and now a member of the State Board of Education, told the commissioners that Georgia needed more revenue for the continuation of its educational program, but that it needed long-range planning for the administration of the budgets and a stabilization of tax measures as well.

Outlining a program of what he termed "seven essential legislative planks," Dr. Kennedy called for adequate support for the common schools, for reimbursing the counties for revenues lost through the horsetead exemption, for proper financing of the road building program of the State and for a budget commission with wide power over departmental budgets but shorn of any authority over departmental personnel. The program likewise included the elimination of all allocations except of the gasoline tax alone for roads, relinquishing other motor-vehicle taxes to the general fund of the State. A general sales tax, at a 2 per cent rate, was recommended.

1. Creation of a "real Budget Commission, independent of every departmental influence, and, as far as possible, to examine and coordinate the needs of every department of the State and make recommendations as to appropriations." (The Kennedy address to the legislature on May 10, recommended selection of the Commission by the General Assembly.)

2. Repeal of the present Stabilization Act, which gives a "tithing" of appropriations to the Governor to be expended in his discretion.

3. Legislative transfer of the Post Roads Division to the Highway Board, so as to coordinate highway building activities.

4. A 2 per cent general sales tax. (This to be allocated to the schools until the next general election, and thereafter to go to the general treasury.)

5. A constitutional amendment to permit the State to make the grants to the counties, to reimburse funds lost through horsetead exemption.

6. A constitutional amendment providing that when two counties merge, the representation in the House shall be the same as for the two counties.

7. A constitutional amendment that will give to the Highway Department five cents of the gas tax, and one cent to the counties, for road purposes, and all other allocations of State revenue definitely and for all time. To safeguard the common schools of the State... we propose that the appropriation for the common schools shall not be less than 40 per cent nor more than 50 per cent of the State's general fund receipts, and that not less than 20 per cent nor more than 25 per cent of the total school grant shall be to the equalization fund.

A chart, outlining the appropriations necessary to a proper financing of State needs, and providing an annual grant of $2,000,000 to reimburse counties for the losses occasioned by horsetead exemption legislation, was on display as a background for Dr. Kennedy's address.

It was revealed that the plan, formulated by a committee from the Citizens Road League working with business, labor, educational and civic leaders of the state, had received widespread approval in State circles, as a non-political solution of the long problems of finance that perplexed the General Assembly in its regular session this year.

Dr. R. J. Kennedy, president of the Citizens Road League of Georgia, outlined to members of the Association of County Commissioners at their annual convention in Savannah Monday, May 8, a seven point "All Georgia Program," which, he said, would provide for adequate financing of the state and county services and for an orderly and economical administration of public affairs.

Dr. Kennedy, a past president of the Commissioners Association and now a member of the State Board of Education, told the commissioners that Georgia needed more revenue for the continuation of its educational program, but that it needed long-range planning for the administration of the budgets and a stabilization of tax measures as well.

Outlining a program of what he termed "seven essential legislative planks," Dr. Kennedy called for adequate support for the common schools, for reimbursing the counties for revenues lost through the horsetead exemption, for proper financing of the road building program of the State and for a budget commission with wide power over departmental budgets but shorn of any authority over departmental personnel. The program likewise included the elimination of all allocations except of the gasoline tax alone for roads, relinquishing other motor-vehicle taxes to the general fund of the State. A general sales tax, at a 2 per cent rate, was recommended.

1. Creation of a "real Budget Commission, independent of every departmental influence, and, as far as possible, to examine and coordinate the needs of every department of the State and make recommendations as to appropriations." (The Kennedy address to the legislature on May 10, recommended selection of the Commission by the General Assembly.)

2. Repeal of the present Stabilization Act, which gives a "tithing" of appropriations to the Governor to be expended in his discretion.

3. Legislative transfer of the Post Roads Division to the Highway Board, so as to coordinate highway building activities.

4. A 2 per cent general sales tax. (This to be allocated to the schools until the next general election, and thereafter to go to the general treasury.)

5. A constitutional amendment to permit the State to make the grants to the counties, to reimburse funds lost through horsetead exemption.

6. A constitutional amendment providing that when two counties merge, the representation in the House shall be the same as for the two counties.

7. A constitutional amendment that will give to the Highway Department five cents of the gas tax, and one cent to the counties, for road purposes, and all other allocations of State revenue definitely and for all time. To safeguard the common schools of the State... we propose that the appropriation for the common schools shall not be less than 40 per cent nor more than 50 per cent of the State's general fund receipts, and that not less than 20 per cent nor more than 25 per cent of the total school grant shall be to the equalization fund.

A chart, outlining the appropriations necessary to a proper financing of State needs, and providing an annual grant of $2,000,000 to reimburse counties for the losses occasioned by horsetead exemption legislation, was on display as a background for Dr. Kennedy's address.

It was revealed that the plan, formulated by a committee from the Citizens Road League working with business, labor, educational and civic leaders of the state, had received widespread approval in State circles, as a non-political solution of the long problems of finance that perplexed the General Assembly in its regular session this year.

It Might Sound Crazy..... .....But It Makes The News

HAVE YOU HEARD ABOUT
the manna so whose glory was almost four times that of the Danes? It happened on the day she gave birth to nineteen little piggy. Yes, nineteen! And what more she had fourteen in the litter before that, which makes a total of thirty-three babies in two litters. That just goes to prove the theory, "It can be done." We didn't believe it at first either, but we have Mr. Joe W. Daniel, Carrollton, Route 4, and owner of the so who prove it. He was awarded the latter part of last year when he found the litter of 14 pigs. But his amazement knew no bounds the other day when he discovered the same sow had given birth to 19 more, which gives her an average of 16 pigs per litter. All of them were good, strong and healthy. Daniel tells us he had to give some of them away so that they might get enough to eat. Two of them went to his sister who is feeding them on a bottle.

EVERY DAY SOMETHING unbelievable happens. Sometimes near and sometimes far, but eventually we hear about it. L. W. Wilkes, colored of Newnan, Ga., tells this story, which he says is something new in his 68 years of experience. Wilkes, who is an old hand at poultry raising has two hens which were born March 6. On April 16, at the tender age of 40 days the hens started laying. Of course, they were fed a specially prepared food, but Wilkes says he has never known one hen to lay so early "much less two hens!"

AN AMAZING MONSTROSITY of the animal world was brought into the office of the Hawkinsville Dispatch & News the other day by a local farmer. It was a pig which had 8 feet and legs in the place of 4, 2 sets of tusks instead of 1, and 3 ears rather than 2. J. B. Kilgore, planter, living near Hawkinsville, said the pig weighed about a pound and a half when born to one of his sows that morning and that it lived 3 1/2 hours. All other pigs in the litter were normal. The pig might be termed as a pig within a pig. The second set of feet and legs were placed about the middle of the abdomen. It had well developed brown and black hair over its body and from a distance looked like an ordinary pig. An observer within a few feet of it, however, could very easily see the abnormality.

LIVESTOCK MARKET HIGHER THIS WEEK WITH DEMAND GOOD

According to Mr. C. L. McLemore, manager of the Bulloch Stock Yards, both the hog and cattle market was higher this week with the demand more than the supply. Light pigs and sows and pigs were in good demand. One lot of Hereford cattle averaged $20.20.
On the hog market No. 1's brought 6.20 to 6.35; No. 2's, 6.00 to 6.25; No. 3's, 5.80 to 6.10; No. 4's, 5.75 to 6.50; No. 5's, 5.50 to 6.75. Light pigs by the head sold extra good. Sows and pigs in good demand.
The cattle market was higher this week with good bred Angus and Hereford stocker calves and yearlings selling from 8.00 to 9.25.

T. C. STUDENTS TO MAKE HOUSING SURVEY OF CITY

Beginning today and tomorrow, members of the "Georgia Progress" class of the Teachers College, will make a survey of the housing conditions in Statesboro. The city will be divided into zones and two members of the class will be assigned to survey each zone.
This survey is part of the work being done in the course. It has a practical value and valuable conclusions will be worked out from the findings of the survey.
The members of the class will interview housewives, husbands and occupants of homes in an effort to determine housing conditions, the number of homes occupied by owners, the number occupied by renters, how long the house has been built, etc.
So when these students come to your home they are not selling magazines, not trying to pry into your private affairs, they are doing a job with excellent results. Answer their questions and give them the information they are seeking and know that you are helping in a good work.

Petition Asks Legislature To Reconvene

At a county-wide meeting held here Saturday morning, the teachers, trustees and patrons of the schools in Bulloch county adopted a resolution which provides for a petition to be passed out to all interested persons in the county urging the Legislature to reconvene and agree on some plan for the support of the schools of the county.
Several hundred persons were present at the meeting, including fifty school trustees and some 150 patrons. A principal address was made by L. A. Whipple, state representative from Blount county, who spoke of education in general. The program of Governor Rivers. Short talks were also made by T. M. Purcell of Cochran, and by Leo Browning, president of the state college at Cochran.
Plans call for the schools to be opened on the seventh month of the year. Methods of support for the schools is being left to the legislators.

BUSINESS GIRLS TO PLACE LARGE MARKERS ON HIGHWAYS

The members of the Business Girls' Club of Statesboro are accepting bids for the construction of large markers to be placed on the highway on the edge of town to indicate to travelers that they are entering the City of Statesboro.
Fat cattle brought 8.00 to 9.20; mediums, 7.00 to 8.00; fat yearlings, 6.00 to 8.00; Thin stocker yearlings, according to quality, 5.00 to 8.00.
Mr. McLemore stated that there was plenty of buyers and the demand for livestock continues good.

"We were quite tired out for the program was full from the time I got up at home until the game was over at 11 o'clock on Saturday. Friday night we went to the hotel, and got to bed around midnight, had to get up at 6:30 in order to get breakfast and get back to Grant Park by eight o'clock ready for the marbles tournament. You never saw so many marble players in one bunch in your life. Every one hoping and feeling that "he" might be the lucky one. I could tell a whole book about the games but must make it short.
"We began with fifteen rings and thirty boys. In this way we were eliminated down to the final. I came in the second, third and fourth. Last out in the fourth game, which put me more than half-way out. Although I did not win the championship nor the runner-up, I am still interested enough to keep on trying. I hope to find some place on cement to practice on before the next tournament.
"Billy Anderson of Fulton county, the 1937 champion was the proud winner again, and Walter Robertson, also of Fulton, was the runner-up. I saw these boys receive part of their rewards and boys, it made me want to be in their places, and don't think I am not going to try again.
"I will say again that I had a good time and am giving the Junior Chamber of Commerce all of the credit for my trip and all I enjoyed. I thank them for what they have done for me and especially do I thank Mr. Carroll for his care and kindness. To Mr. Montgomery of the High School, I feel much indebted for his interest in helping me at school and in the final county tournament."

Word was received by Hoke S. Brunson, local Buick dealer, that he is ranked first in the state of Georgia and fifth in the Atlanta zone, covering five states, in sales of the new 1939 Buick. Mr. Brunson, according to the report, has sold 245.45 per cent above his quota for this year. Mr. Brunson has been selling Buicks since 1936.

AAA Puts 3c Penalty On Excess Cotton

County Agent Byron Dyer advised Bulloch county farmers this week that cotton sold form this year's crop in excess of a producer's cotton marketing quota will be subject to a penalty of 3 cents a pound.
The penalty on excess marketings of carry-over penalty cotton will be 2 cents per pound, Mr. Dyer said. Penalties on both this year's and carry-over penalty cotton from last year will be collected by the buyer at the time of the sale.
All excess marketings last year were subject to the penalty of 2 cents per pound. Provision for the change in the penalty rate is included in the act under which the form program operates. The penalty for excess marketings does not apply to cotton carried over from a previous season which would not have been subject to penalty if it had been marketed during the previous marketing year.
The agent pointed out that the cotton marketing quota regularly for 1939-40 are substantially the same as the regulations in effect last year.
The cotton marketing quota of a farm is the normal or actual production, whichever is greater, of the farm's cotton acreage allotment, plus the amount of any carry-over.

Dr. Arthur Fink Talks At County Welfare Meeting Here

Outlining his address under four heads, Dr. Arthur Fink, Director of Social Work of the University of Georgia, discussed "Security of the Child" at the monthly meeting of the Bulloch City, Child Health and Welfare Council held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Womack, last Thursday night.
Others who spoke at the meeting were: Miss Louise Logan Colcord, supervisor of child placement and adoption, who talked on "Welfare Organization"; and Miss Rubye Coutt, state psychologist.
At the meeting the tonsil clinic was discussed and a committee made up of Miss Sara Hall, Miss Menza Cummins, and W. Louis Ellis, was asked to meet with the next monthly meeting of the Medical Staff and present the council's plans and ask their cooperation in this clinic.
Miss Jane Franseth reported that she had received $5.00 from the A. A. U. W. for the Welfare Council. It was also reported that the Statesboro Business Woman's Club is making an effort to give as much as $5.00 a month to the Council to assist in this clinic. It was also reported that there is a possibility of securing a Child Health and Welfare Worker for the county in the near future. The members of the council expressed their desire to ask Miss Dorothy Potts to return to Bulloch county for this position. Miss Potts formerly held this position and was transferred to Columbus, Ga.
After the round table discussion the meeting adjourned and refreshments were served by Mrs. H. P. Womack and Miss Jane Franseth, co-hostesses.

Cotton still consumes the largest acreage of any cash crops in the county. However, the 29,000 acres planted last year is quite a drop from the 59,000 acres planted in 1931. In 1931, cotton and corn occupied about the same number of acres of the cultivated land in the county.
In 1939 Bulloch farmers are looking to the large number of hogs they will sell prior to October 1, and to their 5,000 acres of tobacco in the county for the major part of their farm income. They have some 68,000 to 70,000 head of hogs to sell if a good feed crop is produced. Soil conservation payments and subsidies for 1939 will add some $450,000 to the income from their crops. The cotton crop is smaller this year by about 10 to 15 percent than it was in 1938. The small grain crop is about 20 percent larger than it was in 1938.

Dr. R.J. Kennedy Makes Diversified Farming A Profitable Business In Bulloch

From a prospective borrower is told by Dr. R. J. Kennedy that his farming program does not carry enough diversity to warrant the bank making him the size loan loan asked for. There is enough practical knowledge behind the statement to make it authoritative.
Dr. Kennedy really practices what he preaches relative to a diversified farming program and keeps an accurate record on the business. These farm records prove to this banker-farmer the necessity of getting an income from the many sources open to a Bulloch county farmer.
One of the major sources of income on this 230 acre farm is from hops. At the present more than 250 head of good blooded hogs are grazing on hops. A definite feeding system for the hogs is worked out so that the hogs can be made harvest their own feed crops and to aid in the labor saving principles adopted for this farm. From the big corn fields, the interplanted with peanuts and green beans, the hogs go to green oats, then to dry oats, and then to the early fields of soybeans, corn, Spanish peanuts and this year 65 acres of "solid" peanuts are planted to feed the porkers.
Corn, cotton and tobacco are grown. Only about 12 acres are devoted to tobacco and about 35 to 40 acres of cotton. Dr. Kennedy says that he has found that he can grow feed crops for his hogs and at the same time build and conserve his soil. Terraces second to none in the county are found on all the large on the farm that needs drainage of this type.
For several reasons labor saving machinery has been added to the equipment necessary to make a crop. With a small farm tractor and two mules, for special work, it is possible for Jim Smith, the share cropper, and two of his boys to cultivate this 230 acres of land. The type of farming along with labor saving machinery are the factors adopted on this farm that cuts down on the usual divisions in the income as compared with that of the average farmer. The fact along with the diversity makes this farm a paying business.
