

Profs Defeat Alabama 13-0

Scoring twice in the third quarter, the Teachers College Blue Tide defeated the Alabama Teachers Saturday afternoon, 13 to 0, in the first home game of the season.

The Blue Tide gained a total of 217 yards to Alabama's 99 yards, with Cox leading in the ground game for the Blue Tide. The Tide made seven first downs to Alabama's two.

The game opened with Langley and Rountree of the Teachers vs. Richardson of Alabama in a punting duel with Langley and Rountree averaging 40 yards per punt to Alabama's 35 yards per punt. The T. C. first score came in the first part of the third quarter when they kicked out on Alabama's twenty yard line and Parker blocked Alabama's attempted return punt. Pafford scooped up the ball and ran over for the touchdown. The attempted kick for the extra point was blocked. Again in the same period, at mid-field, Rountree, of the Blue Tide, passed to Parker, who was standing on the twenty, and he ran the remaining distance for the second

Havana, Cuba Grid Team To Play Teachers Saturday

The Caribes of the University of Havana (Cuba) will meet the Georgia Teachers on the college field Saturday afternoon at three o'clock.

The Cubans are making a three game tour of the state and after playing the Teachers here they go to Fort Benning and then to Orlando, Florida for a game with Rollins. Thirty men will make the trip to Statesboro. They are heavy and most of the men have had more than a year's experience. The Caribes take their name from the bad Indians of the West Indies found by Columbus. They have a fighting team and should prove plenty tough for the Teachers. Coach Smith was well pleased with the Professors work in the touchdown. Rountree kicked the extra point.

The last period saw Cox, small professor, in a series of long brilliant end runs, getting within scoring distance on one occasion. Langley played an unusually good defensive game of the Teachers, backing up the line and getting off some excellent punts. Parker also noticeable for his defensive work.

Cotton Farmers Receive Checks

Bulloch county cotton farmers are now receiving their 1939 price adjustment payments. The first lot of checks received amounted to about $30,000 that was payable to 680 farmers, according to J. W. Gaskins, treasurer of the Bulloch county agricultural conservation association.

Mr. Gaskins stated that some 1500 applications involving about 3,000 cotton farmers had been submitted for payment. He added that there were about 800 applications that had not been signed by the producers that are still in the county office.

Any cotton farmer that did not over plant his quota in areas in 1939 is eligible for the price adjustment payment of 1.6 cents per pound on the normal yield times the allotted acreage.

Bulloch farmers are particularly interested in these checks since they had a small group of members in the United Georgia Farmers when the move was started through Senator Russell to procure this payment. A delegation of farmers from the organization outlined their plans to Senator Russell on one of his visits to Georgia and he proceeded to get it passed. Mr. Gaskins estimated that Bulloch county would receive some $145,000 on price adjustment payments.

Attorney General Ellis Arnall was on record Tuesday as saying that a race for governor between Governor Rivers and former Governor Eugene Talmaage would be unconstitutional, according to a short paragraph in the Atlanta Journal this week. Such a race has been talked of, and Governor Rivers has not denied he might run again.

During the Gallego hearing in Austin, Texas, Mr. Arnall was asked if such a race was not shaping up in Georgia. "No, under our constitution, it can't be done," he replied.

Cuban Football Team Wins Hearts Of All Statesboro

The Georgia Teachers College won the football game last Saturday when they played the University of Havana at the college stadium, but the Cubans won the hearts of the fairer sex and all of the Statesboro people they came in contact with. Gentlemen, all of them. Each of the dark haired Cubans displayed perfect manners and polite on all occasions while they were in Statesboro. They won the admiration of every one.

The Cubans liked the beautiful college girls, and they told them that they liked them. They liked the high school girls. They even liked our high school football team and band. On Friday night the Cubans were in the stands rooting with all their might for the Statesboro team to win over the Sylvan team. Many of them attended services in the various churches.

The one thing that the Cubans did not get used to while they were in Statesboro was the food. They could not get accustomed to cornbread, sweet potatoes, and turnip greens.

On Friday night the Bulloch Herald by the football team and the Cuban party they have the following to say about our town and college.

"The players of the football team of the University of Havana came to Statesboro on the invitation of the Georgia Teachers College. Before we leave tomorrow for our next game with Ft. Benning, we want to express our gratitude to the very pleasant people of this town for the courteous attentions they have offered us. The people of Statesboro are very hospitable and they made us feel as if we were at home. We must say that the Georgia Teachers College has a good football team, they played hard and with very much courage. Saturday night after the game they gave us a dance which we enjoyed very much. Our turn to do the same thing in Havana next December when they go down to Havana to play with us."

Dr. Pittman, the college football team, Coach Smith, and the college officials proved last Saturday that they could stage an international football game and program as it should be done, and still win the football game and make the losers like it.

Methodists To Rally Sunday

The annual Rally Day of the Methodist Church will be held Sunday, October 22.

The pastor, Rev. N. H. Williams states that, "It is hoped that every Department of the Church will do all they can to make the day a success. The different departments and classes in the Church are making preparations to reach every pupil and those that ought to be with the Methodist Church school and get such pupils to the Church school next Sunday."

"The Stewards are co-operating in this effort and would like to close out the finances of the Church by next Sunday. If the Stewards can co-operate with the church and bring in all their offerings next Sunday, or make payments early the following week, the Church will be ready for the closing of the year's business at their final meeting Thursday night, October 26th. No financial campaign will be conducted at the Sunday services. It is urged, however, that all who are in arrears shall make payment of their dues for the entire year so that all our financiers for current expenses may be in the hands of the treasurer next Thursday night."

"The pastor hopes that those who have not been regular in their Church attendance may make it a point to attend next Sunday. Of course, the ones who have been regular in their attendance will be expected not only to come, but to do what they can to secure the attendance of others. Visitors are cordially welcomed."

According to an announcement made here this week, Friday afternoon, October 20 will be registration day for all the Bulloch county school teachers.

These in charge of the movement state that all the teachers in the county who are eligible to vote should come to Statesboro on that day and register in order that they might vote in the coming elections. At the last meeting of the Bulloch County Teachers Association

Mr. O. E. Gay, of Register and Mrs. F. W. Hughes of Brooklet were named to work out a plan to register all the Bulloch county teachers so that they would be eligible to vote here. They, together with Superintendent H. H. Britt of Nevils, urged all the teachers to cooperate with them in carrying out these plans.

This step is a part the Bulloch County Teachers Association is playing in the state-wide Citizenship movement now in progress as sponsored by the Georgia Educational Association.

There are 134 teachers in the Bulloch county system and 42 in the Statesboro school system.

300 Hogs Perish In Flames

The squeals of more than 600 hogs and bellows of more than 100 cattle and the stench of burning flesh filled the air as fire swept the barns and pens of the Statesboro Livestock Commission Company here in the middle of the afternoon Monday.

It is estimated that between 200 and 300 hogs and fifteen head of cattle were burned. Men worked late into Monday night rounding up those which had escaped.

The fire broke out in a pile of hay in one corner of the large stock yards during the regular Monday sale. Within five minutes the fire had spread over the entire yards and into the feed mill plant next to the yards.

F. C. Parker, Jr., manager of the stock yards said that the total loss of livestock, stock yards and feed mill would run approximately $30,000. Mr. Parker stated that within the past few days a $500 feed mill had been installed. The feed mill warehouse was full of feed, corn, and peanuts. All were destroyed.

According to Mr. Parker there were between 500 and 600 hogs and 100 head of cattle on the yards and in the pens for the Monday sale. Only fifteen head of cattle were burned and between 200 and 300 hogs. The fire department confined the fire to the immediate block, saving a portion of a lunch room adjoining the stock yards.

Monday night the stock yards presented an unusual sight with pens of burned hogs piled over each other.

Mr. Parker stated that the Statesboro Livestock Commission Company would hold its regular auction sales on Monday and Wednesday at the Bulloch Stock Yards located on the Central of Georgia Railroad on the Dover highway. He added that they would rebuild their stock pens and yards within thirty days.

Home Merchants First

Are you one who buys your coffee, your dry cleaning, your cosmetics, your magazines, your clothing from an unknown man or woman who knocks at your door and offers you these things, about which you cannot be sure?

Then if you are consider before you buy.

There comes to Statesboro every week a man in a truck who sells a brand of coffee. He calls at your door and tells you his coffee is as good, if not better than that you buy at your local grocer. He takes your order for future delivery, or he may deliver it immediately. Now before you bought his coffee did you ask him these questions: does he have a city license to sell his coffee, does he live in Statesboro, and pay taxes here, does he go to your church, and send his children to Statesboro schools? Did you ask him these things or did you go ahead and buy his coffee without thinking? If you did, then consider these things. Therefore ten grocery stores, all listed in the phone directory, there are others who do not have a phone. These grocermen rent buildings, pay licenses, pay taxes, send their children to our schools, go to our churches, patronize our farmers, and do business with your husband, your father or your brother. Every one of these grocers handle coffee, of a brand with which you are familiar and if you are not satisfied with it they are always there so that you may secure satisfaction and service. Now let us ask you a question—From whom should you buy your coffee?

Three times a week there comes to Statesboro a white truck who comes to your door and a young man solicits your dry cleaning and pressing.
He gives you a selling talk which may sound good to you. He may or may not undersell the local cleaners and pressers. He may or may not rundown their work. When he has finished his selling talk, did it occur to you to give him a selling talk? If your husband sells groceries, did you try to get this man to buy groceries from your husband, or to give you his order. Now did you ask him about his license, and his taxes. And did it occur to you that he had by now become a nuisance. You had dinner on and your biscuits were burning. Or did you go ahead and give him your clothes, without wondering if you would get them back. Now there are in Statesboro three cleaners, all do first quality work and can be depended upon and they give you one day service.
They all contribute to the welfare of your family and the community. They buy their needs from your husband, father and brother.

Every so often you ladies may receive a phone call from some soft spoken young lady who takes a room at one of the hotels. She has a "marvelous skin lotion, which will take ten years from your face" or some other preparation she wishes to sell.
She asks to give you an appointment and let her give you a facial, and whatever you ladies get when you go to the beauty parlor. Or a personable young lady comes to your door and offers a beauty demonstration, with the object of selling you some cosmetics. It sounds like a swell buy.
But first ask this young lady the same questions you asked our coffee man and cleaning man. Tell her that there are five beauty shops in States-boro and six drug stores here, all offering the best in their particular lines.

Every day there comes into Statesboro salesmen and sales ladies who solicit business from house to house. People who add nothing to our community but drain it for everything they can. You have no recourse if what they sell is not good, for they who sold you have left town and to use a trite phrase—"you are stuck".

It is not a question of laws—there are laws on the ordinance books of our city which take care of such cases. The responsibility lie on the person answering the door when one calls. Call the police, or call your husband, or father or son.

In a community like Statesboro we are all dependent on each other for our business successes.
We buy from each other everything we can possibly buy. And what we can't buy from each other we can buy from reputable firms represented by us, or from reputable firms who send reputable representatives to take our orders. Our money circulates. But money spent with these door-to-door salesmen, peddlers, and solicitors flees with the wind.

Remember this—whatever those who call at your door have to sell, you can find in Statesboro the same of a known quality with the reputation of your local business man behind it.

So the next time one calls at your home, have the courage to ask him a few questions and give him a selling talk—or call the police. You'll win the admiration of your local business men and have the satisfaction of doing your bit in adding to the welfare of Statesboro and Bulloch county.

Friday at noon Jim and I had lunch with Bill Sherman at the High School. We arrived a bit early and the ladies of the P. T. A., in the kitchen immediately put us to work. Someone made the crack that we were not parents but we could sure help. We rolled meat, cracked ice, filled tea glasses, wrapped napkins around forks and knives.
There is a wonderful piece of work there. We stood and watched about 200 school children at the sound of a bell line up and in less time than it takes to tell served themselves to a complete lunch prepared by members of the P. T. A.
The lunch consisted of string beans, apple salad, a meat, rolls and a glass of tea—all for a dime.
It was all one needs. Those kids really went for it—and so did we. We sat at the table with Joyce Smith, Pruella Cowart, Mary Virginia Groover, Betty Jean Cone, Lorena Durden, and Dorothy Remington. They made us feel very much at home and we enjoyed it thoroughly.

It is a project that means a great deal to the High School. There is a lot of work connected with it and credit goes to Mr. Sherman, the members of the P. T. A. and those who contributed certain pieces of equipment. I'm going to take off my tie, unbutton my collar, get me a sweater and start going down there every day for lunch—if I can get away with it—for a dime it's worth the try.

And another thing. When we finished lunch we went upstairs to chapel and Mrs. Leslie Johnson led the assembly in singing. Now there's an idea.
If we all were to sing after eating, we believe all our indigestion troubles and mental troubles would end. Mrs. Johnson does marvels with voices. They sang school songs—we couldn't get to first base on those—but when they started singing "My Wild Irish Rose", "Keep the Home Fires Burning" and "Pack Up Your Old Kit Bag" we went to town.
(Editor's note: It was quiet coincidental that our Briar Patch Philosopher should write about singing in his column this week. It would seem that there is really an idea here.)

And the boys from Havana Cuba really enjoyed their stay in Statesboro. We saw them at the Tea Pot Thursday night and engaged several of them in conversation. They have promised to write us their impression of Statesboro for publication. We hope they will do it for this week. It will be interesting to know what they think of us, States-boro and the College. We hope they don't forget it.

THE COURSES OF SYPHILIS
AFTER INFECTION

THE FIRST STAGE. Syphilis runs through several more or less characteristic stages. The primary stage usually begins as a local sore, called the chancre, at the point of contact with the infection. The chancre appears from 12 days to 40 days—on the average, three weeks—after exposure. It may be merely a red spot or blister or pimple, or it may develop into an ulcer of considerable size. As a rule, the chancre is very hard and feels like a button or a piece of cardboard under the skin. It is usually painless. The lymph glands that drain the area which has become infected become markedly enlarged. There

Barbs Of The Brair Patch Philosopher

Dear Editor:

GRACEOUS — GOODNESS you should be with me and Ma Friday night—We went to the singing convention at Nevils and did we have a time.
It beat anything me and Ma has been to since the county fair usta be there in Statesboro.

NOW AS FOR SINGING—shucks I ain't even able to carry a tune in a bucket, much less look at them funny marks in a book and know what they mean. But they was some there that as knew what they meant, cause they were singing something purty. I usta go out to Bethlehem and enjoy their singing I remember Coy Temples—He was just a shaver then—Ambrose's way was. He could hist as purtittier tune as the next one. And then at all these funerals where Doc. Mooney, and Col. Booth, and Judge Preston (the one as is dead now) and his boy—"Beautiful Isles of Somewhere" just made me feel like the dead persons they was singing for was one of the best people on earth—even if I knew he was a sorry-no-account-rascal They just something about singing. It just seems to draw together all the saints and the sinners. If we was to have more singing at church and less so much preaching I just believe we'd do better. Ain't no use having no more sermon than that one I wrote you not long ago—About 160 words is enough, don't you think?

I GOT YOUR NOTE telling me that Mr. Talton was all a curious to know if he was the one who sold me my Country Gentlemen where I read about the new harness for ole Jake. If he was that heavy-like man that can talk up a storm—that's him. Why I remember... but if I told that he would know who I am, and you give me your word you won't let on who I am. So lets just keep him curious.

I READ THAT THING in your paper last week about "Iron Horses on Rubber". You know I just hate to think about them things. Sure and I know theys good to have and they don't cost no more as a pair of good mules. But what you gonna do when you just gotta a heap of cussin to get out of your system. Why one of them iron horses can't give you no satisfaction. There ain't nothing like a mule like ole Jake to do your cussing at. They understand and your feelings is helped when you finished. But I reckon as how we gonna progress as you say. It'd be fine not to have to feed one of them things when first dark comes and get up on cold mornings for daylight and worry bout shucking some corn for it. But ole Jake—he's good for some time yet so I don't reckon I'd better get all het up over them.

I WANT YOU to come out and see me sometime. I want to talk about that mess you wrote 'bout Mr. Talmadge. Who every herd of such a thing....

B. P. P.

for, if the chancre appears on the sex organs, the glands in the groins become enlarged. If the chancre is on the lip, the glands in the neck will become swollen considerable. As a rule, these enlarged glands are not painful. A chancre on the lip may disappear, even without treatment, leaving nothing obvious to show that the disease is present, Syphilis is a great deceiver.

The chancre stage of the disease is very infectious, although the blood in this stage does not show a positive reaction to the Wasserman test for active syphilis. However, the germ can be detected by microscope examination. Treatment begun in the chancre stage offers the greatest chance of cure and of escaping the destructive results of the disease. Hence, early diagnosis is extremely important.

Even experts can seldom diagnose syphilis with certainty from its outward manifestations alone.
Often there are no outward signs. Laboratory tests which include microscopic examination must be used as aids in diagnosis.

Comparatively few people realize the importance of consulting a physician as soon as possible after symptoms appear, or as soon as there is reason to think they have been exposed to infection. If the infected person places himself under treatment immediately after exposure, or before the blood becomes positive, he has an 86 percent chance of cure. If he waits for only a few days or weeks the Wasserman of other tests may become positive, and then his chance of cure is reduced to 64 percent. If he is irregular in receiving treatment his chances are much further reduced. The medical care receives must be competent.

Home Agent Tells
How To Fight Insects

BY MISS ELVIE MAXWELL
HOME QUICK ACTION
IS ADVISABLE

When the homemaker finds herself playing the unwilling hostess to numbers of hungry insects, the more quickly she does something about it, the better. Many large families are the rule with insects.
In waging war on the insects that come into the kitchen there are two anti-insect preparations that will be helpful over and over again. One is poisonous sodium fluoride powder. Another is one of the kerosene-pyrethrum sprays common on the market.

And here are the ways to use these remedies:
For ants, one of the most pre-sistent of kitchen pests, sprinkle sodium fluoride around window sills, drain-boards, foundations, and other places where the ants crawl, but not where it will interfere with housekeeping operations.
If this drives the ants away, it is a cheap and easy way to control them. But it is poisonous to man and should be used carefully, kept out of food and away from children and pets.

The ideal way to kill ants of course, is to find the colony where the queen and the young ants are, then to destroy that. But when the colony is not to be found or is inaccessible, try sodium-fluoride powder first. If that doesn't work it will be necessary to resort to poison bait made up to suit the taste preferences of the ants.

In the meantime, until these remedies take effect, keep ants off tables, refrigerators, and other movable furniture by wrapping poison tapes around the furniture legs, or by setting the furniture legs into shallow dishes with a little kerosene in them. Kerosene-pyrethrum spray will kill the ants it actually hits.

Sodium-fluoride powder is also the best all-round remedy for cockroaches. Because cockroaches hide during the day and come out to forage at night, spread the powder around with a duster or small bellows in the evening.

Put it back of shelves, drain-boards, and into hiding places.
Leave it there for 2 or 3 days.
Repeat the application after a week or two. Two or three thorough dustings usually will be enough.

Kerosene-pyrethrum spray will kill all the cockroaches that it hits. But since roaches are fast on their feet, it might be sprayed into their hiding places to do much good.

START PLANNING FOR 1940 NOW

IT IS not too early to be making plans for more profit from your crops next year. Start now, while this year's results are still fresh in your mind, to provide for the use of plenty of potash to insure greater yields and quality in 1940. Rusted cotton, low yields and poor quality of tobacco, vegetable, fruit, and legume crops result if the soil and fertilizers do not supply enough potash. Wherever legumes are grown, more potash is needed because of the large amounts removed by these crops and to balance the nitrogen and organic matter supplied when legume crops are turned under.

Talk over with your county agent or experiment station your yields this year as compared with what you can expect from your soil if given the right amount of the right fertilizer. Ask your fertilizer dealer or manufacturer about fertilizers high in potash. You will be surprised how little extra it costs to apply enough potash for the crops which you will plant next spring.

tion and literature on the profitable fertilization of Southern crops.

Statesboro Livestock Commission Co. Rebuild Stockyards At Early Date

OGEECHEE SCHOOL NEWS

An announcement made here week Mr. F. C. Parker, Jr., Commissioner of the Statesboro Livestock Commission Company, stated that the yards and that company would be re-built within thirty days. Their work on West Main Street was destroyed by fire Monday.

Parker states that until the new stockyards are ready, the regular sales would be held at Farmers Livestock Market about one mile North of Statesboro. Sales will be held here until further announcements.

Parker added that they continue to render the same service and have the same sales as they carried on at their old site.

STUDENT REPORT

ON GEORGIA

Indicated production of cotton Georgia on October 1 was estimated at 976,000 bales (550 lbs. less weight) by the Crop Reporting Board of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. This report, which is based on data from crop correspondents and ginners in the state, shows a decrease of 51,000 bales from the forecast of one month ago. With the advancements of ginnings over the year, it became evident that the crop will fall somewhat short of earlier expectations when the extent of weevil damage was not readily apparent. The yield of 32 pounds of lint cotton per acre is 14 percent above the 1938 yield of 203 and 9 percent above the 5-year average (1928-37) of 212 pounds. Average for harvest, previously estimated, is 2,008,000 acres, which is approximately the same as was harvested last year.

NATIONAL FOOD SITUATION

"The United States can look forward to an abundant 1940 food larder. Present indications point to a production level well in line with the abundance of the last two seasons," so says Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace. "Meat supplies will be larger than in any of the years since 1934. The pig crop is expected to be about as large as in any of the years from 1925 to 1933. Feed supplies for 1939-40 will be abundant. Beef building barns, two are building the fence, and others are making cows, horses, mules, pigs, ducks and other animals. The members of the second grade, as well as the other grades, are very much interested in the work being done.

The second grade is working on a farm unit. Last week the grade visited a farm in order to see the various things that are needed on a farm. Each child in the grade has something to do. Some are supplies for the next 12 months may exceed those of the past year. The number of dairy cattle is increasing. The supplies of dairy products will be somewhat smaller than the large supplies of 1938-39 but per capita supplies will be larger than for the period 1925-29. Supplies of poultry and eggs will be larger. They will be above the 1925-29 average. However, per capita supplies, particularly of eggs, will be considerably lower than for 1925-29. Supplies of edible fats and oils will be ample. Lard production will be increased sharply."

PECAN MARKETING

Georgia pecan growers are cautioned by C. G. Garner, Extension marketing economist, not to sell pecans until they are mature.

"Green immature nuts sold now will shrink heavily, causing dissatisfaction to the distributors," he says. "The worst thing about selling these immature nuts is the fact that the housewives who eventually buy them to eat, or the candy people who use them, become disgusted and many customers turn to other nuts. Pecan people need more markets, not less."

PLENTY OF APPLES

Over 103 million bushels of apples are available for commercial markets this year, or almost a bushel of apples for each man, woman, and child in this country. This year's commercial apple crop is 25 percent bigger than last year's production and 7 percent greater than the average for the last 10 years. While most of the states of the country produce some apples, about two-thirds of this year's 103 million-bushel commercial crop is found in the seven states of Washington, New York, Michigan, Virginia, Pennsylvania, Ohio, and California. The State of Washington leads with a production of 20 million bushels; and New York State is second with a little under 15 million bushels.

Herbert L. McCaskill, Sandersville contractor, probably won't go to any "vulture" movies soon. On a trip to Sylvania recently, McCaskill suffered lacerations about the face and hands as result of a collision between his automobile and a flock of Georgia buzzards. One of the scavengers crashed through the windshield of the machine and perched on the seat beside the driver and could not be ejected until the car was brought to a halt.

IT'S A PIPPIN!

160 YEAR OLD WATCH STILL RUNNING

Patrick Henry's oratory may have made time stand still but there is at least one watch in Georgia that is still running although it may have listened to the famous Virginian's voice soon after its completion in 1774. The timepiece has a silver case and is wound and set by a key. It is held together by metal pegs and its works are driven by a small bicycle-like chain. The watch is set with authentic diamonds and has been repaired once previously, on December 12, 1889. The ancient watch was discovered last week by H. W. Maxwell, Elberton jeweler, who is repairing it.

I'LL TUNE OUT THE ALKA-SELTZER ANNOUNCEMENT

Don't - THAT'S THE MOST IMPORTANT THING YOU'LL HEAR TONIGHT

"When statements about Alka-Seltzer are made over the air, please, please believe them."

Mrs. Oma Catherine Jones

MILLIONS suffer less from Headache, Acid Indigestion, Distress of Colds "Morning After" and Muscular Fatigue because they have heard-and believed-Alka-Seltzer radio announcements. To these millions, the relief obtained by the use of Alka-Seltzer is worth far more than the genuine enjoyment they get from the broadcasts.

The most important parts of our radio program, both to you and to us, are the commercial announcements. Once you have tried Alka-Seltzer we believe you will agree with us. But try Alka-Seltzer because it is an unusually effective medicine not because you enjoy the radio program.

WHY ALKA-SELTZER IS SO EFFECTIVE

The pain-relieving analgesic in Alka-Seltzer is in complete solution, ready to ease the distress as soon as you swallow it. The pain-relieving action is made more effective by alkaline buffers. The alkalizing elements in Alka-Seltzer reduce excess stomach acidity.

Get Alka-Seltzer the next time you pass a drug store.

SIXTH GRADE
We have elected officers. They are president, Evelyn Tucker, secretary, Jean Groover; treasurer, Elsie Ruth Belcher; reporter, Lucille Davis.

We are enjoying painting some things in our room this week. Our milk is kept nice and cold since a new refrigerator was given our school by the Statesboro Provision Company.

In Language we are studying how to use periods and commas correctly.

We are planning to have a panel jury discussion Monday in Social Science.

We had 72 pupils bring milk in grammar school.

SEVENTH GRADE
The seventh grade has held two class meetings. At the first meeting the following officers were chosen: President, Irma Lou Polard; vice-president, Joseph Cone; secretary, Elsie Minick; treasurer, Lavanna Daves; host, Otis Beasley; hostess, Alma Lee Waters; reporter, John Theus McCormick.

Our room has had a new coat of paint, and the floor has been tiled since school started. Members of the class have brought in flowers, pictures, and other things that have added to the attractiveness of the room. We have a happy time the first period each morning reading the many books that have been made available for us. At our activity period we make things we study about. We have an Indian Teepee large enough that we can go inside of it. Many have made places of pottery, adobe of clay, booklets and scenes pertaining to Indian life. We have studied the life of Longfellow, many Longfellow poems have been read and some memorized. After visiting the corn and wheat bins, we are now in the land of cotton.

EIGHTH GRADE
The 8th grade health class of Brooklet High School has been studying a unit of foods. We have made posters of foods containing the different vitamins, containing calcium, proteins, and some others. Different members of the class have made reports on foods. We will soon be through with this unit. Miss Mills, our health teacher, gave us our test Thursday on foods. We have enjoyed studying this unit very much and are going to study diseases for our next unit.

Cotton Farmers Asked To Study Cotton Quota Proposals

Bulloch county cotton farmers were asked this week to study all angles of the 1940 cotton marketing quota proposal before going to the polls December 9 to determine if next year's crop will be governed by quota regulations.

"Farmers normally consider the factors of supply, carry-over, production and consumption," County Agent Byron Dyer said. "But a new factor—the war in Europe—also must be considered if the farmers get a true picture of the current situation."

The county agent said the test guide the farmers have as to what is likely to happen to cotton as a result of the European developments is the experience they had during the World War. He said most of them may recall the high cotton prices that prevailed during the latter years of the World War, and how cotton lagged behind the general commodity price level for over two years after the outbreak of the war.

"Just before the opening of hostilities in 1914, cotton prices were about 12.5 cents a pound," he said. "When the exchanges were closed, August 1 to November 17, 1914, prices dropped to nearly half this level. It was two full years after the war began before domestic prices

The terrarium also contains very damp soil in which the plants grow. Files are put in it almost everyday for the frogs to eat. As the snakes will eat the frogs more will be put in their place.

Betty Belcher, Reporter

cotton resulting largely from the record 19 million bale crop of 1937 still hangs over the market. "Marketing quotas can be authorized only when the supply of American cotton is more than seven percent above normal," he said. "For 1939-40 the normal supply, as defined by law, would be approximately 18.2 million bales while the actual supply is 26.3 million bales. This is more than 44 percent above normal. The world supply of foreign growths of cotton is also abnormally large."

How well they READ How well they SEE

Which is more Important?

DOTING fathers and mothers frequently boast about how well their early-school sons and daughters can read—and such pride is justifiable. But shouldn't you take equal pride in being sure that your children see well, in helping to assure them a lifetime of visual efficiency and comfort?

All eyes, young and old alike, deserve good care. That means, first of all, good working conditions, under good light—light that is free from harmful glare, light that is uniform, light that is scientifically correct in quality as well as quantity. Can your home boast this better sight insurance?

Read The News By 'Free Electricity'

While children's eyes are important—so are those of grown-ups. All eyes are busy these days, and nights, when the newspapers are filled with accounts of a world tossed by war and rumors of war. Make sure your home light is right.

Good light comes at bargain prices under this Company's new lower rates. In fact, at least 90,000 Georgia homes can add one or more of the new I. E. S. lamps, without adding one penny to their monthly electric bills. The "free electricity" plan makes this possible. See these beautiful, scientifically designed lamps at our stores; inquire about their low prices and their surprising low cost of operation. Or buy yours from any of our employees.

A Suggestion

Designed for better sight by the Illuminating Engineering Society, this lamp can be yours for only $4.10—$1 down and $1 a month.

Housing Survey Of Statesboro Made By G.T.C. Students Reveals Interesting Results

"The effects of bad housing can be measured directly in the general welfare. It lessens industrial efficiency, encourages inferior citizenship, lowers the standard of family life, and deprives people of reasonable comfort. There are also direct relationships between poor housing and poor health, and between poor housing and crime." So states the Contemporary Georgia syllabus. This class, under the direction of Dr. C. M. Dentler, was particularly interested in the situation in the city of Statesboro and decided to make a housing survey a class project.

The class, numbering about thirty, elected a committee to be in charge of the survey. The committee divided the class into 15 groups, two persons to a group. The city of Statesboro was divided into four groups and these four groups in turn divided into streets. Each couple was given a certain number of streets and was given a week in which to procure the desired information. A sheet of questions was drawn up by the class and the survey was begun. This pamphlet is the result.

The actual details of the survey are by no means accurate or complete. Those who made the survey were inexperienced in such work and there were many estimating circumstances which do not make it a complete index to the city's housing situation. It is, however, a good means of marking trends and revealing situations. If for nothing else, it is valuable in that it provided for the members of the class an opportunity to see for themselves the actual conditions.

To repeat, in Statesboro as well as in the entire South, "the effects of bad housing can be measured directly in the general welfare."

The Committee: Frances Hughes, Bettie McLemore, Marion Lanier, Chess Faircloth, D. R. Barber, Jr. Collegeboro, Ga. May 31, 1939.

HOUSING IN STATESBORO

We found that there were 440 white houses in Statesboro and 185 colored. Of the total 92 per cent reported as to the structure of the white houses. There were 64 per cent brick, 91.2 per cent wood, and 2.4 per cent stucco or similar construction. Of the total negro houses, 96 per cent were surveyed. Of this 96 per cent there were 5 per cent brick, 98 per cent wood, about 4 per cent stucco or similar construction, and 1.1 per cent simple, home-made galvanized iron or common "tin" structures. These facts would show that Statesboro should have a fairly high rate of fire loss, with so few fireproof houses.

Of the 440 white houses in the city, 407 reported as to the condition of the exterior walls of the house. 360 or 88.4 per cent of them were painted or had similar treatment, while the remaining 47, or 11.6 per cent had never had a coat of paint. Of the total negro houses 178 reported, showing that 85, or 48.1 per cent had been painted, while 92, or 51.9 per cent had never been painted.

A survey of roofs of the houses brought 398 responses of the total 440. This was 91 per cent of the total. Of this 91 per cent 260 or 65.3 per cent were tin; 10, or 2.5 per cent were slate; 45, or 11.3 per cent, were wooden shingles, and the remaining 3, or 1.6 per cent had composition roofs. All 155 negro houses reported in this instance.

85 per cent of the white houses reported as to types of foundation. It is a fact that the foundation is the most important part of a house. The following tabulation will show the situation in Statesboro. Of the 85 per cent reporting, 86 per cent had brick under foundations, while the remaining 14 per cent had wooden foundations. In each instance, "brick-under" foundation was taken to mean any type of brick foundation, whether pillars or whether bricked solid all across. The same was taken for wooden foundations—either log pillars or wooden pillars made solid with planks.

85 per cent of the white houses reported as to the number of stories. 52.5 per cent of these were one-story houses, and 17 per cent were two-story houses. Less than one-half of one per cent had three stories or more. 90 per cent of the colored houses responded to this question. 75 per cent of the negro houses were one-story houses, while the remaining 5 per cent were of two-story construction.

When asked about screened doors and windows, 70 per cent had screened doors, and 67 per cent had screened windows. 65 per cent had both screened doors and windows. Only 28 per cent of the negro houses had screened doors and 32 per cent had screened windows. About 30 per cent had screened doors and windows.

In the South, and especially this section of South Georgia, a porch is about the most important part of the house in the summertime. This accounts for the large number of large old southern homes with "verandas" completely encircling the house—the custom was to follow the shade around the house throughout the day. Statesboro shows up well in this respect. 95 per cent of her white houses have porches of some sort, mostly large, well-constructed porches, while 80 per cent of her colored houses have porches. These, however, are not nearly so well constructed as are the white porches.

As to types of windows, the choice was between glass windows and common wooden shutters. 85 per cent of the white houses had glass windows and 5 per cent had wooden shutters. In the colored division, 85 per cent reported glass windows, and the remaining 15 per cent had wooden shutters or some similar material. Almost all of the houses of both types reported here.

91 per cent of the white houses reported as to number and types of rooms in each structure. According to our survey, the average house in Statesboro averages 6.3 rooms. This is perhaps a little above the average town or city in Georgia because Statesboro has a number of large, old homes. Houses were found with 14, 15 and 16 rooms each. Houses in the city averaged 2.3 bedrooms, each, 8 bathrooms, 1.1 living rooms, and about 1 kitchen each. The remaining 1.6 rooms were dining rooms, parlors and other miscellaneous rooms. In many cases the surveyor found "overlapping" rooms, i. e. a room with a bed room, a dining table all. This room of course is used for bedroom, kitchen and dining room. Due to this fact, this part of the survey is probably inaccurate.

With 93 per cent of the white houses reporting as to types of walls, 21.4 per cent had plastered walls, 60.8 per cent had lath and plaster walls, and 17.8 per cent had beaverboard, masonite or similar material. In the negro section, with 91 per cent of the houses reporting, 6 per cent had plastered walls, 95.1 per cent had lath and plaster walls, and 4.2 per cent had beaverboard or similar material. Common among the negroes for interior walls is the use of newspapers, cardboard, and other shabby materials. It is a small wonder that the rate of fire loss is so great among the negro dwellings. When a case like this was found, it was reported under "ceiling walls".

How the Av. House is Divided:
A basement is rare in Statesboro, even among the white houses, 32 white basements were found, or 7.5 per cent of the houses. This left 92.5 per cent of the houses without basements. The negroes reported 100 per cent without basements.

The matter of adequate yard space was left to the person making the survey. According to the judgement, 87 per cent of the white houses in Statesboro had adequate yard space. Only 50 per cent of the negroes had enough yard space. This was taken for owned and rented homes.

Statesboro is a relatively old town with respect to the age of houses. 35 per cent are better than 25 years of age, 10 per cent are between 5 and 10 years of age, and 12 per cent are under five years of age. This means white houses 30.5 per cent of her colored houses over 25 years of age; 35.1 per cent of her houses are between 10 and 25 years old; 10.8 per cent between 5 and 10, and 13.5 per cent are under five.

22.7 per cent of the white houses in the city are apartment houses. 8 per cent of the colored houses are apartments. An apartment house was taken to mean a house that had two or more distinct divisions and with two or more families or groups of persons living in them. A case where a person only had one room, with board and meals, was not taken to mean an apartment. 75 per cent of the white apartments had kitchens or some means of cooking. White apartments in Statesboro average about 2 1/2 rooms to the apartment. The average number of occupants was also 2 1/2-12 per apartment. 60 per cent of the apartments had interior bathrooms; 48 per cent had living rooms. 85 per cent of the colored apartments had some means of kitchen facilities. Colored apartments average about two rooms to the apartment with 2.3 occupants to the apartment. Only about 1 per cent of the colored apartments had inside bathrooms. 15 per cent of them had living rooms.

There will be some question as to the population of Statesboro. As has been stated before, the survey is not guaranteed to be accurate in many respects. There were several houses where the occupants could not be reached. At times there was also question as to where the city limits of the city stopped. At any rate, the survey showed the white census of the city to be 2720, and the colored census to be 900. The total would be 3620. The population is obviously more than that. 55 per cent of the city's homes are owned by the occupants. The remaining 45 per cent are rented or leased. 22 per cent of its colored homes are owned. This is a good figure for a town the size of Statesboro.

One section of the questionnaire was devoted to facilities. Facilities included such things as electricity, methods of sanitation and sewage disposal, water supply, refrigerator, heating systems, washing machines, vacuum cleaners, and ironing boards.

92 per cent of the white houses are equipped with electricity. 11 per cent of the colored houses are so equipped. 22 per cent of the white houses cook with oil or kerosene. 34.1 per cent cook with electricity (this means that they have some form of electric stove). 39.7 per cent cook with wood stoves. 3.4 per cent have some other form—gas, etc. 12 per cent of the negroes cook with oil; 87 per cent with wood, and 1 per cent cook with electricity or some other form.

84 per cent of the white houses are equipped with central heating. 82 per cent are equipped with fire places, and 15 per cent have some other means of heating. Less than 1.4 of 1 per cent of the negro houses are equipped with central heating systems. 93 per cent of the colored houses have fireplaces, and less than 1 per cent have other means of heating or cooking.

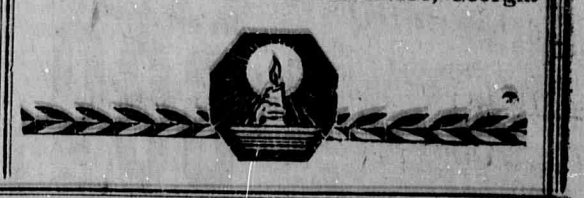

About 2 per cent of the homes are equipped with washing machines. While there are only one or two washing machines in the colored homes. About one out of every five homes in the city have vacuum cleaners. There are only one or two vacuum cleaners in colored homes. 51 per cent white homes 91 per cent of the houses are electric. 91.2 per cent of flat irons, and less than 1-2 of 1 per cent are gas. 11 per cent of the

Blue Devils Lose To Sylvania; Play Millen Next

The fighting Statesboro High School Blue Devils lost their second consecutive game of the 1939 gridiron season last Friday night when a well balanced and a well coached Sylvania team defeated them 13-0. The score was the same as the score Swainsboro beat the High School boys in the first game of the season.

The Sylvania squad had a well balanced team with a lot more poundage than that of the Blue Devils. Statesboro's inexperience was again a deciding factor in the final score. However the backfield showed a good deal more offensive success last Friday night than they did in the Swainsboro game. The passing attack was the outstanding feature and several passes were completed for gains.

The Sylvania boys early in the game gained on long sweeping end runs and single reverse plays that completely baffled the Statesboro Blue Devils. Sylvania's blocking and interference was good and the night due to sickness. It was the first time that the Blue Devils have gone upon the gridiron without Coach Johnson in a good while. Mr. S. H. Sherman and B. B. Williams had charge of the team.

In the last few minutes of the second quarter Routtree, in a series of plays drove from his own 45 down to the 2 yard line and then plunged over for the score. Early in the third period Parker blocked a punt on the 20. Davis for the Teachers, grabbed the ball and ran to the 10. On the next play Cox passed to Parker over the goal line for the second score. From them, "comes the future citizenry which will make or unmake the state of Georgia, without the common schools there could be no University of Georgia System."

Cuban Students At G.T.C. Find Statesboro Folk Friendly

Three Cuban boys and one Cuban girl are making their home here in Statesboro and are attending the Georgia Teachers College because of the most hospitable and friendly people we have ever known and the college gives us a better opportunity to express and develop our personality.

Eddie, Frank and Joe Aguirre these brothers from Cienfuegos, Cuba, and Elsa Gomez of Havana are all making their home here. Eddie is a senior, Frank is a junior and Elsa is a freshman at the Georgia Teachers College. Joe is a freshman at the Statesboro High School.

Eddie and Frank came here in a round about way. Their father, Frank M. Aguirre, province manager of a large electric company in Cuba brought his sons from Cuba to New York in 1928. They remained there for three days and then they stayed three months. They returned to New York and remained there for three years and then to New Orleans for five years. Eddie came here in 1938. Frank came in March 1939 and Joe in September 1939.

The Aguirre boys were preceded here by a cousin, Ernest Aguirre who remained here for eight years.

Eddie, the eldest of the boys plans to teach economics or government in some university. The boys first heard of Statesboro through Miss Greta Sharpe of Statesboro who is principal of an American school in Cienfuegos. The boys' father was president of the Cienfuegos Rotary Club last year and was a guest of the Statesboro Rotary Club in January 1938, when he brought Frank here.
