The Whiskered Wizards, the most colorful basketball club in the world, will meet the Georgia Teachers in the college auditorium here Tuesday evening, January 16. The Wizards, wearing red and white uniforms, are playing for the prize of a feature showmanship par-excellence.

All over the United States, Canada, and Mexico, the Wizards have played to sell-out crowds. This season they play the hardest schedule in the world as they meet 67 college clubs. When the end of March comes they will have played over 150 ball games and covered thousands of miles in doing so. The team is composed of Captain Jim Neely, six feet-three; Pecos Jim Neely, six feet-two inches; Bob Rich, six feet; Bob Collins, six feet; Robert Lofland, six feet-four inches; Bob Hale, six feet-four inches; and Bob Sims, six feet-four inches.

Tomorrow evening (Friday) the Teachers go to Savannah where they meet Armstrong College.

MEETING A COMMUNITY NEED

The "undertaker," a common name for the man who not only arranges and oversees funerals, but who also does embalming, is a man who meets a community need. He is, indeed, an undertaker of an exacting task, in the accomplishment of which, thorough, sympathetic service is the paramount demand.

SINCE 1899

LANIER'S MORTUARY

has been the faithful undertaker to scores of families in this community. Our service is of superior proven quality.

TO THE COUNTY COMMISSION, BULLOCH COUNTY, STATESBORO, GEORGIA

Gentlemen:
The local branch of the American Association of University Women is deeply concerned over the possibility of the discontinuance of the Ellis Health Law in our county. To us this seems to be a backward step of a serious nature.

The fact finding committee of Georgia, a group of public spirited citizens who are making great contributions to the welfare of our State, has listed Health as the most important of the efforts of the health department in the county. It is the health department is the one that maintains the most important part of ones HEALTH.

In the Junior Chamber of Commerce the most important committee functioning is that on health. Its sole duty is to visit the health department from time to time and report to the organization what is being done.

Report made by this committee has been to the effect that the department is doing a great work. We believe that if the people were as familiar as we with the work being done by the department they would take steps to persuade the commissioners to continue it.

It was pointed out in the meeting by one of the delegations that before the health department can be abolished, two successive grand juries must recommend it to make the abolishment effective. Mr. Hodges, together with Representatives Harry S. Aiken and Senator Harvey Brannen conferred with the governor of Georgia and the state Penal board last week, and they agreed to transfer 40 convicts to the state, thereby saving approximately $1,200 a month. This transfer was made this week. This saving, it is thought, might help save the health department.

Respectfully,
JOSH LANIER,
President of the Statesboro, Junior Chamber of Commerce.

JUNIOR CHAMBER OF COMMERCE ADDRESS LETTER TO PUBLIC

To the Citizens of Statesboro and Bulloch County.

We, the members of the Statesboro Junior Chamber of Commerce, a civic organization whose prime interest is in the progress and welfare of the citizens of this city and county feel that at this time there is a drastic move about to be made, and should be called to the attention of every citizen. It is our understanding that at a recent meeting of the county board of commissioners it was considered to discontinue the services of the Health Department. We feel that this would be the most drastic move the commissioners could take at this time.

Surely this must be an economic move, but wouldn't it be wiser to cut down on the expense of some other department. The health department is the one that maintains the most important part of ones HEALTH.

Rushing Will

$1,000 to be used only in repairing the church building and to be paid to the church cemetery; $1,000 to the Baptist Orphan church at Hapeville, Georgia; Mrs. Ida Neilsen to receive 143 acres of land in the 44th district; the place known as the place John B. Rushing gave L. O. Rushing; and Mrs. Adel Calloway and her brother, Lester McElven to receive the old John B. Rushing place of 57 acres in the 44th district.

The original will as written by Mr. Rushing contained a clause bequeathing to Mattie Ware, a colored woman, servant and cook of the Rushing family, two acres of land and two buildings. Judge J. J. Evans, Sr., of Savannah has already announced that he would run for this office.

There has been lots of talk around town that a man from Bulloch would run for this office, but no open announcement has yet been made by the party.

County Commissioners To Make Final Decision Friday

Citizens Intensely Interested In Future For Public Services

According to an announcement made by Fred Hodges, chairman of the board of county commissioners, the board will make its final decision on continuing the Co. ty Health Department tomorrow (Friday).

The board of commissioners met here yesterday afternoon with all members, F. W. Hodges, M. J. Bowen, and George P. Lee, present. The board was in session for three hours hearing from delegations of all the civic organizations in the county. All the delegates asked the board to continue the health department.

It was pointed out in the meeting by one of the delegations that before the health department can be abolished, two successive grand juries must recommend it to make the abolishment effective.

Mr. Hodges, together with Representatives Harry S. Aiken and Senator Harvey Brannen conferred with the governor of Georgia and the state Penal board last week, and they agreed to transfer 40 convicts to the state, thereby saving approximately $1,200 a month. Woodrum To Seek Judgeship Again In Fall

Judge Willie Woodrum announced last week that he would run for re-election next fall for the judgeship of the Ogeechee circuit of Superior Court. Judge Woodrum is completing his second term on the bench now.

In making his announcement to run for re-election, Judge Woodrum stated that he "hoped that about four or five candidates would get into this race." Judge J. J. Evans, Sr., of Savannah has already announced that he would run for this office.

STATSBORO DESERVES BETTER WESTERN UNION SERVICE.

Have you picked up your telephone to call Western Union to send a message only to learn that the office "is closed for lunch" or they've gone for supper?

Statesboro, one of the fastest growing towns in Georgia, deserves better Western Union Service than it has been receiving.

At present the office opens at 8 o'clock in the morning. It closes at 12 o'clock noon to 1:10 p. m. for lunch. At 4:30 in the afternoon it closes again to open at 6 and the final closing hour is 7 p. m. On Saturdays the hours are 9 to 10 in the morning and 4 to 5 in the afternoon.

Now a business man with a message to wire doesn't like to have to call two and three times to learn that the office is closed. The difference in the time waiting for the operator to return may mean money, or he gets in a huff and puts a call through on the telephone, thus costing him more money and costing the Western Union money and putting money in the treasury of the telephone companies.

It is understood that there is nothing the local manager can do about the matter because of the Wage and Hours Law. His working hours are governed by this law, regardless of the needs of the community. He has to open and close in accordance to rules and regulations as set by his district office.

It is estimated that between 74 and 100 messages clear through the local office here daily. There is no way of knowing how many more might clear because of the closing hours. During the watermelon season, the tobacco season, the cotton season and for that matter the year round, considerable inconvenience is caused because of the incomplete service of the local Western Union office. It is not the local manager's fault, we are sure, He can only comply with the regulations as set down by his supervisors.

But we believe that if sufficient pressure were brought to bear the business men of Statesboro could secure a more complete service.

A letter written to the local office, or a letter sent into the office in Atlanta would turn the trick.

And if you don't ask for it you can be pretty sure you won't get it.

THE ART OF FINE LYING

From week to week one reads in our Editor's Uneasy Chair some tall tale told by some of our more responsible citizens and some by citizens not so responsible. This is the first time that tall tales break into our regular editorial column. We need a paragraph or two to finish out this column so we will devote it to a subject about which we are all interested—the fine art of lying.

Now there is a fine art of lying. Some pretty tall tales are submitted annually to the Burlington Liars Club of Burlington, Wisconsin. The winning yarns and some other choice ones were, of course, gems of ingenious and elaborate fabrication. They were, no doubt, masterpieces of their kind.

But these contestants make altogether too hard work of lying. After all, the biggest lies are told in good faith every day, with no racking of the brain or stretching of the imagination. They are born with glibness and dispatch. For instance, when Bill says to George: "That's all right, old man, glad to lend you that ten-spot," it would seem that the pinnacle of good, sound lying had been reached. Or when Mrs. Jones, who has just been told by Mrs. Smith a deep dark secret says: "Of course not, my dear. I wouldn't dare tell a soul," even the most innocent of us must know that Mrs. Jones is telling a whopper.

In comparison with those stock lies, which few are not guilty of committing occasionally, the product of the Burlington's Liars Club becomes the unvarnished truth. Why try to improve upon the fundamental falsehoods? Why paint the lily of pardonable prevarication? Perhaps the esteemed and hard-working members of the club should take a lesson from the Father of His Country. The art of the finest lying lies in just missing the truth—not in its total abandonment.

The United Georgia Farmers would do a fine thing if they could finance some one of their members to a year in Denmark to study and absorb the methods the Danes use in their farming organization. Then let this person apply the same methods to farming here.

THE NEW CITY COUNCIL AT WORK

We are glad to see the new City Council taking an interest in the people of Statesboro and showing a consideration of their desires.

At its meeting January 9 they did three things that will benefit the people they serve. (1) They recommended that the city police once again enforce the two-hour parking regulation that had almost become just another ordinance. (2) They voted to codify the city ordinances. And (3), they are, at an early date going to furnish all visitors to the city a courtesy card extending a cordial welcome and allow them special privileges while in our city. The special privileges will pertain to parking where they please and remain parked as long as they wish.

The enforcing the two-hour parking ordinance will again give the man from the country who comes to town to spend his money a place to park his car while he leaves his money with the merchants here. That seems a fair exchange. The codifying of the city ordinances will make it possible for you and me who are not lawyers, to go to the city office and learn what laws we have on our ordinance books. And for building good will nothing beats courtesy and privileges such as goes with the card planned to be given to visitors here.

STATSBORO AND NEW YORK CITY

There is no such thing as a big city. There is such a thing as more people living in one town than another town, but that does not give the town with the more people the right to say "we are a city."

Our attention was attracted by two editorials appearing in the New York Times of last Thursday. One was entitled, "New Street Numbers." Now where have you seen an editorial under the same title? Sure. In the Bulloch Herald. This editorial in the New York Times emphasizes more visible street numbers. "Our taxi drivers, who are so communicative on world affairs, grope their way dumbly after street numbers. The stranger is utterly lost," says the New York Times.

And in another editorial the same day the Times writes on Court Reform. "The crying need upon which most critics agree in centralized control over a unified, flexible and co-ordinated court system."

Here we see the city of New York, the greatest metropolis on the face of the earth confronted with the same problems facing Statesboro and Bulloch County. And a great newspaper writes on these problems just as we write on them in the hopes of playing a part in having these things corrected.

Either Statesboro is a city not yet grown or New York is a small town over grown. It makes no difference, they both are bothered with the same pains.

WARNING TO CHILDREN

Our editorial on speeding last week has caused considerable comment. Along with the comment comes a poem enclosed in an envelope with no indication who sent it. But it is good enough that we are including it in our editorial column this week. It can be infinitely more effective than all the editorials we could write on the subject. We hope that it has the same effect on you who drives fast as it did on us.

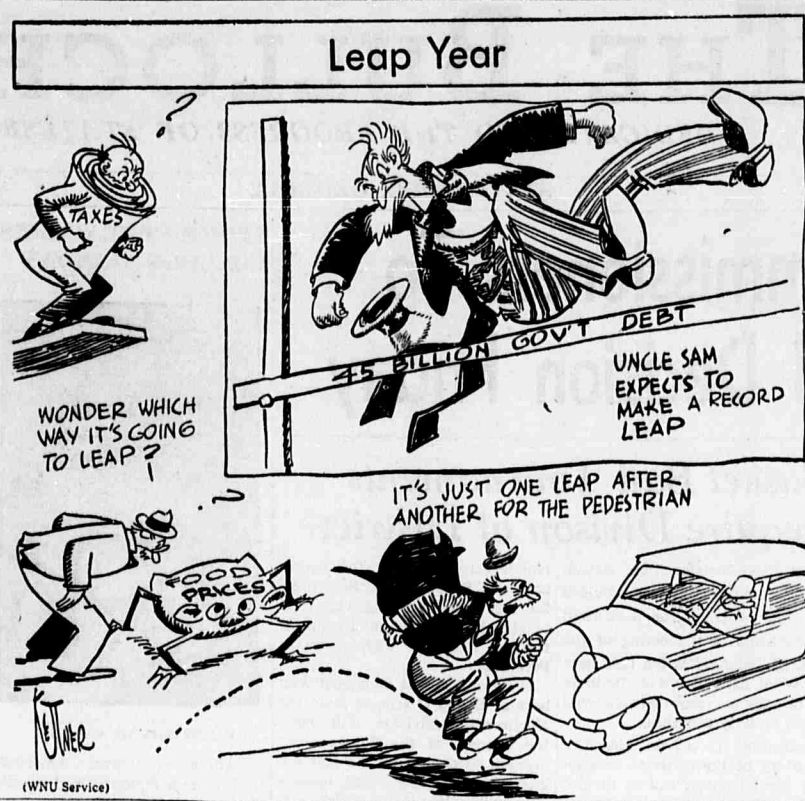

Little children, don't you know
In the street you mustn't go
Rushing after hoop or ball?
If you hear your playmates' call,
Look you South and look you North;
Ere you dare to venture forth;
Every street I is now a place
Where the careless grown-up race.

Little children say this o'er:
"We must stop and look before
We attempt to cross the street
Lest disaster we shall meet.
It's out time to prevent
Tragedy and accident.
Vigilance we mustn't drop.
Grown-ups haven't time to stop."

Grown-ups in their motor cars
Smoking pipes and big cigars,
Lighting cigarettes cannot
Think about some tiny tot
Who may dash into the street
Carelessly on flying feet.
They've no time for taking care
So the children must beware!

Children once again repeat:
"There is danger in the street.
Watch the corners! Grown-up with
Swing round them and shut their eyes.
Safety people wise discuss
But they leave it all to us.
Watch the streets and stay alive.
That is where the grown-ups drive!"
By A Reader.

We congratulate Dr. Pittman for giving the people of Statesboro the opportunity to hear such a wonderful speaker as Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, daughter of William Jennings Bryan. Mrs. Bryan, who is private life is Mrs. Borge Rhode, is America's first woman diplomat and former minister to Denmark. She spoke at the College Monday morning.

Editor's Uneasy Chair

It pleases us that our editorial on speeding is causing so much comment. A lady living out on the road to the college called us and stated that she had just finished reading it and that her only comment was we did not make it strong enough.

Now that we have started the ball rolling, we have been doing further checking. Atlanta never knew speeding like we saw last week on South Main street, Savannah Avenue and North Main.

Under the very traffic light, we counted a dozen of those large gasoline trucks, in order to make a green light, driving at what would easily be called "reckless speed."

Now we notice our policeman on the streets every day. They come in our office to give us notices of licenses due and taxes due with their backs turned to drivers built-the-jack-down the street.

It is their duty to maintain the safety of the citizens of the city. Just a whistle is not enough, a warning is not enough. A ticket can be torn up. Stop them, give them a ticket and see that they are hauled into police court Monday morning. Fine each one hauled before the Mayor $1 a mile per hour over the speed limit. And in answer to the question what is the speed limit—you have us there. Don't know.

We do know that twenty-five miles per hour seems to be a safe speed. It is the one used in Atlanta. And every person caught driving over twenty-five miles per hour if fined one dollar for each mile per hour over that speed will soon watch his speedometer and be sure that he stays under his safety margin.

It's an idea. We shouldn't be made to observe a speed law. We should of our own accord, with the safety of the children of the

GENERAL JOHNSON Says:

After Winter's Breathing Spell Look For Terrific Air Fighting ... We Need National Defense Inquiry.

By HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON.—The experience of winter war in Finland does not indicate a likelihood of any immediate change from the present strange standstill war anywhere. Few great offensives have ever been begun in winter and few great battles fought.

The world is almost sure to have a breathing spell, but the coming of spring threatens terrible things. I don't believe that Goering was bluffing in his New Year message. Nobody ought to prophesy, but how can the spring of 1940 be anything other than now-or-never for the little handful of acrobats at the head of the Nazi party and government?

In a war purely of economic strangulation, they cannot possibly win. Furthermore, their gradual relative weakening and their constant inaction makes less and less likely any kind of negotiated peace that, politically, they could afford to sign.

The only thing that I can think of that will avert a terrible ordeal in the air no later than April is something that could happen within Germany to change its government. That there may be a popular uprising against the Hitler-Goering gang I am told is most unlikely. But the life of no tyrant or even group of tyrants is ever secure.

Assassination is not in the books as part of modern war methods. But when one single warped individual holds over the head of the whole world so much misery, danger and death, who would question divine providence if something like that should happen to Adolf?

WASHINGTON.—I frequently do not agree with Oswald Garrison Villard. I emphatically do not agree with many of the things said in his latest book, "Our Military Chaos."

He can't support many of his conclusions, but I have long supported his principal one—which is that we have no military organization, no trans-governmental commission to look into the question of national defense.

In naming up his own book, he says—in the main, truly: "It has shown (1) that we have no defense plan; (2) that all our existing military and naval organizations are in a state of confusion; (3) that we are asking the impossible of our army and navy since we do not tell what to defend or how or where to defend it; (4) that there can be no adequate defense policy set up until there is a decision as to what our foreign policy is to be, until our objectives are defined; (5) that the primary defense problem for the United States is as to whether we are only to defend the United States, or whether we are to fight abroad; (6) that, because of the failure to define what we shall defend, our policies, notably in the Pacific, vary from year to year, almost from hour to hour; (7) that until that is settled we are adding to our expenditures without the slightest guarantee that these outlays make for a safer or better defense; (8) that there are grave faults in the organization of the war and navy departments and (9) that they fail to co-operate with each other; (10) that although no less than seven billion have been spent for defense since the fiscal year 1934-35 the war department admits that it is in a state of fundamental impotence; (11) that there is no hope of balancing a normal budget without putting a definite limit to the increase of army and navy expenditures now fast approaching two billions of dollars, etc."

There is no room here to point out some of the inaccuracies, over-emphasis and conclusions, but in a general way, I strongly feel that the book does bring ample documentation and authority to establish what he here says it proves.

A commission inquiry is imperative. If it finds that this column and Mr. Villard's book are wrong, it will be a splendid vindication—which I, for one, would welcome. If it finds that we are only partly right, the country ought to know it.

General Marshall, chief of staff, has just said that in spite of these billions, our defense is not 25 per cent effective. He charges it to the historians and he is right in his reasons, but there are other culprits. I would shudder to see a careful compilation of comparative unit costs for the army and navy and armies and navies of all other nations. It would shock the country.

It is no fault of army and navy officers. It is true that congress has not recently been niggardly, but there are plenty of reasons in congress and politics for this cockeyed extravagance.

It didn't make so much difference in former years that we paid more than was necessary for defense. We had the money and the need was less. That is no longer true. The worst disposition of this administration is to do things without computing their cost. We are getting to the end of that rope.

Those cats that perched over my column last week must not be taken as an indication that Jane is "catty."

I sit at the typewriter and with that words were at my finger tips that could entertain you and inspire you as I was entertained and inspired by Ruth Bryan Rhode at the College Auditorium Monday morning. Her pleasing personality, her wit, her delightful presentation of the Scandinavian Co-operative plan for marketing kept me enthralled during her lecture. I glanced around to see what fellow townspeople had availed themselves of the opportunity to see and hear this great woman, and I saw George Johnston, Harry Aiken, Leodel Coleman, George Groover, Lena Belle Foy, Willie Dorman, Bessie Kennon, Doll Foy, Helen Arundel and Sally Mount, and I'm sure there must have been many more who enjoyed the charming word picture of the little country of Denmark.

A coincidence which I hope will prove fortunate is the fact that in June Virginia Rushing will read in the State Radio Contest, "Lady Bird Vins," a reading given by the Bulloch Herald, which is a State Contest in Mississippi when she, too, was twelve years old. Ethel was winner in the Mississippi contest and may her daughter be equally successful.

What eminent Statesboro business man spends his leisure hours at home playing with an electric train?

One on the thrills of the week was a ride in that lovely new car of Georgia Brett's.

As Ever, JANE.

1940 DEMANDS FOR MEATS

For the Nation in 1940 as a whole, consumer demand for meats—reflecting the higher level of industrial production and consumer incomes—will be stronger than in 1939. Since last summer, incomes of consumers have risen sharply, but this improvement apparently has not yet been fully reflected in the demand for meats or in prices of livestock, especially hogs.

A question frequently asked—"When is the best time to start chicks?" No definite answer will apply to all conditions, but as a general rule the best months for broilers—January and February, the best months for heavy breeding—February and March, and the best months for Leghorns—March and April.

WILDLIFE CONSERVATION

Wildlife conservation in Georgia is being carried on with much enthusiasm among many A-H club members of the state. Adults, too, are taking more interest in this important phase of farm life than ever before. And, yet we still need many more clubbers, farmers and sportsmen to pull together in conserving Georgia's wildlife resources. County agents, in cooperation with the State Fish and Game Department, are working out a carefully planned program for 1940, whereby wildlife conservation may be considerably advanced in the state.

TIME TO THIN

Now is a good time to thin your forests—from now until March 1. Herbert Caruth, Extension forester, tells us that, in order to reduce to a minimum the danger from insects, thinning should be done while trees are in the dormant stage, or as the old saying goes, while the sap is down. Areas which regenerate to a very thick stand (above 5,000 trees per acre) should be subjected to a light thinning when the trees are three to five years old, Mr. Caruth says. This will insure the maintenance of a maximum rate of growth. Although the trees removed will be small for sale or for use other than for fuelwood, the labor cost per acre will be slight at this time. Trees can be cut with one stroke of a light or with a heavy hoe.

FALL PIG ROCP

The Georgia Crop Reporting Service estimates that the fall pig crop in Georgia for 1939 is 974,000 head, or 4 per cent over the 1938 crop. This is the highest estimate for the 1939 crop. Estimated number of sows farrowing full pigs amounted to 177,000, which is an increase of 9 percent over the previous fall farrowing of 162,000 sows. Average number of pigs saved per litter is somewhat less than last fall, this accounting for the percentage increase in pigs being less than that shown for sows farrowed. Sows farrowing in the spring amounted to 212,000 with 1,387,000 pigs. Combining these figures with fall farrowings makes a total of 389,000 sows and 2,161,000 pigs for the entire year. This means that the current pig crop for the entire year is 5 per cent greater than the 2,055,000 pigs for the entire year of 1938.

LAND WEARS OUT

Despite progress made in the last four years under the agricultural adjustment program, Secretary Henry A. Wallace declares that "America's farm land still is wearing out faster than we are able to restore it." He says the problem calls for a "master conservation plan"—one that will conserve human effort as well as soil fertility. "We can not even begin to breathe easy until we know that the forces of destruction are at least balanced by the forces of repair," Wallace asserts. While notable progress has been made under the AAA program, the secretary says, "there still are millions of farms where conservation practices fully adequate to keep the soil in place do not prevail."

GOLD OLE SMOKEHOUSE

Next to a substantial house, a well-constructed — and well filled smokehouse is the farm's best asset, says Dr. Will Alexander, national director, Farm Security Administration. "It always like to see a man's smokehouse," Dr. Alexander says, "and particularly when it is filled with meat and other products for his own use."

COLD WEATHER AND COWS

Dairy cows must be comfortable to do a good and economical job of producing milk, says Frank W. Fitch, Georgia Service dairyman. If they are unduly exposed to bad weather, or housed in cold, wet stalls, a large portion of their feed is used in keeping their bodies warm. This leaves a greatly reduced part of the ration for producing milk. Cows protected from wintry winds and housed in properly-bedded stalls will produce more milk and at the same time, less feed will be required. January is usually one of the best months for starting chicks for broilers.

According to an announcement made last week, the College Pharmacy has installed a new soda fountain. This new fountain is without equal in the city of Statesboro in its completeness and sanitary qualities.

Mr. F. Everett Williams, of the College Pharmacy states the fountain was installed by the Brunswick-Balke Collender Company of Atlanta with the Georgia-Carolina Dairies installing the refrigeration units.

Mr. Williams states "Sanitation is insisted upon in our store. From front to back ceaseless watch is kept to see that everything in the place is spotless."

"At our fountain, every part of the equipment is scoured and polished every day, under the direction of Ed Mikell, experienced soda fountain man, and the service is kept immaculate every minute."

"You can enjoy your favorite drinks and sundries here with the assurance that everything is pure and wholesome," added Mr. Williams.

Mr. Williams went on to say, "Light lunches for busy people are an important part of our service. It is a popular meeting place for lots of people you know. Just the thing for the busy man or woman and the price is low."

According to Mr. Williams, the modern drug store like the College Pharmacy is a store of a thousand items. The College Pharmacy handles the best in fountain pen service, magazines and books, stationery and writing materials, fine cosmetics, including Dabney Lucien Long, Yardley and others.

Candies by Norris are handled by the College Pharmacy. The Georgia - Carolina Dairies furnish this drug store with Sankens Ice Cream, the finest that can be made.

Mr. Williams issues a standing invitation to every person in this city and county and surrounding counties to come in when they can; they will always receive a friendly and warm welcome.

Georgia, as Georgia is today! That's the picture we set out to describe in preparing this new booklet about our state—Georgia On the March. Georgia's past accomplishments—her present possessions—and her possibilities for a glorious future are outlined from standpoints which we believe will be both interesting and revealing to America's business men, farmers, industrialists, sportsmen, tourists, and to people who simply are looking for a thoroughly satisfying place to LIVE!

If you want a copy for yourself or if you want us to mail a copy to any of your personal or business acquaintances in other states—send your request in early, as we are mailing copies only on request.

HOW TO GET YOUR COPY OR COPIES FOR YOUR FRIENDS IN OTHER STATES

We not only want to send you, as a Georgian, a copy of "Georgia On the March," but we will be glad to send copies to your personal friends or business associates elsewhere—if you will give us their names and addresses. Two methods are open to you:
