VALUES become GSU’s key focus this week

Chris TILLMAN
guest writer

The Russell Union will play host to Georgia Southern’s first ever V.A.L.U.E.S Week, presented by the Office of Judicial Affairs. V.A.L.U.E.S. Week is a week full of events that began yesterday and will continue through Oct. 7.

The week will comprise of luncheons, table presentations, roundtable discussions and other interactive activities aimed at increasing student awareness of GSU’s V.A.L.U.E.S. "It’s going to be a great week," said Ronnie Mack, one of the graduate assistants in charge of the week. "We want students to come out, have a good time and hopefully, take away a few Georgia Southern values with them."

Yesterday was Voices and Accountability day, which gave an inside glance into student organizations such as Student Government and Student Media, which give voice to the opinions and concerns of the student body.

The GSU Flash Mob will also be on hand to present a short skit on the importance of student accountability and how it affects the community.

Today from 12-1 p.m. is Lasting Traditions Day, which is sponsored by Athletics and the Traditions Council. The day will feature a browse of the importance of university traditions.

See VALUES Page 15

Students participate in governor’s debate

Charles MINSHEW
web editor-in-chief

An engineering school at Georgia Southern, immigration and guns were topics of discussion in Sunday’s night televised gubernatorial debate in Atlanta.

Student Government Association President Alton Standifer served on the panel of students asking questions of candidates Roy Barnes, Nathan Deal and John Monds.

Standifer said that GSU’s participation in the debate gives the university a higher profile in Atlanta.

Standifer said, “I think that just shows them we’re on the other side of the state, but we’re definitely a big player in what’s going on [in the state of Georgia].”

During Sunday nights debate, Standifer posed a question to former Governor Roy Barnes, asking him if he felt that there should be more engineering schools in the state of Georgia.

“I do think that it is appropriate that we look at another location for an engineering school,” Barnes said. He then added, “It was always thought that Georgia Southern would be next in line for an engineering school.”

For more information and a link to the debate online, visit www.gadaily.com.

Williams Center’s distinguishing feature disappears

As part of the renovations to turn the Williams Center into a place for student organizations, the Williams Center’s signature colorful window panes have been removed. Construction continues so that the portion of the building that was formerly a cafeteria and the Eagle Print Shop can become home to Eagle Entertainment, Traditions Council and the rest of the Office of Student Activities.

John Jeziorski/STAFF

Recycle this newspaper!
Thank you students for giving

A special thank you to CRI and Southern Ambassadors for their generous contributions.

Congratulations to Alpha Delta Pi and Alpha Kappa Alpha for winning the Greek challenges.

If you are interested in getting more involved with A Day for Southern Student Campaign and more events like this we want you to join the Southern Legacy Student Foundation.

For more information please visit www.georgiasouthern.edu/studentsfirst

Apply Now!
Deadline for application is Wednesday, October 20th.

How will you leave your legacy?

Where Did Students Give

- General Student Affairs ($1,550.24)
- New Student Union ($450.22)
- College of Liberal Arts and Social Sciences ($232.96)
- College of Science and Technology ($135.00)
- Eagle Athletic Fund ($69.84)
- College of Public Health ($20.99)
- Henderson Library ($18.00)
- Other Designation ($1030.51)
- College of Education ($274.05)
- College of Information Technology ($158.83)
- College of Health and Human Sciences ($113.26)
- College of Business Administration ($51.79)
- College of Graduate Studies ($20.00)
New route results in mixed reactions
Students and faculty voice opinions on bus system

Natalie DEMARKO
assignments editor

Among the significant changes to the bus system are the modification of two roadways with traffic access gates to limit the number of vehicles in the center of the campus. Forest Drive from Plant Drive to the shared parking lot of the College of Business and Administration and Newton Building has been converted to a Bus Only Zone with access gates.

President Brooks Keel praised this change.

"I believe the new routes not only enhance the pedestrian nature of the campus, through further limitations of auto traffic, but also dramatically reduce the transit time across campus for students using the bus system."

Brooks Keel
president of GSU

When students returned to campus this fall there were a number of changes made to Georgia Southern. Among those changes included a modified version of the bus system that everyone is still getting used to.

There are now two routes that commute students to and from classes — the Gold and Blue Route.

The Gold Route includes five buses that run in both directions from the Stadium and Recreational Activity Center to the University Store on Akins Boulevard and Forest Drive.

"We did a study a little over a year ago to see if there was a way to improve our transit system," said Bob Chambers, director of Parking and Transportation.

Chambers explained a consultant was hired to analyze the old system and recommended several changes they felt would improve transportation on campus.

"Because changes were needed to traffic signals and roadways, both on and off campus, Georgia Southern worked closely with the City of Statesboro to accomplish the necessary work quickly in order to implement the new routes by fall semester," said Chambers.

Brandon Sheppard is a graduate student at GSU and was a freshman when the bus system was implemented; he has been able to experience all the changes over the years.

"I'm not too fond of the new bus system," Sheppard said. "I feel like it probably looked good on paper, but now it seems like a logistical mishap."

Nevertheless, Sheppard still plans on riding the bus.

"We all pay for the bus route as a part of our student fees regardless if we use it or not," said Sheppard. "I don't know about the rest of Georgia Southern, but I'm going to get my money's worth."

As for the future of the transit system, Chambers explained the transit system operations are monitored on a daily basis. Possible adjustments from time to time are quite possible.

"We do not have plans at present to do a formal evaluation or study, but we may do so again in the future if the conditions warrant doing another study," said Chambers.

The George-Anne is the official student newspaper of Georgia Southern University, owned and operated by GSU students using facilities provided by the university. The newspaper is the oldest continuously published newspaper in Bulloch County and Statesboro, Ga. The newspaper is a designated public forum for the Georgia Southern Community. Opinions expressed herein are those of the student writers and editors and do NOT necessarily reflect those of the faculty, staff or administration of GSU the Student Media Advisory Board or the University System of Georgia. The newspaper is published twice weekly, on Tuesdays and Thursdays, during most of the academic year. Any questions regarding content should be directed to the student editor by phone at 912.478.5246 or by e-mail ads1@georgiasouthern.edu. Readers may access the newspaper and its archives at www.gadaily.com.

ADVERTISING: The newspaper accepts advertising as a community service to help defray publication costs. Inquiries should be directed to the ADS or PAGES, R.O. Box 8001, Georgia Southern University, or by calling 912.478.7459 or 912.478.0656. You can fax any questions to 912.478.7113 or e-mail ads1@georgiasouthern.edu.

DISTRIBUTION: The newspaper is distributed free to the community of GSU.

NEWS 13
VALUES in everyday life

Georgia Southern has a unique philosophy that's being recognized this week. VALUES, which stands for Voice, Accountability, Lasting traditions, Unity, Ethical behavior, Scholarship, is supposed to represent the culture of the GSU community.

At face value, this seems like a pretty straightforward way of life. As college students, we are supposed to use our voices to question what goes on around us. Also as college students, we should be proud of our university and the traditions that have started throughout the past 104 years.

Then, it would seem practical to assume that everyone should want to strive to be accountable, united, ethical and scholarly, but those values are sometimes harder to remember to live by on a daily basis.

Let's face it. Many of us have days where we realize that maybe we haven't done something to the best of our ability, or we do something incorrectly. Then we take the easy way out by not going back to make it better. But by embracing accountability for our actions, we would always be trying to better ourselves.

It's also easy to identify yourself by who you're not, and to always hang out with the same people. But at the root of it all, there's always something common among everyone to unite us: we're all human, and we're all Eagles. As a society, we would get a lot further by remaining united.

Discretions in ethical behavior and scholarship can be combined into a single situation. How many people do you know who have cheated on a test or an assignment at one point or another? Incorporating ethical behavior by being conscious of your decision making and scholarly by putting forth the effort to be successful on your own should lead you to become a better person in the long run. So use this week as the time to start making a change in your VALUES.

Fool me once, shame on you, but fool me again?

It has been one and a half months since the debut of the new bus system. I must say that I am happy to see a two-way system introduced — it has been a long time coming. The Forest Drive and RAC stops were much needed. Countless people, in both areas, have had to watch helplessly and disheartened as the bus they need to be on time trots to the next stop.

Now, is the new system better or worse? In comparison to the older version? I say it is just about the same, which means my opinion is very poor. It is as though we were given only two out of the many, probably more pressing, complaints with the bus.

I try my best to be positive when thinking about the bus, and since the new changes have been made, my views on the bus have become extremely calm in comparison to my opinion prior to the changes.

The reason is because of the Eagle transit services seems to be actually listening and acting. But why should we as students, who are paying for these services, the drivers who drive the buses and the individuals in dispatch settle for something we are not completely happy with?

So, yes, bus drivers, I will tell you about yourselves.

A majority of us know the new system pretty well now, so I am sure we all have our own individual complaints.

But why aren't those who control the transit policies taking their inefficiencies into consideration? I will be the first to say that it appears to the students as though you are happy with the changes and no more are being made.

For instance, how many students who are not working in related departments on campus were aware of the changes prior to them being made? Very few. So we don't know what changes are in store and it appears as if none are.

My own experiences are nothing in comparison to other students' accounts that I have heard of. Students being late to class, buses having little interest in going faster than 15 mph, buses coming to stops randomly, buses waiting at stops and buses being packed to capacity — making it uncomfortable and impossible to get on. Honestly, I am getting increasingly more upset the more I write, because I feel as though I am harboring over something everyone else does.

Instead I will try to provide sample suggestions for the good ole transit people. A really important one could be a yield to the bus sign for the gold bus on Akins Boulevard. Just think about how much time could be saved. Time schedules to inform passengers about the time to be there to schedule better. I know the response will be, "We don't have set times." But is that a good thing? Free running buses. Let's stop the release system because a bus with 40-plus people waiting on a bus with four is not okay. I also am an advocate of another route, maybe a white route, that could get people from Kennedy, Eagle Village and Campus Crossing who would love to go to the RAC directly with having to go on campus.

Anyway, thanks for the change, but the transit system is far away from being what we need it to be.
Democrats have ‘no excuse’ for ending session early

Last week, Congress ended its session early, leaving important measures — such as tax cuts and various ethics cases — hanging. This comes after weeks of Obama saying that the Republicans were holding up tax cuts for the middle class unless they get tax cuts for the rich.

However, that’s a bold-face lie; the bill hadn’t even made it through the House, which means it couldn’t happen in the Senate. Pelosi didn’t even give the Republicans the chance to say no or play a game of Congressional chicken, which indicates exactly how the Democrats feel about bipartisanship and taxes.

For those of you who can’t recall American Government or who haven’t had a chance to take it, all bills related to taxes have to start in the House. Yet Obama blamed the Republicans for holding them up — something that can only happen in the House if they have a majority in the House.

Given that the Democrats have the majority, the only way this could work would be if enough moderate “Blue Dogs” jumped ship and joined with the Republicans.

A recent example would be the health care bill, but on tax cuts it shouldn’t have happened. The Democrats are incredibly vulnerable and a vote on tax cuts wouldn’t have hurt them, particularly in the face of the Tea Party’s attacks.

In other words, there’s no excuse for not passing something through the House, at which point the president could legitimately start the attacks on the Republicans. But it never made a floor vote in the House. There’s only a few ways that can happen, as I’ve learned in class and in an internship — either the Committee Chair has to kill it, or the Speaker does. Considering that the Speaker was the one who closed the session, that makes Pelosi the more likely candidate. It’s a dangerous political move, and she should know that. So why did she leave her own party open to the attack, particularly if the president was behind the cuts? That seems to indicate to me that the liberal base of the Democrats really don’t care about lowering taxes, which punishes all Americans.

It also reinforces the major flaw of this campaign season — appealing the base as opposed to the independents. Obama, Democratic leaders and liberal icons have been trying to convince their base to stand up in November, to “save the change” and preserve their “progressive agenda” (they really aren’t trying to hide it anymore). But most Americans aren’t Republican or Democrats, in name or in practice, and those that are aren’t on the far end of the scale. Sure, it’s important to motivate your base, but if the moderates in your party and those who aren’t sold on either side aren’t convinced, you’re not going to win.

And I can’t think of many moderates and Independents that don’t want lower taxes.

The only reason that makes leaving early make sense is that the Democrats wanted the extra time. Even if the Republicans were going to hold it hostage in the Senate, the House could’ve still voted on the measure, but they gave up that move in exchange for more face time with voters. Well, politicians, what do you think more important to us — the words you’re going to tell us on the trail, or the actions you were supposed to be performing in D.C.?

Don’t be so quick to judge

Congress ended last week to begin its campaign season. And it’s true — our congressmen should be elected based on actions instead of on campaigns, and really don’t need to take off all this time when they could be doing something beneficial to our nation.

But the Democrats certainly don’t deserve all the blame in this situation. Republicans have been doing it just as, if not more, fervently this year than the Democrats. It’s the Tea Party that’s constantly in the news — there’s not really any huge liberal movement getting such publicity.

Not only that, but they’ve done their fair share of roadblocking in Congress as well. The defense spending bill that came up a couple weeks ago that included a repeal of the Don’t Ask, Don’t Tell policy, as well as a way to propel the DREAM Act, was shot down in the Senate because of those two conditions.

The minority party is always going to harp on the actions of the majority party. In the last six years that the Republican party held control of Congress under Bush, I am hard-pressed to remember any serious praise for the actions of Congress. With missteps from all sides of the political spectrum in the past couple years, it’s no doubt that voters are leaning away from strict party affiliation.

But to say that most Americans don’t identify with one party or the other, at least in some way, goes against the entire set up of our political system.

As we should all be aware, with our government, the winner takes all. It’s either the Democrats, or it’s the Republicans. There’s no in between, even though Ralph Nader puts up an admirable fight every time.

Whether our system is right or not is debatable, but voters do have to make a choice if they want their vote to go towards a winner.

Next month, we will find out concretely how Americans feel. Republicans very well may take control of Congress if enough people are frustrated with the administration. Understandably, following the 2008 presidential election, everyone had high hopes.

Obviously, however, change is not immediate. Government, and bureaucracy especially, make it complicated.

But voters should really take into consideration that the collective Democrat administration has only had two years to make any of the changes Obama promised, and voting in a Republican-majority Congress is probably just going to lead to even more inaction with a Democratic president.

Congress currently is just flat out not doing its job, regardless of whose side, if any, you’re on. It should not be so hard to agree on something and work towards the overall betterment of our country. Anyone — Democrat, Republican or independent — should be able to agree on that.

Letters to the editor

Dear Editor,

We need a better bus route.

Maurice Barnes

Dear Editor,

Buses are always packed. I think there should be more buses in circulation. If that’s not possible then the buses should have a capacity limit. It’s really annoying trying to catch the bus with all of them being so full. And to add to this annoyance there is no air condition and the bus drivers, or at least some, are careless. I’ve seen at least three people be closed in between the doors.

Shaneka Thomas

Dear Editor,

We need more buses! The wait between them can be horrendous.

Anastasia Wilson

Dear Editor,

To the person accusing Dingus Magee’s of racism:

I’ve been a patron to the place as long as I can remember, and honestly, my food has always taken at least 45 minutes to come out. However, I’m a white male. That’s racism, right? No. It’s not because I’m white. But it takes just as long as yours did that ONE time. See, poor service doesn’t always equal some sort of prejudice.

That’s why some of these problems that you’re talking about still exist. Some people look for excuses to create racism out of nothing. Eventually, you have to grow up and accept that there’s not always an underlying motive. The service may not be speedy, but that’s why you go to Dingus with friends. Just have a good time, get a pitcher, and quit trying to find a problem.

Anonymous

Dear Editor,

We need more parking spots at the RAC!

Eddie P

Dear Editor,

I am a student at GSU and I’m really liking the new bus system or route. I think it isn’t better than last year’s, 2008-09. Change it back. Thank you.

Tia Tate

Kelsey Docker is a journalism major from Anchorage, Alaska. She is the editor-in-chief of The George-Anne.

John DiPietro is a senior political science major from John’s Creek, Ga. He is a staff columnist for The George-Anne.
Health Services offers free STD testing

Abby MCCONNELL
guest writer

The fourth annual “Get Yourself Tested” event will be held by Health Services on Wednesday, Oct. 7. From 10 a.m.—1 p.m. students can drop by the Russell Union, room 2041, 2042 and 2044, and take a Human Immunodeficiency Virus and Sexually Transmitted Disease test, also known as HIV/STD. Both tests are free and will take up to 20 minutes. They are given by trained and certified health education students.

“The objective is to get students to know their HIV/STD status. We want to reach students at a convenient time, so they can drop in, opposed to coming into the Health Center,” said La’Shanda Johnson, assistant director of Health Services.

Every day an average of 140-160 students go to the Health Center waiting up to 30 minutes to be seen by a doctor. The convenience of this test is helpful for students with a busy schedule.

The HIV test is conducted by swabbing the mouth with a test called OraQuick that checks for HIV antibodies. This test takes 20 minutes for the results and if it comes back positive a blood test will be conducted at a later time.

The STD test requires students to urinate in a cup. These results take about two days.

Students will also be handing out educational pamphlets about STDs and protection during the sessions.

“With the rising number of HIV/STD cases getting tested is part of your sexual responsibility and it is something that you need to do,” said Johnson.

This year Health Services want to increase the number of students that come out to get tested.

“I think that it is a really good thing that our school provides free HIV/STD test for students every year,” said Georgia Southern student Martha Barry. “You should not be ashamed to get tested; it is something that everyone needs to get done.”

There is not an exact number about the amount of students that have an STD or HIV on the GSU campus because Health Services has not tested everyone.

According to The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, more than 65 million people in the United States are living with a STD and an additional 15 million people become infected with one or more STDs each year.

“Those are very large numbers and the more people that get tested the more people will know about their sexual status and hopefully these numbers will start to decrease,” Barry said.

HPV vaccine clinics to be held on campus

Patrick STOKER
staff writer

Georgia Southern Health Services will be hosting free human papillomavirus – HPV – vaccine clinics to protect against the virus that is linked to cervical cancer.

Cervical cancer is the second leading cause of death among women ages 20 to 39 and occurs most often in women ages 19 to 26.

Paul Ferguson, director of health services, said that generally college women are more at risk of contracting HPV because typically they are more sexually active.

Any female student or staff member, ages 19 to 26, can sign up for the free vaccine clinics. The vaccine is also offered at Health Services.

“We have a large number of women who could potentially become infected or could become victims of cervical cancer,” Ferguson said. “Now that there is a vaccine there is no reason why women shouldn’t get vaccinated.”

The first dose of the vaccine will be given Oct. 7 from 11 a.m.—4 p.m. in Russell Union room 2040. The second dose will be given Dec. 2 and the third on Mar. 24.

Ferguson said it is important to have all three doses in order for the vaccine to fully protect against the virus.

“A lot of women have started it, but if it’s not completed you’re going to have some protection, but you’re not going to have the full protection,” Ferguson said.

There are two different vaccines to protect against HPV, Gardasil and Cervarix; however, the clinics will only offer Gardasil.

“With the rising number of HIV/STD cases getting tested is part of your sexual responsibility and it is something that you need to do,” said Johnson.

This year Health Services want to increase the number of students that come out to get tested.

“With the rising number of HIV/STD cases getting tested is part of your sexual responsibility and it is something that you need to do,” said Johnson.

This year Health Services want to increase the number of students that come out to get tested.

“I think that it is a really good thing that our school provides free HIV/STD test for students every year,” said Georgia Southern student Martha Barry. “You should not be ashamed to get tested; it is something that everyone needs to get done.”

There is not an exact number about the amount of students that have an STD or HIV on the GSU campus because Health Services has not tested everyone.

According to The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, more than 65 million people in the United States are living with a STD and an additional 15 million people become infected with one or more STDs each year.

“Those are very large numbers and the more people that get tested the more people will know about their sexual status and hopefully these numbers will start to decrease,” Barry said.
Georgia Southern University
HEALTH SERVICES
Presents
FREE HPV Vaccine
Students & Faculty/Staff
Ages 19-26

CLINIC VACCINATION DATES
Thursday, October 7, 2010 (Dose 1)
Thursday, December 2, 2010 (Dose 2)
Thursday, March 24, 2011 (Dose 3)

Russell Union · Room 2080 · 11 am—4 pm

*This is a three shot series. Patients must receive all doses for vaccine to be effective.
Health Education and Promotion
Office of Health Services
Presents...

THIS IS ONLY A TEST
GYT

GET YOURSELF TESTED TODAY!
You're here... why not?
1 in 2 sexually active young people will get an STD by 25
- most won't know it.

Russell Union Rooms
2041, 2042, 2044

Get yourself talking
Get yourself tested

Wednesday
October 6th 10am-1pm
The Eagle Flies on Saturday But No Eagle FLU on Monday

Stay Healthy Eagles
Influenza Vaccination Clinics
$5 for students; $13 for faculty, staff, retirees
Cash, Check, MasterCard and Visa are accepted
Please bring Eagle ID

Students Only:
Thursday, Oct. 7
5-7 pm
Centennial Place Café (Bldg 2)

Tuesday, Oct. 12
5-7 pm
Eagle Village Clubhouse (Classroom)

Tuesday, Oct. 26
5-7 pm
Southern Pines Clubhouse (Classroom)

Students, Faculty, Staff, Retirees
Tuesday, Oct. 5
9-11:30 am
Russell Room 2084

Thursday, Oct. 14
2-4 pm
Russell Room 2084

Wednesday, Oct. 20
8 am—12:30 pm
Russell Room 2084
Live Well Fair
Southern Sprint for Wellness 5K

In a commemoration of health and wellness, CRI will host its annual Southern Sprint for Wellness on Saturday, Oct. 30. The 5K run/walk will begin at the RAC Pavilion at 8 a.m. From there, racers will embark along a three mile course around Georgia Southern's campus to promote wellness. Refreshments and food will be provided after the race along with an award ceremony to honor racers. The registration fee is only $10 with a student ID. Those interested in participating in Southern Sprint for Wellness are encouraged to visit www.georgiasouthern.edu/cri for more information and to register.

Your student organization can receive homecoming points for participating in Southern Sprint for Wellness!

Here's how:
- Each member of your organization will register individually under their name.
- On race day, there will be a Homecoming Check-In Table. Participants will submit their registration slip and sign in with their student organization at that table. *If you register online, please remember to print your registration slip.
- Your organization will receive 2 homecoming points per person.

Weekly Reminders:

Today:
- Indoor Soccer Registration closes
- Lead Climbing Clinic, 8-10 p.m.

Wednesday:
- Blood Drive, 6 p.m. in the RAC Lobby
- Campfire Cooking, at 3 p.m.

Give blood, Win Plane Tickets!

Tomorrow the University Wellness Program is sponsoring an American Red Cross blood drive in the RAC from 12-6 p.m. Donors will be entered into a drawing to win a pair of round trip Delta Airline Tickets! If you would like to give the gift of blood, please sign up at Member Services to make an appointment.

Walk-in donors are also welcome.
Intramural Scores

Co-Rec Flag Football
- Centennial Place 12, Balls & Dolls 16
- Your Mother 17, TD's Galore 10
- The Sofa Kings 20, Rump Raiders 13
- TDMP 9, 4 River Phonoms 37

Men's Flag Football
- Delta Tau Delta 0, Kappa Sigma 6
- Kappa Kappa Gamma 0, Kappa Delta 38
- Zeta Tau Alpha 7, Alpha Omicron Pi 6
- The Hitlist (Ready) 0, Higher Groundz 53
- RUF Girls 0, Project Runway: Resurrected 42
- De Squad 30, Tight Ends 0

Women's Flag Football
- Delta Tau Delta 0, Kappa Sigma 6
- Kappa Kappa Gamma 0, Kappa Delta 38
- Zeta Tau Alpha 7, Alpha Omicron Pi 6
- The Hitlist (Ready) 0, Higher Groundz 53
- RUF Girls 0, Project Runway: Resurrected 42
- De Squad 30, Tight Ends 0

Men's Table Tennis Singles
- Josue Bogran 0, Andrew Gryson 2
- Jeremy Ivory 0 (15-11), Andrew Gryson 2 (21-21)
- Derek Foulke 2 (21-22), Andrew Gryson 0 (16-20)
- Jeremy Ivory 0 (12-14), Derek Foulke 2 (21-21)
- Josh Brogan 0, Zachary Kent 2
- Zachary Kent 2 (21-21), Derek Foulke 0 (8-13)

Men's Advanced Championship
- Zachary Kent 2 (21-21), Derek Foulke 0 (13-17)
- Nicolas Tafur 1 (14-21-7), Joshua Davis 2 (21-16-11)
- Daniel Page 0 (18-19), Alexander Burke 2 (21-21)
- Joshua Hinson 1 (21-9-7), Cody Keel 2 (16-21-11)
- Joshua Davis 2 (21-21), Alexander Burke 1 (19-14)
- Cody Keel 2 (21-21), Anastasia Wilson 0 (7-9)
- Dillion Hair 1 (21-9-16), Cody Keel 2 (26-21-21)
- Matthew Morris 0 (2-1), Zach Amos 2 (21-21)
- Daniel Brantley 2 (21-21), Joshua Davis 0 (13-17)
- Zachary Strickland 0 (14-17), Cody Keel 2 (21-21)
- Travis Barber 1 (16-23-20), Cody Keel 2 (21-21)
- Daniel Brantley 2 (21-21), Zach Amos 0 (16-18)
- Zachary Byrd 2 (18-21-21), Daniel Brantley 1 (21-6-13)
- Francisco Dean 0 (17-14), Cody Keel 2 (21-21)
- Zachary Byrd 2 (15-21-21), Cody Keel 1 (21-17-17)
- Francisco Dean 2 (21-21), Alexander Burke 0 (11-9)
- Zach Amos 2 (21-21), Joshua Davis 0 (10-5)
- Patrick Dean 0 (16-9), Robert Davis 2 (21-21)
- Daniel Brantley 2 (23-21), Cody Keel 0 (21-13)
- Dillion Hair 0 (9-12), Francisco Dean 2 (21-21)
- Zachary Strickland 2 (21-21), Daniel Page 0 (11-14)
- Zachary Byrd 2 (21-21), Nicolas Tafur 0 (11-15)
- Forrest Ray 2 (23-21-21), Daniel Brantley 1 (25-19-14)
- Francisco Dean 2 (21-21), Zach Amos 0 (8-11)
- Travis Barber 0 (16-11), Robert Davis 2 (21-21)
- Zachary Byrd 2 (21-21), Zachary Strickland 0 (6-13)
- Forrest Ray 2 (21-21), Francisco Dean 0 (11-15)
- Forrest Ray 0 (11-7), Robert Davis 2 (21-21)

Men's Intermediate Championship
- Robert Davis 2 (21-21), Zackery Byrd 2 (18-17)

Table Tennis Doubles
- Viet Pong 0 (10-6), Byrdmanjr 2 (21-21)

Mens' Doubles Championship
- Viet Pong 0, Byrdmanjr 2

Doubles Table Tennis Championship

Zachary Kent was the table tennis champion.

Cody Keel (left) and Zackery Byrd won the doubles table tennis championship.
The Eagle Expo & Education Career Fair, designed to assist students in finding full-time employment and internship opportunities, will be held Wednesday, Oct. 27, 2010, 10 a.m.–2 p.m. at the Recreation Activities Center (RAC). This is a great chance to talk with recruiters from companies all over the country and a variety of industries.

A full list of registered companies can be viewed in Eagle Career Net/NACElink system found at www.georgiasouthern.edu/career.

Prior to the career fair beginning at 9:00 am, the “How to Work a Career Fair” workshop will be conducted by an Employer Panel. The “How to Work a Career Fair” workshop will be held in the RAC Multipurpose Room located on the 2nd floor.

Employers from some of the top companies in the nation will be ready to talk about how you can be successful at the career fair and in your job search. To eliminate transportation congestion, please utilize the GSU Transit system on the day of the Eagle Expo.

---

5 tips on what to wear to an interview

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th></th>
<th>Male</th>
<th>Female</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Suit</td>
<td>Conservative, navy blue, or medium to charcoal gray</td>
<td>Skirted, muted tones such as navy, black or gray</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Shirt/Blouse</td>
<td>Long sleeve, neutral color (white or blue)</td>
<td>Neutral color, solid or small pattern (may coordinate a small conservative silk scarf)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Socks/Hose</td>
<td>Long and dark (coordinate with pants)</td>
<td>Natural color hose, coordinating color with suit</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Shoes</td>
<td>Black/dark (polished) (Oxford Wing-tips); no boots</td>
<td>Plain pump (polished), coordinating color, closed toe and heel, 1-2 inch heel</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Nails</td>
<td>Cleaned and trimmed properly</td>
<td>Conservative length and color (preferably clear polish)</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
The Dining for Success event gives graduating seniors and graduate students the chance to meet employers in a business dinner setting plus learn about proper dining etiquette. Students will learn great networking skills to propel them into their professional careers.

Sponsored by the Office of Career Services, Employers/Corporate Sponsors, and campus the program will consist of a five course meal during which participants will learn about dining etiquette from Etiquette expert Lydia Ramsey.

Students must register in advance to attend. The registration deadline is Friday, Oct. 15 at 5 p.m. in Career Services.

To register, students must complete and submit the registration form found on Career Services website at www.georgiasouthern.edu/career to the Career Services Office located in the first floor of the Williams Center.

A $20.00 refundable deposit is required of all participants. The deposit will be returned the day of the event. Space is limited and available on a first come, first served basis.

For more information, contact Stephanie Saunders at 912-478-5197 or ssaunders@georgiasouthern.edu.

To view the detailed job description above, to sign up for companies interviewing on-campus, or to search and apply for other internships, co-ops or full-time positions please log into the Eagle Career Net/NACElink system found at www.georgiasouthern.edu/career.

If you have any questions or need assistance with Eagle Career Net/NACElink, please contact Career Services at 912-478-5197.
G-A DAILY.COM
TAILGATE
WINNERS COME PICK UP YOUR PRIZE PACKS

STOP BY FOR FREE FOOD & A CHANCE TO WIN OTHER GREAT PRIZES

SPONSORED BY: THE UNIVERSITY STORE, CRI & CHILI'S
Think you’re depressed? Find out Thursday

Amanda WHITE

Georgia Southern will be uncovering depression in students Thursday for National Depression Screening Day, an event launched in 1991 by Screening for Mental Health, an organization promoting mental illness awareness.

"Unmasking Depression," an event held by GSU’s Counseling and Career Development Center will be offering free, anonymous depression screenings from 10 a.m.-12 p.m. at the Russell Union, room 2047.

According to Screening for Mental Health’s website, the program “raises awareness and screens people for depression and related mood and anxiety disorders.”

Staff psychologist and Outreach Coordinator of this event Allison DeFinis said a major portion of GSU students who visit the Counseling Center are looking for help in coping with symptoms of depression.

“Anxiety and depression are probably the two top — and I would say that GSU and a lot of other universities, too — common problems that we see here,” said DeFinis.

She said that the aim of “unmasking depression” is to encourage students to seek help at the Counseling Center if they feel they might be dealing with symptoms of depression, anxiety or any other mood disorder.

“It is our way of outreach, raising awareness of depression and getting as many people as we can to get screened,” said DeFinis. “It is our way of saying we’re here for you, we are free, we are on campus, [and] we can do this.”

Staff psychologist Kimberly Rowan said, “The screening day is meant to help people who may not typically come into this center to have a resource they can go to, where it is a little less intimidating.”

Having a screening done is brief, no more than “10 to 15 minutes,” said DeFinis.

Individuals will be asked to fill out a survey indicating any feelings or symptoms he might have. He will then be able to discuss the results of the questionnaire with a counselor, which is not considered a counseling session.

“This is not a 50-minute or 45-minute session where we are going to go very in depth... we are telling [students] what the screening tool is saying... and talking about what services we provide, the logistics, [and] how to make an appointment,” said DeFinis.

“It’s a brief screening measure, but if someone is having enough symptoms that seem like depression could be what’s going on, we will encourage them to go to the counseling center,” said Rowan.

DeFinis said the screening is not meant to take the place of meeting with a therapist or to diagnose individuals with disorders. Students who may be at risk for depression, other mood disorders, or suicidal thoughts or actions are strongly advised to see a counselor.

“This is just a foot in the door,” said DeFinis, “that can give us some flags or indications that this person might be dealing with something.”

VALUES

from page 1

“Lasting Traditions educate because they are so unique to us and mean so much to the spirit of this institution,” said Taylor Jones, a member of Traditions Council. “Traditions are something that everyone can learn together and links our past, present and future.”

An autograph session with the GSU football team and cheerleaders will be held in the Russell Union Commons.

“If there’s any event I’ll attend, it’ll be Traditions Day,” said freshman Dustin Jones. “As a freshman, I’m not all that familiar with some of the traditions here, Having the football team there doesn’t hurt either.”

Tomorrow will be Unity day. There will be an opportunity for GSU students to sign a banner with their definition of what unity means to them.

V.A.L.U.E.S Week wraps up Thursday with Ethical Behavior and Scholarship Day from 12-1 p.m. The event will feature a panel discussion on academic dishonesty and how it affects the GSU student body.

“We feel that if more students were aware of what constitutes as academic dishonesty, then we could help reduce the number of incidents found in our colleges,” Mack said.

“[V.A.L.U.E.S. Week] sounds interesting,” said sophomore Brad White. “I don’t really know that much about V.A.L.U.E.S., but it might be cool to pop over to the Union and see what’s going on. If nothing else it’ll be a great way to kill time between classes.”
Need an Elective?

FRAUD EXAMINATION

Learn More About This Minor... Wednesday, October 13th
6:30PM-7:20PM
Russell Union Auditorium

The following courses may be taken as electives after 45 semester hours of credit:

WHILE COLLE CRIME: (LSTD 3630)
Criminal fraud investigations in the U.S. justice system. Offered Summer Term B.

FRAUD AND THE LAW: (LSTD 3631)
Legal issues associated with conducting fraud investigations. Offered Summer Term A.

FORENSIC INTERVIEWS AND INTERROGATIONS: (LSTD 4633)
Human behavior and the signals indicating truth or deception. Offered Spring 2011.

The following courses may be taken after credit in an accounting course:

MACRO FRAUD EXAMINATION: (ACCT 4631)
Fraud and the pervasiveness of it in our society. Offered Spring 2011 & Summer Term A.

MICRO FRAUD EXAMINATION: (ACCT 4632)
The most common 44 fraud schemes. Offered Spring 2011 & Summer Term B.

Students who complete the Fraud Examination minor will enhance their undergraduate degree with investigative knowledge helpful in pursuing careers in law enforcement, loss prevention, corporate security, private investigation, fraud control, or for use in other career paths.

FRAUD PERMEATES ALL ASPECTS OF BUSINESS AND SOCIETY.

For more information call (912) 478-2228
Visit: COBA.GeorgiaSouthern.edu/Forensic

George-Anne & Joe

Come and jump start your morning with a cup of Joe and a George-Anne in hand.

Starting @ 7:30am, every Thursday at the Gazebo between the Union and the Library.

Sponsored by Latte Da IMedia

721 S. Main Street
(912) 681-3285

Keep our aircraft flying. Not to mention your career.

As a member of the Air Guard, you'll develop the advanced skills you need to compete in today's economy. And because you serve part-time, you can use your abilities to get ahead in your civilian career. All while receiving generous benefits, including:

- TUITION ASSISTANCE
- STEADY PAYCHECK
- MILITARY RETIREMENT PLAN
- AFFORDABLE HEALTH INSURANCE

Most important, you'll have the chance to serve your community and your country with pride.

PART-TIME BLUE, FULL-TIME YOU.
GoANG.com • 1-800-TO-GO-ANG
FEATURES

Fallin is back on the field

Matt LANE
guest writer

Band Director Matt Fallin, who recently had back surgery, has recovered and is back on the field once again as the band continues to practice for football games.

"The surgery was for a pinched sciatic nerve," said Fallin. "But I don't want to dwell on that. I'm doing pretty well."

Georgia Southern's band offers several different types of music and ensembles. The marching band, called the Southern Pride Marching Band, has traveled to different away games, has played in many exhibitions at marching band contests throughout the state and got the chance to perform during halftime for the Atlanta Falcons.

In addition to the Southern Pride Marching Band, there was a Georgia Southern Symphonic Wind Ensemble and Wind Symphony recital this past Friday.

However, if you were unable to attend, fear not; this Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. there will be a Jazz Band recital at the RAC.

When asked about the music on the field, Fallin described this year's show as a "progressive show." This means there is more of a continuous of adding tunes until the end.

"Last year we did a Boston Steely Band show, and this year is a little less of a theme," said Fallin.

So far they have a few songs by the composer Chase and two songs by The Who in their set list. Even though the crowd may not approve of the selection of songs, many people don't realize older songs are a lot better to march to.

The marching band does its best to find songs that appeal to the crowd. This year the band started with "Thanks fr th Mmrs" and a melody from "Earth, Wind, and Fire."

Fallin has been working as a faculty member for 20 years and was a student at Georgia Southern College, back before it became Georgia Southern University.

The Buzz List

News from outside the Boro

▲ 'The Social Network' gets an amazing 97% on rottentomatoes.com. If it's anything like 'Zombieland,' count me in. I love Jesse Eisenberg. He's like a not-so-innocent Michael Cera. Still the neurotically cute dude, but with a little bit more neurotic and less cute. Thus, more awesome.

▲ 'Case 39' failed miserably, receiving a pathetic 26% on rottentomatoes.com. Honestly, I kind of expected this. This was Renée Zellweger's first horror movie, right? She's just not made for these kinds of movies. And after Director Christian Alvart failed with 'Pandorum,' it was pretty much a fail from the start.

▲ Twitter is still the site for celebrity feuds. Now it's Shia LaBeouf versus Frankie Muniz. LaBeouf issues the glove slap by making too many uncreative Muniz-related comments. Muniz retaliates, calling LaBeouf "creepy." And Muniz wins this Twitter battle. But, who will win the war?

▲ John McTiernan, the director of "Die Hard" and "Predator," has been sentenced to a year in prison for lying during a wiretapping investigation of a private investigator. First, why are we investigating our own investigators? And, if McTiernan can't get out on celebrity status, John McClain/Bruce Willis will come for him. I believe it.
Los Angeles Times Daily Crossword Puzzle

Edited by Rich Norris and Joyce Lewis

ACROSS
1. Dance fundamental
2. Spreading trees
3. Cosmic playback
4. "up: slow Web connection"
5. Bubbly label name
6. Like some kites
7. Mendi Park middle name
8. Former credit card giant
9. Shakespeare's title Athenian
10. Eagle
12. Reagen era prog.
13. Ball Club
14. Baking soda
15. "Science Guy" Bill
16. Like some kites
17. "Little Red Book" author
18. "awakened one"
19. Daddy's say
20. Girard's predecessor as Yankee manager
21. Check sent with a lr., e.g.
22. "Little Red Book" author
23. Nearby neighbor
24. 26th Club
25. Rearranged
26. Resilient
27. "That's ?. : Uh"
28. With 7-Down, feeling better
29. "Torres-to-Detroit" dl.
30. Port on the Firth of Clyde
31. Sen. counterpart
32. Road to nowhere, metaphorically
33. Spied
34. Annual Hollywood gala, with "the"
35. Syrian leader
36. Take on
37. Syrian leader
38. Chris
39. "Science Guy" Bill
40. Like some kites
41. "Little Red Book" author
42. "awakened one"
43. Elf
44. "awakened one"
45. Elf
46. "awakened one"
47. Elf
48. "awakened one"
49. Elf
50. Elf
51. Elf
52. Elf
53. Elf
54. Elf
55. Elf
56. Elf
57. Elf
58. Elf
59. Elf
60. Elf
61. Elf
62. Elf
63. Elf
64. Elf
65. Elf
66. Elf
67. Elf
68. Elf
69. Elf
70. Elf
71. Elf
72. Elf
73. Elf
74. Elf
75. Elf
76. Elf
77. Elf
78. Elf
79. Elf
80. Elf
81. Elf
82. Elf
83. Elf
84. Elf
85. Elf
86. Elf
87. Elf
88. Elf
89. Elf
90. Elf
91. Elf
92. Elf
93. Elf
94. Elf
95. Elf
96. Elf
97. Elf
98. Elf
99. Elf
100. Elf
101. Elf
102. Elf
103. Elf
104. Elf
105. Elf
106. Elf
107. Elf
108. Elf
109. Elf
110. Elf
111. Elf
112. Elf
113. Elf
114. Elf
115. Elf
116. Elf
117. Elf
118. Elf
119. Elf
120. Elf
121. Elf
122. Elf
123. Elf
124. Elf
125. Elf
126. Elf
127. Elf
128. Elf
129. Elf
130. Elf
131. Elf
132. Elf
133. Elf
134. Elf
135. Elf
136. Elf
137. Elf
138. Elf
139. Elf
140. Elf

DOWN
1. Nov. neighbor
2. Floorer's piece
3. Whence icicles hang
4. Does a cabinetmaking task
5. "UH"
6. Denny's say
7. Girard's predecessor as Yankee manager
8. Enriched
9. Sapidly
10. "That's ?. : Uh"
11. With 7-Down, feeling better
13. Port on the Firth of Clyde
14. Sen. counterpart
15. Road to nowhere, metaphorically
16. Spied
17. Spied
18. Like monastic life
19. Cleanup hitter's stats
20. Annual Hollywood gala, with "the"
21. Name
22. Middle name
23. Name
24. Name
25. Name
26. Name
27. Name
28. Name
29. Name
30. Name
31. Name
32. Name
33. Name
34. Name
35. Name
36. Name
37. Name
38. Name
39. Name
40. Name
41. Name
42. Name
43. Name
44. Name
45. Name
46. Name
47. Name
48. Name
49. Name
50. Name
51. Name
52. Name
53. Name
54. Name
55. Name
56. Name
57. Name
58. Name
59. Name
60. Name
61. Name
62. Name
63. Name
64. Name
65. Name
66. Name
67. Name
68. Name
69. Name
70. Name
71. Name
72. Name
73. Name
74. Name
75. Name
76. Name
77. Name
78. Name
79. Name
80. Name
81. Name
82. Name
83. Name
84. Name
85. Name
86. Name
87. Name
88. Name
89. Name
90. Name
91. Name
92. Name
93. Name
94. Name
95. Name
96. Name
97. Name
98. Name
99. Name
100. Name
101. Name
102. Name
103. Name
104. Name
105. Name
106. Name
107. Name
108. Name
109. Name
110. Name
111. Name
112. Name
113. Name
114. Name
115. Name
116. Name
117. Name
118. Name
119. Name
120. Name
121. Name
122. Name
123. Name
124. Name
125. Name
126. Name
127. Name
128. Name
129. Name
130. Name
131. Name
132. Name
133. Name
134. Name
135. Name
136. Name
137. Name
138. Name
139. Name
140. Name

By Mike Peluso

Tuesday's Puzzle Solved

SOLUTION TO LAST WEEK'S PUZZLE

10/8/10

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>1</th>
<th>2</th>
<th>3</th>
<th>4</th>
<th>5</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>4</td>
<td>6</td>
<td>5</td>
<td>6</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>6</td>
<td>9</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>9</td>
<td>4</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Complete the grid so each row, column and 3-by-3 box (in bold boxes) contains every digit, 1 to 9. For strategies on how to solve, visit www.sudoku.co.uk.
Lefty comes right back to the ‘Boro

Although faced with a challenge in playing, Williams said, "It's never been a question of how. My parents have taught me at a young age. If I think I can do it, I can do it."

He began playing at the age of four when his dad began showing him chords. From then on, he began listening and learning by ear.

He has drawn some of his inspiration from artists like Jimi Hendrix, Led Zeppelin, Metallica and from punk music bands. But these days, he said that the variety of music he likes has broadened.

“I used to listen to anything but country, but now there isn’t anything off limits. I listen to a lot of genres,” he said.

To country music, he can now give some praise, “Brad Paisley is an amazing guitarist.”

He also said he listens to plenty of jazz and the band System of a Down. Altogether he summed the music he likes listening to as a “really, really crazy eclectic mix.”

As for the inspiration in his songs, Williams said, “I draw my inspiration from everyday life, things I see and things I experience.”

He even gave a little background story on one of his songs from his album “Big Plans” called “Mississippi Orgy.”

“My wife and I were reconnecting with old friend of hers from elementary school when we all in Georgia,” said Williams. “Her friend told us that in Mississippi it’s an old law that three or more people with shoes off in a room could actually be arrested.”

In addition to with playing his own material, he enjoys doing covers. But with all the touring, Williams talked about the pros and cons that come along with it.

“I enjoy being out seeing new places and people, but I do miss my family,” said Williams.

He's excited about his future plans. He wants to do another record and get some through new material out to his fans after he has gained interest from different record labels.

He was even featured on CNN's morning show and has kept going since. However, when asked what's next after touring, he laughed and said, “I just took my first vacation in six years to the Virgin Islands.”

But the hard work does pay off as has been shown in his music and the passion that he puts behind it. His current album “Snake Oil” had gotten many great reviews.

“The Lefty Williams Band spotlights scorching guitar, soulful lyrics, and wistful keyboard in their second studio release,” said J. Evan Wade, from the Homegrown Network.

"In reviewing "Snake Oil," I found myself impressed with Lefty Williams' guitar tone and his vocal skills. He writes lyrics about feelings that are close to us all as humans.

"His perspectives seem wise and seasoned when discussing such matters. Maybe this is a reflection of the life that he has lived. In overcoming disability to create music, Jason 'Lefty' Williams truly has a remarkable story to tell."
Quick Hits

▲ Women’s soccer evened its Southern Conference record with a 2-1 win at Elon this past Sunday, improving to 2-2-0 in league play and 5-6-0 overall. The team will take on Western Carolina on Friday, Oct. 8 at 7 p.m. in Cullowhee, N.C.

▲ Men’s soccer lost a second straight game by just one goal, falling 1-0 at Appalachian State this past Saturday. Georgia Southern will wrap up the road trip in non-conference action against North Carolina State Tuesday, Oct. 5. The match is scheduled to begin at 7 p.m. in Raleigh, N.C.

▲ Cross country sophomore Sara Curry recorded the third-best time in Georgia Southern cross country history, slashing more than 30 seconds off her previous best time. The Eagles compete next Saturday, Oct. 9 at Augusta State’s Jagua Invitational.

State of GSU volleyball

Football is not the only sport on the rise

Ric’l SPURGEON
sports editor
sports analysis

This past Saturday the volleyball team brought its home-win streak to a total of seven. The victory over the University of Tennessee at Chattanooga also brought the team’s overall match-win streak to nine.

Three of the last four matches were against Southern Conference opponents, and the Eagles won all three of these matches as well.

Five of the matches in the nine-win streak were sweeps of 3-0. The team is well on its way to another winning season, with an overall record of 12-6.

Almost all of the losses have come against big Division-1 powers such as Auburn, Duke and Miami.

Bethany Sanford, a junior opposite hitter who has 242 kills on the season so far, leads the team on the attack. Ashley Roe, a junior libero, leads the defense with 278 digs.

There are 14 more games before the SoCon tournament that will be held on Friday, Nov.

19-Sunday, Nov. 21 in Boone, N.C.

Seven of these are home games held in the Hanner Fieldhouse. In the 2009 season, the average number of fans attending per match was larger for the opponents than for the Eagles. This year, the average number attending home games is more than a hundred more of those showing up for the opponents.

This is greatly significant for any sport to have a home field/court advantage, and it’s about time for a varsity sport with such a fantastic start to its season to get such an advantage.

Even if the team continues to split wins and losses in its away matches (as it has so far 2-2), as long as it keeps the home match win streak up, there’s no reason GSU athletics shouldn’t be able to tuck on another SoCon championship to its resume in volleyball after the tournament.

GSU has never won a volleyball championship outright, it has only shared two, both with College of Charleston; the last coming in 2003. The team travels to CoC and The Citadel next weekend.