New Scope 2024

The Coastal Review is an open-access, double-blind peer-reviewed journal that aims to promote high-quality research papers that contribute to scholarship and pedagogical review in the field of World Languages. The journal is sponsored by the Department of World Languages and Cultures in the College of Arts & Humanities at Georgia Southern University in Statesboro, Georgia, USA.

As of volume 14, The Coastal Review is now accepting book review submissions.

The Coastal Review was launched in 2007 and has published original research in World Languages (e.g., Arabic, Classics, French, German, East Asian, and Spanish) in such areas as linguistics, literature, culture, pedagogy, and film. The journal is now expanding to include book reviews and reviews of other pedagogical materials/events/etc. connected to the field of World Languages. The journal also now dedicates space for graduate student scholarship.

Submission Guidelines

Authors should consider the following general guidelines:

- All articles must be unpublished, original, and of high academic standard.
- *Because The Coastal Review is published electronically, page limits are not as relevant as they are in the world of print publication; still, authors should exercise discretion with regard to manuscript length. Appropriate length is approximately 5,000 to 7,500 words (Times New Roman 12pts. Single space approximately 12.6 - 18.8 pages).*
- Adhere to MLA style.
- *Follow The Coastal Review's Guidelines for Submission, as well as the journal's Final Manuscript Preparation Guidelines if the manuscript is accepted for publication.*

How to Submit

Manuscripts may be submitted ONLINE ONLY at the Coastal Review website. Click Submit Article, then log into or create a personal Digital Commons account to start a new submission: <https://digitalcommons.georgiasouthern.edu/thecoastalreview/>

Manuscripts are always welcome.
Materials are published as soon as they are accepted.
